DRYS GAIN 15 VOTES AND WILL EASILY CONTROL NEXT CONGRESS

In the Senate Their Majority Will Be 80 to 15 and in the House 325 to 109.

EDGE ALONE LEFT OF WET "BIG FOUR"

Hoover Thus Will Have Free Hand to Go to Any Length to Make Volstead Law Effective.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The possibility of any change in the prohibition laws, except in the direction of making them more stringent, has been rendered extremely remote by Tuesday's election. On the other hand, larger appropriations for enforcement, and a general tightening of the laws and strengthening of the enforcement machinery, appear imminent.

Examination of the election results shows that the drys won their most sweeping victory since prohibition became a law. Aside from the election of Hoover, the drys gained at least five votes in the Senate, and about ten in the House, both of which already were overwhelmingly dry. The wet "big four" of the Senate, which in recent years has led all congressional opposition to the prohibition laws, is reduced to one by the voluntary retirement of Senator Reed of Missouri, and the defeat for re-election of Senators Bruce of Maryland and Edwards of New Jersey. The lone survivor is Edge of New Jersey.

How Congress Stands.

On any proposal in the next Congress to modify the prohibition laws, the vote in the Senate will be approximately eighty drys to 15 wets, and in the House, approximately 325 drys to 109 wets. On bills to "put teeth in" the Volstead Act, and to increase the appropriations for enforcement, the dry majority would be smaller, but not less decisive.

This means that Hoover, as President, virtually will have free rein to go as far as he likes in redeeming his campaign pledge to make prohibition effective. Practically any measure, which he may recommend for the purpose of strengthening enforcement, will be supported by an overwhelming majority in both houses, and he can have almost unlimited funds for that purpose.

Only Five Wet Governors.

The elation of the drys over the results was expressed in a statement issued today by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, in which he claimed that the next Senate would be dry by a vote of 80 to 16, and the next House, by 328 to 106. Moreover, he added:

"Dry majorities have been maintained or increased in practically all of the State Legislatures, and there will be only five wet Governors in the entire nation.

"The Republican administration, pledged to enforcement, and with an overwhelmingly dry Congress to support the enforcement program and the unmistakable expression of public sentiment in the election, will be expected to give the full support of the Federal Government to the eighteenth amendmnt. This will give local and State officials, with primary enforcement responsibility, the co-operation necessary to make the law effective. The election of dry local enforcement officials in cities like Chicago and Cleveland gives further assurance of much better enforcement in these large centers.

"We anticipate the most marked and decisive progress during the next four years that has yet been achieved."

Edwards' Defeat a Blow.

While McBride's statement may be slightly discounted for natural optimism, the wets admit that his figures are not far wrong. Particularly crushing was the defeat of Edwards, who was elected first Governor, and then Senator, on his promise to "make New Jersey as wet as the Atlantic Ocean." During his recent campaign, when reminded of that promise by a heckler, he retorted: "Well, isn't it?" He was defeated by Hamilton F. Kean, who is reported to be "slightly moist," but who, as against Edwards, received the indorsement of the Anti-Saloon League.

Bruce also had made opposition to the prohibition laws his hobby

WINSTON CHURCHILL HOIST WITH HIS OWN PHONOGRAPH

Records of Present Protectionist's Free Trade Speeches to Be Used in Campaign.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The voice of Winston Churchill, now one of the most prominent members of Premier Baldwin's Conservative Cabinet will be heard from Liberal platforms in all parts of the country in the coming political campaign, says the Evening Star, Liberal newspaper, today, but there is a catch in it.

"The Chancellor of the Exchequer will devote himself in particular to free trade with inevitable repercussions on the Government's policy of protection disguised as 'safeguarding,'" the Star says.

The explanation of this apparently remarkable political development, says the Liberal organ, is that when Churchill was an ardent free trader before joining the Conservative ranks, he delivered many speeches on the subject and even made phonograph records of them. Some of these records, it appears, have fallen into the hands of the Liberals and the Star says that they intend to have their audiences told in Churchill's own words and his own voice through this medium what his views are—or perhaps were—on this subject.

CONTROL OF SUBMARINE MINES

Sergeant Gives Invention to U. S.; Worth $1,000,000 in 10 Years.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Master Sergt. Paul R. Nelson, of La Crosse, Wis., and now stationed at Fort Totten, N. Y., has given the government an invention in submarine mine control which is expected to save $1,000,000 in maintenance work alone in ten years.

"It gives me much pleasure to commend you for your loyalty and patriotism in foregoing the material benefit which you might have received by pursuing some other course," Secretary of War Davis has written Nelson. "It is such actions as yours that convince me of the future safety and glory of this country."

ROTHSTEIN ESTATE SAID TO INCLUDE LOOT OF ROBBERS

Stolen Bonds and Jewelry Reported to Lie in Slain Gambler's Safe Deposit Vaults in New York.

HEIRS TO FIGHT DEATHBED WILL

Family Arrayed Against Widow, Attorney Cantor and Ex-Show Girl Who Are Beneficiaries.

From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. — The plunder of a dozen of the boldest of New York City's extortionists is said to be reposing in the safe deposit vaults of Arnold Rothstein, murdered gambler.

As this information came today from a man who for years was Rothstein's closest counsellor, the family of the gambler, the people whom he benefited in his will, split sharply into two camps and prepared to battle for his assets, the greater part of which, it was learned, consists of the contents of safe deposit vaults. These are rumored to include bonds and jewelry stolen in Wall street and Long Island robberies in recent months.

What lies in these vaults, this authority thinks, may constitute all that remains of the once vast fortune of Rothstein. In the will that was filed at the Surrogate's office —itself an amazing document— the gambler bequeathed one-third of his estate to his wife, Caroline; one-sixth to a former chorus girl, Inez Norton; one-sixth to Assemblyman Maurice Cantor, his attorney, and various bequests to his brothers, Jack and Edgar, and his business associates.

Heirs at Loggerheads.

And while lines were thus drawn in the fight for the control of the assets the family turned en masse against Attorney Cantor, the Norton girl and even against the wife.

It was the manner in which Cantor handled the will that has engendered antagonism and it was learned, through independent investigation, that these facts followed one upon the other:

Five months ago, Rothstein drew up his first will, allocating one-half his estate and chattels to his wife, with whom he had lived nearly 20 years. He never signed it.

In October, a new will was drawn. It mentioned for the first time Inez Norton, who, last July, obtained a divorce from Niles Reiser, and who was then living at the Fairfield Hotel, Rothstein's own hotel, No. 20 West Seventy-second street. Rothstein had not signed it.

Signed Will on Deathbed.

Last Sunday night Rothstein was shot. Monday afternoon, the following day, Maurice Cantor, the attorney, went to the Polyclinic Hospital, the will in his brief case. At that time physicians were considering an operaton to remove the bullet from Rothstein's groin—a dangerous operation. The gambler weakly bade them defer it until he had signed his will.

Cantor, the attorney, to whom Rothstein bequeathed one-fifth of his estate, folded the gambler's fingers bout his fountain pen and placed it against the dotted line on the last page of the 10-page document. With the lawyer's help Rothstein made an "X," his mark.

Basis of Contest.

While I, Ginsburg, of No. 35 Wall street, attorney, representing the dead gambler's brother, declined to comment upon his plans, it was learned that the fight of the Rothstein family, unless a settlement out of court is reached, will be double-edged. Primarily the will will be challenged on the ground that Arnold Rothstein was not aware of what he signed. In this phase the fight will be leveled against Attorney Cantor and Miss Norton. Secondly, there is now under consideration an effort to block the payment of any part of the estate to Mrs. Rothstein. One of the family, it was learned, was attempting to check up the date of their marriage. It was been supposed that it took place in Saratoga 20 years ago. Significantly Ginsburg has been retained to represent all members of the family except Mrs. Rothstein.

Provisions of Testament.

There are 12 articles in the will, which was drawn up in October but never signed, until Rothstein lay dying. It gives to each of his brothers, Edgar and Jack $50,000 and to his personal attendant, Thomas Farley, $15,000. One-third of the residue is bequeathed to the trustees, who are directed to invest and manage it and pay the net income to the widow, Caroline Rothstein during her life and at her death to devote the income

CITIZENS OF TOWN MADE SPEECHLESS BY WINE PLAN SUIT

People of French Village Are Finding Voices Again After Strange Paralysis.

By the Associated Press.

ORADOUR - SUR - VAYRES, France, Nov. 10.—This little "city of silence" is finding its voice and nearly every one of its 478 inhabitants is likely to appear in court in a lawsuit. Palsied tongues are wagging again, voicing indignation at the strange poison epidemic that it once was feared would still the populace forever.

The epidemic first made its appearance in August, when a malady which could not be diagnosed affected tongues, first of a few, then of many, until a deathly hush settled on the town. Doctors from nearby Limoges had patients in nearly every house in some of the streets.

Scientific investigators with test tubes and retorts solved part of the mystery when they made an analysis of the bread, water and wine. They found the wine contained arsenic. It had been purchased from a merchant in the town, and the poison had paralyzed the tongues of the villagers and caused severe fevers, which the doctors had not been able to abate.

How the drug got into the wine barrels is still undisclosed, although an examining magistrate traced the supply to a Carcassone wholesaler and to four vineyards where the wine had been made.

KILLS SWEETHEART AND SELF BY CRASHING HIS PLANE

Jugo-Slav Pilot Commits First Murder and Suicide of Aviation History.

(Copyright, 1928.)

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Sergeant Major Firowica of the Jugo-Slav air corps, known as a reckless pilot, had been heard recently to declare that he wanted to die and that he preferred to die in the air. He also was known to have been troubled over a love affair with a young student from the Commercial Academy at Neusautz.

Firowica took up a double-seater biplane at Belgrade when his commandant was absent. With him was his sweetheart. The airplane was seen to make several loops, when suddenly it turned earthward and without pause in its velocity crashed through the roof of a hous and richocheted to the sidewalk. Firowica was killed. The girl lived long enough to say that he had quarreled with her and said "now we die together."

This is regarded as the first case of record of suicide and murder in an airplane.

VOTE CHECK IN RHODE ISLAND REDUCING SMITH'S PLURALITY

Republican Chairman Contends Final Count Will Show Hoover Carried State.

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 10. —Gov. Smith's previously announced plurality in Rhode Island was reduced yesterday by 399 votes.

Election night returns gave Smith a margin of 1493 votes over Hoover, but the State returning board, now engaged in counting the quarter of a million ballots cast in the State's 196 voting districts, has discovered mistakes in the count in the first eight precincts so far checked, which cut his lead to 1094.

Chairman William C. Pelkey of the Republican State Central Committee will show that the official ccunt will show that Hoover carried Rhode Island by 1700 votes. In the town of Bristol the election night count as reported by officials in that community gave Smith 300 more votes than appeared when the returning board counted the ballots yesterday.

TWO SLAIN IN PISTOL FIGHT IN LIQUOR RAID IN DETROIT

Bootlegger Shoots Patrolman and Is Shot by Latter's Companion; Youth Dangerously Wounded.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 10.—Two men were shot to death and a third was seriously wounded in a raid on an alleged blind pig early tonight.

The dead are Patrolman Ulrich A. Johnston and Hansell Rich, alleged bling-pig operator. Rich's son, Louis, 19, said by police to have been a bartender in his father's place, was dangerously wondeded.

The shooting occurred as Johnston and Patrolman Hugo Wells were about to arrest Rich on a liquor charge in his alleged blind pig, operated in connection with a shoe repair shop.

Wells said that the elder Rich, recognizing Johnston after the latter had purchased liquor from the son, whipped out a revolver and shot the officer three times. Johnston dropped to the floor and died almost instantly.

Wells, who had been standing near the door, then shot and killed Hansell Rich, according to his story, and shot the son in the chest as the latter, carrying a revolver, attempted to run into a rear room.

WIFE, OUT ON BOND, ATTENDS FUNERAL OF MAN SHE SHOT

Charles Matlock Is Buried at St. James, Mo., With Wreath, "To My Darling Husband," on Casket.

'OTHER WOMAN' IS NOT PRESENT

Her Heart-Shaped Floral Piece Inscribed "Always, Rosie," Is Conspicuously Absent.

"Good Time Charley" Matlock, divorced by two wives and shot to death by his third as he walked into a West End apartment where there was still another "Mrs. Matlock," was buried beside his mother yesterday in the little town of St. James, Mo., from which he came to St. Louis years ago to launch his career in business and amour.

Wife No. 3, Mrs. Helen C. Matlock, the self-made widow, attended the final rites by grace of a $25,000 bond which gives her temporary freedom pending indictment by a grand jury and trial. She is charged in a warrant with second-degree murder, the punishment for which, upon conviction, is 10 years to life in prison.

The "other woman," Rose Jokerst, 21-year-old model and night club entertainer, known as "Rose of the Night Club," in whose apartment at Guild Hall, 4907 West Pine boulevard, Matlock was slain Tuesday afternoon, did not go to St. James because she knew she wasn't wanted. Matlock's relatives had given her stony stares when she visited an Easton avenue undertaking establishment Friday to view his body.

His Father Forgives Her.

Funeral services were held in the St. James Christian Church with interment in the Masonic Cemetery. The casket was banked with flowers including the widow's wreath inscribed: "My Darling Husband." Miss Jokerst's heart-shaped wreath which read: "Always, Rosie" was conspicuously absent.

Patrolman Andrew Matlock, father of "Good Time Charley," consoled the widow and freely forgave her.

"I have nothing against her," the policeman told a friend. "It was not her doing, but my son's doing. I feel sorry that she took my son's life, but she is a good woman. What happened was my son's fault.

"I knew he ran around with other women, but that sort of life was not original with him. There must be 10,000 other married men in St. Louis doing the same. I'm a police officer and I ought to know."

Following the funeral services, Mrs. Matlock and her father-in-law started back to St. Louis. With Matlock they lived in a 14-room bungalow at the southwest corner of Grand boulevard and Chippewa street. Following the collapse of Consolidated Motors, Inc., of which "Good Time Charley" was president, Mrs. Matlock took in roomers to make ends meet.

Careers of Principals.

Matlock was in succession a country boy, a city youth, a World War soldier, a saloonkeeper and bootlegger, a still operator, an automobile salesman and finally head of an automobile agency, financed, according to his third wife, through a $27,000 gift from a wealthy woman admirer.

Mrs. Helen Matlock was a manicure at the Rex barber shop, 205 North Seventh street, when he courted her while having his nails pared, and before that she was manicure at the Union Station barber shop for three years.

Miss Jokerst—"Rose of the Night Club"—was, according to her own statements and those of friends—reared in an orphanage, although her parents were living; married at the age of 16 to a chauffeur who worked for a printing company in whose bindery she was employed, then elevator operator at the Century Building, and, finally, featured as a singing entertainer at "The Tent," a Washington avenue night club at a salary, so she says, of $125 a week. It was at "The Tent" that "Good-Time Charley" first cast his roving eye on her.

Matlock's Marriages.

Matlock married early and often —but not always. His first marriage, it is recalled, was in 1911 to a Marie Kinney. They lived together about four months. She divorced him and has remarried. He took his second wife in July, 1911, at Carlinville, Ill., and she put up with his capers until Jan. 2, 1924, when she divorced him and got custody of their son and an allowance for the child's support which was not always paid. She testified

ROBBERS SHOOT MAN BUT GET NO MONEY

Wound East St. Louis Grocer as He Runs at Sight of Their Pistols.

William Shafer, grocer at 2447 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, was shot twice and wounded seriously by one of two Negro robbers who attempted to hold him up in his store at 8:15 o'clock last night. Bullets entered his abdomen and right shoulder.

Shafer told police at St. Mary's Hospital, where he was taken, that one of the Negroes entered the store about five minutes before the holdup and bought five cents worth of cookies, then returned with his companion, both with drawn revolvers. Shafer turned to run to a rear room when he was shot.

A passerby said another Negro waited outside and that the three fled together down Twenay-Fifth street. They obtained no money.

SAYS $100,000 WAS INVOLVED IN AIMEE M'PHERSON CASE

Los Angeles Paper Asserts Grand Jury Has Documentary Evidence to That Effect.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 10.—The Examiner will say in its Sunday edition it has learned from authentic sources that documentary evidence which will prove that at least $100,000 was involved in the dismissal of the Aimee Semple McPherson case, now is in the hands of the county grand jury.

The evidence is reported to the Examiner to include both telegrams and letters, now in possession of the investigating body, which were exchanged between persons virtually interested in the Evangelist's case. Bank books, canceled checks, receipts and other financial data also are in possession of the grand jury.

NEW AIR MEMORIAL STAMP

Ordered to Commemorate First Flight of Wright Brothers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The issue of a new two-cent and a new five-cent stamp was ordered today by Postmaster General Harry S. New, in connection with the National Civil Aeronautical conference.

Twenty million two-cent and 5,000,000 five-cent stamps already ordered will bear symbols of the event the conference commemorates—the first flight in a mechanically driven airplane, by the Wright Brothers 25 years ago. President Coolidge has called the conference to meet Dec. 12-14.

KWK WILL IGNORE RADIO BOARD'S ORDER

T. P. Convey Says Broadcasting Will Continue on Original Length, Pending Appeal.

Radio Station KWK, of the Hotel Chase, whose time on the air was cut in half at 3 a. m. today by new allocations of the Federal Radio Commission, will ignore the prescribed 222 meters wave-length it was to share with Station WIL of the Melbourne Hotel and will continue on its old wave-length of 234 meters, though with reduced power, Thomas Patrick Convey, KWK director, said last night.

Convey said that he did not wish to defy the Federal Radio Commission, but that his attorney and Congressman L. C. Dyer had advised him that he would be within his rights if he continued to broadcast on the old wave-length, pending the Commission's decision on his appeal from the ruling that was to go into effect last night, on KWK, and did go into effect on Station WIL.

A dispatch from Washington yesterday stated that the Commission would not pass on Convey's appeal until next week.

Convey said that a conference late last night on sharing time with Station WIL had proved a failure.

"After vainly making sacrifices, we offered WIL 7 hours out of 16 on week days and 7 out of 12 hours on Sundays," Convey said. "We felt that the outstanding features on KWK warranted us in that position, especially as WIL seemed to be satisfied with half time."

The new broadcasting allocation that went into effect as 3 a. m. does not affect in any way the status of stations KSD and KFUO, which continue to share time on 545 meters.

Station KMOX, under the new order, is shifted from 1000 kilocycles to 1090 kilocycles (273 meters). Station WIL, hypothetically sharing time with Station KWK, will broadcast on a 222-meter channel.

KFQA may be tuned in at the usual time this morning on KMOX's channel of 1090 kilocycles for the Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist service.

WMAY will broadcast the services of the Kingshighway Presbyterian Church on WIL's 1350 kilocycle wave.

Network programs on KSD and KMOX will not be affected by the changes. Chain features on KWK will depend on whether that station carries out its announced intention to broadcast today on its old wave length.

TOWN OF 7000 IS ENGULFED AND ANOTHER INVADED

Mascali Destroyed, Nunziata Being Laid Waste, Carrabba's 8000 Inhabitants Abandon City.

MANY LOSE ALL IN CATASTROPHE

Reports of Loss of Life Unconfirmed—Ships Handle Traffic of Wrecked Railways.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 10.—Sweeping relentlessly down toward the sea, a current of molten lava was still pouring down the eastern slope of Mount Etna tonight, spreading devastation in every place it touched. It has cut direct communications by rail between Catania and Messina.

The fiery tide, at some points more than 30 feet high at its crest, has swept over the railway bridge at Mascali and is destroying the neighboring village of Nunziata.

With Catania cut off from Messina, steamship service between the two places was begun, four ships making four trips daily. In addition a roundabout rail service was put into operation tonight.

Weather Too Bad for Observations.

A bulletin issued by the Etna Volcanological Institute tonight said that the San Giovanni-Campo Bello road had been made impassable by the advancing lava from Mt. Etna. The lava stream which has partly destroyed the village of Nunziata played a trick today when a small torrent broke off and ran rapidly along the southern flank before joining the central stream again.

Bad weather conditions prevented observation flights over the crater today.

Prof. G. Ponte, director of the Etna Volcanological Institute, who has been making airplane reconnaissances over the volcano which burst into violent eruptions last Friday, estimated today that the lava was flowing toward the sea along a valley with a speed of 17 feet an hour.

Lava Stream Gains Fresh Impetus.

A new boiling over last night gave fresh impetus to a branch of the lava flowing north of the central stream which has been making its way toward the first railway post north of Mascali, a town of 7000 population, which has been completely ruined.

Carrabba, a town of 8000 population, was cleared of its inhabitants today, and factories and mills in the region were dismantled to save the machinery.

Although previous reports have stated that at least five persons lost their lives in Mascali, no confirmation of this has been received. The Nunziata correspondent of Lavoro d'Italia stated that thus far there had been no lives lost and no list of dead has been published in Rome.

The destruction of some of the richest land in Sicily with its consequent suffering, particularly to old people who had succeeded in establishing themselves hoping to end their days peacefully, is causing much grief. It is felt, however, that the economic life of the great southern island will not be disturbed for long despite the cutting of an important railway line by the flow.

Plunderers Captured.

Great praise is given the soldiers and military in the district, most of whom have slept hardly at all during the last five days. Many who have been working close to the scorching, seething lava have had to sleep when they could by the roadside along with the fleeing peasants. A certain stoicism has been maintained among the inhabitants despite their disastrous losses.

Several small bands of plunderers have been arrested looting houses abandoned on the approach of the lava stream.

Many of the thousands of homeless in the region are returned laborers from North and Latin America who invested their sav-

M'NARY PLANS FARM BILL FOR INTRODUCTION AT COMING SESSION

Senator Says It Will Propose Federal Board on Lines Advocated by Hoover in Campaign.

HOPES FOR ACTION BY PRESENT CONGRESS

"Immediate Relief Imperative"—Still Believes in Equalization Fee but Will Omit It.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Senator Charles L. McNary (Rep.), Oregon, one of the authors of the vetoed McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, is preparing to introduce in the December session of Congress a bill designed to create a Federal farm board, to assist in "price stabilization" and the orderly marketing of crops, as advocated by President-elect Hoover in his campaign speeches.

McNary said that the bill in its essential features would be closely similar to the McNary-Haugen measure, but with the equalization fee omitted.

Though still believing that the equalization fee system, with its required 100 per cent co-operation among farmers, would furnish a satisfactory solution of the farm problem, McNary is ready, as chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, to give his best efforts toward the early adoption of the Hoover voluntary co-operation plan.

Hopes to Avoid Extra Session.

McNary expressed the earnest hope that action in the coming session would obviate the necessity of the special session which President-elect Hoover has promised to call in the spring if the problem is not settled earlier.

"There is no reason," he said, "why Congress should not pass an acceptable measure in the December session. The problem has already been thoroughly canvassed in numerous hearings, and we all know the kind of bill that President Coolidge is willing to sign. It is important, moreover, that something be done immediately, and not after the crops have begun to come in next spring.

"For the sake of the new President, as well as the farmers, I hope that the matter can be disposed of in the short session. The President should be allowed a few months in which to get his bearings without having Congress on his hands."

Difference in the Two Plans.

McNary said that the article published in the Post-Dispatch Oct. 25, entitled "The A. B. C. of the Farm Problem," was a clear and accurate statement of the problem and of the Republican and Democratic relief proposals.

In this article it was pointed out that both proposals contemplated control of the basic crops to the end that the farmer might receive a higher price in the domestic market—a price not beaten down to a ruinous level by world market conditions. The article gave this fundamental difference between the Hoover and the Smith plan: that Hoover was seeking to accomplish by voluntary co-operation among the farmers what Smith and the Democratic platform, accepting the equalization fee principle of the McNary-Haugen bill, declared could only be accomplished by 100 per cent compulsory co-operation.

"The McNary-Haugen bill," said McNary, "proposed two distinct and separate methods to meet the surplus crop situation. One method provided for the creation of a Federal Farm Board, endowed with broad and general powers to segregate the surplus over and above the requirements for American consumption, and to withhold that surplus for orderly marketing and sale abroad, the cost, charges and losses, if any, to be taxed against the commodity benefited.

"This method was called the equalization fee plan, and it caused the bill to be vetoed by the President.

What Hoover Favors.

"The other method also called for a Federal Farm Board and addressed itself to the same problem. It proposed to lend Federal funds to farmer-owned and farmer-controlled co-operative associations at a very low rate of interest, not to exceed 4 per cent, for the purpose of orderly marketing through the methods of storage over a period of surplus production to a period of scarcity, or by a sale of the surplus commodities through better marketing agencies.

"This method is embodied in the Republican platform and has received the indorsement of Mr. Hoover. He believes that the employment of the Government loan-fund provisions of the bill will do the job, without a tax or fee of any kind being imposed upon the producers of those crops of which we have a surplus.

"It is imperative that some measure of relief be enacted at the earliest opportunity. I have no doubt that a bill containing the essentials of the one vetoed, with the equalization fee omitted, would greatly improve the condition of agriculture.

"What intelligent organization can do in agriculture is well illustrated in the dairy industry. It is the best organized, the most stable and the most uniformly profitable section of the farming industry. Organization has greatly increased the production of milk per cow, and what is equally important, it has greatly increased the use of milk. More can be done in this direction.

"The plan of farm relief proposed by Mr. Hoover requires no investigation by a commission. It can be begun at once. Mr. Hoover has shown that he has a peculiar genius for appreciating and vitalizing the facts which produce economic well-being and social happiness. In my opinion, he will meet and solve, so far as is humanly possible, all the trying problems that confront us in a complex social and economic life."

Boulder Dam and Muscle Shoals May Receive Consideration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Faced with a batch of unfinished business for the approaching short session of the old Congress, leaders are beginning to take stock of the outlook, with a difference of opinion over whether a special session for farm relief will be necessary.

The Boulder Canyon Dam bill has first call in the Senate. This measure of Senator Johnson of California ran into a stubborn filibuster from Arizona Senators last session and there is no doubt that it will require several weeks of debate.

The administration will center attention on passage of the appropriation bills. Boulder Dam and appropriation measures alone will occupy probably the first two months of the session. Moreover, the administration is ready to put pressure on the naval construction program, already approved by the House, and seek ratification by the Senate of the recently negotiated Kellogg-Briand treaty for the renunciation of war.

Senator Curtis, the Republican pilot, conferred today with President Coolidge, but this conversation, like most of the discussions at this time, revolved largely around the recent election and its reactions. Another question facing Senate Republicans is the selection of a leader to succeed Senator Curtis who is expected to retire about the first of the year preparatory to taking his office of vice-president.

Contest for Senate Leadership.

Likewise, the Republicans have not begun to disentangle the snarl expected in the selection of a successor to Curtis. Several Senators are now in the race, including Watson o fIndiana, Jones of Washington, Fess of Ohio, Reed of Pennsylvania and Moses of New Hampshire.

Muscle Shoals, which occupied much time last session to result in the refusal of President Coolidge to approve the bill sent to him by the two Houses, may also receive consideration at the short session but Senator Norris of Nebraska, prime mover of the proposed legislation, now indicates that he will look to the courts rather than to Congress to put it on the statute books. He takes the view that the recent elections will strengthen the opposition and that it would be impossible to get enough votes to pass such a measure over the President's veto. For that reason he is hopeful that the courts will hold that the bill, which the President refused to sign on the last day of last session, became law without his signature and did not die from a pocket veto.

Lower Fare for British Emigrants.

MANCHESTER, England, Nov. 10.—The Manchester Guardian says that an arrangement has been made with the steamship companies to reduce the third class ocean fare for emigrants to Canada from $91.15 to $71.50, the British Government agreeing to give a subsidy to the steamship companies, it is said.

that he associated with other women and took them automobile riding. Matlock did not contest. He married "Helen, the Manicure" eight days later.

Still another marriage in Matlock's busy life was indicated with the filing of a divorce petition by another woman against a "Charles Matlock," not otherwise identified. The plaintiff obtained a divorce by default in 1921, testifying they were married in 1917 and he deserted her in 1919. The dates would indicate bigamy if the same man were involved, as "Good-Time Charley" was still married to his second wife during that time. The second wife says she never heard of the plaintiff.

A denial that she was married even once was made yesterday by Miss Jokerst. However, she was known as Rose Steller at the night club and a record on file at City Hall shows Rose Jokerst, 16, was married on Oct. 19, 1923, to Daniel Steller, 22, a chauffeur, living at 911A Lynch street. Her father, J. H. Jokerst, authorized the marriage and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Bernard Wewer of St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Steller's present whereabouts are not known.

Miss Jokerst declared she did not think Matlock was the drunken wife beater pictured by the wife who killed him.

"I don't want to contradict anyone," Miss Jokerst said, "but he never did anything to hurt me and I can't believe he beat anyone. He just killed me with kindness.

"Anyway, I loved him more than his wife did—more than she ever did."

One of Matlock's former wives has volunteered to testify before the grand jury which considers what action to take against Mrs. Helen Matlock, the widow.

"The sob story she tells is mostly bunk," asserted the ex-wife. "I want to tell the jury that Mrs. Matlock did not have any more reason to be jealous of that night club girl than I had to be jealous of her. She admits she was going around wth my husband before he ever divorced me."

HOOVER'S TEXAS LEAD 22,419

His Majority in Virginia Is 25,515; in Delaware, 33,627.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 10.—Herbert Hoover's lead in the presidential race in Texas has widened to 22,419 votes tonight as the Texas election bureau made the final tabulations of the week. With the count complete from 200 counties and incomplete figures from 52 others, Hoover had a total of 365,811 votes, against 343,392 for Smith.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 10.—Complete unofficial returns from the 1665 precincts in Virginia give Herbert Hoover a majority of 24,515 votes over Alfred E. Smith, in Tuesday's election. The total Hoover vote was 164,510 as compared with 140,995 for Smith.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 10.—Herbert Hoover's official plurality over Gov. Smith in Delaware was announced today as 33,627. The official totals for the State were: Hoover, 68,986; Smith, 35,359.

HOOVER TO SAIL THIS WEEK FOR SOUTH AMERICA

Awaits Word on Diplomatic Exchanges Before Completing Itinerary for Two-Month Journey.

By the Associated Press.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 10.—His period of "complete rest" at an end, Herbert Hoover, President-elect, today devoted his forenoon to preparations for his good will trip to South America and spent the afternoon watching the football team of Stanford University, his alma mater, struggle against the Santa Clara University eleven.

The President-elect was still awaiting word from Washington as to the progress of diplomatic exchanges with the Latin American countries he is to visit before formally announcing the date on which he and his party will leave Pacific Coast shores for the one continent he has yet to visit.

These negotiations probably will be concluded within the next ten days and then it will be possible to announce the complete itinerary, which is to includ visits to Peru, Chile, the Argentine, Brazil and the other principal republics southward as well as to Havana, capital of Cuba.

Whether Mrs. Hoover is to go to South America with the President-elect has not yet been indicated. She accompanied Hoover on every one of his many campaign trips into the west, east, north and south and on only one or two occasions was she separated from him even while he was in Washington directing his political forces between his speech making excursions.

Takes Interest in Comment.

Mr. Hoover has evidenced a deep interest in the reaction in South America to the proposed tour and gave particular attention to comments in the South American newspapers as conveyed to him in Associated Press dispatches from Rio De Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Lima, and other capitals of the Latin-American republics.

The President-elect is hopeful that his visit will bring a closer understanding of the points of view of the American nations which will work to the mutual advantage of all of the countries both in commercial and diplomatic relations.

The Hoover party will sail from San Diego, Cal., on the battleship Maryland, probably the latter part of next week, for, now that arrangements for the trip are nearly completed, the President-elect desires to get under way so that he may have at least a month and a half in the United States before his inauguration.

Present expectations are that he will return to his own country early in January after spending his first Christmas since his election either on the high seas or in South America. He probably will go direct from Havana, Cuba, to Florida, from which have come many pressing invitations to establish his headquarters there in the pre-inauguration period.

Goes to Football Game.

After luncheon today, Hoover made his first public appearance since his election as President other than at the demonstration given to him at his home last Tuesday night by students of Stanford and his fellow townspeople. It was at the Stanford-Santa Clara football game in the great bowl here where Mr. Hoover delivered his acceptance speech on Aug. 11. There were 25,000 people present at the game.

The President-elect has made no plans to participate tomorrow in the armistice day celebration. He expected to attend services at the university chapel in the morning and take a long automobile ride in the afternoon with Mrs. Hoover and some friends.

Battleship Ordered to San Francisco for Hoover Cruise.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Nov. 10.—The battleship Maryland arrived here today to take part in an Armistice day celebration but before officers had left the pier on their arrival orders were received dispatching the vessel to San Francisco. There the battleship will prepare for the South American cruise of Herbert Hoover, President-elect. Citizens who had prepared a program of entertainment for officers and men of the Maryland were forced to cancel it.

Borah Thinks Hoover's Trip Would Improve Relations.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Chairman Borah, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, today commended the plan of President-elect Hoover to visit South and Central America.

"It is a splendid idea," he said. "It is indicative in my judgment of what we may expect under his administration in regard to our relations with those countries. Our Central and South American relationship is the most immediate and most vital of all our foreign relations. The Latin American countries are our neighbors in fact and they should be our neighbors in spirit. We have more to do with bringing that about than they have. Instead of Marines as an expression of our policy, we want cordial relations, complete understanding, entire respect for their rights, and mutual respect for our respective interests. The outlook was never better and Mr. Hoover's visit would undoubtedly have a most beneficial effect."

Latin-Americans Cordial in Welcoming Hoover's Projected Visit.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—President-elect Hoover will find a warm welcome awaiting him on his forthcoming visit to Latin-American countries. One diplomat declared today that the reception of Hoover in his country would be similar to that accorded a popular hero.

Assurances of a cordial reception for Mr. Hoover were made to State Department officials by Senor Don Carlos G. Davila, the Chilean Ambassador whose response to the news was taken by diplomatic circles to indicate the general friendly sentiment among the other Latin-American countries toward the president elect and his contemplated mission.

Rio de Janeiro Newspaper Foresees Better Understanding from Visit.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 10.—President-elect Hoover's visit to South America, in the opinion of the newspaper O. Jornal will mark an important era in the history of the relations between the peoples of this continent.

"The politics of the Republican party of the United States," comments the paper "have always been incomprehensible with respect to the spirit of fraternity and equality which should exist in international relations on this continent. The coming of Mr. Hoover to this part of America will be a sign that his administration has a point of view more compatible and in better harmony with the people of the Americas."

Argentine Newspaper Says Hoover Will Iron Out Problems.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 10.—Argentina, according to La Nacion, one of the leading newspapers here, will rejoice in welcoming President-elect Hoover.

"His observations during the conferences he will hold with Argentine personalities," says La Nacion, "will help to facilitate the solution of commercial differences which arise from time to time, whose settlement cannot now be effected quickly, despite good will shown by both sides.

"Mr. Hoover's trip will open new prospects in this regard, and will undoubtedly prove beneficial to the relations between the two countries."

Peru Interested Partly Because of Tacna-Arica Dispute.

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 10.—News of the forthcoming trip of President-elect Hoover to South America has aroused the deepest interest here, particularly since it is felt that the trip is unprecedented in the history of political relations between North and South America.

Peru has an especial interest in the international activities of the President-elect as regarding Latin-America because Peruvian foreign affairs are now more than ever concerned with the State Department as her most important problem. The Tacna-Arica dispute, which for so long has been without solution, is now in the hands of American officials.

COOLIDGE TO TAKE LEAD IN OBSERVING OF ARMISTICE DAY

President Will Lay Wreath on Tomb of Unknown Soldier and Will Address Legionnaires.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—High Government officials headed by President Coolidge, tomorrow will lead America into the observance of the tenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice.

Mr. Coolidge, accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, plans to go to Arlington National Cemetery, at 10 o'clock in the morning to lay a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. He will speak at an observance of the day under the auspices of the American Legion tomorrow night at the Washington auditorium.

At 11 o'clock in the morning the two-minute silence will be observed.

Secretary Kellogg, who during the last year has been untiring in fostering the Kellogg-Briand treaty for the outlawry of war, will be addressing a peace meeting in New York City. Other Cabinet officers and Government officials will be making addresses or attending ceremonies marking the tenth year of peace for the United States.

Much of the day's observance will center about the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Scores of organizations plan to have representatives place wreaths on the white marble slab, which during the year has received tokens of respect and honor from thousands, including the Bremen flyers and the Graf Zeppelin crew from Germany.

Throughout the country, churches of every denomination and faith plan to observe the day with prayer and thanksgiving. Special sermons will be delivered in most of the leading churches of the capital with the accent on the continued peace of the world and high praise for the efforts of Government heads to foster the movement for the outlawry of war.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon at Washington Cathedral a memorial service for Woodrow Wilson, wartime President, will take place. Mrs. Wilson and probably other members of the family will attend. Mr. Wilson was buried in Bethlehem Chapel of the Cathedral.

Boy Flyer on Way Across U. S.

BORAH FOR EXTRA SESSION FOR REVISION OF TARIFF

Necessary, to Redeem G. O. P. Pledge to Farmers, Idaho Senator Declares.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Senator Borah today advocated an extra session of Congress for general tariff revision. The Senator said that there was need already of an extra session to pass a farm relief measure which he does not think can be passed at the short session which opens next month.

Tariff revision he regarded as highly important in view of party pledges that some relief through the readjustment of agricultural schedules should be given the farmers.

It was his opinion that should tariff revision be undertaken it would be general in character and could not be restricted to the agricultural schedule.

DR. STRATON'S HOTEL BURNS; PASTOR CHARGES ARSON PLOT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Fire today destroyed the Bible Colony Hotel, owned by the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, at Greenwood Lake. Loss was estimated at $25,000. Dr. Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, said tonight he was convinced the fire was of incendiary origin.

He would not charge, he said, that his enemies had set fire to the hotel because of his fight against Gov. Alfred E. Smith, but he recalled that incendiary fires had been set in his home here several years ago after he had campaigned against cabarets and night clubs.

Mrs. Straton was more outspoken. She asserted that because her husband "could not be intimidated" he ought to have protection. She said she was considering asking Mayor Walker for police protection.

Chamberlain's Car Derailed.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 10.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, arrived here at 9:30 a. m. today from Toronto, the train having been delayed an hour and a quarter when the private car in which Sir Austen and Lady Chamberlain with their two children, Lawrence and Diane, were traveling, was derailed through a broken rail east of Havelock, Ont. The private car was the only one of the train to leave the tracks. It stood upright and no one was injured. The car itself was slightly damaged. Sir Austen was met at the station by Premier MacKenzie King, members of the cabinet, and others.

LEGIONNAIRES' PARADE CELEBRATES ARMISTICE

Jefferson Barracks Battalion Lead March — Wreaths Placed on Statue.

The tenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice was commemorated yesterday by the American Legion with a luncheon at the Annex Hotel, a parade through the downtown district and a brief memorial service before the veterans' statue in the City Hall rotunda.

Scheduled to begin after the luncheon, the parade did not get under way from the City Hall until 2:40, and except for a substantial crowd in the shopping district, in the neighborhood of Seventh street and Washington avenue, only passersby were on the curbs to watch it pass.

It was led by two battalions of infantry from Jefferson Barracks and the Sixth Infantry band, many soldiers all, with the unmistakable carriage of regulars. They were followed by a battalion of field artillerymen whose rumbling guns, rattling caissons and flaunting red pennon added to the martial spirit of the parade.

Next came the massed colors of the American Legion carried by men whose uniforms represented a half dozen army and marine outfits. An American Legion band, a Salvation Army band, a group of several hundred legionnaires, and automobiles bearing disabled veterans made up the balance of the column.

From City Hall the route of the parade was west to Fourteenth street, north to Washington, east to Broadway, south to Chestnut, west to Twelfth boulevard and south to the City Hall where the legionnaires gathered in the rotunda and stood uncovered while wreaths were placed on the memorial statue.

Several hundred legionnaires attended the luncheon which preceded the parade and shouted lustily the strains of "The Long, Long Trail," "Katy" and other favorites. The speakers included Rabbi Julian Miller, Walter B. Weisenburger, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Col. E. L. Butts, chief of staff of the 102nd Division; Lieut. Col. John A. Paegelow, commandant of Scott Field; William Oxley, British consul, and Mr. Seguin, Franco-Belgian consul.

SURRENDERS HERE ON U. S. CHARGE OF FRAUD IN FLORIDA

T. J. McReynolds, Vice President of International Life Co., Indicted at Jacksonville.

ACCUSED IN DEAL AT DAYTONA BEACH

Misrepresentation in Sale of Stock in "Daytona Shores, Inc." Six Miles From City, Alleged.

Charged with using the mails to defraud and conspiracy in the promotion of a model city, Daytona Shores, Fla., which never materialized, T. J. McReynolds, vice president of the defunct International Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis, surrendered here yesterday on a fugitive warrant issued by Assistant United States Attorney Crooks.

The warrant was based on a copy of an indictment, returned at Jacksonville, Fla., last December, which was brought to St. Louis by two postoffice inspectors who had investigated the promotion of Daytona Shores, Inc., of which McReynolds was vice president.

The indictment, containing six counts of using the mails to defraud and one count of conspiracy, between May, 1925, and June, 1926, names McReynolds and four others, John D. Devoney, president of Daytona Shores, Inc., Moses A. Isaacs, Jack H. Briskin and Isaac Marx.

Released on $2500 Bond.

McReynolds appeared at the Federal Building with Jacob L. Babler, former Republican National Committeeman and one of the founders of International Life, who filed as surety on McReynold's $2500 bond.

The indictment, a lengthy document, names numerous overt acts. Among the charges are:

That the defendants formed syndicates to acquire small equities in the land and resold it to their company, Daytona Shores, Inc., at "a price greatly in excess of the price they obtained options for, inflating the value of the real estate to be transferred, and converted the funds to their own use."

That they incorporated the company for $1,000,000 and sold shares to the public, making false representations as to the location, improvements and developments made and to be made.

Misrepresentation Alleged.

That they represented Daytona Shores as a suburb of Daytona Beach, as the highest class development in Florida, surrounded by the most exclusive estates on the east coast, with a "causeway section" adjoining an exclusive golf course, and that $75,000,000 would be spent in developing the "Old Sun City tract," whereas the property was six miles from Daytona Beach, bounded by solid and undeveloped real estate, a river and 1500 feet of the Atlantic ocean, accessible only by a proposed causeway over the mile-wide Halifax River.

That they represented that the company would build a complete city with water, electricity, asphalt streets and concrete walks, storm sewers, white ways, great hotels and golf clubs, which the company did not construct.

That they promised they would make Daytona Shores the finest residential city in Florida and the United States and that the lots at the beginning of the campaign would be priced so low as to make prompt and substantial profits for the first investors, when in fact they sold a tract of wild, unimproved land on which no improvements or developments were being made.

That they represented that a $200,000 causeway to connect the main sections of Daytona Shores was being constructed; also a $350,000 administration building, and that work would be started immediately on the Fleetwood Hotel, to open New Year's eve, 1927, when in fact neither the causeway nor the foundations of the administration building nor the hotel were ever begun.

That they represented that only cash, at $100 the share, would be received for the stock of the company, whereas large blocks were issued for promotion purposes to themselves.

A dispatch from Daytona Beach stated McReynolds was vice president and trust officer in charge of the Atlantic Bank & Trust Co. there until about two years ago. He came from Daytona Beach to St. Louis where he became vice president of International Life under Roy C. Toombs, as president.

McReynolds, who resides at the Congress Hotel and has offices in the International Life Building, gave out this statement later in the day:

"I was connected as an officer and stockholder in the Daytona Shores Corporation in 1925, and this is the first time any complaint has been made against me. I put my own money into the company and like many others who invested in Florida during the boom, lost on my investment. I did not use the mails or any other methods to mislead or defraud anyone at any time in my life, and am entirely innocent and confident of the outcome."

His Speech Is Standard for U. S.

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer
W. Y. McBURNEY.

Says All in U. S. May Talk Like St. Louisans Soon

Dr. Cabell Greet of Barnard College, Analyzing Enunciations, Finds Nation Drifting Toward Standarization.

By Leased Wire from The New York Bureau of The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. — The phonograph record of a reading by W. Y. McBurney of St. Louis, voted by a Columbia University jury the most typically American in its manner of speech, will be reproduced before a number of learned bodies. The Modern Language Association, meeting in Toronto next month, the Dialect Society of America and the Linguistic Society are scheduled to hear it.

Dr. Cabell Greet of the English department of Barnard College, women's school of Columbia, who conducted the test in which representatives of 20 sections were heard, told today why the St. Louis man's speech was, as Dr. Greet put it, "standard Americanese." He told also how and why Americans of various sections are coming to talk more alike.

"As a Nation," Dr. Greet said, "we are drifting toward regularity of speech. Standardization is being effected, largely through the influence of the radio, phonograph and increased travel and education. In this drift, towards standardization of speech, we are drifting towards the kind of speech which you find in St. Louis, as shown by its representative here. If this drift towards regularity continues, we may eventually all speak like St. Louis."

Dr. Greet described the intonations and general speech principles which characterize the speech of St. Louis, as shown by its representative.

How Speech Here Differs.

"As I have observed," he said, "the harsh and disagreeable mild Western R is modified; the final R and R's before consonants are indicated, although not unpleasantly. There is a slight drawl. There is not so marked a tendency to make diphthongs of E, I, O and U, as you find in the South. There is a lax habit of shortening and lowering the A. Thus, the St. Louisan who recorded his speech pronounced make 'mek.' This, perhaps, is not found in formal speech.

"Speaking of the drawl in St. Louis Americanese, there is no objectionable amount of nasality. Pronouncing the so-called G in ing is a matter of little importance, and may or may not be found in the American English of the future. School teachers, however, are largely in favor of it. The St. Louisan does not emphasize the broad A."

St. Louisan of Average Education.

Speaking of McBurney, whom he did not mention by name, as the university does not make known the names of those figuring in research tests, Dr. Greet said the St. Louisan was born near that city and reared in the city since childhood, and was a normal educated and traveled person, neither socially ambitious nor lacking in culture. The speech records, as has been told, were made last summer at the summer session of Columbia University, which McBurney attended. The reading was "Fable of Grip, the baby rat."

McBurney record was one of four which were produced before reporters here. One reporter, who came from the Middle West, said he did not see why the St. Louisan's record was included.

"There is nothing unique about his speech," he said, "it is the way we all talk."

"That proves my point exactly," Dr. Greet said to the English Graduate Union, whose 100-odd holders of Doctors' degrees acted as the jury. "The St. Louis man spoke the standard American speech. He just spoke naturally."

Dr. Robert L. Ramsay, professor of English at the University of Missouri, talking with a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday of the New York test, indicated that while the St. Louis manner of speech may be the most representative, St. Louis need not get a superiority complex over it.

St. Louis speech, as well as that of the Middle West in general, he declared, leaves much to be desired. It is no worse, but neither is it any better than that of any other part of the country.

"No section or locality," Dr. Ramsay declared, "need feel ashamed of its dialect or feel that its dialect is superior. The ideal to strive for in any section is not to speak so that nobody can tell from what part of the country you came from, but to speak the language as it is spoken by the most cultured speakers in your own section.

"Dialects enhance the charm of any language, and one is as good as another so far as correctness is concerned. Their disappearance would be something to be deplored. There is no reason why a Southerner or a man of the Middle West should strive to speak like a New Englander, or a New Englander like somebody else."

Prof. Ralph B. Wagner of the English department of St. Louis University said he thought the sample of St. Louis speech supplied by McBurney might well have represented the standard of American speech, but that he didn't believe the language as spoken by the average St. Louisan would be able to make such a claim for distinction. He pointed out several provincialisms of which St. Louisans in general are guilty. One in particular, he said, was the use of a broad "a" in place of an Italian "a" as in "pawrk" for park and stawr" for star.

McBurney, who is 32 years old, lives at 5872 Julian avenue, and is a graduate of Soldan High School and the University of Illinois, and lately a graduate student at Columbia. He is a man of average circumstances and literary tastes, and his speech is the every-day variety heard on the street, on the campus and in the average business office. The outcome of the test was the source of considerable surprise to him. He told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday he had no idea how his speech was distinguishable from that of other representatives. He thought it must have been selected as standard because it was so' 'average," so lacking in any distinguishing characteristic.

Injured When Auto Upsets.

Robert Davenport, 58 years old, of 5859 Wabada avenue, suffered fractures of the skull and right hand last night when his automobile upset after a tire blew out on the 5300 block of Natural Bridge avenue.

DETECTIVE KILLS MEXICAN AGENT AT EL PASO, TEX.

Maj. Ignacio Dosemantes of Department of Justice Shot to Death in Row Over Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 10.—Maj. Ignacio Dosemantes, Mexican Department of Justice agent, who for several months has been operating in Juarez, Mexico, was shot through the body and fatally wounded in front of the El Paso police station today. He died on the way to the hospital.

Juan Escontrias, El Paso detective, was held on a tentative charge of murder in connection with the shooting. Escontrias said he shot Dosemantes in self defense. Chief of Police Albino Erias of Juarez is aiding El Paso police in an investigation of the circumstances leading up to the shooting.

Police said Rojelio Sanchez of Juarez complained to them that Dosemantes had met him Friday and after ordering a woman who was with Sanchez, out of his automobile, took him to South El Paso where he beat him and later robbed him.

When Sanchez and a friend went to police headquarters to report the robbery, Escontrias and Juan Franco, another detective, were assigned to the case. In a search of Dosemantes' room at a hotel, the detectives said they found a wallet described as the one which had been taken from Sanchez.

Dosemantes went to Police Headquarters this morning where he became involved in an argument with Escontrias.

"He made a move for his hip pocket and I fired twice," Escontrias said.

Mayor Thomason ordered Chief of Police L. T. Robey to relieve Escontrias of his commission, gun and badge.

Three months ago Dosemantes shot Enrique Fernandez, Juarez cafe proprietor. Shortly afterward he was said to have been in the ill favor of the Juarez authorities and left for Mexico City. He was sent to the Northern border in connection with the investigation of a narcotic ring.

ARKANSAS BARS REFERENCE BOOK MENTIONING EVOLUTION

State Education Department Says Work is Probable Violation of New Law.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 10—Approval by the State Department of Education of a reference book containing a statement of the "Darwinian Theory of Evolution" was withdrawn today because of its probable violation of the anti-evolution bill approved at last Tuesday's election.

As the first specific movement toward observance of the act, a letter sent by J. P. Womack, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, to county and city school superintendents notified them that the "World Book," a reference work for public school libraries, probably came under the law which prohibits the teaching of a theory that "man ascended or descended from a lower order of animals" in tax-supported schools.

However, whether the statement of a theory can be considered teaching it probably will have to be decided by the courts, he said.

ings in small farms and groves. They are now virtually penniless and cut off from building up their little fortunes again because of age or the new restrictions of immigration.

The plight of the peasants is pitiable. The lava stream poured across land valued at from $2000 to $2500 an acre. Those who owned 15 or more acres of this fruitful land were considered rich. This year there had been an enormous demand for lemons which are gathered twice yearly. The fruit was bringing nearly 3 cents apiece on the tree. Now the molten stream is creeping through these orchards and destroying them.

Farmers Impoverished.

Once prosperous farmers today were filling their pockets with nuts from the trees, slinging wine bottles over their shoulders and trudging away from the scene of desolation or begging rides to safety. Others were selling for a song what was left of their once ample stores of fruit and wines.

Some witnesses were indignantly describing the action of farmers and landed proprietors in regions that had been spared. They said that these persons, knowing that many small farmers and old retired couples had been living on their little gardens and were now penniless, were invading the country and offering jobs in the fields and homes at very low wages. The recently impoverished people were forced to accept these jobs in many cases.

Developments during the past 24 hours showed that this was the most important outbreak of Mount Etna since 1669 in the point of lava flow.

$2,000,000 COUNTERFEIT RING DISCLOSED BY TAXICAB CHASE

New York Drivers' 20-Block Run For His Change Results in Three Arrests.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Through the vigilance of a taxicab driver, the Government has disclosed a ring of counterfeiters responsible for $2,000,000 in bogus bills, the United States District Attorney's office announced today.

Three men, who said they were Isadore Goodman, Leon Lazarus, and Dominick Musolino, were held for the Federal grand jury on complaint of John J. Mraz, the taxicab driver, who charged they gave him a $5 counterfeit bill and pocketed the change in his cab. Mraz chased an elevated train, which he saw them board, more than 20 blocks down the East Side, and trailed them until he found a policeman.

Assistant United States Attorney Alvin McK. Sylvester said the ring had put out $2,000,000 in bogus bills, ranging from $5 to $100, which they had been attempting to pass here and in Montreal.

ROTHSTEIN ESTATE SAID TO INCLUDE LOOT OF ROBBERS

to educational and charitable purposes, especially hospitals.

One-sixth of the residue is to be handled by the trustees for the benefit of Inez Norton for 10 years. At the expiration of that period, or in event of her death, it goes outright to the trustees, or the survivors or survivor. The same provision applies to a trust fund of $75,000 established for the benefit of Sidney Stajer for a period of 10 years.

The will then provides that 80 per cent of the residue shall be put into two trust funds of equal volume, the income for a period of 10 years to be paid to the dead gambler's two brothers, Edgar and Jack. The balance is equally divided into two trust funds, to run 10 years, for the benefit of Samuel Brown and William Wellman, two of the trustees. At the end of the 10 years they are to receive the principal. The will in conclusion gives the trustees an absolutely free hand in the investment of the assets of the estate.

Planned to Wed, Girl Says.

Inez Norton was found tonight at the Fairfield Hotel.

'I loved him with all my heart," she said, waving her plump arm, "and he loved me. He promised to leave me everything—his hotel, his money, his securities, everything.

"I met him last June at a dinner, sociably, decently, beautifully. He was charming. Since then I have seen him almost every night. We were to have been married. When I first met him, I did not know that he was married. Then he told me his wife was in England, getting a divorce to marry another man. Only two weeks ago he told me that his wife had returned, that we would soon be married.

"He sent me flowers every night. Nothing was too good for me. We played golf, swam, played together."

She said she had a son, now in a private school. His name? "It is Junior—just Junior. A dear boy. This might kill him. I am shielding him from it as much as I can."

She came from Florida, she said, where her father was a well-known lumber dealer, the late James Norton.

DRYS GAIN 15 VOTES AND CONTROL THE NEXT CONGRESS

during his six years in the Senate, and it was virtually his sole issue in his campaign for re-election. As a matter of fact, he had no other, since he had voted with the Republicans more often than with the Democrats on other measures. He lost to Phillip. Lee Goldsborough, who is bone dry. Other wet Democratic Senators who were beaten by dry Republicans were Bayard of Delaware and Gerry of Rhode Island. As is known, Roscoe Patterson, who succeeds Senator Reed from Missouri, also is dry.

More Woe and a Crumb of Comfort

Perhaps the most signal loss suffered by the wets in the House was the defeat of Representative Harrison White (Dem.), of Denver. A little over a year ago he was elected to fill a vacancy caused by death. He ran on a dripping wet platform, and his election was construed as indicating a marked change of sentiment in Colorado. He was defeated for re-election, however, by William R. Eaton, a dry Republican.

The principal solace which the wets find in the election results, is the fact that Massachusetts and Montana, voting upon ballot propositions to "express a public policy," gave majorities in favor of modification of the Federal prohibition laws. Those, together with the fact that Gov. Smith carried such normally Republican cities as Chicago and St. Louis, and greatly increased the normal Democratic vote in Philadelphia and other cities, comprise the only crumb of comfort for the wets and a small crumb it is.

James M. Beck Re-Elected.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—James M. Beck, Republican, apparently has been re-elected to Congress from the First Congressional District by a majority of 73 votes over his Democratic opponent, William L. Rooney, it was announced tonight when the official count had been completed in the seven wards making up the district. Beck's total was given at 45,715, Rooney's 45,642.

Doctor Wins Grand Prize In Best Garden Contest

G. W. Loesch's Name to Go on Silver Loving Cup; Consolation Award to Harlan Firminger, 9 Years Old.

Dr. G. W. Loesch, 5228A Minerva avenue, won the grand prize of the St. Louis Horticultural Society in its Best Garden Contest, in which more than 400 gardens were entered, it was announced last night, at a mass meeting of the society in the auditorium of Washington University Medical School. The meeting was attended by garden entrants and members of the society.

Dr. Loesch also won the prize for the best garden in District No. 6, and, in addition, his name will be inscribed on the silver loving cup given by Eugene L. Angert, president of the Horticultural Society. The cup must be won three times in succession before it is turned over to anyone.

Miss Olga Bates, 5540 Vernon avenue, won the second grand prize, and also is winner of the prize in district No. 5. The two grand prizes were awarded by a special committee who selected these from the district winners of the city.

Prizes also went to the winners of 24 districts, and there were 25 certificates of award to those whose gardens were next in line to the district winners.

Harlan Firminger, 9 years old, 4147 McPherson avenue, who entered his garden in the contest, was given the consolation prize as encouragement for him to continue gardening. This included a number of plants, shrubs and seeds contributed by members of the Horticultural Society. A year's membership in the society also was given to him.

Angert, who presided at the meeting last night, said the society now has 1000 members and had aroused city-wide interest in the eight months since it was organized. Walter Weisenburger, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Adolphe Neuville, also spoke.

Winners in the Districts.

The district winners in the garden contest were:

District No. 1, Mrs. K. Rabenau, 6926 Virginia avenue; No. 2, John Hodgson, 5102 Eichelberger avenue; No. 3, Mrs. L. Schlothauer, 6738 Scanlon avenue; No. 4, H. G. SLAYER OF FIVE KILLED IN TRYING TO ESCAPE

Negro Murders Texas Farm Family Then Falls Under Train Wheels.

By the Associated Press.

LAKE CHARLES, La., Nov. 10.—Dupre Mallette, a tenant farmer living near here, his wife and three of their children were killed today by George Coleman, a Negro, 40 years old. Two other children were so badly injured that they may die. Another daughter, Alesia Mallette, 13 years old, escaped by hiding in a haystack.

The Negro fled in his automobile to Jennings, La., where he attempted to board a Southern Pacific passenger train, and was instantly killed when he fell under the wheels.

The three children killed were: William, 11; Laura, 8, and Ada, 3.

Details of the murder at the poor rice grower's home were told incoherently to Sheriff Isaac Fontenot, of Jefferson Davis Parish, by the 13-year-old daughter of the Mallettes who escaped during the shooting and hid in a haystack until it was over.

She said that fear of the consequences of an insult Coleman had offered her a day or two ago caused the Negro to commit the murders. Coleman had warned her not to tell her parents of the insult, she asserted.

She said Coleman came to the Mallette home today and asked for a shotgun and some shells. When Mallette said he had none, Coleman shot Mallette who fell but recovered and ran into the house, the Negro at his heels. Here Coleman beat Mallette to death with the butt of his pistol.

Mrs. Mallette caught up a pistol but was killed before she could use it. Coleman then felled five of the children, three of them dying almost instantly.

The girl who fled from the house, dazed and hysterical, was unable to give a connected account of the killings.

On the dead Negro's body when it was taken from the railroad track, was found the pistol used in the murders.

Glen Addies

Here they are in Fall weight—just when you need something heavier, but not too heavy.

These have all the characteristics of the lighter weight Glen Addies we made so much fuss about earlier in the year. Scotch wool from sheep raised on the banks of the Tweed. Yarn firmly twisted, woven closely, but with no suggestion of hardness. Patterns full of color, but softened as if by the mists of Scotland.

This stuff holds its shape most remarkably—and it will not shine. When you see it you will understand our enthusiasm.

REPAIRING OLD TEETH BREAKS TOOTH-MAKER

Bankrupt Also Loses Flesh Because People Do Not Buy New Sets.

His dentist friends who lent him money and his loyal employes who have wages due may have been pained yesterday when Dr. Arthur W. Erikson of the Central Dental Laboratory Co., International Life Building, filed a petition in bankruptcy, declaring liabilities of $20,888.58 and assets of $9721.05, but they aren't the only sufferers.

"I've worried so much over the poor business I've gone down in weight from 220 pounds to 147," Erikson told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Business has been sliding backwards for three years, owing to the general depression.

"In good times, when a dentist recommends a full set of teeth for a patient, the patient says 'All right, go ahead,' and the dentist gives us the order to make the teeth. In a time of depression, the patient elects to have his old teeth repaired. And there's no profit for me in repairs."

Dentists Are Creditors.

The liabilities listed in the petition include $15,237 in unsecured debts and $4902 in wages due employes. The assets include $8385 due on open accounts and $1000 for laboratory equipment. Among the creditors are a number of dentists in St. Louis and vicinity.

It is understod the dentists advanced cash sums to Erikson, and he would credit them with service or supplies for larger amounts than they gave him, in return for the accommodation. It is understood about $7000 is the total credit still due on such transactions. Erikson admitted receiving loans from dentists, but refused to discuss the details.

Makes New Start as Employe.

For 27 years Erikson has made gold teeth, pivots, bridgework and other items of dentistry. He has a half dozen competitors. Formerly he had an office in the Century Building.

Three days ago, when his laboratory in the International Life Building, failed, Erikson moved across the street to a suite at 802A Chestnut street, where he will make a fresh start with the new Erikson Century Dental Laboratory. Associated with him are his wife, Mrs. May C. Erikson, his sister-in-law, Lydia M. Bauer, and some of the 25 employes who were with the old company. His wife is his bookkeeper, and his sister-in-law takes care of the bills. The old company was a family affair. Erikson says he will be merely an employe of the new company. He hopes to make enough money to pay his dentist friends and employes.

FILES SUIT AGAINST DAUGHTER

Mother Says She Was Ill When She Conveyed Property.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Mrs. Fannie Hochman to set aside a conveyance of two parcels of realty owned by her which she made Oct. 3 last in favor of her daughter, Mrs. Aaron Bricker, 5209 Cabanne avenue.

Mrs. Hochman says she retained a life interest in the realty, located at 8510-14 South Broadway and on Michigan avenue, the daughter to assume full ownership only in the event she survived her mother. According to the petition, which is directed against Mrs. Bricker and her husband, Mrs. Hochman says the nature of the transaction. The she was ill and did not understand defendants could not be reached.

HOLDERS OF STATE JOBS ARE WORRIED ABOUT CAULFIELD

Afraid He Meant What He Said About Budget System and Unnecessary Employes.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 10.—From the fact that Governor-elect Henry S. Caulfield of St. Louis is not the political spoils type of politician they are accustomed to in the office of Governor, the office-holding group at the state capitol is worried.

They are afraid the newly elected Governor meant what he said in his campaign—that he would put the state on a budget system and get along with as few employes as possible, instead of following the present system of finding as many places on the payroll as possible for "deserving" Republicans.

Also they are fearful that the old stand-by of "I was for you in the primary" will be no guarantee of a job after Jan. 14, when Caulfield takes office.

It is not that they think the new Governor will fail to follow party lines in making appointments and filling jobs. They know he is practical in politics and that, at least outside of technical positions, he will hold that the jobs belong to Republicans and that they will get them.

A real fear is that the new Governor may be disposed to inquire into the qualifications of the applicants, and that would be fatal to a good many. It never has been done, and most certainly the jobholders do not want it done.

Supported Him in Primary.

From the standpoint of politics in the primary most of those now holding State jobs can refer to their records. All the indications pointed to Caulfield's nomination and nobody is quicker to sense a winner than a political jobholder. So most of them were supporting Caulfield early in the campaign. They hope that will be enough. It generally has been, though in the Baker administration old personal friendship took precedence over everything else when it came to appointments by the Governor.

The greater part of the time during the early months of a Governor's time is taken up with making appointments. There are a dozen or so departmental heads to pick, a dozen or so Boards to select, and a few hundred minor jobs to fill. Most of the latter are taken by men and women who feel they ought to have one of the big jobs but will take anything they can get above the grade of janitor. There being few good jobs, a Governor usually shoos most of the applicants over to the departmental heads with a word to take care of them.

In St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph, the Governor will have the appointment of Police and Election Commissioners. While it virtually is certain there will be changes in the memberships of these Boards, Caulfield has given not the slightest indication of who will be removed, or who appointed.

Stewart's Re-appointment Likely.

From the standpoint of salary, the best job to be given out is that of State Health Commissioner, now held by Dr. James Stewart. It is to be expected he will be re-appointed. He is considered qualified and he withdrew as a candidate for Governor in Caulfield's favor at a crucial moment in the primary campaign. The salary is $7400 a year.

If he sees fit Caulfield will be able to reorganize the Public Service Commission, the State Highway Commission, the State Penal Board and any other commissions and boards. It is probable he will follow the usual custom of asking the State Senate to return to him the list of vacation appointments made by Gov. Baker. By doing that he will be able to make new appointments by merely sending to the Senate names of others than those sent by Baker.

Two departments in which Caulfield has indicated a particular interest are the Public Service Commission and the State Finance Department. Whether he intends to change the present heads is not known, but the Governor-elect has said he intended to try to get more money for these two departments that they might function more effectively.

An early change is likely in the State Insurance Department, now headed by Ben C. Hyde, who has been incapacitated by illness for more than a year. Hyde has been confirmed by the Senate but competent attorneys have held that his incapacity automatically ousted him as Superintendent.

Harrison May Be Kept.

Some changes in the State Penal Board are expected, though there is no indication that A. H. Harrison, Director of Penal Institutions, will be interfered with if he cares to hold the place. He has had the difficult job of straightening out the tangled affairs of the prison following the administration there of Dr. Cortez Enloe, and has succeeded in materially reducing the size of the debt of the prison.

That there will be a reorganization of the State Eleemosynary Board at an early date is considered a virtual certainty. This is the board appointed by Gov. Baker with a view to providing jobs for several of his relatives and friends. Board members were removed when they refused to discharge competent employes to make places for the Governor's favorites, and new members, who were amenable to orders, were appointed. There resulted a financial scandal at the Nevada Asylum.

This board arbitrarily removed Dr. George A. Johns, a nationally known psychiatrist, after it had failed to have the Legislature abolish his position. The political appointees of the board at the head of some of the institutions objected to taking instructions from Dr. Johns in the medical affairs of the hospitals.

It is expected that Keith McCanse, State Game and Fish Commissioner, will be reappointed unless the new Governor should become interested in the plan of the Izaak Walton League for the creation of a bipartisan commission to run the department.

Other Appointments.

In addition to the places mentioned, Caulfield will have the appointment of six members of the Board of Curators of the State University, four members of the board for each of the five State Teachers' Colleges, the members of the Board of Managers of the School for the Blind, the School for the Deaf and Lincoln University; five members of the Board of the Federal Soldiers' Home and five members of the board for the Confederate Soldiers' Home; 16 members of the State Board of Agriculture, seven members of the State Board of Health; the State Labor Commissioner, the Adjutant-General, three members of the State Tax Commission, a supervisor of building and loan associations, a State grain and warehouse commissioner and members of many boards of lesser importance.

Under nearly all of these there are many small jobs which are filled under direction of the Governor if he cares to bother with them, as he invariably does, because they provide a means of paying campaign obligations.

A new Governor is subject to much pulling and hauling by those who think he is in their political debt. He starts at the task with confidence that he can dispose of it quickly but when he finds there are from 10 to 20 applicants for every job, and that when he makes one friend by an appointment he makes enemies of the other nine to 19, he usually wishes he had not been a candidate.

COOLIDGE APPEALS FOR RED CROSS FUND

President Issues Proclamation Urging Citizens to Give to Organization.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—President Coolidge today issued a proclamation urging increased membership in the American Red Cross, noting the rehabilitation work done by the organization in the last year, particularly for sufferers from the West Indies hurricane. His proclamation follows:

"The American National Red Cross has once more demonstrated in impressive fashion the necessity for maintaining at full strength this great humanitarian organization. Acting as the agency of the American people, it promptly and effectively went to the relief of the half a million people left destitute by the hurricane which swept over Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands and parts of Florida. It will be engaged for many weeks to come in the task of restoring the stricken people in those disaster areas to a normal basis of living.

88 Disasters in Year.

"With equal promptness and efficiency, the same organization has been answering the call for disaster relief from other sections of our country. During the last year there have been 88 disasters in the United States in which the Red Cross has served, while in the same space of time it has sent substantial relief to the victims of 22 disasters in foreign countries.

"Relief for suffering humanity in the wake of disaster is but one part of the work to which the American Red Cross is dedicated. It is well to remember at this time, as we solemnly observe the tenth anniversary of Armistice day, the duty which we owe to those thousands of ex-service men who have never fully recovered from the wounds of war. For these men and their families the Red Cross continues to render the same tender care which, during the World War, gave to that organization the proud distinction of being termed 'the greatest mother in the world.'

Serves for All the People.

"In all of its work for humanity—local, national and international—the American Red Cross serves in the name of all of the people of the United States. This is only possible because the work which it does is largely financed through the payment of comparatively small annual membership dues by a very large number of our people. Because of the ever-increasing demands upon the organization, in every phase of its work, it has become necessary that this popular supported correspondingly increased.

"As President of the United States and as president of the American Red Cross, I earnestly urge that the American people, during the period between Armistice day and Thanksgiving, dedicate themselves anew to service for humanity through a greatly increased membership in their Red Cross."

ST. LOUIS STREET CAR CO. SEEKS BUS LINE EXTENSION

Asks for Permit to Provide Service to Bridgeton Flying Field.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 10.—St. Louis Public Service Co. filed an application with the State Public Service Commission today for authority to extend its motor bus service between St. Louis and St. Charles, to provide early morning and late afternoon bus service to the Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field near Bridgeton.

The company proposes to operate additional busses from St. Louis to St. Charles, by way of the flying field, late in the afternoon, and from St. Charles to St. Louis, by way of the flying feld, in the morning. The change is planned, it was stated, to meet the requests of employes of several aircraft factories near the field, for transportation facilities. The proposed fare between St. Louis and the flying field is 20 cents.

ACTOR, 9, TAKEN FROM PARENTS

To Have "Chance in Life So Far Denied Him," Court Says.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 10.—The Probate Court ruled yesterday that Frankie Darro, 9-year-old film actor who earns $200 a week, is to "be given the chance in life to which he is entitled and which has been denied him thus far."

The ruling ended the fight of Mrs. Ada Johnson, the boy's mother, and her husband, Frank Johnson, for custody of the child. The Court ruled that a third person should have custody of the boy. The identity of the third person will be disclosed later.

Defeated Candidate Spent $9241.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Richard L. Metcalf, Democratic senatorial candidate, defeated in Nebraska, in a final report to the House today, listed campaign receipts at $7770 and expenditures of $9241. Senator Reed (R.-p.), Pennsylvania, re-elected, reported contributions and expenditures of $1121, of which $1000 went to the treasurer of the Republican State Committee.

Wife Sues to Annul Marriage.

Mrs. Rose Spitler filed suit yesterday to annul her marriage to Frank Lew Spitler, 4164 Westminster place, alleging that at the time they were married, Jan. 9, 1922, he had another wife from whom he was not divorced. He and the first wife, who was Alma Koch, were married in 1907, the petition states.

ONLY ONE OF 7 WOMEN WHO RAN FOR LEGISLATURE ELECTED

Mrs. Rial McReynolds, Republican, Defeated Opponent by Seven Votes.

Of seven women candidates for seats in the Missouri Legislature, unofficial returns indicate that only one was elected, and her lead is by such small margin that the official count may change victory to defeat her. The returns show that Mrs. Rial McReynolds, Republican, defeated Willis A. Hendren, Democrat, by seven votes for Representative from Knox County.

The defeated women candidates were Mrs. H. I. Bradford of Monett, Democrat, for Senator from the Eighteenth District; Mrs. Eva McMahan of Seymour, Democrat, for Representative from Webster County; Mrs. Rose H. Dildine for Representative from Clinton County; Mrs. Tressa Alexander for Representative from Mercer County; Mrs. Minnie Nordin for Representative from Barry County and Miss Abbie Levitt for Representative from Adair County.

CHICAGO LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES TO ORGANIZE

New Police Chief, Sheriff and Prosecutor-Elect Plan Combined Offensive.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10. — A Police Chief only recently appointed, a Sheriff newly elected and a Prosecutor-elect, himself the victim of bombers several months ago, were organizing today to use in concert their three enforcement agencies to give Chicago's underworld a thorough housecleaning.

There was talk, too, that Mayor Thompson contemplates joining the politic-crime offensive by using his executive shears upon numerous officeholders whose policies have been scored by investigating bodies.

Following the defeat in the primaries of the ticket sponsored by Mayor Thompson and State's Attorney Crowe, and the further sundering of their ranks by Tuesday's vote, these two Republican leaders have come to a parting of their political ways. Crowe will be out of office in December, greatly reduced in party power, and friends of the Mayor believe the latter will throw the strength of his office toward the cleanup faction that will come into county control at that time.

REGENCY ORDERS RUMANIA TO ELECT NEW PARLIAMENT

Dissolution of Former Body One of Maniu's Conditions for Heading Cabinet as Premier.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 10. — The Regency, having invested the new Cabinet of the peasant party with the Government today, has issued a decree dissolving Parliament. New elections for the Lower House will be held Dec. 12 and those for the Senate three days later. The new Parliament will meet Dec. 22.

Julio Maniu, head of the peasant party, who today as Premier took over the reins of government, had earlier announced the dissolution of Parliament as an indispensable condition to his forming a Cabinet. He declared that Parliament as constituted was not representative and that there should be new and honest elections.

Maniu gained additional support today by his vow to support the present monarchy and the Regency, and to do nothing to bring back Prine Carol.

Roman Catholic Priest Officiates.

Maniu is the first Roman Catholic to become Premier of this essentially Greek orthodox country. A Roman Catholic priest, therefore, for the first time shared honors today with the patriarch, Miron Christea, ecclesiastical member of the Regency, in swearing in the Cabinet.

Demonstrations on a tremendous scale took place throughout tall parts of Rumania. In Bucharest this afternoon 15,000 persons demonstrated in front of the capital in favor of the new Government. In thousands of windows, the Rumanian flag and Maniu's picture were displayed. Tonight the city was brilliantly illuminated.

A dramatic incident occurred during the investiture of the new Cabinet, when Dr. Herbadu, minister for the Banat Province, refused to take the oath before the Regency Council with his colleagues, on the ground that he was a Free Thinker.

Despite the presence of the Regency and the entreaties of his associates, he declined steadfastly to take the customary vow, and it seemed for a time as if the swearing in of the entire Cabinet might be upset. The Regency finally decided to pass Dr. Herbadu without the usual pledge, but there is some fear that this may later give rise to legal complications.

No One Receives Ministers.

When the Ministers proceeded to their respective departments to take over the Government, they found to their astonishment no one to receive them or represent them to the personnel. All the outgoing Ministers visited their departments yesterday and took leave of their staff. This incident indicates the degree of bitterness between the Liberals and Peasant leaders.

Another incident which emphasized this hostility occurred yesterday, when Vintilla Bratiano, the retiring Premier, entered a strong protest when the Regency asked him to sign a decree making Maniu Premier.

POINCARE STILL TRIES IN VAIN TO FORM NEW FRENCH CABINET

Radicals Continue to Block Plans, Members Refusing to Sit With Moderate Group.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—Raymond Poincare, after consultations with political leaders which lasted until late tonight, postponed until tomorrow his attempt to form a Cabinet.

All had seemed propitious in the late afternoon for a Cabinet in which the Radicals would collaborate after Poincare had made outstanding concessions. However, the Radical group, after another meeting, sent an ultimatum that the former premier repudiate the National Union group. Poincare was not willing to dispense with the collaboration of the Republican Union deputies, the second strongest party in the chamber. All evening Poincare was visited by influential radicals while he strove to find some middle course between the Radicals and the Republican Union. At midnight he gave up the attempt for the day.

The plans of Poincare still are hung up on the same snag. He is determined to include the Republican Union group in any combination he may make. Tonight he charged Henri Queuille to explain his ideas on the situation to a meeting of the radical group of deputies tomorrow morning.

If the Radicals as a group remain firm in their hostility to the Unionists, Poincare will be forced to abandon his attempt to head a new Government.

BURNED HAND TO INDUCE ALMS

Youth and Father, "St. Louis Blackie," Arrested for Begging.

John Mason, 54 years old, a six-time ex-convict known as "St. Louis Blackie," and his son, Charles Mason, 20, who had burned his hand to excite sympathy, were arrested Friday for begging.

The youth was going from house to house with the burned hand in a sling, presenting a card asking for alms and stating the burns had been suffered in an automobile accident. The father was found in their room at 10A North Fifteenth street with one hand covered with iodine.

DOCTORS CONFIRM WOMAN'S TALE OF SELF-TORTURE BY FIRE

Testify at Inquest Elfrieda Knaak Could Have Burned Herself as She Said.

By the Associated Press.

LAKE BLUFF, Ill., Nov. 10.—The unusual story Elfrieda Knaak told of burning herself in the furnace of the Lake Bluff village hall was recited by witnesses at the inquest into her death today and confirmed by testimony of three doctors who had talked with and examined her.

Dr. A. J. Rissinger, who attended the book agent and school teacher until she died, said it was his opinion the burns were self-inflicted. He told of talking with the young woman and listening to her strange motive for self-immolation—to prove her faith and purify her love by fire.

Dr. C. A. Barnes, Coroner's physician, said he also believed the girl burned herself as did Dr. Theodore Proxmire, who is attending Charles Hitchcock, Lake Bluff policeman and former actor, for whom the girl said she sought to prove her love. Dr. Proxmire said Hitchcock was disabled by a broken ankle and could not have left his home the night the burning took place.

NORRIS DECLARES RELIGION SWAYED VOTE IN ELECTION

Nebraska Progressive G. O. P. Senator Who Backed Smith Says Power Trust Won Victory.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Senator Norris of Nebraska, who supported the Democratic presidential ticket, declared in a statement today that "the greatest element involved in the landslide was religion and that the next controlling issue of the campaign was prohibition."

"The real issues in the campaign were relief for agriculture and the preservation of our natural resources from the grasping fingers of the power trust," he said. "In the excitement over the artificial issues of religion and prohibition, farm relief was beaten and the power trust given the greatest victory it has ever achieved since it began the stealthy and secret attempt to control all the activities of our economic and political life. It is almost inconceivable, in the face of the astounding revelations of the Federal Trade Commission's investigation, that this should be so.

"From the outlook of a progressive, the immediate future is not encouraging. As a concrete illustration, it looks now that unless the Supreme Court holds that the Muscle Shoals bill passed at the last session of Congress is now a law, that great property developed at the expense of the American taxpayers cannot be saved for the people.

"Notwithstanding the setback, it is the duty of progressives to fight on and to do the best we can, even in the face of defeat, and to continue the contest in spite of the additional odds that the election has thrown in the pathway of human progress."

MERGER TO CREATE LARGEST CHEMICAL FIRM IN WORLD

Grasselli and du Pont Companies, With $407,000,000 Combined Capital to Unite.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 10. — Consolidation of two of the oldest industrial concerns in the country and the formation of the largest chemical corporation in the world was virtually completed today. Stockholders of the Grasselli Chemical Co. ratified the proposal to consolidate with E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. There was not a dissenting vote and approximately 90 per cent of the stock was represented.

Grasselli stockholders re to exchange their stock for du Pont on the basis of five of Grasseli to one of du Pont.

The name of Grasselli, established in Cincinnati in 1839, is to be continued through the incorporation of the Grasselli Chemical Co., under the laws of Delaware. This company will own the assets of the merged firms. The du Pont company will own all of the stock of this company, the notices said. The transfer will be made Dec. 1.

Grasselli's largest plants are in New Jersey and East Chicago. Grasselli's assets totaled $56,000,000 June 30, while those of du Pont were $361,440,262 on Dec. 31. Grasselli has 747,122 common shares and du Pont 2,661,658 shares of no par value.

Grasselli preferred will be retired Dec. 31 at 110 a share.

GUARD FOR MORROW HOME WHERE LINDBERGH IS GUEST

Soldiers Watch Cuernavaca Residence and Roads While Ambassador's Party Is There.

By the Associated Press.

CUERNAVACA, Mexico, Nov. 10. —The residence here of Ambassador Morrow was under guard by armed soldiers tonight because of the week-end visit of the Morrow family and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The party left Mexico City by automobile this morning and drove through a heavy rainstorm over the mountains. The road was patroled carefully and motor cycle policemen accompanied them to guard against any depredations by bandits such as have occurred on the road recently.

The threatening weather kept the party indoors all afternoon.

SUES TO DIVORCE WIFE OVER WHOM HE KILLED YOUTH

Alpheuse Dickson, Denver Theater Man, Goes to Trial Tuesday for Murder of H. P. Howell.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 10. — Alpheuse Dickson, Denver theater man, at liberty on bond after having been charged with the murder of H. P. Howell, 19 years old, whom he found in company with his wife, today filed suit for divorce from Mrs. Zella Stull Dickson, 27. The complaint charges cruelty and unfaithfulness.

Dickson's trial on the murder charge is set for Tuesday.

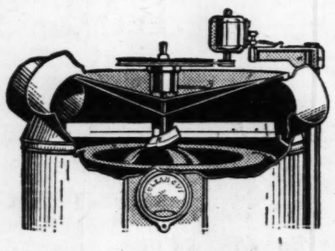
Makes Your Furnace a Modern Forced-Air Heating System ~



EASY TO INSTALL

Installation can be made quickly and easily. Telephone for an engineer who will explain the details. The Air-U-Well Fan is manufactured, sold and installed exclusively by the Holland Furnace Company, makers of Holland Vaporaire Heating and Cooling Systems.

COOLS IN SUMMER

The Air-U-Well sends a delightful breeze through your entire home in summer. The cooling effect is equal to several electric fans in every room. Temperature is lowered three to seven degrees. Operating cost is only about a cent an hour when the fan is run continuously.

Modernize your furnace—equip it with the Holland Air-U-Well Fan—force warmth to every nook and corner of rooms hard to heat. This efficient electric circulator unit fits into the top of any make of furnace—new or old—and makes it a forced air heating and ventilating system. It is a positive remedy for faulty furnaces and cold rooms. Costly forced firing is eliminated. No more overheated basements—all the warmth is sent upstairs. Fuel costs are cut to the bone—a saving that quickly pays for the Air-U-Well Fan. Economy demands this equipment if you burn oil or gas. Heating response is quick and direct. Just press a button and instantly clean, moist, warm air pours into rooms never before comfortable in cold weather. The air you breathe is fresh and pure—always in motion—changing completely every six or eight minutes. $5 down and pay as you save—that's how easy it is to have a Holland Air-U-Well Fan installed in your furnace. Use the coupon—only Holland can give you this service. Don't go through another winter paying two prices for comfort without getting it.

1500 BOOKS FOR KNOX COLLEGE

New Yorker Includes Works on Lincoln in His Gift.

GALESBURG, Ill., Nov. 10.—Fifteen hundred volumes, many of them of great value, have been given by Emanuel Hertz, a New York lawyer and Lincoln biographer, to Knox College. As an author, Hertz is best known for his work, "Abraham Lincoln—a Tribute of the Synagogue." He is a graduate of Columbia University. Recently he appeared on the program of the Lincoln-Douglas debate celebration here.

Hertz's gift to the college consists of books on varied subjects, with a majority in history and literature. The literature is largely poetry. Among the historical works are several volumes on the World War and on significant periods of English history. A score of new books on the life of Lincoln is included.

Hirohito Ascends Throne Of Japan in Brilliant Ceremony of Symbolism

Foreign Envoys Take Part in Colorful Pageant; 124th Mikado Confers Honors on Statesmen.

By the Associated Press.

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 10. — Emperor Hirohito tonight sat on the throne held by his fathers in unbroken succession since before the dawn of written history. As the first act of his reign, after his formal rescript announcing himself Emperor, he created three Barons, raised two Viscounts to Counts and conferred the Grand Cordon of the Order of the Chrysanthemum on three leading statesmen.

More modern and progressive than any of his predecessors, he formally ascended the "high august seat" today with all the carefully preserved ritual of the ages. Sitting under the phoenix-crested canopy, Hirohito asked the protection of the spirits of his ancestors and the support of his beloved millions of subjects to discharge his sacred duties in a manner not unworthy of the great past.

"It is our resolve," said the Emperor, "to endeavor to promote and cultivate friendly relations with all nations, and thus contribute to the welfare of humanity."

Before the highest dignitaries of his realm and representatives of 26 other nations, Hirohito made the announcement by which he took his place as the 124th Emperor of Japan.

The climax of the solemn ceremony came precisely at 3 o'clock, when Premier Baron Tanaka, standing at the foot of the stairs of the throne hall, led the brilliant assemblage in three cries of "Banzai!" This was timed to the second so that at hundreds of centers throughout the empire other gatherings, less distinguished but no less fervent, could raise the same cry at the same instant. "Banzai!" (literally "ten thousand years!") is best translated, as used on this occasion, "Reign forever!"

As soon as the cheers led by Premier Tanaka, who was in the black robes of the ancient court costume, ceased, massed army and navy bands took up the strains of "Kimi-Ga-Yo," the national anthem.

A cold drizzle which had been falling shortly afternoon stopped at 2 o'clock before the main dignitaries took their places and bright autumn sunshine flooded the spectacle.

Foreign Envoys Present.

Of the 26 foreign envoys who received the formal announcement of the imperial accession, only one represented an Emperor—the Emperor of India, who is also King George V of Great Britain. Nine brought the felicitations of Kings, and 14 of Presidents of republics. The other two were an Ambassador from soviet Russia, and an envoy of uncertain status from Nationalist China.

The drama of the Sokui-rei, or ceremony of ascending the throne, was enacted by a company of about 2000 persons, many of them women. It solemnized an accession which actually took place nearly a years ago, for Hirohito has reigned in fact since his father, Emperor Taisho, died on Christmas morning, 1926.

Pageant Rich in Symbolism.

On this stage was presented a pageant richer in historical symbolism than any other now surviving, the story of a people crystallized in ritual. The long scroll of the legends and authentic history of Japan, beginning with the misty and ill-formed tales of the divine ancestors from whom the Japanese believe themselves descended was unrolled. There were symbols of the sun goddess, who is held to have ruled the high plain of heaven before this mundane order took form.

In the sword and jewel of the imperial regalia were reproduced relics of a prehistoric Japan, from which the empire emerged with the accession of Jimmu Tenno, which the official histories place at 2588 years ago. Abundant survivals of the centuries, more than 1000 years ago, through which the influence of the still more ancient culture of China dominated Japanese thought and manners appeared in the architecture of the throne hall itself and in the ritual.

In the costumes of the chief actors were pictured the luxury and refinement of the court of medieval Kyoto. In the bows and arrows and corselets of the guards before the throne room there lived again the swagger of the warriors of feudal, shogun-ruled Japan, they of the inflexible Samurai code which preferred death to disloyalty or disgrace. The modern age was pictured in the 1928 toilettes of the women of the diplomatic corps and the diplomatic uniforms or full evening dress of their escorts.

Ancient as was the ritual here performed, it is not the oldest extant Japanese enthronement ceremony. That remains to be performed the night of Nov. 14-15 when the Emperor must go through the observance of the Daijo-Sai, or great thanksgiving which goes back to the very beginnings of kingship and priesthood.

Spectacle in Throne Hall.

The spectacle today took place in the throne hall, called Shishinden, or "purple mysterious hall," in the southern section of the imperial palace park.

When the climactic point was reached the Emperor and his consort, Nagako, were seated on their canopied thrones in the center of the hall, with the Princes and Princesses of the blood—25 in number—ranged before them, flanked by the minister of the imperial household, the grand master of ceremonies and other high officials of the court.

Hirohito's slender figure was voluminously swathed in his robes of ancient ceremony, of brilliant orange, the color of the rising sun. Empress Nagako was clad in the Karaginu and Itsutsuginu, which have constituted the female ceremonial costume from the middle ages. The Karaginu is a comparatively short tunic with shorter sleeves than the modern kimono. The Isutsuginu is a fivefold kimono with each of its five folds visible at the sleeves and hem of the skirt. The costume was of the finest silk damask with something like a train, called a Mo. The princesses of the blood were dressed much like her majesty.

Emperor's Rescript.

The rescript which the Emperor read follows:

"Our heavenly and imperial ancestors, in accordance with the heavenly truths, created an empire based on foundations immutable for all ages and left behind them a throne destined for all eternity to be occupied by their lineal descendants. By the grace of the spirits of our ancestors this great heritage has devolved on us. We hereby perform the ceremony of enthronement with the sacred symbols.

"In building up the empire and reigning over the people our ancestors looked upon the state as their household and the people as their children. This tradition has been followed from era to era, so that the virtues, benevolence and magnaminity shown by their sovereigns have deeply influenced the people, who, in turn, are united in reverence and loyalty to the throne.

"This spiritual union between sovereign and people is the essence and power of our nationality and should remain unchanged as heaven and earth. Our imperial grandfather, wisely choosing between the old and the new, decided to enter upon the great work of imperial restoration, and, giving due regard to conditions both at home and abroad, adopted a far-sighted system of constitutional government, and by virtue of civil as well as military achievements completed a task seldom paralleled in history.

"Our imperial father, who followed in the footsteps of his great predecessor, built upon and added lustre to this glorious bequest.

Outlines Policy of Peace.

"Being called to the throne at this juncture we are only too sensible of our own failings; therefore our ardent desire that we may have the protection of the spirits of our ancestors and the support of our beloved millions, and thus be enabled to discharge our sacred duties in a manner not unworthy of the great past.

"It is our resolve to endeavor to promote and cultivate friendly relations with all nations, and thus contribute to the maintenance of world peace and the advancement of the welfare of humanity. We call upon you, our beloved subjects, to be of one mind and, sinking selfish aims for public service, work with one accord, helping us to attain these our aspirations in order that we may in some measure add to the illustrious traditions to which we have succeeded and that we may with good conscience face the heavenly spirits of our ancestors."

Before the Sun Goddess.

Before ascending the throne the Emperor had knelt this morning before the shrine of the sun goddess and invoked her blessing on his reign. This took place in the Shunkyo-Den, the detached hall of the imperial palace, and was witnessed by 1311 persons, including a foreign diplomatic contingent of 92 of whom 31 were women.

Those from the United States were: Ambassador Charles Macveagh (Dublin, N. H.) and Mrs. McVeigh; Edwin L. Neville (Cleveland, O.), Counsellor of the Embassy, and Mrs. Neville; Lieut.-Col. Charles Burnett (Springfield, Ill.), military attache, and Mrs. Burnett.

Enthronement Ceremony at Embassy in Washington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The enthronement of Emperor Hirohito of Japan at Kyoto was celebrated in Washington today by a fitting ceremony at the Japanese Embassy, followed later by a large reception at the Mayflower Hotel, where Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi welcomed a large assemblage of official, diplomatic and social personages.

Chief Justice Taft, who is personally acquainted with Emperor Hirohito; Attorney-General Sargent, Under-Secretary of State Reuben Clark and the Assistant Secretaries of State Nelson T. Johnson and J. Wilbur Carr were among the Government officials attending. The reception was from 4 to 6 p. m.

Earlier in the day Ambassador Debuchi and his staff had attended a ceremony at the Embassy which concluded with bowing before the portrait of the Emperor and the shouting of three "banzais."

Frey May Take Sale's Office.

Circuit Judge A. B. Frey, who retires from the bench Jan. 1, is considering an offer of the office space in the Federal Commerce Trust Building, to be vacated at that time by his father-in-law, Judge Moses N. Sale. Judge Sale, a Democrat, was elected to the bench last Tuesday. Judge Frey, a Republican, did not seek renomination in the August primary. Sale thinks it likely that he will succeed Judge Frey's courtroom, No. 4, at the Courthouse.

TWO RAILROADS SEEK PERMIT TO EXTEND LINE INTO MISSOURI

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The St. Paul & Kansas City Short Line Railroad and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway asked authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission today to extend their lines from Allerton, Ia., to Birmingham, Mo., a distance of 138 miles.

Trackage rights would be included for 53 miles of the proposed extension, while 85 miles would be newly constructed from Coburn, Mo., to Birmingham.

The plans for financing the proposed construction would call for issuance of first mortgage 4½ per cent gold bonds of the Short Line, to be guaranteed by the Rock Island.

CHAMPION OARSMAN FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS COMES OUT FOR WELDONA

John L. Joachim of North Vandeventer Ave. Tells How Weldona Tablets Conquered His Rheumatism

Mr. John L. Joachim the well-known oarsman and building superintendent of Nugent's uptown store who resides at 420A North Vandeventer avenue, is enthusiastic about Weldona tablets and what they have accomplished in his case. Mr. Joachim said: "I suffered with rheumatic arthritis for seven years in almost every joint in my body. My arms, shoulders, legs, knees and ankles were sore, stiff and painful. My hands were sore and stiff and my knees so stiff that it was difficult for me to go up or down stairs. After sitting down my knees would become so stiff that I would have to pull myself up.

At night the pain would often keep me awake and it was hard to find a comfortable position. My hands were weak and I could not hold a cup or comb my hair. My joints creaked and snapped and made day and night a continued misery. I had tried about everything recommended for rheumatism but nothing seemed to reach my case until I obtained Weldona tablets, even serum failed to help me. I read about the good work Weldona tablets were doing and after taking it a short time the results have been remarkable. I can get a good night's rest, have no trouble in going up or down stairs and feel like a new man. I am deeply and sincerely grateful for all Weldona has done for me and cannot say enough in praise for it. Anyone may investigate my case further by calling on me in person or by telephone JEfferson 7186. I want others to be benefited as I have."

$1000 reward to anyone proving that testimonials are not genuine.

Weldona is absolutely harmless and its use will not upset the stomach, affect the heart or any other organ. It contains no dope or any harmful ingredients and is full of results for rheumatics.

The Weldona representative who now meets the public every day at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Ave., St. Louis, gladly explains more about this remedy and gives out the 24-page, fully illustrated and interesting books entitled: "Germs of Rheumatism" which are absolutely free of charge to all who call or write for them.

CAUTIONS SHERIFF NOT TO LET FOLEY'S REOPEN

Judge Threatens Grand Jury Action if Gambling Is Resumed in Wellston.

The whispered word that "6128," Tony Foley's gambling house at 6128 Easton avenue, Wellston, would re-open last night after months of idleness, came to the ears of Circuit Judge Mulloy at Clayton yesterday, and provoked prompt action.

To "the Sheriff of St. Louis County and his deputies," Judge Mulloy addressed a letter demanding that the reported opening be forestalled and threatened a prompt grand jury investigation if immediate action were not taken. He delivered the letter in person to Chief Deputy Mark Dodd, who assured him that "Foley's place" would not open.

Foley, who ran the Easton avenue house and the Los Angeles Club, in St. Louis County, closed them several months ago when a special grand jury under Judge Mulloy's direction began an investigation which resulted in his indictment for gambling.

Judge Mulloy's letter, which did not mention Foley by name, follows:

"This is to inform you and each of you in your official capacity that the undersigned is reliably informed that it is the intent and purpose of certain persons, either in person or by their agents, to reopen a certain gambling resort situated at 6128 Easton avenue in Wellston, this County, tonight, and from said time continue to conduct gambling operations at said place in defiance of law.

"It is assumed that you are fully informed as to your duty with reference to this threatened violation of the law and your obligation to prevent same from taking place. In the event of your failure to take cognizance of this situation and use the forces of your office to the end that obedience to the law be observed, such failure on your part must then by necessity be regarded as not only a dereliction of duty but a lending of aid and approval to acts and conduct not only in violation but in defiance of the law, and will at once be made the subject of investigation by the grand jury of this County acting under instructions of this court.

"You are further informed that if you are unable for any reason to effectually deal with the situation, then other instrumentalities of the county government will feel compelled in the exercise of official duty to call into play other executive powers of the State of sufficient force to compel observance of the law."

NINE YOUTHS TAKE $18,000 IN TWO CHICAGO HOLDUPS

Gang of Five Keeps 20 Employes Lying on Floor Half an Hour; Obtains $12,000.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Two Saturday payroll holdups, one at the Hotel Sherman, today netted nine youthful robbers more than $18,000.

Four robbers invaded the Hotel Sherman at Clark and Randolph streets shortly after noon, waylaid a girl assistant cashier and a timekeeper in an elevator and forced them to hand over more than $6000.

The holdup men crowded into the employes' elevator with the girl and her guard, forced the elevator operator to send the car upward as they robbed the employes, then shoved them out at one of the upper floors, raced the car down and made their escape through a side entrance before any one knew a robbery was in progress.

The other robbery was at the Columbia Tool Steel Co. offices in Chicago Heights, where five robbers obtained $12,000 after forcing 20 employes to lie on the floor. Here the holdup men remained in the offices for half an hour while 150 other employes worked just outside the offices unaware that a holdup was in progress.

Several employes were beaten by the robbers, who also threatened to shoot one of the officials in an effort to find where the payroll was kept. Finally one of the employes told the robbers where the money was to be found, and after obtaining it they fled in an automobile which a motor cycle policeman attempted to pursue but lost in traffic.

MAN AND WOMAN CHARGED WITH $52,000 TRAIN ROBBERY

T. H. Wilson and Ottie Bridges Formally Accused; Most of Loot Recovered.

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 10.—Travis H. Wilson and Miss Ottie Bridges, alias Griffin, were charged in the United States District Court here late today with theft from the mails in the $53,900 robbery of a Texas & Pacific train mail car near here Friday night.

All but $2970 of the money taken has been recovered.

The capture of Wilson followed the arrest of a woman who appeared at the Summit street viaduct here, where the robber swung off the train and where a satchel containing the money was found.

In the woman's home police found Wilson. His shoes appeared to have been freshly cleaned, but between the laces was mud similar to that under the viaduct. He was identified as the robber by M. E. Pruett, one of the mail clerks.

The woman, whose husband is serving a penitentiary sentence, is thought by police to have gone to the viaduct to get the loot. She explained her presence there by saying she had a 'date' with a man who was coming for her in a taxi-cab. The cab arrived after her arrest, but contained only the driver. Wilson said he was to have met the woman at the viaduct but denied any connection with the robbery. Later another woman was taken into custody.

The robber entered the mail car as the train was pulling out of Aledo and disarmed Pruett and Paul E. Carney, the other mail clerk. Pruett was forced to slit a mail sack and tie his companion in it. Then the robber tied Pruett, gathered up the currency and placed it in Carney's satchel. When the train slowed down near the Summit street viaduct here he dropped off. The recovered money was found hidden in a beam of the viaduct by a policeman.

Chapman Acclaimed in Rome.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 10.—The second appearance of Frank Chapman, American baritone and son-in-law of Irwin S. Cobb, writer, in his role of Conte Di Luna in "Il Trovatore" last night was described by the Roman press as a triumph. "His warm voice and full resourcefulness enroused the enthusiasm of the audience," says the newspaper Brillante. "The young pupil of the master Mugnone reconfirmed his superb gifts which made him applauded on the first evening."

Many of Irish Citizens Work.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Nov. 10.—The population of the Irish Free State is 2,971,992, of which 1,307,662 over the age of 12 years are in employment, a recent production census shows.

To Men and Women Who Are Afflicted With Piles and Other Rectal Troubles.

You will save yourselves much unnecessary suffering and expense if you arrange to come to me now.

Patients come to me not only from St. Louis, but throughout the entire "49th State," and even greater distances. Study the names in the numerous towns printed in this announcement, possibly people from your own towns are named, or people whom you or your friends know.

You are invited to refer to any of the former patients who have been cured by me. They will be only too glad to tell you about my services and the kind, gentle treatment they recorded.

Reasonable Fees, Easily Paid

My fees are always reasonable. You have no hospital expense or dangers to undergo. I make terms of payment agreeable to my patients. All I want to know is that after you have been cured, you will pay me the fee we agree upon, as agreed.

Be Sure to Mail the Coupon Below

Money Refunded

If I accept your case, I guarantee to cure you. If you pay while under treatment and I fail to cure you, your money will be refunded to you. If you pay me the amount of my fee in a lump sum and I fail to cure you, it will be refunded to you. All I ask is that you do what in my judgment is necessary to effect a cure in your case.

Ladies—Do Not Go On Suffering

I treat and cure many ladies—more than half as many as men. I have lady attendants always present to give you any assistance you may wish. Don't hesitate about being examined. My methods are gentle and it is necessary to know your true condition before undertaking to cure you.

TELLS HOW HE MAKES FODDER OUT OF WOOD

German Chemist Works on Commercial Scale—Food Is Low in Price.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Success in making fodder for cattle from wood, and a future possibility of extending the edible range of wood, were announced at the coal luncheon of the American Institute here today. The announcements were made by Dr. Friedrich Bergius of Heidelberg, the German chemist who produced gasoline from coal.

Wood, said Bergius, contains vegetable substances, known as carbohydrates, a class of chemicals which includes some of the most useful of the nutritious elements in mankind's diet. There are two kinds of carbohydrates, one edible, and the other not, although the differences between them are extremely slight. In wood Bergius found the non-edible kind, and went to work to recover and convert it into the food type.

Bergius said it long had been known that when a wood pulp molecule was changed very slightly it became a sugar or starch molecule, and that one molecule of water added to a molecule of wood pulp made an edible carbohydrate. The changes could be made in laboratories, but not on a commercial scale on account of expense. In his experiments he found that addition of hydrochloric acid to wood solutions made soluble carbohydrates which could be converted into glucose. He was able to obtain from wood 60 per cent of pure carbohydrates, which he described as being as suitable as any light, starchy fodder for animals.

Acid a Bar to Success.

Enumerating the difficulties before this transformation could be put on the market to compete with natural foods, he said the first barrier was the fact that hydrochloric acid corroded metals to such an extent that construction of the needed machinery was almost impossible for years.

Another problem was to purify the food by recovering from it the hydrochloric acid. This process of recovery alone, he said, required years of experimenting.

"Now," he said, "the technical difficulties have been overcome. We are able to work commercially and to produce cattle fodder which in some cases is lower in price than that of imported fodders. Some such process should become useful in the United States, to dispose of the waste cornstalks, which, on account of the ravages of the corn borer, are a menace. Time, perseverance and capital will find a way."

Bergius predicted that the research would continue and that its outcome might aid in the conservation of forests throughout the world.

Makes Gasoline from Coal.

He first observed the close connection between wood and food properties while making artificial coal out of wood, doing quickly in a laboratory what nature does in millions of years. He told how success in this artificial coal making led him to devise the process of low-temperature distillation of coal, which is this year putting gasoline made from coal on the market in some quantity in Germany gasoline stations.

To produce gasoline from coal, he combined hydrogen, under pressure and heat, with the molecules of coal. Years were required on one step alone in producing apparatus for this, namely the difficulties of making it leakproof against the high pressure maintained within the retorts.

He said this process now was a commercial success in Germany in a "very large style," and that the addition of hydrogen produced compounds very similar to those existing in natural petroleum.

PLAY CLOSES AFTER 2 YEARS; BACKER'S LOSS IS $1,300,000

Edgar B. Davis Wealthy Oil Man Takes "The Ladder" to Boston to Open Road Engagement.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK Nov. 10.—Leaving behind a loss of $1,300,000 for its "angel" Edgar B. Davis "The Ladder" a play dealing with reincarnation left Broadway tonight and the cast prepared to open in Boston Monday for a week's run.

It had established a run that rivalled that of "Abie's Irish Rose" but from the time it opened in October 1926 the public was not interested even when Davis, wealthy oil man, dispensed with the admission price and gave away the tickets.

After his play had lost money for a year Davis startled the show business by making admission to "The Ladder" free. Each performance found long lines waiting at the box office for free tickets but when the admission price was restored several months later the losses began anew at the rate of $10,000 a week.

High-priced play doctors rewrote the script several times and the cast changed frequently but there were few evenings when the audience numbered more than a score.

RECORDS SET IN POST-ELECTION STOCK BOOM

Daily Sales on New York Exchange Average Close to 5,000,000 Shares—Several High-Priced Specialties Run Up 15 to 37 Points in Single Session.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A sharp upturn in stock prices which carried the industrial average to a record high level, a further increase of nearly $72,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans to a new high record, and the dividend distribution of the General Motors Corporation accompanied by a 2½ for 1 split up of the stock were the high lights in this week's financial markets.

Trading in the stock market, following the election of Herbert Hoover, averaged close to 5,000,000 shares daily in a tremendous outburst of buying which lifted scores of issues to new peak prices and nearly swamped the facilities of the New York stock exchange. While the most spectacular advances took place in the high priced specialties, several of which ran up 15 to 37 points in a single session, chief speculative interest centered a the revival of activity and strength in the railroad shares, which had taken relatively little part in the up-swing of the last few months.

Increase in Loans.

Federal Reserve brokers' loans, which are now close to $3,000,000,000, exceed the actual amount of currency in circulation in the United States. With the passing of the commercial and agricultural demands, however, little fear of a credit stringency is felt. Bankers generally look for an ample supply of credit at comfortable rates for the balance of the year, or at least until the holiday demands approach their peak. Call money ranged from 6 to 7 per cent during the week, with the ruling rate nearer the lower figure.

The bond market was active and firm with some sharp gains recorded in the convertible liens. New offerings showed a moderate contraction in volume, presumably because of the election day holiday, totaling $75,765,000 as against $93,395,000 last week.

Commodity markets moved within relatively narrow and irregular limits.

Foreign Exchange Mixed.

Foreign exchanges were mixed. Sterling sank to a new year's low, leading to further takings of gold in London for export to the United States, the total on the current movement approximating $30,000,000.

Wall street inaugurated the "Hoover market" this week with a gigantic outburst of buying, which created the second largest session in history. The Hoover demonstration followed an almost uninterrupted advance in prices since last spring.

Although Hoover's election was generally conceded in Wall street, as shown by the fact that he was a 5 to 1 favorite in the betting odds, the market swung upward on the morning after election and, with the exception of a brief reaction just before the close Thursday, continued to climb for the rest of the week. High priced specialties were whirled up as "bears," who had sold heavily in anticipation of a technical reaction, were driven to cover.

General Motors Divided.

One of the most interesting developments of the week was the declaration of an extra dividend of $2.50 on General Motors common stock, involving an outlay of $43,500,000, and a proposed 2½ for 1 stock split-up, which will make 43,500,000 shares of stock outstanding, the largest on record. Despite the dividend distribution, General Motors stock ran into heavy selling after touching a new high record at 224¾, indicating that the directors' action had been fairly well discounted.

The Radio Corporation published the best third quarter report in its history, showing earnings of $4.22 a share on the common stock in that period. Steel Ingot production in October set a new high record.

Montgomery-Ward 407.

Most of the active oils and coppers moved into new high ground during the week. Public utilities also surged forward. Montgomery-Ward, which sold earlier in the year at $117 a share, ran up to a new high record at 2407. Coty, Jewel Tea, General Electric and many other high-priced issues also topped their previous peak prices.

In order to facilitate trading pending the installation of the new and speedier tickers, the New York Stock Exchange decided to eliminate sales volume of transactions below 500 shares from the tape except for a brief period at the opening. Inauguration of the system will be delayed until arrangements can be made to provide sales figures over a telegraph printer to the New York evening newspapers and press associations.

The St. Louis Blow Pipe and Heater Co. has announced the purchase of Pecco, Inc., manufacturers of Pecco standard and light weight unit heaters. Pecco, Inc. manufactures not only heating equipment, but also drying installations.

WHEAT CLOSES DOWN ON CANADIAN NEWS

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Nov. 10.—Wheat had a late downturn on statement that apparently not as much new Canadian wheat had been exported as thought. Corn did not hold all of early advance scored on a feature of the Government report.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was in light outerings and prices were steady. There was a demand for undamaged bright elarery types and limited offers for this kind were reported. Dark cherries No. 2 red was offered at $1.44. Little off-grades were offered. Hard wheat was 1 cent easier. Offerings were fully adequate and the demand was dull. No. 2 hard sold on track on a basis 3 cents above the Chicago December figure. Mixed and yellow corn was steady to 1 cent off, but good white corn was stronger, with some No. 3 out of elevator going at 2 cents higher prices. Offerings were moderate and cleared pretty well. Glucose interests were the main buyers. Oats were steady to 1 cent higher. Local and outside order buyers wanted good qualities of white oats.

Opening a cent higher, December corn gained more in the early trade may also moving up a cent.

The Government report, issued after close yesterday, put crop of corn at 2,-889,449,000 bushels and grain on farms 53,939,000 bushels, against 110,412,000 year ago.

Wheat was unchanged to fractionally higher early. Liverpool closed ⅛d up on December and ¼d on March and May.

December wheat opened at $1.24⅞, May wheat $1.29, December corn 80c, May corn 80¼c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 74,200 bushels, compared with 57,400 a week ago and 143,800 a year ago, included 40 cars local and 13 through. Corn receipts, which were 88,200 bushels, compared with 112,000 a week ago and 63,000 a year ago, included 50 cars local and 15 through. WHEAT SELLS DOWN LATE ON THE CHICAGO BOARD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Surprise over assertions that apparently only 32,000,000 bushels of 1928 wheat have yet been exported from Canada had a bearish effect on grain late today. Earlier on grain, corn in particular, displayed strength, with advices that May deliveries of corn are more than delivery of oats outdoing the season's high-price record.

Closing quotations on wheat were weak at 7c to 8c a bushel net decline, corn at the same as yesterday's finish to 2c up, oats 2c to 4c off, and provisions varying from 2c advance to an equal advance.

Wheat price advances met with free selling today, and in the fact of reduced Canadian shipping that market could not offer only poor support from buyers as the day drew to an end. Attention of traders at this start focused largely on indications from Winnipeg saying that Canadian wheat export from Aug. 1 to Nov. 3 amount to only 125,000,000 bushels, and that taking into consideration the Canadian carry-over of 91,000,000 bushels on Aug. 1 it would appear that not to exceed 32,000,000 bushels of new Canadian wheat has been exported so far.

Greatly increasing the bearish influence of this was unofficial estimate of the Canadian yield of wheat for 1928 at 347,000,000 bushels. This total is somewhat above the latest previous Canadian Government forecast, and the effect was emphasized by a report that the statistician of the Canadian Board of Grain Commissioners does not expect much change in the November Canadian official estimate to be issued next Tuesday.

Corn strength, which dominated wheat and oats much of the time today, was based to a notable extent on the United States Government corn report showing that farm reserve stocks of corn are the smallest with one exception in 20 years. Furthermore, talk was current that high grading of new corn this season is likely to intensify the holding of corn by growers. It was also asserted that use of the 1928 corn crop has been four weeks ahead of normal, and that probably fully 2,000,000,000 bushels of new corn have already thus been disposed of. Selling to realize profits, however, and to even accounts for the double holiday ahead virtually erased the day's gains in the price of corn, but contrasting with wheat left the undertone of the corn market firm.

Provisions were firmer as a result of scattered buying and because of steadiness of the hog market.

WAGNER ELECTRIC LEADS IN TRADE AND PRICE RANGE

Plan to Retire Bonds Through Sale of Stock and Subsequently to Issue 4 Shares for One Announced Late in Week.

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Nov. 10.—Wagner Electric continued the leader on the local market the past week both in point of volume of business and the price range. Sales exceeded 3600 shares on an upward range of over 12 points.

The official announcement of recapitalization plan was made late in week and was about as reported previously in the street. With adoption of complete proposal there will be outstanding $1,-500,000 in preferred stock and 391,388 shares of $15 par value common stock, the present outstanding bonds being retired through sale of 19,569 shares of common stock at $80 per share.

There was a fairly large turnover in Securities Investment stock at 36 to 37¼, the latter price representing a gain of 1¼ points Transactions were all either between two houses or were "crossed sales" by one or other of these houses.

International Shoe and Mahoney-Ryan transactions were both above 1400 shares, with net changes not large. While Missouri Portland sales did not reach 1000 shares there was upward range of over 4 points. Hamilton-Brown on small turnover was up 4 points.

Skouras and St. Louis Amusement stocks were not very active. Announcement of closing of deal involving former was followed by rebound in price.

In the following table will be found complete list of transactions at the week-end session on the exchange:

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, Nov 10.—The Evening Post, in copyrighted weekly foreign exchange market review, says:

"Interest in foreign interest dealings has steadily dwindled away until it has reached the almost stationary conditions which prevailed in the prewar period. Sterling had a range of only ⅞ point all through the week, cables selling at $4.84⅝ to $4.84½. Part of the buying in the past few days was being to fill commercial requirements, but nearly all of the other buying was expected to be balanced in the near future by further gold imports. French exchange held close to 3.90⅝ for cables, and was not unsettled to any extent by the political situation in France. Italian held all through the week at close to 3.53¾, and there was the same display of inaction in Scandinavians, Swiss and Belgium exchanges. The monotony was broken, however, by Dutch exchange, guilders being in demand from many sources and moving up from 40.09 to 40.16.

"Japanese exchange was heavy for the greater part of the week, yen yielding to 46.45, but recovered part of its loss yesterday.

"Argentine showed a firmer tone and a slight improvement was made in Havana exchange.

"Canadian had a sudden drop from 100 to 99.91 and then rallied to 99.94.

"Gold came in from the London and Argentine during the week, and the movement of the metal from both these sources is expected to continue for an indefinite time. The outlook is for a heavy movement, especially from London."

FINANCIAL LONDON'S VIEW OF U. S. ELECTION

By ARTHUR W. KIDDY.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The presidential election in the United States still dominates the financial situation here, as it is believed the extent of the political landslide with the Republican success may give a fresh fillip to prosperity.

It is considered that if only the movement toward world peace becomes more pronounced we have still to experience the full effects of a postwar revival, which has hitherto been restrained by the slow recovery of Europe, the Russian demoralization and the reparations problems.

Nevertheless, it is recognized, of course, that even the Republican success do not alter the Wall street position and therefore the strong conservative in London still await a clearer revelation of the market position in New York after the smoke of the election battle has been cleared away.

The preponderance of opinion favors the retention of activity in many leading industrial shares dealt in on both sides of the Atlantic.

At the moment it is difficult to say whether the French ministerial crisis will pass quickly or develop into something serious.

It is generally believed that England will get through the year without a change in the bank rate, though losses in some havens become considerable. Two months ago the stock of gold coin and bullion in England showed a rise of £24,000,000 from the beginning of the year, but because of recent exports the advance has been reduced to £12,000,000.

Owing, however, to the reduction in note circulation, the reserve is fully £16,000,000 greater and the proportion of cash to liabilities is 42, against 31 per cent. The first bank return showing the fusion of notes is expected the 29th of this month. Ample preparations have been made and the merging should eventually prove a favorable influence for increasing general confidence.

At a recent meeting of the Anglo-Persian Oil Co. the chairman made some interesting observations on the problem of rationalizing the oil industry with the object of obtaining the most economic exploitation and distribution of the world's oil supplies. He maintained that various distributing interests would be able by co-operation to feed the different markets from the nearest source of supply, thereby effecting great economy in transport. He maintained also that large economies could be effected through co-operation in marketing.

Recommends Frisco Issue.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Recommendation was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission today by A. C. Devoe, one of its examiners, that the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway be authorized to issue $8,000,000 of consolidated mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds and to pledge them from time to time as collateral security for short term notes.

STOCK SALES RECORD FOR SHORT-DAY

More Than Two Dozen Securities Lifted to Peak Prices for Year or Longer, a Number of Gains Ranging From 5 to 23 Points.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES.	20 Indus.	20 R. R.
Saturday	235.35	154.51

Low, 1928	178.84	138.56
Total stock sales today	3,207,000 shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The stock market lunged forward with unprecedented speed today, piling the greatest volume of sales in any short session in history. More than two dozen issues were lifted to record prices for the year or longer, a number of gains ranging from $5 to $23.

The ticker was hopelessly clogged endeavoring to follow the pace of trading, and ran for an hour and a half after the market closed, as traders crowded brokerage offerings in anxious efforts to learn what had happened to their orders in the deluge. This was the longest ticker delay on record. Sales totaled 3,207,000 shares, in contrast to the previous Saturday record of 2,501,400 shares, made March 31.

Despite the persistent warnings of some brokerage houses that stock has been steadily passing from strong to weak hands of late, and that the market is due for a technical reaction before long, there was a frantic rush on the part of traders throughout the country to get on the band wagon of the post-election stock boom. The heavy cross-currents of selling that have been evident in recent sessions were again apparent in today's market, but offerings were eagerly snapped up and prices sent soaring.

Bulls Play Among Rails.

The bull party again reveled in its newly chosen play ground, the rails, and the Associated Press average price of 20 railroad issues mounted $4.78 to $154.52, just $2.50 under the high mark for the year. The average of 20 industrials was boosted to a new high record at $235.35, up $2.65.

Although the market was plainly a law unto itself and had little time to scan the news of the day, the few developments were highly favorable. The United States Steel Corporation unexpectedly announced a substantial increase in unfilled orders for the end of October. A decrease was widely expected, in view of the fact that ingot production for that month broke all October records. A Stock Exchange seat sold for $480,000, equaling the previous record price. Bankers were inclined to revise upward their estimates of the volume of the current gold movement from England as sterling hung below the gold point.

Montgomery Ward 407.

Montgomery Ward was the session's spectacular performer, skyrocketing 23 points to a new high price for all time at 407. Radio followed close on its heels with a spurt of 18 points to 268, but cancelled 6 points of its gain. American Linseed went up 15 points to a new peak at 150. Vanadium and Eastman Kodak each forged ahead about 9 points, the former to a new top.

Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific mounted about 10 and 7 points to the highest prices in years, while Chesapeake and Ohio touched 200 with a jump of 7 points. Atlantic Coast Line, Central of New Jersey, Great Northern preferred, Kansas City Southern, New York Central and Pere Marquette stepped up 2 to 4 points. Texas and Pacific was a lower spot, receding 4 points.

The new shares of General Motors, traded in for the first time, on a when issued basis, held around 89 in a heavy turnover. The old stock recovered 3 points lost yesterday. Murray was the strong point of the automotive group, climbing more than 8 points.

U. S. Steel Sags.

Mexican Seaboard took the leadership in the oils, surging ahead more than 8 points and crossing 50 for the first time this year. Barnsdall issues, Skelly, Transcontinental and Standard of California also extended their gains.

A few of the mining and copper shares again shot ahead. Federal Mining mounted 7 points, while Kennecott, Inspiration Copper and Homestake Mining made lesser gains, all touching new peaks. In the merchandising group, McCrory B advanced 7 points to a new top and Grand Stores gained nearly 5 points.

U. S. Steel sagged more than a point and A. M. Byers was depressed more than 3 point in profit taking. Atlantic Refining, Cluett Peabody, Commercial Investment Trust, General Railway Signal and Stanley Co. encountered moderate selling pressure.

Foreign exchanges were quiet and generally steady, although Sterling again eased slightly.

STEADY RISE IN LOANS FOR TEN WEEKS

This Credit Situation Has Not Figured Much in the Market's Thought for Some Weeks, but With Election Out of Way Is Certain to Receive Attention Again, Review Says.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly financial review says:

"On the wave of enthusiasm that swept the country after Hoover's election last Tuesday stocks rode up in a tremendous bull market to levels that seem exceedingly high by all past measures. Second thoughts are always more sober than first and late this week many professional operators, incited to caution by the market's own reckless performance, poured stock into the public's waiting hand. Yet the ragged edge this liquidation gave to the list did not turn sentiment bearish. It did not greatly check the country's appetite for equity issues.

"The financial district is sanguine in the face of a credit situation that nobody would have viewed calmly a few months back. A year ago at this time the market was worried over a long upswing in loans that had been under way since spring. Yet brokers loans in the past twelve-month period have been swelled by another $1,600,000,000 largely as a result of an accelerated extension in credit in the last few months. Brokers' loans have been rising now for 10 consecutive weeks which happens to be the exact duration of last spring's rise preceding the first sign of the drop that came in June. And this rapid expansion in brokers' loans does not reflect the full credit increase induced by the market. It reveals only that granted through the instrument of the Reserve's machinery here in New York.

Loan End a Mystery.

"It takes no account of the vast sums borrowed by stock exchange firms directly from private sources. It in no way uncovers huge customers balances placed directly with brokers. Where this loans will go before it ends—and how near we are to the end now—are questions that remain as such of a mystery to the financial district as to the layman. Notwithstanding this record growth in brokers' loans member banks of late have been able to cut down their borrowings at the regional institutions. Heavy purchases of bills in the open market by the Reserve Banks have supplied the credit that enabled the members to reduce their dependence on the central institutions. These seasonal bill purchases, an inflow of gold and a lull in the currency demands have eased money. It remains to be seen whether the advent of the new year and development of further expansion programs in industry will draw down the huge volume of private funds in the market and thus throw a strain on the Reserve banks.

More Attention to Credit Expected.

"Loans have not figured much in the market's thought for some weeks but with the election out of the way the credit position is certain to receive attention again. Fortunately the inflation of credits that has been so marked in the securities markets has not spread to commodities and therefore presents no such perplexing problems as confronted the country in another memorable inflationary period. And it must be confessed that aside from the uncertainties of the credit extention conditions on which the market feeds are favorable. The flow of corporate profits is full and 1928 should go down in history as a year of record prosperity for each of the country's key industries. To date the nation has not run into a wave of overproduction in business. There are those who believe the present wave of business optimism will meet its end in just this way. Albeit a heavy consumption of the nation's products to date has so nearly taken up our industrial output that the price structure remains firm.

NEW YORK BONDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Total transactions in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today amounted to $6,262,000; previous day's sales, $10,374,000; week ago, $4,471,000; year ago, $5,238,000. Total transactions from Jan. 1 to date were $2,582,410,000, compared with $2,330,940,000 a year ago and $2,547,193,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is for instance, a sale printed $99.24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

The following is a complete list of transactions, giving sales, highest, lowest and closing prices:

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—They may not call them the Four Horsemen this year, but the roaming riders of Notre Dame, playing with all the dash and skill of their famous predecessors, dealt death and destruction today to the championship hopes of the vaunted West Point eleven.

In one of the most thrilling and dramatic finishes any gridiron grapple has witnessed this season, the Hoosiers uncorked a smashing attack that beat the Cadets, 12 to 6, in a sensational upset.

One of the greatest crowds in Eastern football history, a jam of 56,000 spectators, roared from the vast stretches of the big ball park as Knute Rockne's warriors outplayed, outfought and outgeneralled the soldiers in unexpectedly decisive fashion.

Pase Wins Game.

Notre Dame won the game with a spectacular 45-yard forward pass, thrown by Johnny Niemiec to Jack O'Brien in a desperate thrust at the Army goal in the final quarter but it took all the defensive ability of the Hoosiers, as well as the final whistle, to prevent the Cadets from tying the score in the last minute of play.

The thrills that were packed into the last half came to a climax as Red Cagle, the Army's great ball-carrying ace, raced 35 yards up the field from kickoff, then swirled around end to the Hoosiers' 19-yard line. Here the famous redhead, who had engineered Army's first and only score, was withdrawn and the best his successor, Hutchinson, could do was work his way to the one-yard line before the game ended.

Another few seconds and the Army might have tied the count and had a chance to win, by booting the extra point, but this hope was blasted, just as the Hoosiers had previously frustrated most of the Army's thrusts.

Army Team Outplayed.

Close to the Cadets came to making it a draw, they nevertheless, taking the game as a whole were outplayed by a wide margin to the confusion of critics and astonishmnt of most of the crowd. Rockne's ramblers, rising to the greatest heights they have reached this season, got the jump on the Soldiers from the start, kept them on the defensive throughout the scoreless first half and displayed an attack that was superior in nearly every department.

Cagle was the one bright star in the otherwise full eclipse of the powerful Army array as it was repeatedly battered back, and Cagle while he had comparatively few chances to get loose, flashed across the gridiron brilliantly enough to

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—They may not call them the Four Horsemen this year, but the roaming riders of Notre Dame, playing with all the dash and skill of their famous predecessors, dealt death and destruction today to the championship hopes of the vaunted West Point eleven.

In one of the most thrilling and dramatic finishes any gridiron grapple has witnessed this season, the Hoosiers uncorked a smashing attack that beat the Cadets, 12 to 6, in a sensational upset.

One of the greatest crowds in Eastern football history, a jam of 86,000 spectators, roared from the vast stretches of the big ball park as Knute Rockne's warriors outplayed, outfought and outgeneralled the soldiers in unexpectedly decisive fashion.

Pass Wins Game.

Notre Dame won the game with a spectacular 45-yard forward pass, thrown by Johnny Niemiec to Jack O'Brien in a desperate thrust at the Army goal in the final quarter but it took all the defensive ability of the Hoosiers, as well as the final whistle, to prevent the Cadets from tying the score in the last minute of play.

The thrills that were packed into the last half came to a climax as Red Cagle, the Army's great ball-carrying ace, raced 55 yards up the field from kickoff, then swirled around end to the Hoosiers' 10-yard line. Here the famous redhead, who had engineered Army's first and only score, was withdrawn and the best his successor, Hutchinson, could do was work his way to the one-yard line before the game ended.

Another few seconds and the Army might have tied the count and had a chance to win, by booting the extra point, but this hope was blasted, just as the Hoosiers had previously frustrated most of the Army's thrusts.

Army Team Outplayed.

Close to the Cadets came to making it a draw, they nevertheless, taking the game as a whole, were outplayed by a wide margin to the confusion of critics and astonishment of most of the crowd. Rockne's ramblers, rising to the greatest heights they have reached this season, got the jump on the Soldiers from the start, kept them on the defensive throughout the scoreless first half and displayed an attack that was superior in nearly every department.

Cagle was the one bright star in the otherwise full eclipse of this powerful Army array as it was repeatedly battered back, and Cagle, while he had comparatively few chances to get loose, flashed across the gridiron brilliantly enough to

Cook of Soldan Scores Second Touchdown of Game, Against Beaumont

The above picture shows Dave Cook scoring Soldan's second touchdown in the second quarter of yesterday's Soldan-Beaumont game. Cook ran from the 7-yard line around the right end of Beaumont's defense. Three Beaumont players are shown tackling Cook, while Referee Gordon Beck is on the left of the play. The player to the right is Mike Barnhouse, Beaumont fullback.

St. Louis Hockey Team Loses Exhibition Game; 2500 Persons Attend

By W. J. McGoogan.

Ice hockey came back to St. Louis last night after an absence of many years when the St. Louis team of the American Association and the Chicago Black Hawks of the National League met at the Winter Garden. The Black Hawks won 2 to 1.

A crowd of about 2500 attended and even in the frigid atmosphere of the ice rink quickly warmed to the sport, new to the majority of spectators.

The fans were present because they wanted to see action and they had heard this sport heralded as the fastest sport of them all. They were not disappointed.

Crowd Picks Its Favorite.

Shortly after the whistle blew to start the contest, the spectators were on their feet in excitement as a St. Louis charge on the Chicago goal was frustrated by Chuck Gardiner, goaltender of the Hawks diving head foremost at the puck to clear it.

Then came a wild dash by Curly Headley, defense player for St. Louis, through the entire Chicago

CLEVELAND AND SOLDAN HIGH ELEVENS WIN

By Harold Tuthill.

Of three teams that entered yesterday's City High School League football games with perfect records, only one, Soldan, came out unscathed. Soldan won its third league victory by soundly trouncing Beaumont, 19 to 0, in the first game of the double-header. Cleveland surprised by virtually eliminating Roosevelt from the race by a 6-to-0 decision. The estimated attendance was 6000.

Soldan looked the part of champions against Beaumont. The West End school completely outplayed Beaumont in all departments of attack and defense. Dave Cook, Soldan's quarterback, as usual, was the startling luminary in the game.

In the first quarter, Cook returned one of Weidner's punts to the 26-yard line, and then tore off a run of 14 yards after a Soldan first down, to place the ball on Beaumont's 2-yard line. Schacklin made the first score of the game when he went over on the next play. Cook's place kick for the extra point was to the right of the goal posts.

Cook Scores Touchdown.

With the ball resting on Beaumont's 44-yard line to start the second quarter, Cook, Schacklin, Buchele and Shapira hurled themselves repeatedly at the Beaumont line and forced their way to the seven-yard mark. Dave Cook took the ball from there and skirted Beaumont's left end for a touchdown. His perfect place kick for the extra point made the score 13 to 0.

A bit of strategy that more often fails than works was tried by Weidner in the last period. The Beaumont eleven had checked Sol-

Missouri Tigers Beat Kansas Aggies, 19-6; Forward Passes Help

By the Associated Press.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Nov. 10.—Missouri beat the Kansas Aggies in the first period of their Big Six Conference football game here today. The 13-point margin gained by the Tigers before the Aggies got started proved the margin of victory, the final score being 19 to 6.

The Aggies tried passes, line plays and end runs, but except for a second period flash of power when Nigro circled the Missouri right end for a touchdown, the Kansans were never dangerous.

The Aggie Wildcats received Missouri's kick at the start of the game, but near midfield were forced to punt. Starting on its own 45-yard line, Missouri gained 34 yards in five plays, took a few more to advance to the 5-yard line, from where Rosenheim went over for a touchdown. Brown kicked goal from placement.

Hardly allowing a breathing spell after this first touchdown Waldorf passed to Mehrle who took the ball over the goal line again. The try for extra point failed.

Aggies Start Offensive.

Lethargy seemed to possess the Tigers after the second score, and the Aggies, reinforced with new men and fighting mad, put Missouri on the defensive.

Weller, Aggie halfback, became the man of the hour. He plunged and passed the way down to the Missouri 12-yard line where an incompleted pass gave Missouri the ball. Missouri punted, and again Weller, aided by Nigro, went down the field, taking the ball to the 5-yard line, from where Nigro went around end for the only aggie touchdown.

The half soon ended and with it went the spark which had fired the Kansas team. Although the Tigers did not display the supremacy they did in the first period, there was power enough left to pass their way to another touchdown early in the fourth period after the Aggies had warded off several vicious Tiger thrusts. Try for point failed.

Reserves Finish Game.

After that last touchdown on the pass from Waldorf to Hursley, the Tigers called it a day and Coach Gwinn Henry sent in reserves to replace the tired regulars.

The Aggies opened up a desperate passing attack in the final minutes of the game, but it failed, and the end found Missouri hammering away again at the Aggie goal.

TEAM HOLDS AT 2-YARD LINE, THEN FUMBLES AFTER FAILING TO KICK

By Jack Alexander.

By the margin of Joe Lintzenich, who was able to play only a few minutes, and a costly violation of orthodox strategy, St. Louis University lost to Loyola University of Chicago at Sportsman's Park yesterday, 7 to 0. The defeat of the Billikens squared the series of six games played by the schools since 1923, at three apiece.

Yesterday's game, was probably the least interesting of the entire series, which has produced several tradition-making battles. The St. Louis team was just an ordinarily good crowd minus the fullback, who gives it its most effective punch, while the visitors were not quite as good, and except for a characteristic eagerness to pounce on opportunities that marks all Loyola teams, didn't impress as a strong club. Neither side showed the sustained drive that makes touchdowns.

They Forgot the Book.

Loyola's touchdown, scored in the second quarter, arose out of a St. Louis fumble on the 15-yard line and the fumble would never have occurred had the Billikens played football out of the cory book. They had just stood off the plunging Chicagoans and held them for downs on the two-yard line and instead of punting on first down, which would have been the ordinary thing to do to avoid the possibility of a loose ball, they tried to rush it out. On the third down, a Billiken back lost the ball and a Loyola man was on it.

In three plays, the last one a clever forward pass, Malloy to Brennan, Loyola had a touchdown and Lawless kicked the extra point from placement.

If Loyola showed to advantage in any department, it was in the passing game. Sextro and Brennan made several remarkable catches, and the machinery of each operation was well concealed. The visitors completed four efforts out of seven, while the Billikens finished only four in 20. Four others were grabbed by the alert Loyolans.

In straight rushing St. Louis outgained Loyola, 141 yards to 116, and in passing 41 yards to 32. Both sides scored the same number of first downs and four Billikens averaged 33 yards on punts to the same average for Lawless of Loyola.

Early St. Louis Drive Stopped.

St. Louis appeared set to sail to a victory in the first quarter but two drives suffered setbacks when forward passes were intercepted. The Loyola passing game worked at its deadliest in the second quarter and figured largely in the scoring of the touchdown, already described. Lintzenich was thrown in when the goal was first endangered and the visitors were held for downs but the touchdown followed shortly after.

Ford Brown, Billiken end, opened up the third period with a 25-yard runback of the kickoff but the drive ended on Loyola's 30-yard line on downs. Nice end running by a new youngster named Kimmel, one gain netting 25 yards, gave St. Louis its best chance of the game to score but the ball was again lost on downs on the 6-yard line, with the yardage about a foot short of the required distance.

The most noticeable event in the final period was a 30-yard runback of a punt by Collins of Loyola. No less than five Billikens had him covered as he caught the ball but he ran down the aisle for 30 yards and eluded two or three more men. A determined effort to score another touchdown by the Loyolas was stopped on the 12-yard line, where the Billikens once more took the ball on downs.

NAVY AND MICHIGAN TIE, 6-6, WHEN KICKS AFTER TOUCHDOWN FAIL

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10.—The goal posts were too far away today for Michigan and Navy to reach a decision in their football game, so the affair was called a 6-6 draw. Neither the Middies or the Wolverines had a place kick in their bag when an extra point was to be had for the asking and a well-directed boot. The crowd was 25,000.

Joe Gannon of California, did his bit for the Navy, when he took a kickoff starting the third period and stepped off 78 yards to Michigan's 8-yard line. Gannon went over on the third play after Clifton, another energetic "Joe" had shoved it to the two-yard line.

The game for Michigan bunched gaining plays to march down the field to a touchdown. Starting late in the third period, the visitors went into action and traveled 62 yards to the goal line, Hozer scoring.

TEXAS AGGIES HOLD SOUTHERN METHODIST TEAM TO A TIE, 19-19

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 10—Swarming over the Southern Methodist University defense for three touchdowns, Texas A. and M. today spiked dope forecasts when it held the vaunted Methodist passing attack to a tie score, the game ending 19 all after the Aggies put over a touchdown in the last two minutes of play.

With the ponies in the lead, 19 to 13, the Aggies cornered the Mustangs a few yards from their goal, and as Reed, on his 10-yard line, attempted to punt, Cuthrell, an Aggie substitute tackle, broke through the Methodist line and blocked the kick.

Three line plunges put the ball four yards from the Mustang goal and another substitute, Mills, in the backfield, threw a pass to Zarafonetis for the tying points. The Aggies lost their chance for a win when Zarafonetis missed his try for the extra point.

SOLDAN DEFEATS BEAUMONT, 19-0; CLEVELAND TRIMS ROOSEVELT, 6-0

dan's move within five yards of the goal and Weidner elected to pull the surprise act by passing out from behind his goal line. Shapiro intercepted the heave on the 16-yard line and raced across Beaumont's goal line for the final points.

Unleashing a terrific aerial attack that almost spelled abolishment of Soldan's perfect uncrossed goal line record, Beaumont carried the ball to Soldan's one-foot mark late in the final period. Burnhouse was stopped just short of the final mark on Beaumont's last down.

Beaumont's Bid.

The play-by-play ought to be given of Beaumont's desperate endeavor to score from kickoff after Soldan's third and final touchdown. Weidner recovered Burnhouse's fumble of the kickoff and ran out to the Beaumont 24-yard line. The familiar passing combination of Weidner and Mingus resumed for a total gain on one throw of 25 yards. Nickel then shot one to Hellmuth for 11 yards, but Schaeflin intercepted a toss from Hellman on Soldan's 22-yard line.

To even things up, Weidner intercepted a pass from Burbelo, on the latter's 47-yard mark. Mingus to Weidner and Weidner to Nickel moved the ball 21 yards closer to Soldan's goal line. Another pass, Nickel to Weidner, put Beaumont on the 15-yard line, from where the North End eleven moved up to the first mark only to be stopped. The game ended shortly afterward.

It is difficult to account for Roosevelt's loss to Cleveland. Cleveland only made two first downs against Roosevelt's nine. Nine of Cleveland's first downs preceded its touchdown in the first quarter.

The results which have been going against Cleveland in the previous league contests were given to the Commodore school at the outset of the game. Roosevelt was in possession of the ball on its 15-yard line after an exchange of punts.

Hindhaugh fumbled, Cleveland recovering on the Rough Riders' 16-yard line. McLaughlin passed to Hellmuth for 10 yards and first down. Plunges carried the ball to the nine-yard line, from where Thompson went over for the only score. Channobin's attempted place kick for the extra point was blocked.

Fumble Hurts Roosevelt.

Roosevelt looked like world-beaters in the middle of the field, but within striking distance of Cleveland's goal line, the Rough Riders lost more yardage than they gained. In the fourth quarter, Roosevelt took the ball in mid-field and a 25-yard pass, Hindhaugh to Savage, carried Savage to scrimmage to Cleveland's 16-yard mark, before he was downed. Burton fumbled. Cleveland recovered, and kicking out of numerous dangers, Savage was stopped after he returned the punt to the 19-yard line.

Roosevelt fumbled the ball to Cleveland's nine-foot line, but the attack was repulsed by a matter of inches. Cleveland was most persistently placed out of danger when Thompson put the ball in play in Roosevelt's territory with a 19-yard run through the center of a broken field.

The Standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Soldan	2	0	1.000
Roosevelt	1	1	.500
Beaumont	1	1	.500
Cleveland	1	2	.333
Central	0	2	.000

After yesterday's games there can be no doubt in the minds of the fans that Cook of Soldan and Channobin of Cleveland are two of the best football players the high schools have produced in years. In addition to being a triple threat man, Cook has inborn football sense, a thing which makes him do the right thing at the right time. Channobin not only bore the brunt of the attack on his side of the line but he also was the first down on the receiver after every one of Thompson's kicks. This is remarkable, considering Channobin's weight.

Georgia Tech's 19-7 Victory Dims Vanderbilt Hopes

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 10.—Georgia Tech blighted Vanderbilt's Southern Conference football championship hopes this afternoon by administering a decisive 19-7 defeat to the Commodores on Grant Field here.

The great ground-gaining trio of Thomason, Lumpkin and Mizell carried the yellow and white to victory by putting across touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods.

Vanderbilt, which put up a valiant struggle against a patently superior foe, scored its only touchdown in the final quarter on a sensational 45-yard run by Brown, a line man.

FIELD HOCKEY TEAMS ARE CHOSEN AFTER WEEKS OF TRYOUTS

Following several weeks of tryouts, which were concluded yesterday afternoon at Mary Institute playground, the St. Louis Field Hockey Association named all-St. Louis County and all-private school field hockey teams for the year 1928. In an exhibition match after the selections had been announced the all-private school team won by a score of 5 to 0.

MARQUETTE DOWNS JAYHAWKERS, 6 TO 0

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 10.—Capt. "Swede" Gebert turned Marquette University's homecoming here this afternoon into a mighty jubilee when, in the waning minutes of his football game with the University of Kansas he crossed the Jayhawkers' goal line for the only touchdown of the contest. Radick added the extra point to give the Hilltoppers a 7-to-0 decision.

Forshaw Tells of Early History of Ice Hockey As Played in St. Louis

Joe Forshaw, prominent in St. Louis athletics for many years, is one of those who recall when ice hockey was all the rage here. Joe was a member of probably the best team ever formed in St. Louis.

Watching the newly formed St. Louis ice hockey team at the Winter Garden, Forshaw told of early ice hockey history in St. Louis.

"As far back as 1884," Joe said, "there was much skating around the lakes of the city, but it was not until 1899 that the first artificial ice rink was built and hockey got a real start.

"The rink was at Channing and Cook—where the Crystal Natatorium now stands—and was managed by Frank Manning, a real enthusiast. He soon had hockey teams going.

"A group of Canadian born residents of the city got together and formed the All-Canadians. Harry Woods, Tom Richardson and others were good hockey players. They proceeded to get the school boys interested. Frank Cook, Walter Randall, Mal Hoolan, Sam Semple, Sam Erskine, Phil Chopin, Eugene Semmighaus and myself formed the first high school hockey team. There was only one high school then—Central.

Schools Take Up Hockey.

"Manual Training School soon had a team. George Baker, Ben LeCron, Beverly Jones, George Gilbert and others being leaders at that school.

"Al Kelly, famous Smith Academy football star, captained the Smith Academy outfit.

"Then there was St. Louis University with Pilar Burke, George and Andrew Drew, George Burleigh, the Dillon brothers, Edgar Lyons and Harry Kiely.

"So we had the school league as well as the Senior League.

"In the second year of the league along came 'Pop' Gillespie, native-born Canadian, a real enthusiast, who saw possibilities in hockey. He had been cheering the boys on the side lines the first year, and he liked the high school squad. He wanted to show the senior teams something so he formed his 1904 team, taking Hoolan and myself from the high school team, Le Cron and Baker from Manual, Harry Kiely (Canadian born) from St. Louis U., and Billy Dillon from Washington U. He 'discovered' Bill Tozer, who became a marvelous goal keeper, annexed 'Pop' Ross, Canadian-born, and made a skater and hockey player out of Josh Lowis, who had been one of the greatest soccer stars of his day.

"It took about three years for us to reach our apex but that old 1904 team came to be one of the outstanding teams in sports in St. Louis.

"After cleaning up everything local, the All-Canadians included, Gillespie began to look for bigger game and he brought down the St. Paul team. We cleaned them up in gruelling contests. In one of these matches I suffered a compound fracture of the collar bone.

"Next came Cleveland, a fast team of great players and we beat them.

"Then Pop looked up the then professional champions of the world, the famous Portage Lake Hockey Team of Houghton, Mich., at that time the highest salaried team in the game.

World Champions Beat St. Louis.

"We journeyed up to Houghton and played them in the Amphidrome at Houghton. It was terrific hockey. Even the local press there commented that the score did not tell of the intense and bitter struggle. We were beaten 13 to 6.

"So well did the Portage Lake team like us that they invited us to come back the following year.

"Later on, hockey was revived at the Winter Garden by players who played formerly with Eastern colleges. McCreery, Lionberger, White, Kennard and a host of others became stars.

"Hockey has changed somewhat, has become even faster and more exciting, as well as more dangerous. Improvement in the sticks has made possible short shots of terrific pace, sufficient at times to splinter a half-inch or three-quarter inch board. The the amount of the off-side play has been lessened by the establishment of the neutral zone, in which there can be no offside at all, all making for speed."

MINNESOTA DEFEATS INDIANA, 21 TO 12

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 10.—Minnesota's heralded "dry land" attack has its inning today and its backs made the most of it in downing Indiana 21 to 12, before 20,000 celebrating Dad's day in Memorial Stadium.

Bovde, Bruckmeyer and Pharmer, aided by some great blocking and line play, swept the ends and cut through the tackles for three touchdowns—one each in the first, second and fourth periods, with a point after touchdown added in each instance.

Indiana which kept Minnesota out of the Big Ten championship last year with a 14-14 tie game got a touchdown in the first two minutes of play today after recovering a Minnesota fumble on the Gopher's 22-yard line and scored again in the last session after some brilliant forward passing.

MISS TURPIE RETAINS LOUISIANA GOLF TITLE

By the Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 10.—For the second consecutive year, Miss Marion Turpie of New Orleans, won the woman's state golf title in the annual tournament here today.

Miss Turpie defeated Mrs. Harry Morgan, of Shreveport, 12 and 11, in the 36-hole finals. Miss Turpie putted eight holes, turned in five birdies and had one eagle.

Rolla Wins from Westminster in Thriller, 13 to 7

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FULTON, Mo., Nov. 10.—In a football game that was filled with thrills for the spectators, but was bad medicine for the Fulton rooters, the Rolla Miners this afternoon defeated the Westminster College Bluejays, 13 to 7.

The thrills began with the second quarter. A 94-yard run by M. Sharp of Rolla was good for a touchdown. Two successful forward passes by Harrison of Westminster, one good for 45 yards yards and the other for 32, terminated in a touchdown. Two blocked punts from the foot of Quarterback Boyd of Westminster, one of which was directly responsible for a Miner score, were other high lights of the game. Boyd's poor teeing occurred in the second half and the ball rolled within the shadow of the Westminster goal line, where Rolla put it across via the forward pass method.

Up to that time Westminster had made 100 more yards from scrimmage than Rolla. In the second half Westminster worked the ball to the Rolla four-yard line and was all set to go over when a fumble put the ball in the hands of M. Sharp, who raced the entire length of the field for a score. Harrison's spectacular passing came in the fourth quarter.

It was the first defeat for Westminster in the Missouri College Athletic Union this year.

Westminster made seven first downs to two by Rolla and forward passed for a total of 142 yards, while Rolla made 12 yards in two perfected passes.

The lineup:

WESTMINSTER.	Pos.	ROLLA
McClanahan	L. E.	M. Sharp
Butterworth	L. T.	H. Boom
McAnally	L. G.	Cahill
Wightman	C.	Tomlinson
Swaim	R. G.	Turner
Andrews	R. T.	Lamb
Berger	R. E.	Martin
Boyd	Q. B.	Hardin
Reed	L. H.	Kiser
Carter	R. H.	Schriver
Davis	F. B.	Sommer

Scores by quarters:

Rolla	0	7	6	0—13
Westminster	0	0	0	7— 7

Substitutions: Westminster—S. Duncan for McClanahan, Harrison for Davis, Rivers for Carter, Schweitzer for Berger, McClanahan for S. Duncan, Carter for Rivers, Davis for Harrison, Rolla—Martin for Lacy, Carlson for Kiser, Schriver for Sommer, Kiser for Hardin, Sommer for Lacy.

Touchdowns: For Rolla—Carlson and Sharp for Westminster—S. Duncan. Goal after touchdown: For Rolla—Carlson; for Westminster Harrison.

Officials: Referee—Reed, Michigan, umpire—Wynne, Carlisle. Head linesman—Bingham, Wisconsin.

BRADLEY RALLIES TO WIN 6-0 VICTORY OVER ILLINOIS WESLEYAN

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 10.—Bradley gave its homecoming a glorious climax before 5000 fans here today, when it scored a touchdown in the last minute of play, to defeat Illinois Wesleyan of Bloomington, 6—0. Almost always on the defensive, Wesleyans' fighting team staved off Bradley's attack on the line and through the air until Bradley launched its last quarter drive. The Bradley Indians marched down the field on line plunges and passes to the one-yard line, with one minute left. Metzger failed by a single inch to go over, but on the next play he leaped through center to score. A kick for the point failed.

Wray's COLUMN

Amazing Progress.

ST. LOUIS has just been introduced to something new in sport—the modern game of hockey, a game of intense action, considerable danger and almost unbelievable requirements in skating proficiency.

Modern hockey, in an organized sense is only four years old in the United States; but in that time it has resulted in investments of $15,000,000, we are told. Organization based on major league baseball lines has resulted, with minor leagues acting as farms for the "majors."

The financial aspect is also surprising. The world's champions of last year, Tex Rickard's Rangers, cleared $250,000 on the season, which is comparable with major league profits made by first-division clubs.

It may also be difficult to believe that the salaries paid the major league hockey clubs run up into the thousands and that at the present moment one of the great players is holding out for a season's salary of $5000.

The Black Hawks have a player whose contract is considered worth $20,000. During the last campaign the Boston Blues offered $50,000 for the contract of Morenz, a forward on the Canadians, who was named the season's "most valuable" player.

Plenty of Mayhem.

IN THE matter of danger, the hockey game of today is a rival of college football. Figures show that in the last two seasons, in organized hockey alone, 21 players suffered broken collarbones, three had their skulls fractured and three had their arms broken.

All this is in spite of the fact that the hands, legs and shoulders of the players are armored, while the goalkeeper is better upholstered than an overstuffed lounge chair.

Whether, with all these interesting aspects, the game will take hold in St. Louis remains to be seen. If it does not, St. Louis will be practically the first big city in which it will have seen failure since its modern expansion.

The game has even taken root in the Far West, a Southern California league having been organized in a region where no ice is normally seen outside of a refrigerator, or lower than the timber line.

Tom Heeney's Place.

TOM HEENEY, runner-up general in the late unpleasantness with Gene Tunney, returned to these shores yesterday, throwing a wrench into all the title gen. discussions with his gone forward since his departure.

Although Tom was pulled in 1928 by Tunney and Rickard as the best of the title hopes, and although he made a game, forward fight against the champion, his name has been strangely missing from discussions of the coming elimination fights. The man who was considered the best of the challengers last summer, has not been considered at all, this winter.

And yet there have been no new figures to stand out from the drab herd of candidates, since last summer. The same men, with the same old weaknesses, plus another year, will be in the field in 1929. Men who last season were passed up as hopes, have been lugged to the forefront of this winter's discussions.

Young Stribling, who failed ingloriously, two whiles ago, to gain a place in the eliminations, is now pictured as a champion.

Knute Hansen, an undependable fighter of fine physical qualities and bad temperamental ones, has been shoved forward.

Tommy Loughran, a powder-puff hitter and a light heavyweight fighter at best, has been depicted as the greatest man since Dempsey, although Tommy had plenty of trouble beating second-raters in his own class.

A cluster of other incompetents has been lugged into consideration, whereas Heeney has been left out entirely.

Heeney Is Game.

THIS is not to say we think Heeney the best of the heavyweight hopes; but it does seem strange that the pick of the logical candidates of last year should be thrown into the discard and forgotten, in favor of men he surpassed six months ago.

Tom isn't much compared to our more colorful heavyweights of the past. But he WILL fight and he will bore in, instead of leading and tailing into a clinch at the slightest danger.

Young Stribling ought to whip him. He has youth, speed, skill, and probably punch, on the "Hard Rock." But unless he has changed from his previous displays, he lacks the most essential feature of a great fighting man, one that Tom has—fearlessness.

The Pendulum Swings.

REPRESENTATIVES of 200 universities and 22 colleges at a recent collegiate convention, decided to limit the pay of physical education directors and athletic coaches to the salary maximum paid to professors.

Such a step long has been expected for two reasons.

First, the manifest unfairness of paying coaches of football teams three and four times the amount paid to college professors was recognized.

Second, the introduction, in major universities of courses granting diplomas to physical education students, developed a large number of capable instructors in a field that had been almost barren of competent teachers.

Another movement that will interest coaches is the announced policy of the collegiate groups to retain coaches with the same permanency as is usually accorded professors. In other words, the chances of able and undergraduate-liked coach and winning coach, when a professor of football fallows, will be ignored where the incumbent has previously proved satisfactory to the faculty.

Thus the lack of push which is in the coaching world of the future will be compensated to a greater degree of permanency.

Baseball team managers probably would strongly approve the application of this idea to organized baseball.

M'LAIN STARS AS IOWA DOWNS OHIO STATE BY 14-7 SCORE

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 10.—In a drizzling rain Iowa, fighting for Western Conference gridiron championship honors, downed Ohio State, hitherto undefeated, 14 to 7, today in the last 40 seconds of play.

The victory leaves Iowa alone untied and undefeated in the title race.

Behind the pounding feet of Mayes McLain, Chemis. fullback, the Iowans hammered the Buckeye line to ripples in the final period, and sent disconsolate fans to the hearts of 67,000 loyal Ohioans who sat, immobile in the drizzle, watching their heroes join the ranks of other defeated teams.

With the score tied at 7 to 7, the battering Hawkeyes opened up and by a masterful piece of strategy McLain smashed his way across the Ohio goal, ploughing through the middle of the line when the bewildered Buckeyes were figuring on Irving Nelson kicking.

McLain scored both of Iowa's touchdowns, counting first in the second period and then in the fourth.

Ohio State displayed its only show of power at the start of the third period when the Buckeyes marched 60 yards after the kickoff and scored their touchdown. Holman, captain and quarterback, in five smashes at the line, gained 32 yards, to Iowa's 13-yard line. After Byron Eby had been thrust out of bounds, Holman smashed through center for 12 yards, making a touchdown. Barratt kicked goal from placement.

Illinois Downs Butler, 14 to 0.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 10.—The University of Illinois football team, which came here today to play Butler University, dedicate its new $375,000 stadium, found a worthy foe on the gridiron. Illinois won, 14 to 0, but it was compelled to battle for every inch of ground gained.

A muddy field hampered both teams. Fumbles were frequent and the kicking was so inaccurate as to preclude any brilliant open field running. The first Illinois touchdown was made in the second period on straight football. Walker, the Illinois left half back, carried the ball close to the Butler goal and Robinson, in two plays put it three yards for a touchdown. Barwick made a place kick.

The second touchdown came in the third quarter. A 25-yard forward pass, Peters to Walker, who was standing across the Butler goal line, scored the touchdown and Peters sent over a drop kick for the extra point.

WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON BOWS TO PITTSBURG U., 25 TO 2

PITTSBURG, Nov. 10.—In a battle waged amid snow flurries and on a soggy gridiron the University of Pittsburg overwhelmed its traditional enemy Washington and Jefferson at Pitt Stadium today, 25 to 0, one of the smallest crowds of the season, 15,000 fans, saw the contest.

Pitt made 21 first downs while Washington & Jefferson failed to make a first down until late in the final quarter against the Pittsburg attack.

STANFORD TROUNCES SANTA CLARA, 31 TO 0

By the Associated Press.

STANFORD STADIUM, Nov. 10.—Scoring twice a double Santa Clara defense in the second half, Stanford University's football team defeated the Bronchos here today, 31 to 0.

The fighting Santa Clara line held Stanford to one touchdown in the first two periods but a high-powered aerial attack launched by the Cardinals in the second half netted them four touchdowns.

President-elect Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Hoover were in the crowd and watched the contest.

TENNIS RANKING COMMITTEE TO MEET

The St. Louis District Tennis Association ranking committee will hold its first meeting this week according to Karl Hodge, chairman. Records of players competing in various tournaments are being compiled. The committee expects to finish its work within two weeks.

In addition to the local district committee a ranking committee to prepare the Missouri Valley list is also at work. Karl Hodge is also chairman of this committee. Players who desire to send in their records of the season should mail them to Hodge at 421 Security Building, St. Louis. The lists must be in by Nov. 15.

JOHNSTON CITY AND WEST FRANKFORT SOCCER TEAMS TO MEET TODAY

JOHNSTON CITY, Ill., Nov. 10.—The Johnston City Merchants' Soccer team goes to West Frankfort tomorrow for a return game with the fast West Frankfort team. Four weeks ago West Frankfort held Johnston City, 1927 champions of Southern Illinois, to a 2-2 tie on the local field, and the result of the game tomorrow will probably determine the title for the season. This game is also of great importance due to the fact that Johnston City and West Frankfort are matched in the first rounds of the national amateur cup play, which begins next month.

WISCONSIN CRUSHES CHICAGO, 25 TO 0

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 10.—The Big Ten championship for 1928 tonight rested between Iowa and Wisconsin.

While Iowa zoomed to the top of the conference race by defeating Ohio State at Columbus, Wisconsin's big cardinal team went into a virtual tie for leadership by routing its traditional enemy, Chicago 25 to 0, at Camp Randall. The two undefeated elevens clash at Iowa City next Saturday and barring upsets in their remaining games, the combat should decide the championship.

It was the visualization of a chance which hasn't appeared on Wisconsin's campus since 1912, when the Badgers last annexed their Western Conference title. And today's lop-sided triumph was cheered by 42,000 spectators, the greatest homecoming crowd in Wisconsin's history.

Wisconsin although undefeated, has a blemished record, because of its 19-19 tie with Purdue. It has now defeated Michigan and Chicago, among its Big Ten rivals and Alabama and Notre Dame. Its remaining games are with Iowa next Saturday and Minnesota a week hence. Iowa's rivals are Wisconsin and Michigan.

NESBITT, KING AN SCORE TOUCHDOW PUNT BACK 42 YA

By a Special Correspondent of the Po

DES MOINES, IA., Nov. 10.—T King and Van Koten—shared honors the threat of the heavier Washingto defeat before approximately 10,000 s

Nesbitt, star line smasher, plowed his way to the first touchdown. King recorded the second when he stepped between right guard and tackle, reversed his field and raced some 60 yards to score, and Van Koten, substituting for Nesbitt, twisted 15 yards to make the final counter.

Barnes kicked two goals from placement and Myers failed to dropkick for the third point.

Bickel Makes Fine Run.

Although the Washington attack was fairly ineffective against the defense displayed by the Drake line, Bickel, Duncan and Rawdon furnished trouble aplenty for the Bulldogs. Coover, as a pass receiver, did exceptional work. The second longest run of the game came immediately after King had done the big sprint of the day when Bickel received Delmege's kickoff on his nine-yard line and only stopped advancing when he fell and was forced out of bounds on the Drake 49-yard line.

The hardy Bear back had covered 42 yards through the thick of the Drake team which had come down after the kickoff and had only Delmege to pass to be free in an entirely open field. His mates were picking off the Drake defense behind him, but had luck spilled him and the Washington break brought no results.

Drake Wears Bears Down.

Although the first quarter was evenly played, the visitors could not keep up the pace of the Bulldogs, who had been resting for a week to avoid staleness. The first quarter was even, nothing to nothing, but the Bulldogs scored in each of the succeeding frames and had the ball back on the Washington four-yard line after scoring in the final quarter. This last Drake threat was broken by a 15-yard penalty and Drake's passing could not save the day.

The Bulldogs first got into position to score when Jones ran down under one of Nesbitt's long punts to down it on the Bear 7-yard line. Bickel's punt to the 42-yard line was carried back by Nesbitt to the Washington 22-yard line, from where Drake began its scoring drive.

Nesbitt, the Pile-Driver.

A pass, King to Delmege, gained 16 yards. Nesbitt made a yard and again made two yards. On his third trial, he went through the center of the line to the Bears'

Little Rock Trims Poplar Bluff, 25-7

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Nov. 10.—Taking advantage of fumbles made by Poplar Bluff high school football players, the Little Rock high Tigers this afternoon won in their game here, 25 to 7. Between 4000 and 5000 persons witnessed the game.

It was the hardest game Poplar Bluff has had on the local field in several years, Little Rock displaying a superior game, except during the second and third quarters. Feature of the game was a 64-yard run by Duckles.

The real breaks of the game came after Poplar Bluff had scored a touchdown in the third quarter and was leading, 7 to 6. Shadle of the local team took the ball on the kickoff and dropped it when tackled, a Tiger back recovering. The Tigers then started their march for the goal and crossed the line.

Again on the following kickoff a local player dropped the ball when tackled on his 35-yard line and the Tigers recovering, plunged and passed their way across the goal line.

The Poplar Bluff team in the second and third quarters outplayed and outgained the Tigers, getting considerable yardage on exchange of punts.

Duckles and Case in the backfield starred for the Mules, as did Bowers and Lawson in the line. The Tigers displayed a better-drilled team than the Mules, C. Avinger, Leforge and Nesbitt being outstanding stars.

The lineup:

LITTLE ROCK	Pos.	POPLAR BLUFF
Wood	R. E.	Shadle
Summer	R. T.	Lawson

CARBONDALE, Ill., Nov. 10.—Although a superior team, the Carbondale high school was compelled to do its best to win from Fornfelt, Mo., High school eleven today, 20 to 0. The Missourians completed numerous forward passes, long and short, for good gains several times during the game, not to say seriously threatening the Carbondale team at times.

THREE DRAKE BACKFIELD STARS HAND WASHINGTON 20-0 DEFEAT

NESBITT, KING AND VON KOTEN SCORE TOUCHDOWNS; BICKEL RUNS PUNT BACK 42 YARDS, THEN FALLS

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DES MOINES, IA., Nov. 10.—Three Drake backfield men—Nesbitt, King and Van Koten—shared honors here this afternoon in turning back the threat of the heavier Washington University eleven in a 20 to 0 defeat before approximately 10,000 spectators.

Nesbitt, star line smasher, plowed his way to the first touchdown. King recorded the second when he stepped between right guard and tackle, reversed his field and raced some 60 yards to score, and Van Koten, substituting for Nesbitt, twisted 15 yards to make the final counter.

Nesbitt, the Pile-Driver.

A pass, King to Delmege, gained 16 yards. Nesbitt made a yard and again made two yards. On his third trial, he went through the center of the line to the Bears' 9-yard line before he was stopped.

On a terrific line plung, the Drake pile driver went to the 6-yard line for first down. Washington was powerless to stop him and Nesbitt ripped through to the one-yard line and then bucked the final yard to score.

In the third quarter, the two teams fought evenly for about five minutes, Nesbitt being stopped regularly and Rawdon's punting evening up with Nesbitt's. Three punts following the kickoff put the ball in Drake's possession, on its own 34-yard line. Nesbitt crashed the line for three yards and then King, on a perfectly executed play that saw nearly every tackler out of commission, went off right guard, cut back, and raced to the goal line.

Bickel's Bid to Glory.

Washington received, Bickel getting Delmege's kick off on his 9-yard line to make his one bid for glory during the day, thus ending the excitement of the third quarter.

In the fourth, substitutes had replaced pretty largely the men who started the first and third frames. Butz had replaced Paris, Glazer was in for Coover, and Berlinger in place of Kerz.

Myers and Van Koten were the potent forces in the Drake back field, but the Bulldog line was fairly intact with Capt. Holliday leading the attack and defense.

St. Louis Hockey Team Loses But Pleases Crowd

team and a shot at goal which Gardiner also cleared. But this spectacular individual play took the fans at once. They took Headly to their bosoms and told him they liked his style of play and wanted more of it. He gave them plenty at every opportunity.

But Headly was not the only spectacular player in the game. There was Bobby Burns, Chicago wingman, who also showed speed on skates and he dribbled the puck through the St. Louis team and shot into the goal for the first score of the match, 11 minutes after the start.

Chicago Gets 2-0 Lead.

Burns' goal was the only marker made during the opening period but it whetted the fans' appetites and they pleaded for more.

About six minutes after the second period opened, Burns had another opportunity to count and he made good on it, shooting the second tally for the Hawks out of a scrimmage in front of the St. Louis goal.

That made it look bad for St. Louis with the score 2 to 0 against them, but they still had Headly and within a few minutes after Burns registered his second goal, Headly dashed through the entire Chicago team and scored with a line drive which Gardiner had no chance to stop.

The play in the second period was faster and more furious than at any other time. Neither team has been in training long and the players were not taking any unnecessary chances. They are still soft and rather timid. Or so experienced hockey followers assert. These same experienced members of the audience said that last night's match was only about 25 per cent as fast and rough as a regular league contest.

Players Warm to Game.

Everybody in the place had heard of penalties and they were watching for some to be assessed. In the first period there were few. But in the second session, as the players warmed to their task, they became rougher and four of them were banished from the ice, each for two minutes for roughing it.

It was when these penalties were meted out that the crowd showed its interest in the sport and its partisanship. First to go out was Taylor, Chicago defense man. And he was booed roundly, but when Headly, the St. Louis favorite, was ruled off shortly afterward for the same offense, he was given a generous round of applause.

The St. Louis team showed its lack of practice for, while the men played well individually, there was little teamwork.

Several times opportunities to score were missed when the wing men were not in the right spots to take passes. But that will come with more practice. Chicago showed much better team play.

Goaltenders Busy.

The goaltenders were the center of attention by the crowd. They marvelled at the agility shown by both Gardiner and Anderson, despite their cumbersome apparel, and cheered their gameness in taking chances of injury to stop shots.

All told Anderson stopped 24 Chicago tries, while Gardiner cleared 41 St. Louis attempts.

There will be another exhibition game between the same teams at the Winter Garden tomorrow night, after which the Black Hawks depart for Chicago while the St. Louis team will settle down to practice until the 27th, when they open their league season against Minneapolis, at home.

Little Rock Trims Poplar Bluff, 25-7

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Nov. 10.—Taking advantage of fumbles made by Poplar Bluff high shcool football players, the Little Rock high Tigers this afternoon won in their game here, 25 to 7. Between 4000 and 5000 persons witnessed the game.

It was the hardest game Poplar Bluff has had on the local field in several years, Little Rock displaying a superior game, except during the second and third quarters. Feature of the game was a 64-yard run by Duckles.

The real breaks of the game came after Poplar Bluff had scored a touchdown in the third quarter and was leading, 7 to 6. Shadle of the local team took the ball on the kickoff and dropped it when tackled, a Tiger back recovering. The Tigers then started their march for the goal and crossed the line.

Again on the following kickoff a local player dropped the ball when tackled on his 35-yard line and the Tigers recovering, plunged and passed their way across the goal line.

The Poplar Bluff team in the second and third quarters outplayed and outgained the Tigers, getting considerable yardage on exchanges of punts.

Duckles and Case in the backfield starred for the Mules, as did Bowers and Lawson in the line. The Tigers displayed a better-drilled team than the Mules, C. Avinger, Laforge and Neblett being outstanding stars.

The lineups:

LITTLE ROCK	Pos.	POPLAR BLUFF
Shadle	R. E.
Lawson	R. T.
Bowden	R. G.
Knott	C.
A. Avinger	L. G.	Kinkead
Fairchild	L. T.	Bumgardner
Greer	L. E.
Case	Q. B.
Essary	R. H.
Bowden	L. H.
Duckles	F. B.

Summary: Touchdowns—For Little Rock, C. Avinger, McLeod, Brinkley and Case. For Poplar Bluff—Essary. Extra points—For Little Rock, McLeod; for Poplar Bluff, Case.

Carbondale Wins.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARBONDALE, Ill., Nov. 10.—Although a superior team, the Carbondale high school was compelled to do its best to win from Fornfelt, Mo., High school eleven today, 20 to 0. The Missourians completed numerous forward passes, long and short, for good gains several times during the game, not to say seriously threatening the Carbondale team at times.

Game Violators Fined.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 10.—Albert Ross of Winfield was arrested Nov. 2 for trapping out of season and taken before Squire Howard of Monroe Township, where he paid fine and costs amounting to $11.30. Duncan recently arrested Dave and Clarence Bethel of St. Louis, who were also taking furs out of season. They were taken before a Justice of the Peace at Montgomery City and their fines and costs came to $25.30 in each case. The season for fur-bearers does not open until Dec. 1 and Game Wardens are exercising great vigilance in an effort to stamp out the unlawful taking of pelts before they are prime and of full value.

DR. RICH DEFEATS EISENSTEIN FOR "Y" HANDBALL TITLE

Dr. Samuel M. Rich, Western A. A. U. handball champion, won another title to his string of victories last night when he defeated Charles "Chuck" Einstein, in the championship series of the Y. M. H. A. Class A handball division, in two straight games, 21 to 15 and 21 to 11.

Dr. Rich was too experienced for his younger rival and although on the losing end of the score at various stages of the games, he began to play his opponent's weak right hand and finally forged ahead to take the decision.

William Littman won the championship of Class B by defeating Samuel Greenfield after three hard fought games had been played by scores of 15-21, 21-20, 21-12.

Notre Dame's Great Finish Defeats Army Team, 12 to 6

demonstrate his all-American ability.

Cagle the Army Star.

It was Cagle, with a 20-yard dash off tackle and a sensational 41-yard pass thrown to Messinger, that paved the way for Johny Murrel to plunge over for the first touchdown of the game in the third period. It was Cagle who repeatedly brought down Hoosier ballcarriers after they had punctured the wobbling Cadet line. And it was Cagle who almost singlehanded pulled the game out of the fire with his thrilling dashes in the closing moments of the game.

But the redhead couldn't do it all by himself. The Hoosiers had to much punch and drive for the Cadets to stop consistently. They came back, after Army had scored, with a smashing 37-yard march, begun after being benefitted by a 15-yard penalty, that culminated in the tying touchdown in the third quarter. Jack Chevigny took the ball over on fourth down from the one-yard line after three rushes had been stopped.

It was a similar crisis, fourth down and, this time, 25 yards to go, when Notre Dame scored its second and deciding touchdown in the fourth period. The Hoosiers had driven to the Cadet 16-yard mark but Jack Chevigny, plunging halfback, fumbled a bad pass and had to be carried from the field after the scramble in which he recovered it for a 16-yard loss. Making a desperate gamble, Niemiec dropped back to his 45-yard line and hurled the ball toward the goal line and a racing substitute end, Jack O'Brien, leaped high just as he reached the goal line, juggled the pigskin for a moment, then clutching it firmly as he plunged across the last chalk mark with a swarm of Army tacklers on him.

The Army forward wall that had withstood all previous shocks in helping to pile up six straight victories was consistently outcharged and outplayed by the scrappy Hoosier line. Chevigny, Niemiec, and Fred Collins, plunging fullback, repeatedly whirled and dashed through gaping holes for substantial gains.

Notre Dame rolled up 14 first downs by rushing to five for the Cadets. Army completed only two passes out of five attempted while Notre Dame completed three out of seven.

So badly battered was the Army line by Notre Dame's rushing attack that Captain Sprague, who started the fray with a big protective nose guard, was replaced early in the final half, along with most of the other regulars.

Army Team Weakened By Too Much Praise From the Press, Rockne Says

By KNUTE ROCKNE,
Notre Dame Coach.
(Copyright 1928.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The effect of psychology on football teams was never more clearly demonstrated than at the Yankee stadium this afternoon. The underdog, a growling, determined Notre Dame team, rose to the heights and played better than they knew how.

A fine Army team with a metal edge blunted by too much praise from the press did not play the ball that it was capable of. Don't think that the Army did not play fine football today; they did. But the vital spark, the keen razor-edge of mental resiliency was absent except in the last minute and a half of the game. In that last minute and a half the Army received the kickoff and mainly through the efforts of a great football player, Christian Cagle, and a beautiful pass by Hutchinson were on the two-yard line when the game ended. Personally, I am rather blase as regards winning or losing football games but the contest this afternoon was a real thriller.

Defense for Cagle.

Notre Dame had a special defense built for Cagle which functioned well except on three plays. One of these, a fake-spinner, Cagle cut back inside of tackle and was headed for the open but Niemiec nailed him after a 20-yard gain. An instant later Cagle dropped back 15 yards and hurled the ball 50 yards to Messinger who had outdistanced the Notre Dame safety man. Cagle's third successful thrust came on the last kickoff when he received the kickoff and feinting and cutting, the Army star fooled several Notre Dame linesmen. He was finally brought down on the Irish 30-yard line. He was taken out shortly after this but he had already done a satisfactory day's work.

The Army had expected us to pass and run the ends and with this in mind they used a six-man line of defense. The result was that in the second quarter Collins and Chevigney drove through center and inside of Sprague, Army left tackle, for consistent gains down to the three-yard line. With first down on the three-yard line, Collins again drove through center but just before crossing the goal line he fumbled the ball and an Army player recovered for a touchback. This was a disheartening break, but the Notre Dame team, encouraged by their success, kept pecking away at the Army line for the rest of the second quarter but did not threaten again in the first half.

O'Brien Catches Pass.

In the third quarter the Army scored early, mainly through the long run and long pass by Cagle. Murrel carried the ball across from the one-foot line. This touchdown seemed to stimulate the Notre Dame team to real action. After an exchange of punts the Irish marched sixty yards straight down the field, for their first score of the game. Chevigny, Niemiec and Collins took turns with sharp thrusts and cutbacks through the Army line. Chevigny scored from the 4-yard line on a cutback directly over center, from that point it was anybody's game.

Finally with third down and five yards to go on the 25-yard line I sent in O'Brien to replace Colerick at left end. O'Brien's forte is jumping and spearing forward passes. O'Brien is fast and runs the 120-yard high hurdles in 15 seconds. Carideo immediately sensed the situation and called for the right play which netted a touchdown. O'Brien faked at Cagle and then with a sharp change in direction and pace cut over in the furthermost corner of the field. Niemiec's pass was right into O'Brien's hands and although he juggled the ball a little he hung on to it until the winning touchdown was scored.

I have been asked by writers and others just why I put in O'Brien at that particular moment. Chevigny, Niemiec and Collins had just gained about 40 yards against the Army. Notre Dame looked like it was heading for a certain touchdown. Then Chevigny was injured and removed from the game. As the boy was carried to the sidelines I realized our running attack was not strong enough to rush the remaining 25 yards on straight football and hearing the warning of the field judge: "Two minutes to play," I knew that if Notre Dame was to score again it would have to be on a passing attack. So I sent in O'Brien to do his stuff.

PRINCETON ONLY "BIG THREE" TEAM TO GAIN VICTORY

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 10.—In a loosely played game in Palmer stadium this afternoon Princeton's football team defeated Washington and Lee 25 to 12 in the last of the intersectional contests on the Princeton schedule.

Coach Bill Roper started his reserves against the Southerners and saw them get away to a lead of two touchdowns in the first period.

Both teams had an attack of fumbling in the second quarter. The Southerners finally got the ball on Princeton's 36-yard line. Coach Roper put the Princeton varsity on the field to stave off a score. White went over, however.

Eberhart intercepted one of Lowry's tosses and raced 70 yards for a touchdown late in the final quarter.

Penn Toys With Harvard But Scores Only Once.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 10.—Treading the turf of the Harvard Staudium again after an absence of 23 years, a lithe, powerful Pennsylvania eleven toyed with the awkward might of Harvard today. The margin of triumph, 7 to 0, was by no means as impressive as this Pennsylvania team, the first to dare the Crimson might on her own battlefield since 1905.

The game, marred by penalties which cost Penn hundreds of yards and Harvard almost as much, was over, as far as the scoring was concerned, one minute after the referee's whistle opened the conflict. Over-anxious on the first play after Penn's kickoff, Dave Guarnaccia, flashy Harvard back, fumbled the ball on the Crimson's first running attempt and Paul Murphy, crack Quaker ball carrier, was in like a dart of light to smother the pigskin on Harvard's 13-yard line.

Penn Scores Quickly.

Three plays thereafter, the ball nestled behind the Harvard goal in the arms of Paul Scull, Penn's brilliant captan. Aided by a 10-yard penalty imposed on Harvard by Referee J. E. Keegan, who strode more yards in penalties all afternoon than either team gained, Scull slashed one tackle and then the other for a touchdown from the four-yard line. He dropkicked the goal and the scoring was over.

The lineup:

Harvard.	Position	Pennsylvania
Pickard	L. E.	Gervin
Barrett	L. T.	Utz
Trainor	L. G.	Magal

Referee—J. E. Keegan (Pittsfield). Umpire—D. Watkeys (Syracuse). Field judge—C. G. Eckles (W. and J.). Linesman—G. Hoban (Lehigh).

Maryland Downs Yale Eleven, 6-0.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10.—Maryland came to the bowl this afternoon to defeat a surprised Yale team, 6 to 0, by completely outplaying the Blue until the very last minutes of the game. Stunning Yale with a brilliant attack centered around the running of the brilliant full back, Snyder, and the passing of Roberts, the visitors proved superior to Yale in ground gaining and put over the winning touchdown in the third period.

McKENDREE TROUNCES FLAT RIVER, 48 TO 0

LEBANON, Ill., Nov. 10. — The McKendree College Bear Cats swept on to their fourth victory of the season here today when they smothered the Flat River Junior College eleven, 48 to 0. The Bear Cats outplayed the visitors in every department of the game, making 15 first downs to Flat River's two, and gaining 300 yards from scrimmage to only five by the visitors.

HELEN DEAN CAPTURES $16,200 QUEEN CITY HANDICAP, ON HEAVY TRACK

VICTOR COMES FROM BEHIND TO WIN LATONIA JUVENILE STAKE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LATONIA, Nov. 10.—Kelly and Dean's Helen Dean showing courage and stamina won the twelfth Queen City Handicap here this afternoon from F. M. Graber's Windy City, second, and J. W. Parrish's Roy which took the show money. E. Cebrian's Naishapur finished fourth and saved his stake.

Twelve 2-year-olds paraded to the post. The track was in bad shape from rains last night and early this morning, and a heavy mist hung over the course.

The start was a good one. Nicaragua was the first to show out of the bunch. He was followed by Helen Dean and Windy City respectively. At the quarter Nicaragua was still showing the way, with Windy City running in second place and Helen Dean third.

They retained these running positions to the three-quarter-pole where Jockey McCoy made his move. Helen Dean responed readily and got up to win by half a length. Windy City was four lengths in front of Roy, with Naishapur a nose back. The mile was covered in 1:43 3-5 and the value of the race was $16,200 to the winner.

Harned Brothers' Cleora waded through the slop in the first race to win from a band of fair platers, her margin at the end after leading all the way was only a half a length. Little Colonel made a good try at the leader and finished second with St. Charles third. The time for the six furlongs was 1:15.

Harned Brothers scored another victory when their Fire Under won the third race, which was over the mile and one furlong course. He was a length in front of Bourbon, with Councellor Connally third. The winner was restrained off the early pace by Jockey Halbert and had to overcome early interference.

Baby Delhi, from the establishment of J. P. Respess, won the second number, at six furlongs for maiden 2-year-olds. The winner led for most of the journey. Blue Daisy was the one to finsh second and Princess Donna took third money.

Taking the lead, from Dandy Brush after the field had covered the first quarter, House Boy won the fourth in easy fashion. Mollie Myhill took the place and Black Thunder the show. The time for the mile and a furlong was 1.5-5. The winner paid $14.00 in the mutuels.

MISSOURI U. ALUMNAE DEFEAT PRINCIPIA AT FIELD HOCKEY, 4 TO 3

The usual order was reversed yesterday when superior team play fell before superior individual play in a field hockey match between a team of University of Missouri Alumnae and the Principia College Girls' team at the Principia Field. The visitors won by a score of 4 goals to 3.

Principia Crosses Wentworth Goal But Loses, 40-13

By Davison Obear.

The Wentworth Military Academy eleven from Lexington, Mo., defeated the Principia College team, 40 to 13, at Taylor Field yesterday. Wentworth, aided by forward passes and end runs scored 26 points in the second quarter, but Principia kept on even terms in the other periods.

Shortly after the start, Wentworth marched down to the Principia goal. Carlock, halfback, plunged through the line for the visitors' first score. Ellis kicked goal. A bad pass from the Wentworth center was recovered by Principia on the visitors' 10-yard line. On the fourth down, Howell, halfback and student from Hawaii, went through the line for a touchdown. Corya's place kick was good.

Wentworth piled up 26 points in the second quarter. Fullback Mead, hit the line for one touchdown and later raced 55 yards for the third Wentworth score. Ellis added a point. Casper scored on a forward pass, the goal kick being wide.. Ellis counted the fourth touchdown of the quarter, receiving a forward pass behind the line. His goal kick was good.

Coach Marquard evidently told the Principia team something between halves because the local squad came back strong in the second half. Wentworth found unexpected opposition and was unable to score in the third quarter. Principia advanced to the visitors' 3-yard line but lost the ball on an intercepted lateral pass.

The final period opened with Principia having the ball in midfield. A pass, Corya to Howell, and two line plays put the ball on the Wentworth 2-yard line. Corya hit the line for the second Principia score. A pass for the extra point was grounded. Wentworth intercepted a forward pass and on straight football advanced to the local's 5-yard line. Updegraff went through center for the final touchdown. Ellis kicked goal.

The line-ups:

Webster Hands Clayton Decisive Beating, 26 to 6

By Henry L. Freund.

For the sixth straight year, Webster High defeated Clayton in their annual football battle yesterday. Webster was too strong for the smaller Clayton boys, who lost by a 26—6 score. The game was played on the Webster Field.

Clayton held its heavier opponents scoreless for the first quarter, but the team was soon worn down and after a number of runs by Woods, Getlin went over for the first touchdown. The second score followed soon afterward, Woods making the points, due to a brilliant 25-yard run. Ramsey drop-kicked the extra point.

At the start of the second half, Webster advanced to Clayton's 10-yard line, but Clayton held and kicked out of danger. Clayton could not maintain their defense for long, and Webster once again worked the ball down the field. Coe, who had replaced Schmidt, finally crossed the goal line for the third score of the game.

Clayton continued its open attack in the final period and a 30-yard pass, Kern to Kram, was good for Clayton's only score. A 20-yard run by Woods, followed by a number of plunges, with Getlin going over, brought the score to 25—6, and Schmidt's place kick added the final point.

This was the last game of the season for Clayton. Webster plays Soldan High and Kirkwood in its two remaining games.

The lineups follow:

Webster.	Pos.	Clayton.
Westrup	L. E.	Kram
Schneidermeyer	L. T.	Boeckler
Turner	L. G.	Freund
Yeckel	C.	Gates
Sibley	R. G.	Hartman
Nahm	R. T.	Tzinberg
Crippen	R. E.	Nussbaum
Getlin	Q. B.	Kern
Ramsey	L. H.	Lynch
Woods	R. H.	Flaven
Schmidt	F. B.	Morgan

Score by periods:

Webster	0	13	6	7	—26
Clayton	0	0	0	6	— 6

Touchdowns—For Webster, Getlin 2, Woods, Coe; for Clayton, Kram. Points after touchdown, Ramsey and Schmidt. Officials: Roche, Kurrus and Zimmerman.

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—McGill University today won the intercollegiate rugby championship of Canada, and averted a three-cornered tie in the series by defeating Toronto at Montreal, 13 to 7.

CARNEGIE TECH IS VICTOR OVER GEORGETOWN U.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Carnegie Tech, a giant eleven with a punch and a dazzling bag of tricks, emerged victorious over Georgetown, by a score of 13 to 0 this afternoon in a battle for survival between two of the East's hitherto unbeaten teams.

It was the Pittsburg eleven's sixth staright victory of the season and the first reverse for Georgetown, which had gained recognition as a contender for the mythical Eastern title by flattening New York University.

Led by its 233-pound fullback, John Karcis, and its slim, resourceful quarterback and captain, Howard Harpster, the Carneige machine scored a touchdown in the first quarter on a plunge by Karcis, with Harpster adding the extra point from placement, and then put the game on ice with a second touchdown in the third period by Ted Rosenzweig, an end, whose tricky end-around dashes made life miserable for Georgetown all afternoon.

By their victory coupled with the defeat of the Army, the Carnegie team stood out tonight as the only major undefeated eleven in the East, with the exception of Boston College, which did not play today but is to meet Fordham on Monday.

Lou Little's fighting aggregation from Washington put on a rally in the final quarter, featured by Bozek's brilliant running and some clever forward passing with Scalzi first on one end of the throws and then on the other, which carried to the six-yard line before it was stopped.

In this final period Georgetown made seven of the 13 first downs it totaled in the entire game. Carnegie registered 16 Georgetown suffered heavily from penalties, losing 80 yards in this way to Carnegie's 65. Georgetown tried the big total of 27 passes, of which 14 were completed, while Carnegie succeeded in three out of ten.

Jerry Carroll, Georgetown captain and guard, was carried from the field early in the game with an injured leg.

The lineup:

Carnegie (13)	Pos.	Georgetown (0)
Rosenzweig	L. E.	Provincial
Schmidt	L. T.	Liston
Lovewell	L. G.	Cordovano
Mielzener	C.	Wynckop
Dreshar	R. G.	Carroll
Highberger	R. T.	Mooney
Sweet	R. E.	Tomainie
Harpster	Q. B.	Hannigan
Moorehead	L. H. B.	Hodak
Flannagan	R. H. B.	Dwyer
E. Karcis	F. B.	Barabas

Referee—D. W. Very, Penn State; umpire—Dave Fultz, Brown; field judge—J. E. Buckout, Holy Cross; head linesman—G. W. Bankart, Dartmouth.

Score by periods:

Carnegie	7	0	6	0	—13

Scoring—Carnegie: Touchdowns, Karcis, Rosenzweig. Point after touchdown, Harpster (placement).

Cleora moved fast from start, raced a trifle wide, disposing of Da Vinci and holding on her best style, outstayed Little Colonel. Latter, never far back, gained steadily through last quarter and swerved when finishing fast. St. Charles worked way up on inside and was required to finish in close quarters. Leisure Hour had no mishap. The Bat was crowded back coming to stretch turn. Da Vinci began tiring after half mile.

$2 mutuels paid: Cleora, win $5.28, place $3.38, show $2.60; Little Colonel, place $4.10, show $3.16; St. Charles, show $3.00.

Florence Dolan, Peace Baby and Mary C. field.

Baby Delhi, away in motion, assumed easy lead and, after drawing away, began tiring and was fully spent to outstay Blue Daisy. Latter broke in close quarters, but gradually bettered her position and, making a game finish, was wearing winner down. Princess Donna raced well from start, but tired in stretch. Superlove met interference at the break and could not get to the leaders. Florence Dolan had no advantage at the start and ran out all the way. Sekao was away poorly. Mary C. bolted at the start.

$2 mutuels paid: Baby Delhi, win $29.80, place $10.28, show $5.04; Blue Daisy, place $4.26, show $3.52; Princess Donna, show $6.38.

Queen Royal	100	2	8	8	7h	8	8	8	W. Bonner	73.65

Fire Under well up in last half mile, was forced back on last turn, moved up on outside ground stretch turn and after coming to inside was blocked but recovered quickly and coming into the lead was driving away. Bourbon raced into a good lead but swerved repeatedly in stretch and could not withstand winner. Counsellor Connolly raced wide after half mile and made a game finish. Elma Dear had speed and only tired after reaching stretch. Friar Mint had no excuse. Claret Cup quit.

$2 mutuels paid: Fire Under, win $9.74, place $5.12, show $3.30; Bourbon, place $6.70, show $3.66; Counsellor Connolly, show $2.88.

FOURTH RACE—$1200, 3-year-olds and up, claiming, one and one-eighth miles. Start bad, won easily, place driving. Went to post 3:29. At post 1 minute. Winner, ch. g., 7 by Polymelian-Dust Pan II. House Boy moved up fast in the going from the start, shook off Dandy Brush easily in first five furlongs and taking a big lead, held it thereafter. Mollie Myhill began working way up after a half mile and raced resolute in stretch, but could not overcome winner. Black Thunder saved ground for the entire trip and held on fairly well. Talequa was allowed to drop out of it on last turn, then closed fast when urged. Up and Down was away poorly, raced wide and never a factor. Dandy Brush had early speed.

$2 mutuels paid: House Boy, win $14, place $8.68, show $5.12; Mollie Myhill, place $28.22, show $12.58; Black Thunder, show $8.86.

Hot Shot	100	3	4	5	5	5	W. Bonner	6.63

Rurik, away in motion, had good speed in the going and after being headed by Energy, came again gamely under pressure in stretch and slowly disposed of the latter. Energy was rushed up fast in first quarter, raced on inside of the winner and, after gaining a short advantage, tired. Spooky, away poorly, slowly worked way up on outside and showed a fine effort. Rothermel had early speed but quit in the drive.

$2 mutuels paid: Rurik, win $8.02, place $2.92, show $2.52; Energy, place $2.64, show $2.16; Spooky, show $3.24.

SEVENTH RACE—$1200, 3-year-olds and up, claiming, one and one-sixteenth miles. Start good, won easily, place same. Went to post 4:55, at post 2 minutes. Reigh Count to Run in Ascot Cup; Sails on Dec. 1

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.

REIGH COUNT, premier 3-year-old of this year's racing season and winner of the Kentucky Derby, will be shipped to England Dec. 1 to run in the Ascot gold cup race, John T. Hertz, husband of Mrs. Hertz, the owner, announced today.

This is the first time an American horse with a record as great as Reigh Count's has been entered in the Ascot gold cup race, which will be run in July next year, said Mr. Hertz.

Jockey Chick Lang, who rode Reigh Count last summer, will have the mount in the race. Trainer Ben Mitchell and his assistant, Larry Mills, also will make the voyage.

ST. LOUIS U. HIGH AND WESTERN IN SCORELESS TIE

By ROBERT W. HERR.

The Western Military Academy eleven, favored to annex the Preparatory League championship, failed to come up to expectations yesterday and was held to a 0-0 tie by St. Louis U. High in a league game played at Alton. By winning the contest, their last in the league this season, the Cadets could have clinched the title, but the tie decision makes the championship race a 3-cornered affair involving Country Day, Western and St. Louis.

The Westerners' chance to score came early and often but a combination of poor judgment and a St. Louis defense that was airtight within the 10-yard line prevented them from counting. In the opening minutes of the game, runs by Smiley, Silva and Hesley brought the ball to the Blue and White 8-yard mark, where McDermott intercepted Hesley's pass and St. Louis kicked out of danger. Play during the remainder of the period was within the Junior Billiken 35-yard line, but the Cadets lacked the punch to put over a score.

Cadet Line Holds.

In the second quarter, after a punting duel in which Hesley of Western had somewhat the better of Stoltman, the St. Louis gridders launched their only real offensive of the contest. Several nice runs and a blocked kick gave the Junior Billikens the ball on Western's 35-yard mark, but the Cadets held for downs.

During the second half, with the play almost entirely in St. Louis territory, the Westerners made their most determined attack upon the opponents' goal line. A 25-yard run by Silva and plunges by Hesley carried the pigskin to the 5-yard line, but the Cadets could not gain in four tries and the Billikens kicked. With the ball back on the 10-yard mark shortly after, Western made a yard in three downs and Smiley's place kick was low.

Place Kick Missed.

In the fourth period a number of passes again gave Coach Garetson's men first down on St. Louis' 10-yard line, but the effort came to nothing when Smiley missed another place kick. The Blue and White fumbled on the next play and Western recovered to carry the ball to the 8-yard mark, but again the St. Louis line held and the game ended with the Cadets starting another drive deep in the Junior Billiken territory.

Silva, Hesley, Hirshfeld and Brash were outstanding in the Western lineup, while Stoltman, Strong, Knese and Vollmer showed well for St. Louis.

The lineups and summary:

St. Louis.	Pos.	Western
McDermott	L. E.	Andros (C)
Lynch	L. T.	Brash
S. Krygiel	L. G.	Houlle
Vollmer	C.	Derris
McCue	R. G.	Williams
Montgomery (C)	R. T.	Zweifel
Roberts	R. E.	Thompson
Strong	Q. B.	Smiley
Stoltman	L. H.	Silva
Hartrich	R. H.	Templeton
Knese	F. B.	Hesley

Score by quarters:

	1	2	3	4
St. Louis	0	0	0	0	— 0

Substitutions: St. Louis—Saffa for McCue, Connors for Strong, Strong for Connors, Lawler for Hartwick; Western—Hirshfeld for Smiley, Hansen for Williams, Smiley for Hirshfeld, Davenport for Templeton, Bruno for Thompson. Officials—Roland (St. Mary's), referee; O'Reilly (St. Louis), umpire; Shanley (Washington), head linesman.

JOIE RAY AGAIN DEFEATS EL OUAFI

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 10.—Joie Ray, America's premier distance runner, won his second victory over El Ouafi, French Algerian, who won the Olympic marathon championship last summer, here tonight, beating the invader over the 20-mile route.

Chesty Joie grabbed the lead at 27 laps and was never headed. At the finish he had a lead of more than three laps over El Ouafi who was unequal to the burning pace set by the American. The time was one hour 52 minutes, 11 seconds. Ray's best mile was the third, which he covered in 4:33.

NORMAN, Ok., Nov. 10.—The University of Nebraska's steam roller paraded on Owen Field here this afternoon in a Big Six football game against the University of Oklahoma and when its work had been done, the Sooners had been battered, bruised and swamped under a 44-to-6 score.

The Nebraska power house proved even greater than it had been rated. The Huskers in quest of both the Big Six Conference and national honors, hardly had to extend themselves to outclass a great Oklahoma eleven.

The 30,000 fans who were here to celebrate homecoming and watch the 1928 edition of the red and white in action, saw a Nebraska aggregation play like individual stars, yet the Husker juggernaut worked to perfection.

Nebraska scored in the first few minutes of play on a drop kick by Clair Sloan. Then the machine picked up speed, scored one touchdown in the first period, another in the second and third and finally with an entire new team on the field, cut loose with that characteristic fourth quarter punch and ran over three touchdowns for 20 points.

Oklahoma's only punch came at the start of the second period. Seeing that it was nothing short of suicide to attempt to send a play through that heavy Nebraska forward wall, Abe Kitchell, the Sooner field boss, tossed a pass to Bus Mills in his own territory. It was worth 23 yards. Another flip with the same pair executing it, was good for a touchdown. Mills made a spectacular 42-yard run after he snared the ball.

The Nebraskans made 310 yards from the line of scrimmage while the Sooners' line plays and end runs resulted in only 99 yards. The Sooners excelled only in passing, completing five out of 14 attempts for a gain of 144 yards. However, it was the Sooners' persistency in tossing the ball into the air that resulted in two Nebraska touchdowns in the final minutes of play.

BROWN VICTORIOUS OVER DARTMOUTH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 10.—Brown today administered to Dartmouth its third consecutive defeat. The Bruins were not only able to stop most of Dartmouth's running attack at the scrimmage line, but ripped the left side of the Green line to pieces for a touchdown in the first period and then completed two forward passes for a score in the second. Kevorkian, the Brown tackle, place kicked twice to make the score 14 to 0.

BETHLEHEM SOCCER TEAM DEFEATS RANGERS, 7-3

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 10. — With scoring widely distributed among the forward line, Bethlehem Steel defeated the I. R. T. Rangers of New York in an Eastern Soccer League game here today by the score of 7 to 3.

The lineup:

BETHLEHEM STEEL.	Position.	N. Y. RANGERS.
Edwards	Goal	McClure
Barrie	R.F.B.	Reynolds
Allan	L.F.B.	Webster
Reid	R.H.B.	Mullen
Carnihan	C.H.B.	Comiskey
McGregor	L.H.B.	Mitchell
Gillespie	O.R.	Oliver
Jaap	I.R.	Conner
Stark	C.F.	Kennedy
Rollo	I.L.	Pearce
Geis	O.L.	McEachern

Goals—Stark, Jaap (2), Rollo (2), Mosier. Gillespie, Dawson (2). McEachern. Substitutions—Dawson for Connor. Referee—Fred Pepper. Linesmen—Forrest and Carpenter. Time of halves, 45 minutes.

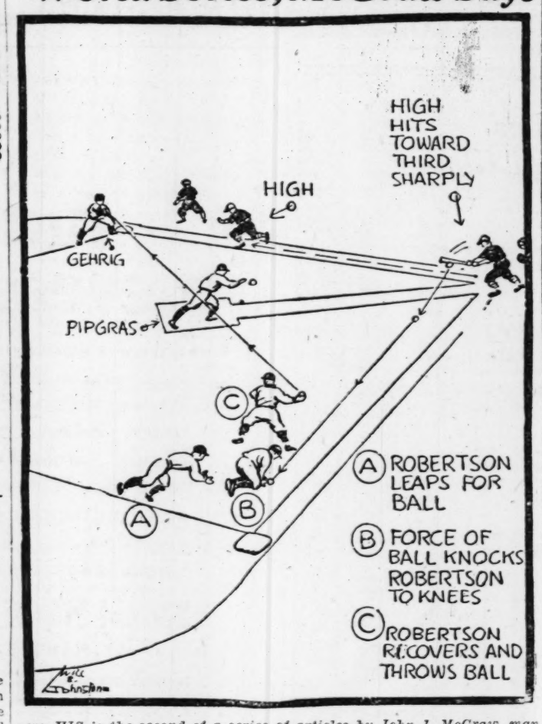
JOHNS HOPKINS LOSES TO COLUMBIA, 14-13

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A light but speedy Johns Hopkins eleven made its yearly stand against Columbia's grid team here today and held the Blue and White to a 14-13 victory.

Led by Howard Caplan, the Marylander's fullback, the visitors missed a tie only when Caplan's try from a place kick for the extra point in the third period went wide.

Gene Robertson Turned Second Great Play of World Series, McGraw Says



THIS is the second of a series of articles by John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, on the "Ten Big Plays of the World Series." The third article will appear in next Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

By John J McGraw,

Manager New York Giants.

I DON'T remember ever having seen a neater or gamer piece of fielding than that of Gene Robertson, third baseman of the Yank's in the second game of the big series. For that reason I list it as the second of my selections.

This particular play did not have so much actual effect on the game, because at that time the shooting was practically all over and nothing much would have mattered, as it turned out.

It is to Robertson's credit though, that he sensed the danger of taking anything for granted. He went after the ball hit by Andy High in the fifth inning a if it had been the deciding play of a close ball game.

If the fans will remember, High was the first man at bat and the Cardinals were still fighting with the hope of another big inning.

Timing the pitch by Pipgras accurately, Andy took a clean cut at the ball and shot it toward third with the speed of a bullet. On this play there was no time for calculation. Robertson's effort was purely instinctive. A few third basemen might have let the ball go. This young fellow, though, was trying to show his right to a place in a world's series. With one jump he clamped on the ball which hit his hands with such force as to pull him down to his knees. The ball almost handcuffed him, as the players say.

Instead of losing his head and making a hurried throw, Robertson had judged the possible speed of the runner. He got to his feet and threw with deliberation. The boy kept his head, the first qualification of a big leaguer. It was a great piece of work.

Ohio Wesleyan Trims Syracuse

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Ohio Wesleyan's Battling Bishops made good on their bid for national recognition by humbling Syracuse, 6 to 0, before 18,000 spectators in Archbold stadium this afternoon. The Bishops are undefeated this fall, one of the few elevens in the country with a clean slate.

Coach Gauthier's victory over the Orange was all the more remarkable in that it was his second team that registered the only touchdown. After Syracuse had battled the Buckeyes on even terms for most of the first half, Gauthier withdrew his regulars and injected a fresh lineup about five minutes before half time.

As soon as the subs got the feel of the ball, they passed down to Syracuse's five-yard line. Here Coach Andreas threw his regular backfield combination into the fray but it was too late. On the next play, Wertz ran wide o the Orange ends, snared a pass from Reger and stepped over the Syracuse goal line.

VASHON ELEVEN WINS 6-0 VICTORY OVER JEFFERSON CITY TEAM

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

The Vashon Colored High School football team defeated the Lincoln University High School eleven of Jefferson City, 6 to 0, at Stars Park yesterday afternoon. It was Vashon's second victory of the season.

Blocker, left half back of the local team, scored the only touchdown of the game when he skirted end from the 8-yard line in the first quarter. There were no other serious threats to score made by either eleven although Foster of Vashon ripped off a 50-yard run in the final period.

Foster and Blocker were the stars for Vashon. Perkenson was outstanding for Lincoln.

The lineups:

Lincoln.	Position.	Vashon
Tritt	L. E.	Walker
Ramer	L. T.	Heartley
Xennson	L. G.	Mike
Perkerson	C.	Green
Johnson	R. G.	Bradley
Cooper	R. T.	Waters
Wilson	R. E.	Jordan
Ellington	Q. B.	Turner
W. Johnson	L. H.	Blocker
G. Brown	R. H.	Foster
Hollins	F. B.	Santee

Score by periods:

	1	2	3	4
Lincoln	0	0	0	0	— 0
Vashon	6	0	0	0	— 6

Touchdown—Blocker.

Officials—Pace, referee; Garrett, umpire; Lewis, head linesman.

Eustace Wrestles Shikat Tomorrow

Dick Shikat, the German heavyweight wrestler meets Allen Eustace of Winfield, Kan., in the main event of four heavyweight bouts to be held tomorrow night at the New Coliseum arena.

Jimmy Londos is the only grappler who has succeeded in pinning Shikat during the two years Shikat has been competing in America.

Joe Toots' Mondt, a Colorado heavyweight, will lock horns with Ernest Lundine, a 225-pound importation from Finland, in the semi-windup of the New Coliseum bill.

Nick Lutze, former Notre Dame University athlete, and Roy Steele, the Seattle headlock specialist, are booked to meet in the second prelim attraction.

Vito Rinaldi, a local Italian heavyweight, and protege of the veteran Lloyd Carter, faces his second New Coliseum tryout in a bout with Gene Ladoux of Canada, billed as the curtain-raiser.

PEST WELCH THE HERO AND GOAT AS PURDUE BOWS TO NORTHWESTERN

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 10.—With "Pest' Welch, the nemesis of many a good football team playing the role of both the hero and the goat, Northwestern defeated Purdue today 7 to 6. A Dad's day crowd of 30,000 shivering fans watched the two elevens battle on even terms on a rain soaked field.

It was Welch's poor punt from behind the goal line in the first period that gave Northwestern a touchdown and it was the redoubtable Texan's startling passes and off-tackle dashes that put Purdue in position to tie the score in the third period. Harmeson's kick for the extra point, however, was wild and Purdue went down to its second conference defeat as Northwestern chalked up its second consecutive victory of the season. Both Northwestern's wins were by one point margins.

In the third quarter the Boilermakers pushed the ball across the goal line. Starting on its 20-yard line after the kickoff, the Phelan coached eleven passed and plunged its way to a touchdown. Five times during the march down the gridiron Welch stepped back and heaved short passes into the arms of a waiting end or back. The fifth was a 20-yard pass to Hutton who stepped across the goal line.

March 2—Country Day at Western.
March 5—St. Louis U. H. at Country Day; McBride at C. B. C.

MILLIKIN WINS FROM ILLINOIS COLLEGE, 25-0

DECATUR, Ill., Nov. 10.—With Corbett, Vise and Blank, running the ends and dashing off tackle for gains of from ten to twenty-five yards at frequent intervals, Millikin gained a 25 to 0 victory over Illinois College yesterday. Corbett scored the first touchdown after a 65-yard march down the field. Vise sprinted 14 yards around end for the second. Corbett hit the line for the third and Blank broke through the line and cut back 20 yards for the fourth. Millikin plays Bradley here next Saturday in a game that will be practically decisive of the State title.

The lineup and summary:

MILLIKIN 25	Pos.	ILL. COL. 0

SCHULZES PLAY ANGELICAS IN MUNY FEATURE

The Angelicas, present champions of the Municipal Soccer Association, will face the first real test of the present campaign this afternoon when they play the Schulzes in a game which will determine first place in the Fairground No. 2 division. Both elevens have won two games in easy style this season. This contest will probably prove the feature of the day's competition in the organization.

There are several other battles which should develop some good soccer. In the Fairground No. 3-4 division, the Palermos and Pals, two undefeated elevens, meet. Another game is at Forest Park in which first place will be at stake with the Missouri Pacifics opposing the Academy A. C.

St. Thomas, leader at Carondelet No. 1, opposes the tail-end Spanish Ideals, while in Carondelet No. 2, the undefeated Trumbulls tackle the German Sport Club No. 2, which has lost two successive contests.

The schedule:

Fairground Park, No. 2—Schulzes vs. Angelicas, 2; Shreve Ave. Business Men, vs. Russells, 3:30. Referee—J. J. Kelly.

Fairground Park No. 3—Benjamin Petty vs. A. C. Bauer, 2; Palermo vs. Pals, 3:30. Referee—W. Brady.

Forest Park—Missouri Pacific Lines vs. Academy A. C., 2; Cook A. C., vs. Union Electric, 3:30. Referee—R. Wall.

Juniors—Concordia Park — Lee-Schermen vs. S. S. Mary and Joseph, 2; Koch Bros. vs. Uncles Place A. C. Jr., 3:30. Referee—H. Donovan.

Wellstons Have Chance to Tie Madison Eleven

The race in the St. Louis Soccer League can be tightened considerably as a result of this afternoon's double-header at Sportsman's Park. In the opener, the leading Madisons tackle the Wellstons, while the Ben Millers and Tablers play in the second. The first game starts at 2 o'clock. Oscar Mossman will officiate in the opener, with Dave Sutherland serving as referee in the second.

The Madisons, at present, are leading in the league race with six points. However, a victory for Tate Brady's team, will throw the pair into a tie for first place. As regards the nightcap, a conquest for Willie Foley's Millers will put them on even terms with the Tablers, last season's champions.

The Millers and Tablers, after a poor start, have shown improvement in the past two weeks, and before the campaign is over are again expected to make a noise in the battle for the championship. The addition of Erbe and other players has strengthened the Millers. With Sam Dueker on the injured list, Dave Dueker, his brother, will play goal for the Tablers, while Phelan and Zensen are down to cover the fullback positions. Bill Foley of the Millers has decided to keep O'Hara at halfback.

Managers Burke and Brady of the Madisons and Wellstons will stand pat on the lineups they have employed in previous contests.

KNOST TO FIGHT ON TIPPETT CARD HERE NOV. 19

By Damon Kerby.

When Joey Rivers, Kansas City featherweight, knocked out Paul Steadman of St. Louis in the last round of their fight at the Coliseum three weeks ago, he boosted himself from the position of an ordinary mine-run fighter to an attraction of top rank, locally, for in putting Steadman away he did what no other fighter had been able to accomplish.

It was on this performance that Matchmaker Jack Tippett of the Stockham Post of the American Legion signed the Kansas City boxer for a 10-round fight with Peewee Kaiser on the Stockham Post's card of Monday, Nov. 19. Kaiser, the leading local featherweight, is among the number who have been unable to stop Steadman, although he holds decisions over him.

Can Absorb Punishment.

Rivers' bout against Steadman was his fifth appearance on a local boxing card. In his first fight here, three years ago, he defeated Chick Saunders of St. Louis. Last season he was brought back by Tippett to oppose Joe Paglina of Louisville. Rivers' capacity for taking punishment was shown in this bout. He was almost out on his feet in the early rounds but grew stronger as the fight progressed and had Paglina reeling as the bout closed.

George Mavis, a substitute for Charley Glaser of Chicago, was the next fighter Rivers faced here. Mavis proved a poor substitute, the bout being stopped in the sixth round to save him further punishment.

During this time, Rivers was gradually building up a local reputation, but his record lost some of its luster when he was held to a draw by Tommy O'Laughlin, the boxer without a punch. This performance was largely forgotten, however, when Rivers tumbled Steadman. Perhaps this is as it should be, for although O'Laughlin is without a punch, he presents a peculiar, unorthodox style that makes his opponent look bad—and O'Laughlin, in addition, is hard to hurt.

Kaiser has fought on three cards presented by Tippett this season, and in only one bout, against Milton Manguna of New Orleans, was he extended. In his other fights he won on a foul from Jimmy Dale of Decatur in the first round, and knocked out Jimmy Harris of Cincinnati in the second.

Knost to Fight on Card.

Whether the Kaiser-Rivers bout will go the full distance hinges, according to many local observers, on whether Rivers, like Manguna, can withstand the right-hand punches of Kaiser. From local appearances it is believed unlikely that he can break through the defense of Kaiser with a punch of knockout proportions.

Kaiser is working out daily at the National gymnasium against local talent, while Rivers is reported in training in Kansas City.

Dave Knost, long the leading local amateur heavyweight champion, has been signed for a six-round bout with Charles Pound of Texas for a six-round bout, according to Tippett. Pound's chief bid to fame seems to be that he was knocked out in nine rounds by Young Stribling.

Three 10-round bouts, and three of six rounds each, will comprise the program, Tippett said yesterday. Although negotiations are under way for these bouts, none of the matches has been closed, except those announced.

Ticket prices will range from $1.10, balcony seat, to $3.30 ringside.

INDUSTRIAL BASKETBALL LEAGUE TO ORGANIZE

A meeting will be held next Wednesday noon at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. to organize the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball League for the coming season, and the league will open either Nov. 30 or Dec. 7. There are openings for several additional teams. All games will be played at the Armory, Grand and Market on Friday nights.

Information and application blanks may be secured in the office of the league, Room 420, 1528 Locust street, or by calling CEntral 1350, Station 27.

Bowling Notes

Raise Average Limit.

The average limit for the individual contests for bowlers with averages of 183 and under, which have been featured on Saturday and Sunday nights at the Rogers alleys, has been raised to 185 and in the future will be confined to bowlers with averages of 185 and under. This change is due to the increase in averages in the different leagues throughout the city. The first contest under the new ruling was held last night.

Witters Roll 3030.

The Witter Razz team was high in E. A. Schaefer's Delmar Scratch League last week, rolling 3030 and winning two games from the Remleys. The Witters lost the final game by one pin after winning the first two with scores of 1036 and 1051. In the final tilt the Remleys shot 944 to 943 for the visitors. Lee Martin's 650 was high for the Witters. Hank Summers was next with 611 and Ollie Overbeck third with 598. Ed Schaefer had 589 and Jerry Ameling 582. Martin had a 236 count as his high game while Sumners collected 228. Cone Herman, 622, J. Bartin 618 and J. McKown, 613, were high for the Remleys. The latter team rolled 2922 with a high game of 1007.

Behnen Gets 643.

Hank Behnen turned in high individual single in the Delmar League, rolling 238 in the final game for the Ben Miller-Southwest Match. He totaled 643 but the Southwests lost the odd game to the Ben Millers. Clarence Kaley, also of the Southwests, shot 637 but the team rolled only 2851 with the other members of the team rolling under 550. Blickhahn's 596 was best for the Millers, who rolled 2827. Other results were: Vecovos 3, Fifty-Fifteens 0; Schaefers 3, Valets 0. The team leaders were: Harris 566, Wiehe 591, White 601 and Berger 580.

Weicks Defeat Roberts.

The Weicks took three games from the Roberts in the Gravois Women's Scratch League on the Gravois Recreation alleys by rolling 2738 with a high count of 1007. Mrs. G. Temperle continued her fine bowling by leading the Weick team with a 598 series. Mrs. Horlivy's 526 was best for the Roberts. The Weicks lead the Gravois league by two games.

Bauers Shoot 2808.

The Bauers rolled 2808 with games of 993, 915 and 900 to win three games from the Carondelets. Mrs. A. W. Langner shot 578 to lead the Bauers while Mrs. Pickel was high for the Carondelets with 412. Other results were: Gebkens 3, Wacker-Helderles 0; Tower Groves 3, South Sides 0. The high scorers were: Mrs. Weiss 540, Mrs. Sicking 495, Mrs. Granneman 530 and Mrs. Ruhl 480.

Fiedler Rolls 646.

Earl Fielder led the individuals in the St. Louis Handicap league on the Washington alleys Wednesday evening with a 646 series. He had games of 214, 234 and 198 and the Fothergills won three games from the Jolly Five. The Fothergills shot games of 905, 928 and 901 for a total of 2734. Miller's 536 was high for the Jolly Five.

Steins Beat Selsors.

The Stein Jrs. won the odd game from the Selsors in another St. Louis league match, rolling 2608 to 2600. Tom Calto led the winners with 558 while C. Kirchoff's 554 and R. Strickland's 537 paced the Selsor bowlers. Other results were: Sanders 3, Washingtons 0; Peters 2, Farrells 1. The team leaders were: Cramer 626, J. Zander 597, H. Cunio 535 and H. Ammann 485. Cramer and Zander each had a 230 game.

Water Towers Take Lead.

The Water Towers went into first place in the Water Tower Handicap league No. 1 by taking three games from the Blumenthals while the Phils were losing three to the Laskowitz team. The Water Towers now how a record of 22 victories and 14 defeats while the Phils are tied for second place with the Boxies with 21 won and 15 lost. The leaders rolled 2647 to defeat the Blumenthals with Boskitz contributing 555 and Lopicola 550. Pfaff led the losers with 500.

Grumich Leads Individuals.

J. Grumich rolled 608 to lead the individuals in the Water Tower league and the Laskowitz team. A. Buschelberg was best for the Phils with 528. Results of the other matches were as follows: Boxies 3, Wurth 0, Kuhlmans 2, North Ends 1. The leaders were: W. Kessler 570, W. Dister 570, Somme 565, E. Guinner 565, A. Wurth 553 and R. Luther 578.

Outlying Banks League.

Results in the Outlying Banks handicap league on Schaefer's Delmar alleys were as follows: Savings 3, Natural Bridge 0, Cass Bank 2, Lindell Trust 1, Lowells 2, Northwesterns 1, West St. Louis 3 Easton-Taylor 0. The high men were: Sagner 477, Boundy 529, Erhardt 519, Schroeder 537, Kaiser 522, Schulte 599 and Shephard 466.

Guinner Rolls 244.

E. Guinner took high single in the Water Tower scratch league with a score of 244 and the Water Towers won three games from the Bradburys. Guinner finished with a 559 series. G. Schroder 613 and G. Baeumker 606, were high for the Water Towers while O. Whitehead was best for the Bradburys with 520. The Water Towers shot 2871 with a high count of 980. Other results were: Blecks 3, Water Tower Banks 0, Tablers 2, Bredemanns 1, Waechters 3, Ebelings 0. The high men were: Dister 545, E. Gleitz 597, Schmid 611, Merkle 522, A. Luther 573 and R. Kasting 565. The Water Tower Recreations lead the league with 24 won and six lost. The Blecks are second with a record of 21 and 9 with the Waechters third, one game behind the Blecks.

Scullins Beat Olympians.

The Olympians' lead in Maplewood Handicap league on the Saratoga alleys was cut to three games when they lost the odd game to the Scullins while the Jacksons were winning three games from the Texas Lumbers. The Olympians gave a 162 pin handicap to the Scullins but rolled far below their average and were easily beaten. The Jacksons had an easy time in defeating the Texas team.

HOPPE AND LAYTON START CUE EXHIBITION SERIES HERE TOMORROW

In keeping with the long established principle of bringing to St. Louis the best available talent in the billiard world, Charles C. Peterson has completed arrangements for the appearance at his billiard establishment of Johnny Layton, national three-cushion champion, and Willie Hoppe, world's 18-1 balkline title[holder], tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday.

This engagement will consist of a 300-point match at three-cushion billiards in six blocks of 50 points. Play will start at 2:30 and 8 p. m. each afternoon and evening. At the conclusion of each match Hoppe will give a series of fancy shots, and Layton will lecture on the diamond system, employed by three-cushion billiardists.

Miss Ellen Walsh Bates Makes Bow At Beautiful Rose Garden Party

St. Louis Country Club Decorated Elaborately for Debutante, Who Receives With Her Sister, Miss Josephine Bates, and Cousin, Mrs. John E. Garaghty of Minneapolis.

THE fragrance of thousands of pink roses greeted the guests at the St. Louis Country Club Friday night when Miss Ellen Walsh Bates made her formal bow to society in a beautiful rose garden.

Because of mourning in the family of her uncle and aunt, Mrs. William Maffitt, with whom she makes her home at 4315 Westminster place, the debutante received with her sister, Miss Josephine Bates, whose engagement to Wade Turner Childress was announced recently, and her cousin, Mrs. John E. Geraghty of Minneapolis, formerly Miss Marie Walsh of St. Louis, who is the guest of Mrs. Charles McLure Clark. The party stood before a background of floral gifts in the lounge with baskets of gorgeous blossoms outlining the room.

The vista from the lounge through the three dining rooms of the club presented a great arbor of roses softly glowing with pink shaded lights nestling in the foliage and depending from the ceilings. The walls were covered with the pink blossoms contrasting in charming relief against their smilax setting.

The orchestra was encircled by a rose-garlanded fence, its posts lighted by rose petaled bulbs. The tables were adorned with tall vases of pink roses and gypsophelium, interspersed with branched silver candelabra filled with pink tapers and single srystal holders with ruffled rose tinted shades.

The table for the debutantes and their escorts presided over by Miss Bates was laid in a horse shoe design in the East room and similarly decorated. At this table were Miss Lulie Simmons, Miss Almira Steedman, Miss Marie Wilson, Miss Mary Merwin Shepley, Miss Anne K. West, Miss Louise Rumsey, Miss Margaret How, Miss Gladys Muckerman, Miss Josephine Salorgne Scullin, Miss Isabelle Brooks Bond, Miss Marion Bischoff, Miss Louise Rexford, Miss Mary Scudder Hallett, Miss Nancy Blair, Miss Janet Orthwein, Miss Alice Chapman, Miss Eleanor Church, Miss Florence Pettus, Miss Dorothy Drew, Miss Elizabeth Ferguson, Miss Lucy Thompson, Miss Jane Messick, Miss Josephine Adreon, Miss Elizabeth Fusz, Miss Marie von Paul Michel, Miss Betty Willson Niles, Miss Katherine Koerber and Charles E. Michel Jr., Theodore C. Link, Everett Brooks, William Brown Goltra, Edward Love Jr., Clive Halliday, Thomas Noel, George Bass Jr., Louis B. von Weise Jr., Sewell Pangman, Boyd Ware, Tullius C. Keeshan, Rives Matthews, Hubert Peugnet, Howard Hunter, Clinton L. Whittemore Jr., Cabanne Smith and Denis Nettleton.

Miss Bates wore an imported gown of white chiffon elaborately embroidered in rhinestones and chrystal, made with a flounced skirt of an irregular hemline and a sleeveless bodice with a cape embroidered in the same sparkling designs. She carried pink roses.

Miss Josephine Bates wore a Paris gown of salmon tinted satin draped to one side and caught with a rhinestone ornament. The bodice had shoulder straps or rhinestones.

Miss Bates was educated at the Visitation Convent in St. Louis and the Sacred Heart College at Georgetown, Washington, D. C. She has traveled abroad extensively, and served as a special maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball.

MISS VIRGINIA PRICE, daughter of Mr. Thomas E. Price, whose engagement to L. Tebbitts Breck was announced Wednesday. —Strauss.

Debutante Luncheon

A MIXED luncheon for the debutantes and their escorts was one of the delightful parties on yesterday's social calendar. The affair was given at the Bridlespur Club by Mr. and Mrs. William R. Orthwein of 11 Beverly place in honor of four of the season's buds, Miss Josephine Salorgne Scullin, Miss Katherine Koerber, Miss Alice Chapman and Miss Louise Rumsey.

Additional guests were Miss Ellen Bates, Miss Eleanor Church, Miss Almira Steedman, Miss Jane Butler, Miss Elizabeth Ferguson, Miss Jane Tyler Messick, Miss Marie Peckham Wilson, Miss Janet Orthwein, Miss Mary Merwin Shepley, and William Brown Goltra, Richard Baldwin, Robert Orthwein, Clinton L. Engagements and Weddings of Week

A MARRIAGE of interest in St. Louis is that of James A. McVoy of 5148 Westminster place and Mrs. Mary Anne Leggett of Columbia, Mo., which took place Thursday morning in the parsonage of St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt officiating. Only members of the families were present.

Mr. and Mrs. McVoy left immediately after the ceremony for New York and Atlantic City and upon their return, Nov. 20, will make their home at Hotel Chase. Mrs. McVoy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Summers of Columbia, and she is a niece of Mrs. Frank A. Thompson of 5707 McPherson avenue. Mr. McVoy is the father of Miss Virginia McVoy, a debutante of the season, Miss Atwood McVoy and Alexander, who attends Princeton University.

The engagement of Mary Margaret Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Francis Campbell of 17 Southmoor Park, to John B. Grogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Grogan of Chicago, was announced yesterday at a bridge given in honor of Miss Kathleen Grogan.

John B. Grogan is an alumnus of Notre Dame University.

Miss Campbell attended Maryville Convent in St. Louis and St. Marys of the Woods, in Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kemper, 2912 South Compton avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Vera Grace, to W. G. Baber, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Baber, 2521 Semple avenue. The announcement was made at a party given by Mrs. Kemper at their home Wednesday evening.

The marriage of Miss Henrietta Geraldine Rohan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Eugene Rohan of 5132 Waterman avenue, and William Fidelas Grantges, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Grantges of 6133 Pershing avenue, took place Wednesday morning at the Church of St. Roch, the Rev. Father Spencer officiating.

A breakfast followed at the Forest Park Hotel. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Rohan, as maid of honor. She wore a gown of autumn brown transparent velvet with a hat of feutre glace, and carried chrysanthemums in the autumn shades. Charles L. Brennaaun was best man.

The bride wore a Lanvin model of ivory tinted satin with a yoke of rose point lace and a girdle of orange blossoms. The train, fastened at the waist line, was lined with cloth of silver. The veil was arranged to her hair with a bandeau of rose point lace and orange blossoms. She carried bovardia and lilies of the valley. Mr. and Mrs. Grantges are touring the East on their wedding trip and will make their home in Minneapolis.

Miss Rose Ridker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Ridker of 308 North Laurel avenue, will become the bride of Benjamin Sparbur this evening at 7:30 at Forest Park Hotel, with Rabbi Julian Miller officiating. Miss Ridker will have as attendants, the following young women: Miss Bess Goldwasser as maid of honor, and as bridesmaids, Miss Lillian Sparbur, Mrs. Samuel Rich, Miss Bess Klass and Miss Mary Ann Weiner. Edward L. Ridker, brother of the bride, will be Mr. Sparbur's best man, and the ushers will be Adr an Colonna, Samuel Rich, M. M. Ridker and Arthur Salfer.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Radloff of 6006 Enright avenue will give a betrothal dinner this afternoon at their home, when the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ethel, and J. Fishman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fishman of 616 Leland avenue, will be announced.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Irma Protzmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Protzmann of Riverview Drive, to Robert E. Hannegan, was made yesterday at a bridge luncheon at the Missouri Athletic Association Clubhouse.

Miss Protzmann is a graduate of Washington University, and is a member of the Delta Gamma Sorority. Mr. Hannegan is a graduate of the St. Louis University Law School, and is a member of the St. Louis Bar Association. The date of the wedding has not been set.

A bridge luncheon was given yesterday by Mrs. George N. Martin of 5584 Maple avenue, to announce the engagement of her daughter, Miss Louisa Young Martin, and Alfred H. Norrish.

Miss Martin is a graduate of Washington University. Mr. Norrish is the son of Mrs. Mary Norrish of 11 Dartford avenue. He served overseas with the 128th Field Artilelry, and was graduated from the Washington University School of Architecture.

That Ends Mr. CORN!

A touch of "Freezone" and he lifts right off!

The most painful corn, even one sensitive to touch of stocking, can't throb ten seconds after "Freezone" comes in contact. All that's left to do is lift corn right off, and it's gone!

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs only a few cents at any drug store, and is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and callouses. Try it—today!

THE Corset is one garment in every woman's wardrobe that is purchased for what it does—select yours with care! Look first (and last) for the wavy blue line that guarantees the supreme service-quality of Kenlastic, the life of fine Corsets.

Druggist Gave Her Very Good Advice

Miss Ruth Horowtiz, Bronx, N. Y., writes: "Having been troubled with indigestion caused by constipation for several months, my druggist advised a purely vegetable laxative pill.

I can safely say that since I am taking them, and only one each night, I feel like myself again and can eat most anything without fear of an attack."

Winner!

The artist friend who advised lovely Dorothy Cray, 254 West 12th St., New York City, to enter two recent beauty contests, is probably saying, "I told you so." She won both of them and a movie engagement into the bargain! Too bad, pictures can't show the loveliness of her skin and the gleaming beauty of her dark brown hair, points which, the judges say, swayed their decisions.

"When I consider how people admire my hair now and how different it was not long ago," says Miss Cray, "I can't help telling about it. Dandruff had nearly ruined my hair. It had gotten stringy, dull, and was falling out. My scalp was terribly uncomfortable. Then a friend got me started on this method of caring for the hair which is all the rage among New York girls. Now, I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. Since I have been doing this regularly, all dandruff has disappeared; my scalp has become perfectly comfortable and healthy; my hair has stopped falling out and has become soft, gleamy and pretty."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair, restores its natural color, gives it more lustre than brilliantine. It makes the hair easy to dress and keeps it in place. It stops dandruff. It isn't oily and doesn't show. At all drug stores, 35c. A delicately fragranced toilet necessity for the well-groomed girl.

WAKING UP NIGHTS

Makes Many Feel Old Before Their Time

60c Treatment FREE

If It Doesn't Allay Bladder Weakness, Backache, Leg Pains in 48 Hours . . .

It is estimated that more than 65% of men and women are started on the road to lowered vitality, premature ill health, reduced ability and earning power by waking up nights and associated conditions.

Waking Up Nights, burning or itching sensation, dull ache in back, legs or groins due to excessive acid condition.

A wide variety of conditions often accompany functional Bladder Weakness such as Backache, burning sensation, leg and groin pains, nervousness, wakeful nights, tiring easily, rheumatic aches and headaches.

If you suffer from these conditions, have tried many things, and feel discouraged, you shouldn't give up regaining vitality, energetic health, and alleviation of your pains without trying the new, successful treatment known as Cystex Compound.

Nearly a million packages of Cystex Compound have been sold by the world's largest drug stores on an Iron Clad Money Back Guarantee with remarkable satisfaction. Many who had suffered for years have been amazed at results. No narcotics or habit forming drugs. List of safe ingredients in every package

In fact, we're so confident Cystex will give delightful satisfaction in most instances that we are glad to have any sufferer try it free of cost if it does not please in every way.

Ask your druggist for Cystex. Put it to a 48-Hour Test. See for yourself what it does. If you soon feel full of pep, able to sleep well, stronger and younger, with pains alleviated, it costs only 60c, otherwise nothing, as your money will be refunded without question or argument upon return of package top. You are the sole judge of your satisfaction.

MOST OF $100,000 ESTATE OF L. A. SEITZ GOES TO WIDOW

Individual Bequests of $20,000 Made in Druggist's Will Filed at Clayton.

The bulk of the $100,000 estate of Lorenz A. Seitz, retired druggist and former president of the St. Louis College of Pharmacy, who died last Oct. 23, is bequeathed to his widow, Mrs. Rose Seitz under his will, filed in Probate Court at Clayton yesterday. Mr. Seitz, who was 57 years old, lived at the Denny and Robyn roads.

Bequests of $1000 each to three priests, who were his friends, are made in the will. The priests are the Rev. E. H. Amsinger, St. Margaret's Church; the Rex. J. J. Head, St. Columbkille's Church, and the Rev. T. V. O'Reilly, St. Marys, Kan. These bequests are to be paid by Mrs. Seitz, who is to receive the income from the estate during her life.

Mrs. Seitz, who is appointed executrix, may dispose of the bulk of the estate as she sees fit at her death, except for the following bequests: $5000 to the St. Louis College of Pharmacy; $1000 each to four relatives, and $1000 each to eight Catholic charities, including Father Dunn's Newsboy Home, Little Sisters of the Poor and the House of Good Shepherd.

Mr. Seitz conducted a drug store at 736 South Fourth street until he retired from business three years ago.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.

THIS is to be a reporter's impression of Herbert Hoover the man. That he was born into a Quaker family in Iowa; worked his way through Leland Stanford University; married Lou Henry, a fellow student; began the practice of mining engineering in a small way and became a famous engineering consultant, with offices and interests all over the world; organized and directed the war-time feeding of Belgium; headed the American Food Administration after the United States entered the war; directed the American postwar relief work in Europe; entered the cabinet of President Harding as Secretary of Commerce and continued in that capacity under President Coolidge until shortly after his nomination by the Republican party for the presidency; was elected President last Tuesday by a landslide majority of electoral votes— these are facts which the campaign has made familiar to all newspaper readers.

One of Hardest Workers Washington Has Known.

We start with Hoover as he now is, at the age of 54. He is one of the hardest working officials that Washington has ever seen. As Secretary of Commerce he seemed to have a finger in everything. The author of that brilliant book, "The Mirrors of Washington" published in 1923, described neatly the wide range of Hoover's activities. He said that whenever a new governmental problem came up it was taken in hand by some high official "and Hoover." Washington, he said, had become accustomed to hearing about "Hughes and Hoover" doing this, and "Davis and Hoover" doing that, and "Wallace (then the Secretary of Agriculture) and Hoover" something else. Hoover, in other words, was not only the efficient Secretary of Commerce, but the handy man of the administration.

The author of "The Mirrors" added that nobody who was so constantly referred to with an "and" in front of his name could hope to become President of the United States. He said, moreover, that Mr. Hoover had no talent whatever for practical politics. All of which shows how far astray the best of prophets can go.

Hoover as Secretary of Commerce nearly always reached his office ahead of his subordinates and was the last to leave. He took his lunch at a nearby hotel or the Metropolitan Club, or, as frequently happened, at his desk. The best time to interview him was between 5 and 6 p. m., near the end of his day's work.

Those who knew definitely what they wanted found him a highly satisfactory man to interview; those who merely went fishing for items were likely to have poor luck. For Mr. Hoover is not a garrulous man; I should say that when the subject under discussion does not appeal to him, he is less talkative than Mr. Coolidge. He has, however, an astonishing amount of exact information on an astonishing number of subjects, and when he is asked a direct question on any of these, he is capable of producing a well-ordered array of facts.

Better in Private Talks Than in Public Speaking.

His talk in private is vastly more interesting than his discussions in public, and his manner of delivery is much better. He is apt to be quite humorless in his conversation, but he impresses and sometimes fascinates by the wealth and exactitude of his knowledge.

He seems to have a mind divided into a great number of pigeonholes. Ask him a question and he will reach into one of them and produce the contents; he will shoot the reply and then stop short. There is no tapering off. He answers and comes to a full stop. Unless you have another question ready there is likely to be an embarrassing pause, filled in, on Hoover's part, by an incessant scribbling of geometrical designs on the pad in front of him. If, however, you are prepared with another pertinent inquiry, the conversation can be carried forward without a break.

In this way you can get from him at one sitting, if time permits, an informative discourse, or rather a series of sharply separated discourses, on such diverse topics as medieval printing, salmon fishing in Alaska, the German attitude toward reparations and the birth rate in Czecho-Slovakia. He is very unlikely, either in an interview or in social conversation to volunteer anything about his personal experiences.

In a rare burst of personal reminiscence, he once disclosed to the writer that shortly after the war a new asteroid discovered by Austrian astronomers was officially named Hooveria, out of gratitude for the services of the American relief administration. Hoover strictly forbade publication of the story, which later came out from another source.

Fishing Trip His Idea of a Real Vacation.

Hoover's idea of taking a rest is to go fishing. Unlike Coolidge, who took up the sport only a few years ago and suddenly discovered that he likes it, Hoover has been an ardent angler for years, and by all accounts a good one. A few years ago he bought a tract of wild land in Oregon. The lodge is miles from a railway, at the head of a well-nigh impassable valley. To this retreat Hoover has occasionaly gone for a spell of fishing in mountain streams, under conditions as far removed as possible from those of his daily life.

He has said that when he goes on a vacation, he wants this contrast: He wants to get out in the open, far from steam heated houses and Pullman cars, put on old clothes and "rough it." He is no angler in fancy dress; he simply pulls on hip boots over an old suit and wades in. Several times a year he goes deep-sea fishing off Norfolk, Va., and he is also familiar with the waters off Florida.

Hoover never would have said—as President Coolidge did before he himself became a convert—that fishing is a sport for children. I have no doubt that Hoover would heartily second the words in praise of fishing by that earlier eminent disciple of Izaak Walton, the late President Cleveland.

"In these sad and ominous days of mad fortune chasing," said Cleveland, "every patriotic, thoughtful citizen, whether he fishes or not, should lament that we have not among our countrymen more fishermen.

"No one should fail to see that patience is a most desirable national trait and that it is vastly important to our body politic that there should continue among our people a large contingent of well equipped fishermen, constantly prepared and willing to contribute to their country's fund of blessings a liberal and pure supply of this saving virtue."

Plays No Golf but Enjoys Building Dams With Son.

There is no golf in Hoover's repertoire. He does a bit of walking and motor car driving—both at a good rate of speed—but what he likes best in the way of recreation, next to fishing, is to go out with his son Allan on a Sunday afternoon, find a secluded stream and build dams. He and Allan have solved no end of intricate drainage and water power problems by constructing miniature dams out of mud and stones in the neighborhood of great falls on the Potomac above Washington. It is said to be a Sunday evening common place in the Hoover home for the father and son to come in late for supper, with mud from their dam building operations spattered all over their clothes.

Hoover has an extremely catholic taste in reading. There are books all over the place in his Washington home—specialized books in engineering, geology, philosophy, economics, as well as books in general literature—and they bear evidence of usage. But he doesn't confine himself to heavy reading. He devours detective stories. Like the late President Wilson, he likes to "chase a criminal all around the block."

Translated Medieval Work on Metallurgy.

George Akerson, his secretary, espied a new mystery novel, with an exciting cover, in the possession of a reporter on one of the Hoover campaign tours, and promptly borrowed it for "the chief" who had exhausted his own supply. He uses books of this kind to take his mind off his work and put him to sleep at night.

Hoover is an author of note in his special field. His "Principles of Mining" which appeared in 1909, is still used in technical schools. At the end of the sketch of his life in "Who's Who" there is the line: "Joint translator Agricola de Re Metallica." If Hoover were pressed, he would probably tell you that he derives more satisfaction from this piece of work than from any of his campaign speeches.

"De Re Metallica" was written in the Latin of the sixteenth century by Georgius Agricola and for two centuries stood as the standard work on mining and smelting. Its technical terms, invented by the author to describe processes of the Middle Ages, defied the researches of Latin scholars.

Hoover and his wife undertook the translation. The meaning of many of the words had to be arrived at by what Will Irwin, in his biography of Hoover, calls "scientific detective work" in chemical laboratories which Hoover set up in his various homes. Hoover at the time was conducting mining operations on four continents. He and his wife worked on the translation at odd moments over a period of five years, and in 1912 they published it for private circulation among their friends. The book ranks as an important contribution to the history of mining.

Like the translation of Agricola's medieval Latin, Hoover's campaign speeches were the result of much painstaking effort. He consulted many persons in the course of their preparation, but they were strictly his own. His method was to dictate a speech topic by topic and then revise the typewritten manuscript with a lead pencil. He rewrote his acceptance speech seven times.

While he was laboring over this speech, various of his advisers offered him ready-made addresses. He declined them, saying that the speech would have to be his own. "The people," he is reported to have said, in effect, "are entitled to receive my thoughts expressed in my own way."

Super-Sensitiveness Illustrated in Campaign.

The sensitiveness of Mr. Hoover to adverse criticism has often been remarked. It was thought by some of his friends that his skin would be toughened by the campaign. I am told that this did not prove to be the case; that he suffered deeply throughout the cam-

Out of a Great Evil Has Come Much Good, Says Lloyd George

World War, Which Ended 10 Years Ago Today, Took Terrific Toll from Civilization, but Left Constructive Measures in Its Wake, British Ex-Premier Writes.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
War-Time Premier of England.

LONDON, Nov. 10.

NOV. 11 will mark the end of the first 10 years after the greatest and most destructive war ever waged in this world—a war in which well over 10,000,000 men were killed and at least 20,000,000 wounded, all of them young men carefully selected from the populations for their physical fitness. The direct aggregate cost of the war to the belligerent countries must have been well over $200,000,000,000. The indirect loss to the wealth of the world was incalculable.

Then came the shattering effect upon all the delicate mechanism of international trade and commerce which made business between Nations after the war a nightmare of astronomical currencies.

The rapidity with which the world has recovered from the damage and confusion is one of the greatest triumphs of human intelligence, courage and patience. The roads of commerce which were for a while almost impassable have been repaired. New turnpikes—high and bristling with formidable spikes, have been set up where none existed before, and the tolls hinder and embarrass the traffic, but the roadways are in good condition.

In walking through a wood, have you ever in a freakish moment scattered an ant heap with a vicious blow from your walking stick? An ingenious if somewhat flimsy structure which has taken an infinitude of toil and skill for these clever little creatures to construct is smashed and scattered, and the mischief seems quite irreparable. Panic, confusion and despair seem to possess the stricken community, and they rush about hither and thither in aimless excitement. But if, after an interval of some weeks you pass along the same way, you will be surprised to find how completely the damage has been repaired and how the gallant little people have resumed their ordinary habits and pursuits—full of purpose and method.

Rebuilding After the War Like Repairing of Ant Hill.

That is a fair picture of the last 10 years of the restoration in the war-shattered human ant hill. Not that the Nations have yet completely rebuilt and refurnished the devastated structure. Judged by percentages, international trade is perhaps a little higher than it was when the first shell crashed on its roof in 1914, but the population is greater and the burdens heavier. Had there been no World War, the trade of the world would not have stood today at 105 per cent of the 1913 figure, but at 130 at the very least and probably at 150. But the very fact that it has recaptured the pre-war position is in itself something at which we can marvel and rejoice. It will take many more years before the devastated Nations get quite over their wounds even in commerce.

Britain is supposed to have overcome the effect of the Napoleonic wars by 1830, i. e., 15 years after they ended. Would it be too much to say that the damage of the last war will take 20 years to repair?

Apart from Russia—which is a special case—the countries that have suffered most from the war are naturally those whose prosperity depended most on their international trade—Great Britain and Germany. Two-fifths of the business of Britain before the war was made up of exports of manufactured goods and coal and of its vast business as a sea-carrier for the world. No country was—or is—as dependent on its overseas trade as Great Britain. It is a matter for boasting and not for despair that it has already recovered just four-fifths of that enormous international business. The large unemployment roll proves that. Britain has still a long way to go ere she stands where it did in this respect in August, 1914. But progress although slow is steady, and the Nation can still claim to be the largest international trader in the world.

British Build Up Business in New Branches of Trade.

It is encouraging to note that although Britain is losing some of its old business, it is building up trade on other lines which have developed largely since the war. For instance, the cotton industry is moving gradually from the coarser to the finer fabrics. The latter have hardly been affected by the depression. The trade and commerce of the U. S. A. were not in the least impaired by the war—if anything, the reverse. The great European eruption sent streams of molten gold flowing like lava on to its plains to fructify the industries. In any event, the United States of America is a country of such inexhaustible natural resources that no convulsion could make much impression on its internal prosperity.

America has helped Europe very considerably on the road to recovery. Without plan, policy or premeditation, its great surplus wealth is pouring into Europe in search of profitable investment. Germany owes a good deal of its speedy recovery to American dollars which—for an adequate consideration—helped when the German coffers had been swept clean by the inflationary deluge. German skill and industry, aided by American cash, have worked marvels. Many other European countries have much to thank American finance for in the way of stimulus and assistance at the critical moment. Europe is crowded with a hard working, frugal and highly intelligent population. But the war burned up its capital and left its banks with more cinders than cash. America has done much to supply the deficiency and European industry is doing the rest.

Huge War Debts of Several European Nations Wiped Out.

There is one factor in the post-war development of Europe the effect of which will become more apparent in years to come—the almost entire obliteration of the huge debts incurred during the war. The German and Russian debts have been wiped out and so has the Austrian. Four-fifths of the French debt has disappeared and three-fourths of the Italian. Europe owes that much of relief from the burdens that otherwise would have weighed down its energies to the currency inflation which followed the war.

The British Empire and America are alone in strapping their huge debts more tightly to their shoulders. Germany still has to carry a heavy burden of reparations, and France and Italy have a substantial pack of American debt which they have most reluctantly agreed to carry, but even that is not equal in weight to the prewar debts, public and private, which they have succeeded in throwing off by their considered depreciation of the value of their currency. Whatever the effect may be on their credit, it is all to the good that the Nations have successfully extricated themselves from the quicksands of deflation and are now standing on the firm ground of stabilization.

Too Early to Say Exactly What Good Came From War.

Is mankind as a whole better or worse off for the war? It is early yet to answer that question with confidence. If the League of Nations succeeds in establishing its authority as a final court of appeal in all international disputes and the Nations, great and small, trust to defense of their interests and honor to the justice of its decisions and not to force, then humanity will have gained something which is worth all the blood spilled and the treasure squandered.

But a glance at the armament statistics of Europe, Asia and America will convince the most sanguine champion of the government that force still occupies the chair in the supreme court of the Nations. What of the Kellogg pact? It will be time to repose confidence in that striking document when we hear the hammers not building but breaking up cruisers, submarines, tanks and great guns. The struggle still is going on between those who seek security in organized violence and those who are looking for it in established justice. Which of them is gaining the upper hand? I cannot tell. The victory is not yet for either. But so far the sword is holding its own.

Two Classes of Society Are Definitely Better Off.

There are two sections of society which have appreciably benefited by the war—those engaged in manual labor and women. As to the latter, it has been for them a war of emancipation—East and West. It has increased their economic and political opportunities and raised their status. The conferring of the vote upon them in so many democratic countries since the war is only the outward visible sign of the liberation of the sex. There can be no doubt that women have Negro Schools in Rural Missouri.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AS STATE inspector of Negro schools, I recently ran into a situation in a certain school district that is so typical that I am inclined to call your readers' attention to it. I think if such facts are given to the public, something remedial will eventually be done in a legislative way.

In response to a call from the district in question I went there and had conferences with patrons and school officials. I found that there had been no public school for Negro children in that district for a great many years, although there had been more than enough Negro children for a school under the law. And yet, contrary to the law, a school was denied them because the people of the district refused to authorize the erection of a building for a school. The law provides no effective recourse in such a case.

The conference with the dominant member of the board brought out the interesting opinion that it would be a simpler solution of the situation for the Negro families to move to a district where school facilities are already provided for Negroes, than for the people of the district to impose additional tax upon themselves, especially since the Negroes were not freeholders. As an alternative the Negro children could attend school seven miles away in an adjoining county where an occasional makeshift school is "kept" for Negro children. This alternative was tried until the teacher of the school refused to teach them any longer because they were non-residents of the county.

And so it comes to pass that in that district, as in many others, the Negro children are denied free school opportunity, and that too in defiance of the law. The present laws seem to be ineffective in compelling unwilling district officers to provide school facilities for Negro children. In this and in other instances they are willing to lose certain State funds forfeitable by non-compliance with the law. They regard such a loss as a real gain, since the amount forfeited is less than the amount required to support a Negro school.

It was indeed depressing to see that group of children literally growing up in ignorance here in "Imperial Missouri," and to know that there are hundreds, in fact, thousands, in like situation. This instance of denial of common schools would not be so distressing if it were not so typical.

As if to make emphatic the injustice of the case, in an adjoining district a school has been upkept each year for one student—a white boy. It is true that the lone white boy has as great a claim upon Missouri for educational opportunity as any group of white children in the State. It is also true that that group of Negro children has as great a claim upon Missouri as has that white boy.

The Lower House of the Fifty-fourth General Assembly passed a bill (HB166) which was killed in committee of the Upper House, that provided safeguards against such a situation. It is hoped that those Missourians who believe in racial and educational fair play will see to it that the next General Assembly will enact this, or a similar bill into law and thus guarantee equal educational opportunity to Missouri children regardless of race or habitat.

Post-Mortem.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE only reason the Democrats lost is because of the fact they are not in the limelight. They need a few good men like Fall, Sinclair and Doheny in order to put them in the limelight.

BILL.

Congressman Cochran.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PLEASE permit me to say a few words regarding the splendid editorials your valuable paper has published during the campaign. The one in Sunday's issue regarding Mr Jack Cochran, who has been re-elected to Congress from the Eleventh District, was certainly well merited. He deserved the vote of every man and woman in the district because he has given faithful service to everyone requesting it, regardless of race, religion or political affiliation.

I know from personal experience that when he goes after anything he never stops working or fighting as long as there is any possible chance of success. His work is gratis and he does not allow his personal welfare to interfere with the interests of those in his district. He worked on my case during the busy campaign, but was never too busy to grant me any necessary interview, to receive me kindly and to devote hours of valuable time and much work to my case, never asking or expecting anything in return.

ONE WHO NEEDED AND RECEIVED FAITHFUL SERVICE.

MR. HOOVER AND THE SOUTH.

Little by little the Republican party invades the traditional territory of the Democrats. Mr. Roosevelt in 1904 was the first Republican candidate for the presidency to carry Missouri. Mr. Harding, in 1920, was the first Republican candidate for the presidency to carry Tennessee. Mr. Coolidge, in 1924, was the first Republican candidate for President to carry Kentucky. Mr. Hoover carries the invasion into Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and Texas.

It is very likely, as the New York Times thinks, that this last feat is largely due to Mr. Hoover himself. He had three prime advantages. (1) His great reputation in the service of humanity; (2) his identity with business rather than with politics; (3) the historical innovation of a scientist and engineer as a candidate for President. Strong in each of these fields, he was unbeatable when they were conjoined. The country displayed in the election a sense of wanting scientific rather than political leadership. It had in mind foreign trade rather than foreign politics. It possibly looked forward to conquering the Mississippi floods, as it might have had some faint anticipation that we will have the Nicaraguan canal to build. The appearance of Mr. Hoover on the political horizon might therefore have appealed to the genius of the people, which is sometimes far more practical and far-seeing than we are accustomed to suspect.

The Democrats opposed to this imaginative quality, which Mr. Hoover possibly stimulated, no prospect that was in any sense dramatic. They merely offered a political program which smacked of old things less revered in our time than when government itself took precedence over either science or business. La Nacion, a newspaper in Buenos Aires, makes the shrewd observation that the Republican policy has always sponsored the development of the United States as an industrial nation, while the Democratic group has always been watchful lest the vast economic interests derange the nation's institutional structure. It says: "The election results reveal the people of the United States as confident Hoover knows how to reconcile the needs of the tremendous prosperity of his country with the immutability of fundamental standards which made prosperity possible."

This is indubitably true and it was an advantage to Mr. Hoover in the South. His speech at Elizabethton was highly indefinite upon some of the issues of the campaign, but it nevertheless did strike a popular chord in the South. Mr. Hoover, as he has proved in picturing what might be on the Mississippi and its tributaries, has imagination. His dreams for the South, fast rising as it is into the industrial civilization of the North, had far greater appeal than anything else in the campaign. It is true, of course, that the religious question was a great advantage to him in the South; but as his viewpoint is that of modern industrial science, so, too, is that becoming the viewpoint of some of the Southern states. Their rise out of agriculture into industrialism is one of our present day phenomena, one, indeed, that is of great concern to industrial New England.

No doubt other Republican candidates for the presidency will carry still farther this invasion into the traditional territory of the Democrats. Ours is, as Europeans like Andre Siegfreid have pointed out, a civilization of precisely the kind that Mr. Hoover typifies. It is impossible to take it back to the intellectual civilization typified by Jefferson, Hamilton and Madison. We like to think of ourselves best as moving mountains. Col. Roosevelt capitalized this conception of ourselves with great romanticism when the Panama Canal was built. The Democracy of the South has long been an anchronism. It has been a half-century behind the national thought. It is a heartening sign to see it quit going to school to Montesquieu and yielding to influences more in step with our time. It is easy to believe that the Democratic party is more helped than hurt by the breaking up of the solid South, which has been for many decades as antipathetic to a wholesome two-party system of government as is the hidebound Republicanism of Pennsylvania and Maine.

MR. BORAH'S SECRET.

Presumably Mr. Borah has private assurances with respect to our Latin-American policy that will come out soon after Mr. Hoover is inaugurated. He at least said during the campaign that he had talked this matter over with Mr. Hoover and found they were in agreement.

If this was so, the Latin-American policy of Mr. Hoover cannot be that of Mr. Coolidge. Mr. Borah was the foremost critic in the Senate of the Coolidge policy in the Caribbean, and it is inconceivable that he has changed his mind. The Nation thinks it possible that Mr. Hoover, having been elected by a majority which dissipates every special obligation, may return to the liberal beliefs which he held so enthusiastically as one of the right-hand men of Mr. Wilson.

We hope that is true. So, too, will the Latin-Americans. They ask nothing better than that what Mr. Borah conceives to be their due should be the policy of Mr. Hoover.

When you consider that, according to the last census, the males in Missouri outnumbered the females by more than 38,000, it is astounding how much energy the women still expend in lassoing a mate hereabouts.

PARACHUTING AS A SPORT.

The regulation army air service parachute is made entirely of Japanese Habutai silk. It costs the Government $300. The umbrella portion is made in 24 joined sections so sewn that if one rips the others will continue to check the descent. The 24 shroud lines can each stand 400 pounds tension. They are made of silk, too, and are tremendously strong. Thanks to their sturdiness, the wearer can delay opening the parachute until he has fallen several thousand feet because, due to air resistance, the ordinary sized human body is not subject to the law of acceleration for freely falling bodies after the first 11 seconds. By that time it is dropping earthward at the rate of 173 feet a second, or 118 miles an hour, and developing a kinetic energy of 2,693,000 foot pounds.

Some day, we are told, parachute jumping will be considered as tame as a canter on an electric horse. True, there is a natural tendency to shrink from shoving off from the nice, solid airplane. The somersaulting fall downward before the rip cord can be jerked is said to be trying to the high-strung. To pull the cord, too, induces an alarming impression, just momentary, that parachute and wearer have parted company. But the reward of conquering ancestral fears and antiquated reactions is the soft, fluffy trip the rest of the way down—until the jumper bangs into the earth like a crippled elevator.

That's the case for parachute jumping as a sport. It is undeniably thrilling. It is said to be safe. Figures are adduced to demonstrate its safety. Even so, we wouldn't like it. Take, for instance, that word "shroud line." Is that nice?

ANTIEVOLUTION IN ARKANSAS.

When dear old Arkansas went to the polls, it had something on its mind beside the issues of the presidential campaign. It posed itself the question—if we may be pardoned for putting it into loose vernacular—Does man trace his descent from some hairy ancestor akin to the gorilla or the chimpanzee? From latest reports, Arkansas returned a stentorian "No!" With Shakspeare, Arkansas says: "What a piece of work is a man! how noble in reason! how infinite in faculty! in form and moving how express and admirable! in action how like an angel! in apprehension how like a god!"

In other words, Arkansas expressed its approval of an antievolution law, forbidding the teaching of evolution in the public schools of the State. It expressed its lack of confidence in Darwin, Huxley and their host of followers and put itself in the position of defying what the whole scientific world accepts. This will grieve many persons in Arkansas who voted against the proposal and who do not believe that knowledge can be throttled by legislative act. If the law is put into operation, it will drive many Arkansas children to the schools of other states and it will cause the intellectually curious to inform themselves about evolution, law or no law.

In time Arkansas will be forced to recede from its position and to repeal or nullify a law which attacks the freedom of education. It in the end will not thank those who, having failed to coerce the Arkansas Legislature into passing an absurd measure, stubbornly took it to the people. They have perpetrated upon Arkansas a piece of quixoticism which can only bring ridicule upon the State.

Add demons for punishment: The Boston public which voted to let the Braves and Red Sox play ball on Sunday, too.

THE MUCH-PHOTOGRAPHED.

It is a queer assortment of reactions that are attributed to much-photographed celebrities by an article in Popular Science Monthly, queer especially because of their diversity. Only one trait seems to be at all common. That is the aversion of many public figures to being photographed in profile.

Woodrow Wilson objected to profile pictures showing the left side of his face because of a large mole on his left forehead. The late President Eliot of Harvard disliked profiles from the right side because of a birthmark. Henry Ford and Gov. Smith oppose the profile on general principles.

President-elect Hoover is the despair of photographers because he has just one camera pose—looking straight at the lens, with an expressionless face. Gen. Pershing insists that every photograph show him stiffly erect. Gov. Smith likes to be photographed talking to someone, and John D. Rockefeller Sr. wants to be swinging a golf stick. A soft-hearted photographer once developed a picture of Rockefeller in which his toupee had slipped—he destroyed the plate! The click of a camera shutter invariably causes Paul Whiteman to grin, even when he is engaged in "burning up" the piccolo player.

The late J. Pierpont Morgan had a hatred for photographers that was almost a mania. This was said to have been due to sensitiveness about his bulbous nose. Several times he attacked camera men with his stick. The present J. Pierpont Morgan inherits the trait to the extent that he frequently feels obliged to hire guards and detectives to protect himself from the army of photographers. King Albert of Belgium is the easiest member of royalty, and the most obliging, to the news men. The Prince of Wales is usually in smiling mood when photographed in a crowd. He becomes nervous posing for a studio picture. An artist who sketched Henry Ford on an ocean trip was flattered when Ford offered him a good price for the sketch. When the artist had walked away Ford tore the drawing to bits with the remark to Mrs. Ford that he "simply didn't like it." President Coolidge is a trial to the Washington photographers because when he went into office he decided on an official pose looking past the camera. He has religiously stuck to it. Mayor Jimmy Walker has a smile for every camera man. He has but one taboo. He avoids bareheaded pictures, due to the sparseness of his hair.

IN THE GOBI DESERT.

It would be unfortunate if, in the public mind, Ray Chapman Andrews' expedition to the Gobi Desert should be associated chiefly with the discovery of Baluchitherium. Baluch, if we may be allowed to deal flippantly with the name of so antique and magnificent a beast, was first heralded as having been as large as the Woolworth Building. Ever since, Baluch has been shrinking, and we now have the word of Mr. Andrews that, while he was the world's largest mammal, he was only 24 feet long and 13 feet high at the shoulders. A mere runt, in other words.

Mr. Andrews, however, did not go to the Gobi Desert to find sensational curiosities, but to contribute to man's knowledge of man. He chose that desolate spot in the heart of Asia because, owing to its geological history, it is supposed to be the birthplace of man. It, rather than Mesopotamia, seems to have combined the exact elements necessary for the emergence of man from his evolutionary ancestors. Says Mr. Andrews in the Saturday Evening Post:

> We know now that the human species is incredibly more ancient than it was supposed to be 30 years ago. Then, four or five hundred thousand years was set as the uttermost limit; now it is estimated at two or three million years. With each new discovery man's age is being pushed back further and further into the past. One reason is the more exact methods of determining the ages of geological strata; another is the discovery of flint implements almost certainly worked by human hands in the Pliocene period of the Age of Mammals.

Arkansas and Dayton (Tenn.) papers please copy.

It seems likely, judging from Mr. Andrews' preliminary work, that the Gobi Desert will become the mecca of archeologists, paleontologists, geologists and others in their efforts to unravel the most fascinating mystery in the world, namely, the origin of man. Somewhere, perhaps, in the Gobi's vast stretches of arid sand will be discovered our ultimate genealogical chart.

"IN FLANDERS FIELDS THE POPPIES GROW."

The British Miners in Canada

The experiment of using immigrant British miners as harvest hands in the Canadian wheat fields has served to focus attention on the immigration problems of the Dominion; while the fixed policy of Canada is to welcome only agricultural laborers, immigrants from the Continent of Europe are better suited to such work than Englishmen.

From the Manchester Guardian.

THE movement to Canada of 8000 British miners to assist in harvesting the wheat crop of Western Canada has served at least one good purpose in that it has focused the attention of the public, both in the United Kingdom and Canada, upon the problem of immigration. The miner-harvester movement is yet in the experimental stage, and it will not be possible to pronounce upon its success or failure for several months.

Before the war immigration to Canada exceeded 200,000 persons annually, and more than 50 per cent were from the United Kingdom. Furthermore, there was a large inflow of settlers, mostly Anglo-Saxons, from the United States. The ratio of Continental Europeans and Asiatics to the Anglo-Saxon was about one to three. However, in the post-war years immigration has never exceeded 50,000 per annum, and the inflow from the United States has been negligible; British immigration has dwindled from 100,000 or more to 40,000 or less; and the Continental immigration has increased rather than diminished in comparison with the pre-war years. This is difficult to understand, particularly when it is realized that many classes of British settlers come out on the assisted passage rate of $15 while the Continentals pay the full fare of $85. Indeed, unless one knows the conditions now prevailing in Canada it is impossible to understand it at all.

To begin with, the Canadian immigration policy, since time immemorial, has been based upon the belief or supposition that Canada could absorb only agriculturists. This Dominion has never welcomed artisans, although the industrial expansion in recent years has been very rapid and the urban population now greatly exceeds the rural. The organized trade unions have consistently opposed artisan immigration, and the Government, whether Liberal or Conservative, has given heed to their views. In a sense this has been a form of protection granted to labor in Canada, because the standard of living enjoyed by artisans is very high and wages are good. Before the war there were rich tracts of land in Western Canada available for settlement, and anyone could obtain from the Government, free of charge, a homestead of 160 acres, with the right to purchase an additional 160 acres at a very low price. This free grant of land attracted many Englishmen who were not farm workers. Today, however, the land available for "homesteading" is either difficult to cultivate or far removed from a railway. Many impressive statements are made by immigration agencies in regard to the millions of acres of land unoccupied and within 20 miles of a railway, but investigation has shown that nearly all of it is second rate in quality—either covered with timber or of inferior soil.

The desire in recent years to stimulate British, as distinguished from Continental, settlement has been shown in the various settlement schemes adopted by the British and Canadian Governments. And yet the Continental Europeans are coming to Canada in thousands, paying the full passage rates, and are finding employment for themselves on the land. They come without encouragement, and they establish themselves on the land without aid. It cannot be said that the citizens of Canada as a whole desire them, although it is conceded that they will take land which Anglo-Saxons will not bother to look at, and will manage to eke out some kind of a livelihood.

Some of the difficulties surrounding British settlement may be gleaned from the experiences of the 8000 miner-harvesters who came to Canada last August. These men, of course, were unused to the conditions of labor in the harvest fields, where men work from dawn until dark in an almost frenzied effort to cut and thresh the crop before the autumn frosts and rains occur. Success means all the difference between good quality grain and high prices and poor quality and low prices. In a country such as Canada, where distances are so great, it is not possible for the harvester to interview his employer before accepting work. The farmer must state the rate of wages he is prepared to pay, and if the harvester accepts he is given a railway ticket to the nearest station and proceeds to his job. There are both good and bad farmers in Canada, and it frequently happened that when the harvesters reached their destination they did not receive a very cordial welcome and were not housed as they ought to have been. In such cases the plight of the harvester was hard indeed. He might be hundreds of miles from Winnipeg, friendless and alone. If he declined to work he must take his chances of getting another job, or walk across the countryside to Winnipeg, seeking his fortune. A few of the harvesters met with the very worst of treatment, and one or two walked more than 300 miles on foot, from the place to which they had been sent back again to Winnipeg. Others found the housing good and the food plentiful, but the work too strenuous. However accustomed to hard work they might have been at home, they had just completed a long trip, which must have softened their muscles. To be put to work at break of day and to work steadily until dark, and sometimes later, was too great a physical strain for many. They collapsed or asked for relief. In these circumstances, they met with various fortunes. In some cases the farmers allowed them to harden their bodies gradually; in others the farmers declared that they were paying for full-time work and if the man could not measure up he must accept less pay; in still others the men were dismissed as unsuitable. Obviously there were endless sources of trouble and hardship, and the wonder is that a very large proportion of the 8000 did not prove unfit. As a matter of fact, there were less than 500 misfits, and these were returned to the United Kingdom as quickly as possible.

Of the 7500 who remain the great majority appear to be making good, and are pleased with the way in which their adventure is turning out.

PROGRESS.

We have built the dreams that our fathers dreamed; we have conquered time and space;
We have matched our skill with stern Nature's will, and our dreams have taken place;
We have wrought with steel, we have chiseled stone, we have tamed the ocean's pride,
With a will we bent to our own intent
the might of wind and tide;
We have spanned the gorge where the waters rage with a fairy span of steel,
And the winds are laid to the god of trade
where Atlantic's breakers reel;
We have forged the dreams that our fathers dreamed, we have wrought the heroes of old,
But the same old lies to woman's eye in the same old way are told.

'Tis a far, long cry from the first crude sketch to the works we paint today;
We have laid our rails on their wagon trails, and the earth now owns our sway;
We have pierced the sky with our buildings
tall, we have dredged the ocean's bed,
Where no man had dared, have we bravely fared, have the roads we builded led.
Yet the same moon shines on our work tonight that to Babylon gave light,
And that strange, sweet word that a maiden heard will a maiden hear tonight;
We have builded dreams that our fathers dreamed, and the restless tides we tame,
But the story's told in a changeless mold,
and the story is the same.

Human Side of President-Elect

paign whenever he felt that he was being unjustly attacked. This sensitiveness caused the needlessly elaborate reply to the report that he had danced with a Negro woman in Mississippi and brought from the Treasury, as part of the answer to attacks on his "Americanism" the wholly unnecessary formal statement about his payment of income taxes.

Perhaps the drumfire of opposing criticism that is the lot of every man in the White House will eventually induce in Mr. Hoover a more philosophical state of mind For the sake of his own peace of mind, it is to be hoped so.

Mr. Hoover is also a genuinely shy man. It must have been plain to anybody in his campaign audiences that he did not enjoy making speeches. His way of looking down when he speaks is a part of this shyness. There was a period of 11 solid minutes, at least, in his St. Louis appearance when he did not take his eyes off his manuscript.

But Mr. Hoover was a much better speaker, at that, than he was at the beginning. For this he has to thank one of his devoted assistants—one of the group that speak of him affectionately as "the chief." This man saw that Mr. Hoover's voice failed to carry because he was talking down instead of out. His voice carries well enough when he projects it out. The assistant began the practice of posting himself in an audience at a particular place. Mr. Hoover knew where he was. Every so often Mr. Hoover was to look at him. When the assistant nodded his head with an upward jerk, the speaker knew that it was up to him to propel his words outward better than he had been doing. The scheme worked a marked improvement in Mr. Hoover's delivery.

Informal Talks With Friends Sunday Evenings.

Mr. Hoover is at his best with a few friends whom he trusts. Then his shyness falls off, he puffs his pipe or cigar (it is more likely to be a pipe) contentedly, and takes an animated part in the conversation. The Hoovers for a long time have had a way of calling in a few close friends for an informal Sunday evening of talk at their home. On these occasions Hoover is both a good listener and a good talker. The conversation is likely to run to some problem of government or economics, or perhaps to some modern development like the growth of motor bus transportation. For the ordinary small talk of a big social function Hoover has no gift at all.

This house of Hoover's is an interesting place. It has an air of comfort about it, and, as I have said, of bookishness. In addition, what with all the odds and ends of things that Hoover has picked up all over the world, it is something of a curiosity shop. Lining the staircase wall are the framed certificates of his many honorary degrees—an LL. D. for every step. Young Allan Hoover is said to have remarked one night, when he lingered on the stairs after saying good night, that he was going up by degrees.

His Standardized Clothes Show Indifference to Style.

If there is one thing that interests Mr. Hoover less than social chatter, it is his clothes. In that respect he is the exact antithesis of the late President Harding, who plumed himself on being a "good dresser." M. Hoover years ago applied his standardization theory to his clothes and then let them give him no further concern. He regularly wears a double breasted dark blue coat. It is said to have been his custom, when he was traveling about the world, to keep one of his standardized suits hanging up ready for use in each of his homes. When he wanted a new suit, he would tell his tailor in London, New York, Pekin or Moscow to make him one on the usual model.

All this may be a trifle exaggerated, as legends about public men are likely to be, but it illustrates his supreme indifference to male "styles." He is simply not, in the modern advertising patter, "clothes conscious." His hats for everyday wear are of soft felt, and look too small for him.

The story is told that when Hoover, the budding young engineer, got his assignment to go to Australia, his Stanford friends persuaded him to buy a morning coat effect of Scotch tweeds. Two years later one of the friends received the suit by express from Australia. With it was a note saying: "Since you like this damn thing, take it. I haven't worn it yet."

Nobody in Washington was more delighted over Hoover's election than the peanut vender on Pennsylvania avenue near the Treasury. He figures that he is secure in that stand for life, for Mr. Hoover is one of his regular customers. There is no greater peanut eater in public life than the President-elect. Some of his friends say that he goes to ball games to eat peanuts rather than to watch the play.

Mr. Hoover is personally as well as politically dry. He voted himself bone dry when he entered the Cabinet and he has not changed.

Fond of Home and Work and of His Dogs as Well.

Mr. Hoover likes dogs; he has several at his home in Palo Alto and a German police dog in Washington. He likes his work and enjoys his family life. Among the four in the family—he and Mrs. Hoover and their two sons, Allan and Herbert Jr.—there is a strong bond of affection and community of interest. They have a motion picture machine with which they make family record—the modernized version of the old plush-covered album on the marble-topped center table. They have a radio set in the house, of course, and in the early days of radio Hoover tinkered with it like any other fan. He is still deeply interested in Stanford, of which he has been a trustees since 1912, and likes to have Stanford men visit him at his home.

Items like these might lead him to say, if you asked him to describe himself, that he is an "average American citizen." And that, if you are willing to take "average American" in the way is commonly used, is a fair description—a fair description that is to say, up to the point where you have got to take account of his remarkable qualities.

Explaining some of the methods used in his campaign, a friend of his has said that Mr. Hoover was in the position of an engineer desiring to build a bridge, but first having to get his contract. Now that he has got his contract, and got it by such an overwhelming majority of votes, he has the opportunity to assert his individuality.

Out of Evils Of War Came Good, Says Lloyd George profited more directly and immediately by the war than any other single event in human history.

As to the working classes, they also have improved their conditions as well as their status. After the Napoleonic wars, they had an exceptionally bad time for decades. In Britain their wages were reduced to the brink of starvation—their houses in the industrial areas were pestilential dens—their hours of labor were worse than those inflicted on plantation slaves and their children—even children of 7 years old—were worked for 15 hours a day at wretched pittances. To be without work meant to be without bread. Bread riots broke out everywhere and were relentlessly suppressed. Never has the working population endured such pitiless and degrading bondage as that through which the workman of the early years of the nineteenth century passed—with their wives and children.

Since the last war the working classes have obtained an all-around reduction in their hours of labor—their status has been raised—their wages increased and their housing improved. Provision has been made for securing them against the worst hardships of unemployment. As for their children, never has the state displayed greater concern for their physical well-being and for their mental training. Politically the workmen are a greater force than they ever were at any time in any land.

It is well to remember on the anniversary of Armistice day that out of a great evil has come much good.

RECORD NUMBER OF CRIPPLED CHILDREN AT SHRINE HOSPITAL

During October 52 Were Admitted and 51 Discharged as Cured.

The largest month's accomplishments in the history of the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children were recorded in October, when 52 boys and girls were admitted to the hospital and 51 were discharged as cured or, in some cases, having completed the first stages of treatment.

The waiting list was reduced from 218 to 197. At the end of the month 101 children, or one more than normal capacity, were in the hospital. The previous high level was in September, when 45 patients were discharged and 50 admitted.

SEEKING TO PREVENT EVASION OF NON-RESIDENT HUNTING FEE

Illinois Wardens in Campaign; St. Louisan Fined $50, Taxed $10.50 for License.

With the Illinois hunting season for quail, prairie chicken and pheasant opening today, Deputy State Game Wardens are making a campaign against non-residents of Illinois who are taking out resident hunting licenses at a fee of $1.50. A non-resident license costs $10.50.

Arrested Friday in East St. Louis after he had applied for a non-resident license, James Meyer, 5612 Hodiamont avenue, was confronted with the dilemma either of being held for the grand jury for making a false affidavit or pleading guilty to hunting without a license.

He took the latter course. On his plea, Justice of the Peace Gear fined him $50, to which was added $4 costs, $5 State's Attorney fee, $3.35 arrest fee and $10.50 for a non-resident license, a total of $72.85.

Chinese Mandarin Embroideries

In a Special Exhibit

Chinese Embroideries . . . the things that bring before us the spirit and colors of the Orient . . . that typify the subtle patience of the Chinese . . . and that are one of the loveliest expressions of racial art.

In this collection, Vandervoort's has chosen examples that we feel are typical of their class. Some are modern—some have the added virtue of antiquity, and claim more than one hundred years of life. The exhibit presents a marvelous opportunity for the Christmas gift seeker. Many types and varieties of pieces are included.

Small Covers, for end tables, desk pieces, radios, etc., $1.85 to $7.25

Scarfs, for tables — a large assortment of sizes and colors $5.25 to $175

Wall Pieces, Piano Covers, Chaise Lounge Covers and Day-Bed Covers $19.50 to $275

Round Pieces, for use as mats, etc., in various sizes....50c to $15.50

Oval Pieces, also in various sizes $1.75 to $4.35

The Hostess Who Is Planning Her Social Campaign Begins Her Preparations at Vandervoort's

With Thanksgiving in Mind

FOR this home-coming day, the dining-room furnishings become most important. And in the Vandervoort Shops are those lovely things that will add to the glory of the occasion. A Dining Suite of eighteenth century type adapted attractively to modern ways is illustrated above. The table, buffet, five chairs and host chair are included in this beautiful mahogany set with ebony and satinwood inlays, $395.00. China cabinet, $120.00.

The Curtains and Draperies

Fashion shows a preference for the finer printed fabrics at the windows, and there are endless color harmonies obtainable, in lovely imported hand-blocked linens and Toiles de Juoy. Glass curtains are consistently simple, usually of finest, sheerest net finished with narrow edgings or with new hems, described best as "tailored."

Cretonnes—including the chintzes and linens—are charmingly colorful that they hold their own from season to season.

Decorative fabrics of the heavier, richer weaves are here in a bewildering array. Additional floor space has been opened in the Drapery Shop, to better display these beautiful creations, and among them will be found practically every decorative material.

Floorcoverings

Rugs for the dining room are available in every style, whether the architecture calls for French, English, Spanish or Early American furnishings. Very fine modifications of Oriental designs and colorings are found in Karastan Rugs, priced in the 9x12-ft. size at $195.

The Oriental Rug is so well adapted for most interiors that it is almost the inevitable choice for the better type of home. Many interesting and beautiful specimens are obtainable in Persian and Chinese patterns, made in room sizes from $250 to $600.

Not Overlooking Table Linens

For the formal Thanksgiving dinner, one is correct in using either white or ivory table linen. But for the more informal family affair, the cloth may be entirely green or gold—or some of those delightful color combination patterns. In any case, Vandervoort's can supply pattern cloths from $3.95 to $50.00—and matching napkins from $3.95 to $50.00.

Linen Shop—Second Floor.

Washington-Wakefield Dinner Service

This open-stock pattern is copied exactly from the dinner service used in the home of Washington. It is especially appropriate for the dining room with Eighteenth Century furnishings. Made by Lenox, Inc., and sold at Vandervoort's exclusively in St. Louis.

WOMEN VOTERS PLAN SCHOOL BOARD SLATE

Membership of League Approves Active Participation in Election.

A membership meeting of the League of Women Voters, at the Coronada Hotel yesterday, ratified the plan proposed by the Education Committee and approved by the board of directors, for active participation of the league in the election of four members of the Board of Education in the city election ext April.

The league proposes to seek out able and qualified citizens to become candidates and to campaign for them, after circulating the necessary nominating petitions. Furthermore, the league will endeavor to arouse public opinion on the importance of having an efficient and harmonious Board of Education.

This will be the league's major project for the year, in accordance with a vote taken last spring. Women as well as men may be asked to run for the board, which has had a number of women members. The Campaign Committee will name a small selection committee, with personnel not necessarily restricted to the league, to find 15 or 20 suitable candidates. The Campaign Committee will number those selected in the order of its preference and then the league will "draft" from among them. Other organizations will be asked to interest themselves.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY CALLED RICH IN STORY MATERIAL

Miss Georgene Faulkner of Chicago Says It Furnishes Historical and Patriotic Background.

The Mississippi Valley is a region rich in historical and patriotic material suitable for story-telling to school children, Miss Georgene Faulkner, of the Faulkner School of Chicago, and author of children's books, said in a lecture recital before the fifth quadrennial convention of the National Story Tellers' League in the Hotel Chase Friday afternoon.

"This material, built around the splendid background of Indian legends, and the achievements of American pioneers," Miss Faulkner said, "should be used to make children proud to be citizens of this community."

The expeditions of Lewis and Clark, and of Marquette and Joliet, were mentioned as being especially applicable to St. Louis. She also mentioned the modern day achievements of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as having great story-telling value here.

Miss Faulkner, a former Y. M. C. A. overseas entertainer, and for four years the radio "story lady" of station WMAQ in Chicago, was one of several entertainers who appeared before the convention. Six other "radio story ladies" among the delegates to the convention were Mrs. Adelyn Keffer of Harrisburg, Pa.; Mrs. Ralph Mautone, Mrs. Edward F. Leonard, and Mrs. Frederick D. Williams of Chicago; Mrs. Wiggins V. Hancock of Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. Edna F. Atkinson of Columbus, O.

HOOVER BETTOR RIDES DOWN OLIVE STREET IN WHEELBARROW

Another, With Brass Band, Will Make Similar Trip on South Side Today.

A red and yellow wheelbarrow with George Padberg, an employe of the Roxana Petroleum Co., at the shafts, and William Boyd, an employe of the same office, riding in triumph, moved down Olive street from Twelfth boulevard to Broadway yesterday afternoon. Padberg, it was learned, had bet on Gov. Smith.

Eward T. Bruckner, Republican mate of the harbor boat, Erastus Wells, looked forward to a somewhat similar ride at 1 p. m. today from his home, 8316 Pennsylvania avenue, to Carondelet Police Station and back, 18 blocks in all. Bruckner bet a wheelbarrow ride, a brass band accompaniment and a penalty of $5 for each spill or halt, with his Democratic neighbor, Christ Wainwright, of 8321 Pennsylvania avenue.

The Pajama Question

For men there is nothing like fine madras garments. Fresh from England is a new model of that splendid material with self colored stripes—a mannish shawl collar—makes the long roomy coat stylish as well as comfortable. In brown, helio and blue, $5. Men's Furnishings, Main Floor.

And on the 8th Day—

...wind it up and then forget about it for 8 more days if you can. Fine cloissone' enamel on sterling silver makes a gorgeous ornament, 15 jewel movement insures a good timepiece An onyx base firmly holds these unique vase clocks so daintily decorated with medallions and tiny fleur de lys. Soft tones of rose, blue and natural. Two sizes, $95 and $185. Jewelry Section, Main Floor.

When Tucked in Up to the Eyes

...it is the all-wool blanket that is preferable, so soft, a veritable joy—a wide satin binding of the same color further enhances its plain elegance. Soft bedroom tones of blue, peach, green, rose and gold. Double-bed size, $32.50 a pair; single bed, $27.50. Blanket Section, Third Floor.

It's the Cut That Counts

This time it is not cake but luscious coral velvet that is cut. A goodly slice of this material has been used to make a most tasty pajama ensemble. Satin trousers with velvet cuffs. The sleeveless top has a low V neck with a rose border motive nestling intriguingly on the shoulder. A three-quarter length coat boasts a wide satin fold and cuffs. Truly beautiful, $49.50. Lingerie Salon, Fifth Floor.

In Perfect Harmony

...with the above costume nothing would be more disastrous than to choose the wrong mules. To avoid such a predicament the perfect match stands in the same case. That same lovely coral velvet with a gold trim and gold wish bone strap effect which is sure to keep them on the foot, $6. Shoe Section, Third Floor.

The Last Straws

...but foremost in novelties, Japanese straw mats in various sizes to accommodate either formal or informal table service. Peculiar twists and turns of different color straw when assembled form bright flower and conventional patterns as well as perfectly fascinating scenes. Oval and round with scalloped edges, 25c to 75c each. Art Needlework Dept., Sixth Floor.

Maybe Yes and Maybe No

Real—you must touch them to convince yourself that the cactus have never thrived on the desert. They're astounding from the tiny baby ones to the grotesquely shaped ones. Some true to nature have high-colored blooms, others are plain. In attractive modernistic containers—a German importation. 75c to $7.50. Flower Garden, Sixth Floor.

When Eve Disagreed

A pair of statues representing Adam offering Eve the proverbial apple is most artistically done in modern art of Cowan pottery of a peculiar rose orange hue. Extremely graceful lines makes these an usual pair, $75. Also a collection of vases, bowls, etc. of this same pottery. China Dept., Seventh Floor.

When Water Is Cold

...a match or lighter will not heat it and no hot water means no shave. Get into your best humor and come down and inspect these novel shaving mugs. They are electric nickel plated, silver lined with removable handle safety fuse, easy to pack, $6.75. Electrical Dept., Seventh Floor.

Think of Your Piano

Is it bare? Worse, still, have you carelessly thrown just anything over it? Crushed velvet throws with long silk fringe in odd modernistic color blendings will dress up your piano. These throws add the correct touch of color to the room, $47.50. Drapery Section, Sixth Floor.

It's the Foundation That Counts

A building is judged by its foundation—so are you! Marthe' Houdan that well-known architect of women's foundations in Paris sends us an extremely good model of fine knit elastic with silk brocade panels front and back—short bones keep it always in place, a small opening on each side makes it easy to get in and out of. $38.50. Corset Section, Fifth Floor.

TELEGRAMS BY PAY TELEPHONE
Coins Will be Dropped as Though For Long Distance.

Western Union telegrams may be sent through the three-slot type of coin telephones as they have in the past through other telephones, it was announced today.

The user of the pay station, after calling the operator, will be connected with a clerk of the telegraph company, who will read back the number of words sent. The operator will then direct the telephone user in depositing the proper number of coins. There are 10,300 such telephones in the St. Louis area.

FREE-Trial Treatment for DEAFNESS HEAD NOISES FROM CATARRH

"Take My Advice and Send for It Today"

Thousands have found quick, sure relief with this simple, free trial home treatment. In thousands of cases in his experience of 45 years, Dr. Coffee found that about 90% of deafness, head noises and impaired hearing are due to ear tubal catarrh or infection.

Nasal and throat catarrh is without doubt the most offensive of all diseases; it disgusts and nauseates all who may be within hearing.

The constant hacking, offensive sniffing, and stifling mouth breathing—the mucous discharge, which can only be eliminated by blowing the nose or by continual hacking and spitting, is sickening to all that are near.

Why continue to embarrass your friends, your family and all of those who are close by when Dr. Coffee's treatments will quickly rid you of this dreadful disease?

Send for free trial treatment and his amazing free book explaining all about it—the symptoms, causes and treatment of Deafness, Head Noises and Catarrh.

TELEGRAMS BY PAY TELEPHONE

Coins Will be Dropped as Though For Long Distance.

Western Union telegrams may be sent through the three-slot type of coin telephones as they have in the past through other telephones, it was announced today.

The user of the pay station, after calling the operator, will be connected with a clerk of the telegraph company, who will read back the number of words sent. The operator will then direct the telephone user in depositing the proper number of coins. There are 10,000 such telephones in the St. Louis area.

FREE-Trial Treatment for DEAFNESS HEAD NOISES FROM CATARRH

"Take My Advice and Send for It Today"

Thousands have found quick, sure relief with this simple, free trial home treatment. In thousands of cases in his experience of 45 years, Dr. Coffee found that about 90% of deafness, head noises and impaired hearing are due to ear tubal catarrh or infection.

Nasal and throat catarrh is without doubt the most offensive of all diseases; it disgusts and nauseates all who may be within hearing.

The constant hacking, offensive sniffling, and stifling mouth breathing—the mucous discharge, which can only be eliminated by blowing the nose or by continual hacking and spitting, is sickening to all that are near.

Why continue to embarrass your friends, your family and all of those who are close by when Dr. Coffee's treatments will quickly rid you of this dreadful disease?

Send for free trial treatment and his amazing free book explaining all about it—the symptoms, causes and treatment of Deafness, Head Noises and Catarrh.

UNION HOME BUILDERS MAY PAY OUT 75 PCT.

Bankrupt Concern Has $1,000,000 for Creditors, Special Master Reports.

A report was filed in Circuit Judge Ossing's court yesterday by Attorney Herbert M. Hart as special master in the receivership of the Union Home Builders in which he recomends that the court approve 5158 claims presented to him to investigate. These represent the cash surrender value of contracts held by certificate holders of the Union Home Builders and total approximately $1,000,000, according to an estimate made by Hart.

Hart recommended that the claims of 221 other contract holders be disallowed because the claimants failed to exhibit receipts and pass books. According to Hart the receivership estate has assets considerably in excess of $1,000,000, and there should be enough on hand to pay creditors about 75 per cent of what is due them.

The Union Home Builders had headquarters in Washington, D. C., and was taken over by the State Finance Department of Missouri in 1923 for the protection of local creditors. Roy McCoy, State Supervisor of Building and Loan Associations, is in charge as receiver. The law firm of Igoe, Carroll, Higgs & Keefe, representing the Union Home Builders, opposed the receivership, contending that the concern was solvent, but the receivership was permitted to stand.

Claims for legal fees growing out of the litigation total about $100,000. Of this, $40,000 was allowed to Wilbur B. Jones, Police Commissioner. Arthur J. Freund, and Thomas E. Francis, who acted as counsel for the receiver. This allowance, which was awarded by Judge Hall, who at one time had jurisdiction in the case, is held up pending a motion by the defense to vacate the award.

WANTS MORGUE INCLUDED IN NEW COUNTY HOSPITAL

Newly Elected Coroner Says He Will Ask for Quarters in $1,000,000 Building.

Dr. John O'Connell, Coroner-elect of St. Louis County, has announced his intention to ask the County Court and Citizens' Supervisory Bond Issue Committee to include in the $1,000,000 County Hospital to be built at Clayton with bond issue funds a morgue and Coroner's court room, in order to give the county centralized, efficient service. In this connection, he will advocate also a change in the State law by the coming Legislature so that the Coroner will not be required to hold inquests in the township in which the death occurs.

Louis H. Bopp, the present Coroner, has disregarded this law generally, holding inquests at his Kirkwood undertaking establishment. Dr. O'Connell, a Democrat, who was elected with the support of the Taxpayers' League, will ask the league to aid in having the law amended. He declared that the central morgue at the hospital would cost only $3000 to $4000, and that it would give modern service to meet the needs of the 200,000 population of the county.

BROTHERS ARRESTED ADMIT PLOTTING HOLDUP OF STORE

Police Hold Them as Precaution Although Probably No Charge Can Lie Against Them.

Two brothers, reported to have plotted to hold up the new Sears-Roebuck store, Kingshighway and Wells avenue, were arrested yesterday on order of Chief Gerk, who took that action rather than endanger the lives of customers in the shooting that might have ensued if the robbers had been trapped by the police in the attempt.

Probably no charge can be brought against the brothers, although they admitted that they had discussed the holdup. They said the idea was suggested by the man who exposed the plan to police.

New 'Set-up' Should End Interference Say Engineers

Heterodyning of Stations Eliminated, Except on 15 Wave Lenths, Experts Declare—Chain Broadcasting Will Be Affected Only by Time Sharing and Limitation.

The new station allocation that the Federal Radio Commission several months ago decreed should go into effect Sunday, Nov. 11, left only a few stations on the wave lengths whereon listeners have been accustomed to tune them in. Almost complete relogging of sets was expected to be accepted by listeners as a necessary inconvenience that would be forgotten in the pleasure of improved reception.

Advance predictions by radio engineers were that heterodyne interference would be eliminated except on nine "limited service" channels and six "local" channels to which several hundred small stations were assigned.

"National" stations, each of which has to have exclusive use of a cleared channel, were to be allowed to handle chain programs without restrictions for some 90 days, during which the commission planned to study the network problem. The effective date of the order limiting broadcasting of the same chain programs by national stations within 300 miles of each other was postponed until Jan. 31.

By THOMAS STEVENSON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Under the new allocation, listeners will find that they cannot get stations that formerly came pounding in. Other stations, never heard before, will be received in their stead. Numerous stations will suffer reduction in power or removal to less advantageou positions.

What were the reasons for the reallocation? How was it made? What results are expected from it? These questions were put to Judge Eugene O. Sykes, vice chairman of the Federal Radio Commission.

"By an amendment to the radio law," he said, "Congress requires us to divide broadcasting facilities, both for receiving and transmitting, equally among the five radio zones of the country, and equitably among the states of each zone, according to population.

"It was asserted that there was a congestion of stations in some sections of the country, notably New York and Chicago, and that some states did not have their fair share. It was this condition that the law was designed to correct.

"What did we have to divide? We had 90 wave lengths or the number of stations which those channels would accommodate. How many stations did we have to divide? That depended entirely on the number of stations which could be allowed to operate simultaneously on each wave.

"No one has doubted that Congress also intended us to improve radio reception. In fact, that was one of the primary reasons why the commission was created. So we had to take that into consideration in deciding the number of stations would or could operate simultaneously on each channel.

"The first question confronting the commission was whether or not the changes should be made all at once or if the improvement should be sought by gradual steps.

"The very fact that Congress limited the life of the commission clearly showed that we were expected to do the job at once without dragging it out over a period of time.

"In the second place, to have made any important changes at all would have made it necessary to shift many stations, unless chaos was to result. That was necessary because a proper geographical and kilocycle separation had to be maintained between stations on the same and adjoining channels, in order to prevent interference.

"So it was decided that an entirely new set-up of stations was necessary, first, because of the equalization requirement, and, second, because of the demand for improved radio reception.

"The commission then undertook to discover the set-up which would provide the greatest radio service to the entire people of the United States.

"Congress had appropriated money for the employment of engineering counsel. Unfortunately the work of the commission was badly handicapped during the first year of its administration through lack of funds.

"The commission obtained the services of some of the outstanding radio engineers of the country. Dr. J. H. Dellinger, internationally known through his work at the U. S. Bureau of Standards, is chief engineering counsel for the commission. Capt. Guy Hill, a prominent engineer of the U. S. Army Signal Corps, is also on the commission staff.

"The commission also sought

What Stations St. Louisans Can Expect to Tune in

BELOW is printed a list of stations, from 550 down to 1500 kilocycles, that listeners in the St. Louis territory should be able to receive from 7 P. M. on, with the new allocation in effect. Because of difference in time of sunset, when signals grow stronger, it may be 9 P. M. St. Louis time before Pacific Coast stations are received strongly.

Where station names are printed in heavy black capital letters there will be only one "national" station on a cleared wave at a time. Printing of station names in light capitals indicates that there are a number of stations on the channel, but that the one given should be tuned in reasonably clearly. A question mark following the station name, however, indicates that interference may ruin reception. Where no station names are printed there is reason to expect only jumbled noises.

It should be understood that a listener 100 miles outside of St. Louis may find a wholly different set-up, except for stations on cleared channels.

Location will determine, to a great extent, how many of these stations will be blotted out seven nights a week by KMOX and how many more will be covered by KFWF, St. Louis, whenever it is on the air. KFWF is likely to affect more listeners than in the past because it has been raised from the bottom of the dials to a position near that hitherto held by WIL.

Listeners will be aided in re-logging their sets by remembering that certain stations hold their old positions on the dial—for example KSD, KFI, WMAQ, WLW, WGN, WBBM and WLS—and that WOC and WHO will be on KMOX's old channel while KMOX has dropped from 1000 to 1090 kilocycles and KWK and WIL have been assigned to a channel somewhat below where KWK used to be.

Anyway, here are the stations that listeners favorably located in the St. Louis district and owning selective sets should be able to tune in:

All Canadian Stations Keep Same Channels

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Canada, Nov. 10. — Radio listeners in the United States will find their favorite Canadian broadcasting stations on the same wave lengths when the new allocation goes into effect in the United States.

By arrangement with the Canadian radio authorities, six channels are set aside for use by stations in the Dominion and broadcasters in the United States will not be allowed to use these channels, which are 690, 730, 840, 910, 960 and 1030 kilocycles.

Stations which will use 690 kilocycles are CFAC, Calgary; CFCN, Calgary; CJCH, Calgary; CKCO, Ottawa; CNRO, Ottawa.

Stations on 730 kilocycles are CFCF, Montreal; CHYC, Montreal; CKAC, Montreal; CKCD, Vancouver; CKFC, Vancouver; CKMO, Vancouver; CKWX, Vancouver.

Stations on 840 kilocycles are CFCA, Toronto; CJBC, Toronto; CKLC, Red Deer, Alberta; CNRT, Toronto.

Statioans using 910 kilocycles are CFQC, Saskatoon; CJGC, London, Ontario; CJHS, Saskatoon; CNRS, Saskatoon.

Stations using 910 kilocycles are CFCY, Prince Edward Island; CFRB, York County, Ontario, CHWC, Regina; CJBR, Regina; CKGW, Bowmanville, Ontario.

Stations on 960 kilocycles are CJOR, Sea Island, British Columbia; CNRV, Vancouver.

The Canadian National Railways has about a dozen studios which use other stations for transmission of their programs.

In addition to the six exclusive channels, Canadian stations share 12 other channels with stations in the United States. These are 580, 600, 630, 780, 880, 890, 930, 1010, 1120, 1200 and 1210 kilocycles.

To prevent interference with the programs of the Canadian stations, the Federal Radio Commission has restricted to 250 watts the power of United States stations on these channels which are within 300 miles of the border.

Henry Burr Sings In Maxwell Concert

Henry Burr, tenor, and Sascha Fidelman, violinist, are to be featured soloists in the Maxwell concert over KSD next Thursday night.

Burr will sing "Good Night, Little Girl, Good Night," by Macy. Merle Johnston will play Wiedoeft's "Valse Erica" on the saxophone. Fiedelman will play the "Gypsy Love Song" from Herbert's "The Fortune Teller."

Dinner Music on Sundays.

The largest orchestra giving Sunday dinner music concerts on the air will begin a series of broadcasts through NBC stations, including KWK, at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. The White House Dinner Music, as the new feature will be called, will be presented by an orchestra of 36 men under Hugo Mariani.

The half-hour programs will be made up of music ranging from semi-popular to classic, much of which will be played in special arrangement.

Coolidge Will Speak This Evening Over KSD

Gen. Pershing Also to Take Part in Armistice Day Program—Atwater Kent and Acousticon Hours Shifted.

An address by President Coolidge is to be the feature of a special Armistice Day broadcast that is to go on the air at 8:15 o'clock tonight through KSD and allied NBC stations. To make way for this program, it has been necessary to postpone the Atwater Kent concert to 9:15 o'clock.

Because of the sharing of time with KFUO, the Atwater Kent Hour cannot be broadcast by KSD tonight. Listeners in this territory would better try to tune in the Atwater Kent concert on WGN, Chicago, which remains on its old wave length, or on WOC or WHO on the old wave length of KMOX, depending on which of the two stations is using the channel this evening.

KSD's programs today will begin at 12:30 this afternoon with the Peerless concert, which will bring the following war time numbers:

Keep the Home Fires Burning ....Novello
Roses of Picardy .....Wood
There Is No Death .....O'Hara
James Phillips, Basso.
War Medley:
Long Long Trail
Hinky, Dinky Parlez Vous
Pack Up Your Troubles
Tipperary
The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise .....Seitz
Boots (Kipling) .....Feiman-Gamble
Madelon .....Roberts

A Biblical drama broadcast is scheduled to begin over KSD at 1 o'clock.

The next KSD feature today will be the Stetson Parade, beginning at 5 o'clock. The riot of joy in Paris on the first Armistice day, 10 years ago, will be recreated—impromptu parades, dancing, singing crowds, cheering soldiers. The Weymouth Post Band will furnish the stirring music.

Today's Acousticon program is to begin at 5:50 o'clock. Josephine Sable, who popularized "Hot

Boy Hears Signals From Byrd's Ships

By the Associated Press.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Nov. 10.—Bertram Puckett, 17-year-old high school student, has added communication with the Byrd Antarctic expedition to his ether adventures to far-away places.

With a homemade set he first picked up the "Elinor Bolling" and the "City of New York," ships of the Byrd party, while they were near the equator, sailing southward in the Pacific Ocean. He arranged to pick up their call letters regularly. The Bolling operator told Puckett he was the only person he had talked with since the North American shoreline had dropped from sight.

Puckett previously had heard stations in Hawaii, Japan, Moscow, Russia, Berlin, Paris and London.

the services of other engineers, preferably those known to be independent of connections which might in any way prejudice their views.

"Early last April the Commission asked the American Institute of Radio Engineers for recommendations as to the new set-up. A special committee of the Institute, made up of the most prominent engineers, gave the problem careful study and appeared before the commission with recommendations.

"Those men unanimously recommended that the commission divide the broadcasting band into the following classifications: Fifty cleared channels for national service to be used by high-power stations; 26 semi-cleared channels for regional service to be used by moderate-power stations; and four local channels for purely local service by low-power stations.

"The National Association of Broadcasters protested against such a set-up. It was said that it was too radical, that it would impose great hardship on many stations, that the improvements should be sought by gradual processes.

"Even the broadcasters did not dispute that it was a good plan. They merely contended we should do it over a period of time instead of all at once.

"According to the engineers, interference could be reduced and reception improved only by reducing the number of stations operating simultaneously. This could be accomplished by reduction in the number of stations or requiring rigid time division.

"The commission followed the latter course, refusing a license to no station that could prove it served public interest, necessity or convenience. But, to license all these stations, many of them had to give up some of the time they had been using.

the services of other engineers, preferably those known to be independent of connections which might in any way prejudice their views.

"Early last April the Commission asked the American Institute of Radio Engineers for recommendations as to the new set-up. A special committee of the institute, made up of the most prominent engineers, gave the problem careful study and appeared before the commission with recommendations.

"Those men unanimously recommended that the commission divide the broadcasting band into the following classifications: Fifty cleared channels for national service to be used by high-power stations; 25 semi-cleared channels for regional service to be used by moderate-power stations; and four local channels for purely local service by low-power stations.

"The National Association of Broadcasters protested against such a set-up. It was said that it was too radical, that it would impose great hardship on many stations, that the improvements should be sought by gradual processes.

"Even the broadcasters did not dispute that it was a good plan. They merely contended we should do it over a period of time instead of all at once.

"According to the engineers, interference could be reduced and reception improved only by reducing the number of stations operating simultaneously. This could be accomplished by reduction in the number of stations or requiring rigid time division.

"The commission followed the latter course, refusing a license to no station that could prove it served public interest, necessity or convenience. But, to license all these stations, many of them had to give up some of the time they had been using.

"The plan adopted by the commission for the new set-up was, to some extent, a compromise between many recommendations. We wanted to clear as many channels as possible, but at the same time we wanted an adequate number of regional and local services.

"Forty channels were cleared for national service. That is to say, on those 40 channels only one station at a time may operate during the evening. That allows eight cleared channels to each zone. The remaining 50 channels were assigned to regional and local services.

"It is well known that if two high power stations attempt to operate simultaneously on the same channel they interfere with each other. Yet it is necessary to employ high power to deliver programs to listeners in the country where there are no stations. To prevent these programs being spoiled by interference, we had to give exclusive use of channels.

"The engineers told us we need not place a limitation on power on the cleared channels.

"But the commission preferred to limit power to 25,000 watts, with an additional 25,000 watts for experimental purposes. This must not be interpreted as a permanent limitation. The limitation will be raised on actual demonstration that the use of more power will not produce harmful results.

"On the regional channels there should be a minimum of interference. Stations operating simultaneously on the same channel have been so separated geographically and their power so reduced that they will not prove nuisances to each other.

"The commission is confident that the new set-up will bring a big improvement in service to the listeners of the country. There should be a great reduction in interference and a corresponding improvement in reception.

"The full benefits of the reallocation probably will not be immediately apparent.

"In the first place, it may take a few months for some of the stations to become adjusted to their channels so they will not interfere with their neighbors on adjacent channels.

"In the second place, many of the cleared channel stations will not be equipped for several months to use the power authorized by the commission.

"In selecting the positions for stations in the new setup, the commission undertook to give preferred treatment to those considered to be rendering the greatest public service.

"The commission does not believe that the reallocation is 100 per cent perfect.

"Perhaps, in many cases, due to incomplete or inaccurate information, assignments to individual stations have not been entirely correct.

"Actual practice may prove to us that interference will result on some of the channels because of inadequate geographical separation, or other causes. It may be that in some places even more stations can be squeezed in.

As soon as the reallocation has been given a fair test, the commission will undertake to correct whatever faults that may have appeared.

"The commission believes that listeners will be more than repaid for their trouble in relogging their sets by a great improvement in reception and service."

Music From Big Speaker Heard for Distance of 5 Blocks

Music broadcast election night from KSD through the large speaker on the second floor of the Post-Dispatch Building, at Twelfth and Olive streets, was distinctly audible above the noise of autos and trolley cars as far as Seventeenth street.

The speaker and the amplifier that drove it were made by the Western Electric Co. They were installed and operated by the Radio Installation Co. As has been told, the speaker was 19 feet long and its mouth was five feet across.

Fred Stone in New Program Over KWK Tomorrow Evening

Fred Stone, famous actor, although still confined to his bed as a result of an airplane crash, will be enabled by radio to return to the public. He and his daughter, Dorothy Stone, may be heard from KWK and allied NBC stations in the first program of "Automatic Duo Discs" series tomorrow evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

This first program will emanate from three widely separated points. Musical merriment at the opening of the hour will be created in the Chicago NBC studios by the Duo Disc Duo, who are the "Singing Reporters," Billy and Eddie Gorman.

Fred Stone next will enter the program from a hospital in New London, Conn., where microphones have been installed at his bedside.

Dorothy Stone will follow her father, broadcasting from backstage at the Globe Theater, New York, where she is appearing in "Three Cheers." Due to Stone's aerial mishap, Will Rogers is pinch-hitting in "Three Cheers" for his friend.

Drama of Joan of Arc On KSD Tuesday Night

Elaborate Presentation in Five Episodes, With Symphonic Background, Planned to Be One of Most Notable Broadcasts Ever Given.

The thrilling story of Joan of Arc's patriotism and martyrdom in medieval France is to be told in next Tuesday night's Eveready Hour over KSD, in what is expected to rank as one of radio's most pretentious programs.

Sixty persons will participate in the vocal and musical production of an historical play depicting five episodes in the life of the French girl whose fine, brave figure has stood through the centuries as a supreme example of devotion to country, King and God.

These episodes, covering as many distinct phases of her career, will be produced as separate acts, beginning with Joan's visitation by her "voices" and ending with the historic trial and execution at Rouen.

Rosaline Greene, whose work both on the stage and in radio has established her position among the country's new dramatic stars, will play the part of Joan of Arc. A special arrangement of Caesar Franck's "Symphony in D Minor" will be played between the episodes, the pure, melodious measures of the music, with its majestic cadences, its gently beseeching passages for English horns and its mellow French horn recital, being singularly suited to the program's theme. Some of De Bussy's music, including excerpts from "Clair de Lune" and "Cathedrale Engloutie," also will be played.

Assisting Miss Greene as principals will be several well known actors. The role of Cauchon, presiding Judge at Joan's trial, will be taken by Frederick Forrester. Wheeler Dryden will play King Charles VII of France; Richard Abbott will be the Le Clerc, the only one of Joan's 62 judges who sought mercy for her; Kathryn Claire will play Marie, sister of the Maid of Orleans, and Edwin Thompson will play the part of the girl's father.

The action of the five episodes will be bound together by the interpretative comment of a narrator, Reginal Barlow, who, with his readings, will carry the continuity forward to its climax in the final episode.

The five episodes will be as follows: First episode, "The Voices;" second, "She Takes Command;" third, "Coronation of the King at Rheims;" fourth, "The Trial;" fifth, "The Execution."

An octet of male voices and a quartette of female voices will be heard during the program. The Eveready Orchestra has been enlarged for the evening and will be directed by Nathaniel Shilkret.

Few stories have so held the attention of mankind as has that of Joan of Arc, the Maid of Orleans. Interest in her today continues unabated, although she was born in 1412, in the village of Domremi, in Lorraine, the daughter of peasants. Her home is preserved there as a national relic, with a monument of the Maid opposite the house. It was at Domremi that she heard her "voices" calling her to Rheims to crown the king and to deliver France from the English, then overrunning the country. Her obedience to her invisible mentors, her triumph, her farcical "trial" at Rouen and execution by burning by the English are matters of history.

Originally associated with the Washington Square Players, Rosaline Greene, by her acting in radio dramas has caused a number of critics to praise both her ability and the unusual quality of her voice. At the radio world's fair in New York, she was chosen by the directors as winner of the perfect radio voice contest.

She brings to this Eveready Hour a ripe experience in the technique of radio acting, having been leading lady with the WGY Players, the famous stock company of the Schenectady broadcasting station. During her association with WGY, Miss Greene played a wide variety of parts, ranging from Kate in "The Taming of the Shrew" and other Shakespeare roles to Lydia in "The Rivals" and "Lovey Mary" in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

She is an honor graduate of the New York State College of Teachers. At WOR, following her association with WGY during which she became widely known on the continent and abroad, Miss Greene formed the Rosaline Greene Players, a unique group of college graduates, young and experienced professionals, whom she directed in their radio presentations.

SINGER SPENDS HOURS LISTENING TO OWN RECORDS

PAUL OLIVER, tenor in the Palmolive Hour, is said to spend most of his evenings "listening in." He is an expert on the mechanics of radio and builds sets for his friends.

He attributes much of his success on the air to intimate knowledge of the science of radio and close study of microphone technique. Prior to signing an exclusive contract to sing in the Palmolive Hour, he made phonograph records, some of them duets with the coloratura soprana, Olive Palmer. He has a large collection of these records and spends hours listening to his own voice.

"No, it isn't vanity or self-admiration," he said. "Naturally, I cannot hear myself on the air, but the records do give me an accurate idea of how my voice registers, and by studying the vocal effects of my various records I am able to correct faults and improve my performance."

A. Atwater Kent, has broken ground for a new $3,000,000 factory that will double the size and capacity of his present, 16½-acre plant.

"This addition is made necessary," said Kent, "to meet the steadily mounting demand for receivers and speakers. The production capacity of our present plant is exceeded this fall, in spite of the fact that we are turning out 1,000 sets per day. My belief that the future of radio is even greater than the past or present has caused me to take this step in order to be ready for next year's business, which I believe will be greater than ever."

The policy of handling all manufacturing activities on one floor, under the mass production, belt assembly principle, will be followed in the new factory.

Contractors are under unusually heavy penalty to complete the building by May 1, 1929.

R. T. Pierson, of New York, has been elected a director of the Bremer-Tully Manufacturing Co., Chicago. He is to assist in developing production and distribution methods in view of the rapid expansion of the company which recently moved into a new two-acre factory. Pierson was president and treasurer of the Hazeltine Corporation for three years; chairman of the board of the Independent Radio Manufacturers, Inc., and president of the Latour Corporation. So he takes to Bremer-Tully intensive experience in the field of radio patents.

A Majestic receiver is said to have been the first console type radio set to cross the Atlantic Ocean in an airship. It was placed on the Graf Zeppelin as a result of a letter received by the Grigsby-Grunow Co., manufacturer, from Karl Buerle, chief engineer of the dirigible. He wrote that he had heard a Majestic set with relatives in Philadelphia and would like to take a Majestic back to Germany to show them the performance of the built-in dynamic speaker, something which Germany does not have. The company, naturally, immediately placed a set on the airship.

Radio production has passed out of the ready-made suit class and is now going forward on the same basis as is automobile production, according to the Geller, Ward & Hasner Hardware Co., Crosley distributer.

Production at the Crosley factory, the firm reports, has fallen behind demand and every set is on order before it has been completed. No longer do finished receivers go from final test to warehouses, to be piled up pending arrival of orders. Now as sets go from the final manufacturing step they are sent direct to the shipping room, to be placed in freight cars that are sent out each day. When they reach St. Louis they are taken from the cars and placed in trucks for delivery to dealers.

Demand for the new power speaker, the Dynacone, is reported as heavy, if not heavier than the demand for receivers.

A new Fada receiver and phonograph combination is announced as Model 72. It has the same chassis as the Fada "70," super dynamic speaker, two 210 power tubes in push-pull in the final audio stage, and is completely light socket operated. In addition to the push-pull audio, it has six 227-type AC tubes and rectifier tube. A concealed loop antenna is in the left-hand door. A switch permits change from loop to antenna operation.

The Bigalte Electric Co. store at 4545 Delmar boulevard has expanded by taking over the corner store. Formal opening of the enlarged quarters is announced for next Saturday, when there will be five lines of AC radio receivers on display.

Erection of a laboratory in the East is announced by the Kolster Radio Corporation. It is at Newark, N. J. The company is to continue its major research work at Palo Alto, Cal., under Dr. F. A. Kolster, inventor of the radio compass. The Palo Alto is completing development of the Kolster talking motion picture. The Kolster aircraft radio beacon for landing fields is another recent development from this laboratory.

Four White Men On Radio Expedition

Only four white men will go into the interior of Borneo with the All-American Mohawk expedition sailing from San Francisco next month, it is stated by Theodore Seelmann, Chicago, who will be the leader. Besides Seelmann, the personnel of the expedition will include two radio experts and a Dutch naturalist.

The radio men will operate and maintain the special low wave portable transmitters and receivers with which the expedition hopes to keep in touch with the outside world and make an effort this winter to communicate direct from Borneo with the Byrd Antarctic expedition in the South polar regions.

Should the All-American Mohawk Malayalan expedition to Borneo prove successful from a scientific standpoint, officials of the company say, they may send a larger expedition to New Guinea in a few years.

"Samson et Dalila" In the Balkite Hour

Part of the performance by the Chicago Opera of Saint-Saens' "Samson et Dalila" is to be broadcast in the Balkite Hour over KWK next Wednesday night.

Charles Marshall and Cyrena Van Gordon are cast for the principal roles.

Irving Berlin Songs In Next Song Shop

Next Thursday night's Song Shop broadcast over KSD is to be devoted to songs by Irving Berlin.

His new song, "Marie," written for a talking movie scheduled for production in December, will be given for the first time on the air.

Berlin will take the Song Shop back to the days before 1909, when, as a struggling young immigrant from Russia, he produced his first song, "Marie From Sunny Italy."

The distinctly jazz period in Berlin's life will be illustrated by a choice from such numbers as "Alexander's Ragtime Band," which many regard as the first piece of American jazz music; "Yiddle on Your Fiddle," and "When That Midnight Choo Choo Leaves for Alabam." Then, to illustrate the war period, the program will offer, "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning." Berlin's ballads and musical play production will be illustrated by "All Alone," "Crinoline Days" and "Always."

The new songs will be of the time he has devoted to writing for the talking movies.

Plane Pilot's Voice Heard in Test With Special Amplifier

An experiment was conducted recently by the Operadio Manufacturing Co. of St. Charles, Ill., to prove the feasibility of using an airplane, equipped with positive voice electrical amplifier, to speak from the plane to persons on the earth while in flight.

The airplane flew over St. Charles, Geneva and Batavia, Ill., to the Aurora airport and at frequent intervals the pilot spoke into the microphone in the cockpit the following message: "If you hear me, call St. Charles 2300." This is the telephone number of the Operadio Manufacturing Co. Within three minutes, the factory switchboard was blocked with calls from every town along the course as well as from isolated farm houses and motorists.

The equipment used consisted of a microphone mounted on the instrument board in front of the aviator, a four-tube power amplifier and batteries in the cockpit and an especially designed high powered exponential tone chamber, mounted just beneath the fuselage in the center of the wings. The tone chamber has a stream line housing to cut down air resistance.

At 500 feet altitude and over an area approximately half a mile square, the pilot's voice could be plainly heard and understood. The ship flew at full throttle over the Fox River valley and the quality and quantity of reproduction resulting from the first test was sufficient to cause hundreds of people to call the telephone number spoken to them from the plane.

The amplifier is being developed by the Operadio Co. The complete equipment will weigh not over 100 pounds and may be installed in not more than five minutes.

Few Regional Stations Lose Chain Programs

Time Division Will Affect Some, but to What Extent Is Uncertain.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Time division will result in curtailment of the chain programs on some stations.

The extent to which limitation of time on the air will restrict individual stations is yet to be determined. It will depend on the number of hours of operation and the attitude of the network system towards broadcasters whose time is curtailed.

With one exception, Eastern regional stations associated with the National Broadcasting Co. will be able to broadcast chain programs. WFI, Philadelphia, will share time with WLIT, Philadelphia. Regional stations in the East which can broadcast NBC programs without time division handicap are WGR, Buffalo; WEEI, Boston; WJAR, Providence; WTAG, Worcester; WCSH, Portland; WRC, Washington, and WCAE, Pittsburg.

In the Central States, two regional stations on the NBC networks can operate full time. They are WWJ, Detroit, recently transferred from a clear channel, and WTMJ, Milwaukee. Seven regional stations were slated for time division, KSD, St. Louis, with KFUO; KWK, St. Louis, with WIL; WOW, Omaha, with WCAJ; WDAF, Kansas City, with WOQ; WREN, Lawrence, Kan., with KFKU; WRHM, Minneapolis, with WCAL. KFMX and WLB; WEBC, Superior, Wis., with WDAY.

All NBC stations on regional channels in the South may operate full time. They are WJAX, Jacksonville; WMC, Memphis, and KPRC, Houston;. KVOO, Tulsa, has been transferred from a regional to a clear channel.

In the far West, also, all regional NBC stations may operate full time. They are KGW, Portland; KOMO, Seattle, and KHQ, Spokane.

Armistice Program Over WLW at 2 P. M.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 10.—Presenting the entire Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra under Fritz Reiner, a chorus of 135 children's voices, and talks by ministers of three faiths, WLW will broadcast Cincinnati's Armistice day program from 2 to 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The Symphony Orchestra will play "Jubilee Overture" by Weber and a special orchestration of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Poiret on KWK Thursday Night

Paul Poiret, noted Parasian dress stylist, will make his American radio debut next Thursday evening over KWK and allied N. B. C. stations. He is to be the chief attraction in the second "Serenade" broadcast. The half hour's program will include instrumental music by a novelty orchestra and singing by a quartet.

Poiret has achieved international leadership as a creator of women's styles. As a youth, he observed that small details of dress frequently changed a woman's appearance. He studied the women whom he saw at fashionable Parisian assemblies and made sketches of what their apparel was and might be. His drawings were eagerly purchased by dressmakers. Since then his rise has been rapid and continuous.

Station KSTP, St. Paul, Minn., is operated by a staff of 65. Its schedule of transmission is 18½ hours per day.

KMOX Signals Stronger With New Equipment

KMOX, which several days ago filed formal application for a construction permit for a 50,000-watt station, has just installed mechanism in its transmitter at Kirkwood, that should materially improve its range and clarity of sending. Also KMOX should hold so closely to its wave length that it should not cause interference with any other station.

The main panel of the KMOX transmitter contains six sections. One of these, controlling the position of the transmitter to its wave length, has been replaced with a new type of crystal controlled oscillator.

The KMOX transmitter, as now operated, according to W. H. West, chief engineer, "is probably the finest broadcasting plant of 500 watts power anywhere."

A variation of 500 cycles from a station's wave length has been permitted by the Federal Radio Commission. KMOX, according to West, was able to hold to that standard and even do better much of the time.

However, the station management came to feel that if a transmitter could be operated within still closer limits, say 100 cycles permissible variation, results would be even more satisfactory to listeners. Accordingly, Western Electric Co. engineers were asked to help design the necessary equipment. The new installation for KMOX is the result.

West says that while the equipment is designed to hold a transmitter to 100 cycles variation, it is possible by careful operation to hold it to a variation of only 10 cycles.

The carrying power of KMOX is greatly improved by the new equipment without any increase in power used.

KMOX is still operating on 5000 watts, but its modulation efficiency has been increased from 40 per cent to 85 per cent, which is equivalent to increasing the power by several thousand watts, especially so far as listeners several hundred miles from St. Louis are concerned.

Reception of KMOX should be much better during storms, when static is at its worst.

Schubert Music on KWK Tuesday Night

Tuesday night's Works of Great Composers on KWK and allied NBC stations is to be given over to works by Schubert.

The composer's "Romantic Overture" is to be played in the Stillman-Kelley arrangement, Nadia Reisenberg, pianist, and an orchestra under Cesare Sodero will play the "Wanderer Fantasy." Esther Dale, soprano, and Herbert Gould, basso cantante, are to sing songs by Schubert.

OPEN EVENINGS

Station KMOX To Put Schubert Festival on Air

Beginning today, KMOX, St. Louis, shifts from 1400 kilocycles (299 meters) down to 1090 kilocycles (273 meters).

A notable feature for KMOX today is the broadcasting of the Schubert Centennial Musical Festival in the Scottish Rite Cathedral at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. This will necessitate disrupting KMOX's Columbia chain schedule for the early part of the afternoon. The first half hour of the symphonic concert will be given from 2 to 2:30 o'clock.

The Symphonic Hour is to open with Tschaikowsky's "1812 Overture." Next on the program is the Good Friday Spell from Wagner's "Parsifal." Brahms' "Schicksalslied" (Song of Hate) is scheduled for performance by the orchestra and a large chorus. The concert is to conclude with Weber's "Jubel" overture.

The entire Schubert festival program is to be broadcast over KMOX as arranged by the committee, of which Richard Spamer is chairman. The festival in the Scottish Rite Cathedral will be free to the public, no admission tickets being required. Players from the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and well-known local singers and musicians will take part, as well as leading actors in the operetta, "Blossom Time," which was written around Schubert, and will be given this week at the Shubert Rialto Theater.

The Schubert festival program is to be broadcast over KMOX follows:

Weather Service By Radio on New Basis Aids Planes

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10.—The most extensive use of radio as "eyes" for the airman flying in fog or darkness has just been inaugurated.

Affording instantaneous communication between pilots, radio stations, landing fields and the weather bureau, experimental operation of a new system of weather service has been started between New York and Chicago on the transcontinental airway.

The control center of the system is located at Cleveland, the weather bureau, the Air Transport Co. and the airways division of the Department of Commerce managing the operation of the service from here.

By an automatic telegraph typewriter system, a message written on a typewriter at any point in the circuit between Newark, N. J., and Cleveland is transmitted instantaneously and written on a tape at all other points in the circuit. The operators at the Department of Commerce radio stations along the airway broadcast the messages by radio telephone to the pilots.

The service includes regular weather reports gathered throughout the United States each morning and evening, a secondary set of weather reports gathered at intervals of three hours from critical points in the vicinity of the airway and hourly reports of weather and landing field conditions from intermediate landing fields located 30 miles apart along the airway.

Belgium Ships and Eats Horses.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 10.—The exportation of draft horses has become an important item of Belgium's foreign trade, while vast numbers of inferior foreign horses are imported for food purposes. In the first 10 months of this year 18,296 horses were shipped abroad and 14,054 foreign horses brought into the country. Most of the latter were used in the preparation of certain sausages popular in Belgium. Belgium's 1926 menu included 12,000,000 pounds of horse meat, making the per capita consumption a pound and a half for the year.

PART SIX — ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 11, 1928. — PAGES 1—0A

The Belles and Beaux of Old St. Louis and Their Engaging Social Customs— Dame Fashion's Fantastic March Through 50 Years— The Emancipation of Woman!

THESE are the subjects dealt with in the special articles which constitute the of the Fiftieth Anniversary Number of the Post-Dispatch, each written by a woman who is an authority in her field.

Marguerite Martyn, whose drawings and articles are familiar to Post-Dispatch readers, tells the story of women's long and painful endurance of the enslaving whims of fashion—"ironsides" corsets, "rats" in the hair, "hobble" skirts around the feet, triple petticoats and the like, to come at last to the freedom of clothes made to wear.

The cycle from Hoopskirts to Knee-skirts, from Bustles to "Bobs" graphically illustrated in colors.

Not so long ago in years, but ages away by contrast, the diversions of polite society in St. Louis included "euchres" and trolley car parties, and the etiquette of the time was equally foreign to the "modern" code of today. But social life in "Old St. Louis" was far from dull, as those who read the story by Mrs. Katherine Lindsay Franciscus will discover.

A charming "Gallery of Old Fashioned Girls," is a striking feature in the generous collection of photographs which appropriately illustrate the article.

The escape of the "weaker sex" from legal inhibitions and fettering conventions has taken place within fifty years. How this tremendous change in the status of half the civilized population of the world came about, and what the results will be, is told from the woman's point of view by a leading feminist, Mrs. Virgil Loeb, who in passing cheerfully pays woman's respects to masculine error. Ancient cartoons accompany the text.

Picture and 'Blossom Time'

"Simba" at the American and Old Operetta at the Shubert Are Offerings of the Week in the Legitimate Houses. "Interference," a Fine Play, and "The Silent House" Failed to Attract Playgoers During Past Week.

THE past week was a disappointing one to the management of the two local legitimate theaters. "Interference," as fine a play as one might wish to see—and as finely played—practically starved to death at the American which began its season with this interesting English drama. The lack of a star in the cast, with a name to attract theatergoers, did not help the business at the downtown house and the false impression, which preceded it here, that "Interference" was another mystery melodrama also hurt the attendance. Out at the Shubert "The Silent House," a lurid meller with Chinamen, gas filled chambers, secret passages and pistol shots, did little better. The cash customers, apparently, are tired of the dramas of wise cracks and machine guns.

This week the American leaves the spoken play flat and will offer a return engagement of the Martin Johnson African hunt picture, "Simba," which was shown here with considerable success last season. At the same time the Shubert brings in an old and tried friend, "Blossom Time" which will make its ninth appearance here tonight.

"SIMBA," it will be recalled, is a pictorial record of the four-year sojourn in Africa of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson. It is filled with thrills from start to finish, from the time Martin and Osa Johnson start loading their outfit at Nairobi to the startling climax with the natives armed only with spears and shields, go on the warpath after the lions that have eaten their flocks and herds.

Across the screen, like a parade, come elephants, giraffes, zebras, antelopes, ostriches, rhinos, hippopotami, leopards, and last of all, "Simba" himself, the lion. It is unfair to the explorers to say merely "the lion," for in one part of the picture alone 14 lions are seen all at the same time, playing about like a lot of big cats.

The Johnsons face angry rhinos, are caught almost in the midst of an elephant stampede and come safely through other perils. But the big thrill comes when the Lumbwa natives give battle to full-grown lions, and, without the aid of firearms, kill the beasts which have robbed them of their cattle.

THE engagement which begins tonight will mark "Blossom Time's" ninth week here in the course of the last five years, a record never before attained by any production in St. Louis. Its engagement this year is being held in conjunction with the Franz Schubert Centennial celebration, marking the 100th anniversary of the passing of the great composer, and the finding of his "Unfinished Symphony."

Genevieve Naegele as "Mitzi," John Charles Gilbert as "Franz Schubert," and Robert Lee Allen as "Kranz," have been seen here before, but this year Baron von Schober will be played by Herbert Lyle. For the role of Count Sharntoff, the Shubert firm has recalled from Europe Ivan Servais, who was brought over here from Paris originally to create the role he will again be seen in.

THE bad business in the local theaters, referred to above, is just an echo of what has been going on pretty much all over the country. New York has suffered just as other sections have but now that election day has been passed theatrical producers along Broadway are hoping that their business will pick up. It has been undeniably poor this season. Few enough shows, musical and otherwise, to be counted on the fingers of one hand have been doing consistent capacity business, and critics are complaining of the season's dullness.

Some commentators in New York attribute the empty seats to the unusual number of somber dramas included in the autumn's theater fare. More of them suggest that the excitement of a presidential campaign has been keeping the citizenry at home listening to radio discourses, and hope for better times by mid-November. It is reported several stalwart New York successes of last season have faded and folded on the road.

DOROTHY GISH, who hasn't been seen on the stage since she and her sister Lillian played children's roles two decades ago, got back to Broadway in the first week of November as the star of Samson Raphaelson's "Young Love." It is the story of a lovelorn but very modern girl who determined that her marriage shall not grow into a casual or superficial union, and who seeks to prove in advance, by a philanderous experiment involving a pair of married friends, the undying flame of her affection and that of her swain. Critics agreed that its sophisticated dialog and its acting were its chief assets. For the latter it has not only Miss Gish, but James Rennie, Catherine Willard and Tom Douglas. There are but four in the cast.

And while on the subject of movie stars who are returning to the spoken stage considerable interest attaches to the record of Nazimova, who is back behind the footlights in New York. Twenty-three years ago Alla Nazimova began her climb to fame on the stage of a Russian neighborhood theater, down near the Bowery. It was a climb which carried her to stardom at 28, which put her name in lights above a Broadway theater erected in her honor, which carried her to Hollywood, and built her a villa there, and set schoolgirls all over the country to imitating her serpentine screen portrayal of Salome.

Now Alla Nazimova is back within 20 blocks of the place where her career began. She is a member of the Civic Repertory company down in Greenwich Village, and the name that has illumined movie facades along a thousand Main streets appears on a Fourteenth street marquee on nights when Eva Le Gallienne's players present Tchekov's "The Cherry Orchard."

Why Boys Go To College Now

Mary Brian in "Varsity," at the Missouri Theater this week.

BACK in 1907 Nazimova was being hailed as a successor to Duse and Bernhardt. A native of Crimea, she had been given an unusual education by well-to-do parents, and had gone on the Russian stage at 21. When riots in Moscow closed almost every Russian theater, she joined Paul Orlenoff's players and toured to Berlin, London, and finally New York. They played in the old Herald Square Theater here and won such praise that a group of New York Russians offered the troupe a theater of its own, down on Third street near Second avenue.

The offer was accepted, but the project failed so miserably that the actors, in abject want and unable to speak a word of English, had to be sent back to Russia by private subscription.

Nazimova stayed. Margaret Anglin had seen her, and had directed her to the attention of Lee Shubert, who offered her a contract if she would learn to speak English. He hired a tutor for her, and on June 20, 1906, she began to study the language. Five months later she had learned it perfectly enough to play Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler" in English on Broadway.

The Shuberts built the Nazimova theater for her. She went from one conquest to another, and finally to the movies, and her name became a synonym for deeply emotional

Players Guild To Begin Season With "Ariadne"

Milne Comedy Will Be Presented During Coming Week at the Artists' Guild Theater.

OPENING tomorrow night and continuing throughout the week, "Ariadne," by A. A. Milne will be shown in the little theater of the Artists Guild, Union and Enright avenues, by a cast selected in open competition by Frederick Kitson Cowley, director for the Players Guild, an independent organization organized for the furtherance of interest in the best dramas, productions and playwriting. Subscription tickets for the five plays to be presented during the season by the Players Guild are available to the public and single performances may be attended, by making arrangements at headquarters 1004 Olive street. Mrs. D. O. Ives is chairman of the Ticket Committee and Clark McAdams chairman of the Arrangements Committee.

"Ariadne, or Business First," is a comedy, the action revolving about a young professional man (Frank Bacon as John Winter) who asks his wife (Hazel Ewald as Ariadne) to play up, so to speak, to his clients, particularly to Horace Meldrum (Jim Daugherty) in order to encourage his placing large contracts for architectural plans. Ariadne, seemingly reluctant, improves a brief period of time when she is with Meldrum alone, to make an appointment to meet him in London. The plan fails to carry and the husband, learning of the matter, quite after the manner of husbands, accuses his wife of infidelity on her return home. The wife, however, is able to gain some support for her position through her sister-in-law (Ethel M. Dicke as Hester Chadwick) and her brother-in-law (Jay Rudden as Rector Chadwick) as well as through unlooked for developments on the part of Janet Inglesby (Anne Farrar Semple) and apparent tragedy is turned to a happy finale.

Mr. Cowley has rehearsed the cast for four weeks and the dress rehearsals during the week gave every promise of a performance touching professional standards. The Monday and Tuesday evenings have been bought outright by the Players, an organization long devoted to creative work in the theater, the remaining nights being open to the public. The second production of the Players Guild will be "Juno and the Paycock," the week of Jan. 7.

St. Louis Theater To Have Birthday

The St. Louis Theater will be 3 years old, Nov. 21, and the occasion will be celebrated the week beginning next Sunday. It will be the theater's first birthday under its new direction, the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, which was organized through a series of mergers, which brought more than 800 vaudeville houses under one control. A special show, with Bert Hanlon, musical comedy comedian; Eddie Allen and Doris Canfield, other attractions, and with William Boyd in "Power" as the screen feature, will be presented as the "Birthday Week Show."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.

THEY were discussing striking names past and present. Some names appear marked for celebrity. A small portion thought Mark Twain was one that clung to memory longest. Another preferred Rex Beach. But most of them held out for Zola.

"It bursts," said one admirer, "like two clear-cut notes—Zo-la!" Nearly everyone agreed a genius can make a name.

Lou Holz tells of a man rushing into a drug store and asking for 15,000 cockroaches. The nonplussed druggist asked why. "My lease," he replied, "requires my leaving the apartment exactly as I found it."

Personality is an intangible quality overrated these days. People with the so-called "IT" are supposed to be the last word in everything. The polished crook has personality and a fellow with more of it than anyone I know once confessed to me that he delighted in sending out vicious anonymous letters to innocent people.

Criminologists have discovered the anonymous letter writer in every instance has criminal tendencies. Of course there are charming people with oodles of personality who are on the level. Personality does not mean much one way or the other so far as character and ability are concerned. Clara Bow has it. E. H. Harriman did not. Some of the world's greatest doers are as devoid of personality as a fishing worm. Coolidge is without personality. So is Gene Tunney. And one could go on for hours.

In the passing of Jack Conway, or "Con," as he was known to readers of Variety, the theatrical weekly, all over the world, the nation lost its most adroit slangmaker. He won special articles of praise from such hoity-toity periodicals as The Bookman, Vanity Fair and the American Mercury. He wrote of the theater for theatrical folk in their lingo as well as his own. He had recently returned from a joust with the film makers in Hollywood and was on a honeymoon in Bermuda when the end came. He coined such words as "palooka," "Clicked," "that's a lotta boloney," "that's the pay off," "high hats" and "push-over." He was Broadway's favorite character and one of its most beloved.

Brock Pemberton, an Emporia, Kan., product, gave Broadway a thrill producing "Goin' Home" this season. Pemberton directed the play and packed in enough suspense to please the most jaded theater-goer. He is a former newspaper man who has been a credit to the guild.

At the Play—By St. John Ervine

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.

A WEEK or two ago I went off one morning to talk to the students at Columbia University on the eternally debated topic of the drama. The taxi-man dropped me at the door which, I thought, made a poor entrance to a small university, but modestly I assumed that he, being a New Yorker, knew better than I did which was the proper entrance to Columbia. So I passed through the door and presently found myself in the kitchen, where a Negro asked me what my business might be. I mentioned the name of the official who had invited me to the university, and was requested to wait where I was while he went to find somebody who could attend to me.

There was a very pleasant odor in that kitchen, and, since there was nobody about, I was tempted to take the lid off one of the pots and taste its contents; but before I could muster up enough spirit to do so, the Negro returned, accompanied by a white girl, who said to me, "Are you the man who has come about the washing machine?" I hated to disappoint her, but I had to reply, "No, I'm the man who has come to talk about the drama." The light left her eyes at that announcement, and I realized that men of action must ever be preferred to men of words.

It was an abashed person who followed at her heels as she led me to Columbia's proper entrance. In her world, a mere gabbler is put in his place which is infinitely inferior to that of the skilful chap who can cope with the difficulties of washing-machines and make reluctant wheels revolve. But she had punctured my pride, and it was a very spiritless fellow who addressed the students on that morning at Columbia. My discomfiture was complete when, at the end of my rambling and discursive address, a girl came to me and said, "Mr. Ervine, I am taking the drama course here. What is your definition of drama?" That finished me. I can write about the drama; I can even write a drama, though some would deny both this and that; but I cannot define it. "What a bum professor you are!" I mournfully informed myself.

BUT after I had left Columbia and was sitting in Central Park attempting to recover my spirits, I wondered whether, after all, there was any advantage in being able to define the drama. There are times when people fondly believe that everything can be taught, and there are intelligent persons who live in the delusion that to be able to define a thing denotes that you are able to do it.

Thousands of educated men and women innocently imagine that they can become artists, and train others to become artists, by the simple process of reducing art to a set of rules and regulations. Mix your paints in this manner on that sort of palette and apply them to this kind of canvas with that style of brush and you will become a painter—not, perhaps, such a good painter as Michelangelo, but still a painter of a sort.

Take a course of instruction in play-making, and after 12 lessons you will have all the established dramatists shivering in their shoes while managers fall over themselves in their eagerness to make contracts with you.

There are professors who actually offer, without a blush of shame on their cheeks, to teach youths and maidens how to become journalists when everybody who is anybody knows that a journalist is a person who has been specially created. Go to see "The Front Page" and "Gentlemen of the Press" if you doubt this statement. God first made the angels. Then he made men. Then he made women. And finally, in despair, he made journalists. It does not seem possible to make anything else.

IS IT not obvious, then, that there can not be a system of easily-apprehended rules and regulations which will enable a student to compose a piece of music or write a play or novel or paint a picture or carve a statue in a masterly manner? You may observe how other men have painted pictures or written plays, and even detect their mannerisms so skillfully as to be able to repeat them, but you will not impress the world by reporting another person's vision; you can only hope to impress it by reporting your own.

All creative artists become tiresome to other people because they are unwilling to join herds and decline to have their minds standardized. Few people like solitary persons. The fact that a man prefers his own company to yours, is insulting to you, and when an individual informs the community that he likes his own ideas better than the community's, the community feels inclined to put him in prison. For presently, if they are not careful, he will attempt to impose his ideas on the community, and the history of mankind proves that sooner or later he succeeds.

THE problem that continually embarrasses the community is how to use the artist without being abused by him. The community knows that some very silly fellows imagine that they are creative artists, when they are merely cantankerous cusses, and suppose themselves to be making art when they are only making a nuisance. That is why the community very properly makes life exceedingly hard for artists. "If you are going to alter me, you must first prove that you have a right to alter me by proving that you are better than I am. And, by heaven, I'll make you sweat before you succeed."

In the sweating process, the silly fellows are soon eliminated. They shout and squeal and throw up their hands, say "What the hell" and either enter the civil service or begin to sell bonds.

But the genuine fellow will not be daunted by adversity nor be hindered by persecution. Neither poverty nor neglect can stifle his utterance or close his eyes, nor can any ridicule divert him from his purpose. He has this thing to say, and he will say it though a host should forbid him to speak, what, ladies and gentlemen, is the good of defining the drama for such a one? How futilely one would draw up a list of rules and regulations for him? Send Eugene O'Neill to Harvard to study the drama's laws, under Prof. Baker, and what is the first thing that Eugene O'Neill does when he departs from Harvard? Why, he breaks all the "laws" that he was taught.

Amateurs Give Two Fine Performances

Two amateur dramatic organizations gave excellent performances during the past week. The Downing Players, finely directed by Miss Patricia Downing, presented Frank Craven's comedy, "The First Year," at the City Club and scored a distinct hit with it, while the Toy Theater group gave an old-time English comedy, "Grammar Gurton's Needle," and also pleased the audience which filled their little show house.

The Lippsonian Players will present the mystery play, "The Thirteenth Chair," at the Masonic Temple in Maplewood, next Saturday night. The Players, though organized only a year ago in Maplewood, have gained quite a reputation locally and are well known in St. Louis. The membership, which is limited to 30, is made up entirely of young people who find in this sort of entertainment a proper medium for developing their talents. Their past plays have been "The Hand," "Laff That Off," and "The Slicker," which were presented under the direction of their founder, Frank J. Lipp.

Making Movie Millionaires

Warner Brothers Had to Buy Out the Business of the Skouras Boys in Order to Get Their Services as Managers of the New Nationwide Chain of Picture Houses—Business Here to Be Continued Without Changes. By NIE.

THE belated confirmation from Warner Brothers this week that they had purchased control of the Skouras Brothers affairs in St. Louis, a fact which was announced in these columns many weeks ago, indicates the heights to which the three St. Louisans have climbed in the motion picture world since the days when they deserted the dish carrying trade and embarked upon a life among the galloping tintypes. By a tremendous energy and a close attention to the details of the cinema game, which was new when they took it up, Spyros and Charley and George have climbed to the point where the keenest minds in moviedom bid for their services as directors of nation-wide chains of theaters—and bid high.

For it was not the St. Louis theaters which Warner Brothers were after. They already had an outlet here for their new fangled talking films. What they did want was the help of the Skouras in managing all of their theaters throughout America. Paramount and other chain theater owners wanted them, too, but the Warners were willing to bring to bear the best argument, the rattling of many handfulls of silver. In order to get the three St. Louisans in their fold Warner Brothers were forced to buy everything the Skouras had to offer—The Missouri, Ambassador, Grand Central, Empress and all of the neighborhood houses in St. Louis which were controlled by the St. Louis Amusement Company, a subsidiary organization owned by the Skourases and Harry Koplar.

What price was paid and how it was divided between cash and stock is purely a private matter between the two factions in the deal which they may or may not make public. It is certain, however, that the Skouras boys come out of the transaction as potential millionaires.

IT IS understood that Spyros Skouras, as pointed out here some weeks ago, will leave St. Louis and have his headquarters in either Chicago or New York where he will be the president, or general manager or whatever the title of the head man happens to be of the Warner Theater Enterprises. Charley may go to the Pacific Coast or to New York or he may remain in St. Louis to conduct the theaters here just as they haev been conducted in the past, for the Missouri and the Ambassador theaters and the other local houses will be run under the Skouras management with no change in the manner of operation so far as the movie going public is concerned. George, the younger brother, will no doubt continue to have charge of the neighborhood houses.

THE Empress, incidentally, will open its doors next Saturday, under its new name of the Midtown Theater with the Warner talking and singing picture, "The Singing Fool," in which Al Jolson has made an enormous hit. It goes into the Grand and Olive house for a stay at prices running up to a dollar a night and 75 cents in the afternoons. And the chances are at least even that Jolson will be seen and heard no more upon the musical comedy stage. The black-face mammy groaner has been so successful in sound pictures that he has no present plans for returning to the footlights, and he announced definitely when he returned from a European honeymoon recently with Mrs. Jolson III—the tap-dancing Ruby Keeler—that for another year, at any rate, he would do nothing but make movies.

Jolson's voice has shown symptoms of weakening in recent years when he has had to use it every night upon the stage, and his desire to preserve it is one factor in his decision. No entertainer of the present stage generation has used his voice so steadily and unsparingly. His work in sound pictures also is less arduous than trouping in other respects, and thus far it has been more profitable.

IT TOOK sound pictures and an unusual combination of circumstances to lure Jolson from the stage. He had tried acting in the films, before the days of synchronization, and had liked it so little that he abandoned it with an abruptness which got him into a lawsuit. He had no thought of a career in the talkies until it was urged upon him.

Then George Jessel, who had made himself famous in the title role of "The Jazz Singer" on the stage, went to Hollywood to make a movie of it and discovered that it was to be screened with sound. He protested that his contract called for him only to act the part, and not to speak it, and demanded more money. The increased wage he asked was more than the producers were willing to pay.

Somebody suggested Jolson for the part. Jolson happened to be idle, and took it. The picture was so successful that he cast his lot with the film.

Jolson probably will fill brief stage engagements again, as he did a season ago when he stepped into a Shubert show in Chicago for a fortnight at $10,000 a week, but it seems less and less likely that he ever will have another "Sinbad" or "Big Boy" on the stage, tying him down for a long run in New York and another on the road. And although St. Louis will be able to see him in the movies, it will regret that it can't call him back to the footlights any more, after the final curtain, to sing just one more chorus of "Mammy."

MODERN screen entertainment appears to have developed into the art of showing those on the outside of any popular institution how the inside looks to the insiders. Any fan, for instance, who has followed the long cycle of circus pictures produced in the past 18 months probably knows more about the inside of circus life than P. T. Barnum, including how acrobats get that way and why all clowns have breaking hearts.

Still going strong is a cycle of back-stage pictures explaining all about the lives of those who make vaudeville and night-club entertainment what it is today. And the way they are building newspaper sets in all the studios indicates producers have hardly begun letting the public in on the lives and language of the gentlemen of the press.

Even the feminine stars are cast in newspaper roles. Bebe Daniels is a girl reporter in her latest, "The Big Scoop," and in "The Office Scandal" Phyllis Haver becomes a sob-sister, specializing in the heart-throbs of the day's news.

Germania Players In Sudermann Drama

Tonight at the Jaffa Auditorium, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues, the Germania Players will present Sudermann's four-act drama, "Johannesfeuer."

In the cast will be Gerda Holgersen and Ludwig Kappel and other principal parts will be played by Helen Ruthe, Frieda Barlow, Otto Reuter, Hans Vall, Paul Gehring, Elsie Muessig, Lena Reius and Amallen Biessenger. Reuter is directing the play.

Special Schuber To Mark Week Of the Sympho

Paul Kochanski, Violinist, to Be and Saturday Night—Oberhof for Today's First "P

ST. LOUIS' observance of the centenary of Franz Schubert will reach its climax with the special Schubert programs of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at the Odeon Friday afternoon and Saturday evening of this week and the all-Schubert program at next Sunday's popular concert of which Bernard Ferguson will be soloist, singing two groups of Schubert songs.

Schubert's great Symphony in C is to be the major work presented by Emil Oberhoffer, guest conductor, at the concerts of Friday afternoon and Saturday evening. But two other works are on the program which is introduced with the composer's "Rosamunde" overture, and which in the second half presents the young violinist, Paul Kochanski, who plays Beethoven's Concerto in D Major for his instrument.

Kochanski has a large following as an artist here. A young Pole, his teachers were Mlynarski and Cesar Thomson. He made his London debut at 19 and was a success. He has been heard throughout England, France, Germany, Russia, Poland, Spain, Greece, Turkey and Egypt and in South America, Canada and this country, in the conservatories of Warsaw, Kieff and Leningrad he has held professorships of violin. Alexander Glazounoff for the soviet government sought to bring him back to Leningrad to serve as successor to Leopold Auer. The last artist to play the Beethoven Concerto with the orchestra here was Carl Flesch. Kochanski last season played with brilliant success with the New York Symphony and the Boston, Cleveland and Chicago symphony orchestras. This season his engagements include appearances with the St. Louis, Omaha and Cincinnati and the Beethoven Orchestra of New York.

Not for years has St. Louis heard the great C Major Symphony. It was written 100 years ago. Like all his works it flowed from Schubert's pen in an unflagging stream of melody. For some reason, however, he seems to have desired to take more pains with this, a work which he believed was to usher in a greater career, for he had told friends that he would devote himself henceforth to opera and symphony. The first three movements had been edited and amended by him. But the final movement in the autograph score shows every evidence of being all but an impromptu. There are no changes.

In bigness of its plan, in the perfection with which that plan is carried out, and above all in the manner in which Schubert, having foresworn song composition now makes the whole orchestra sing the C Major Symphony, is unique. The complete program for the concert is:

Overture to "Rosamunde" ..... Schubert
Symphony No. 7 in C Major ..... Schubert
1. Andante, Allegro ma non troppo.
2. Andante con moto.
3. Scherzo, Allegro vivace. Trio
4. Finale, Allegro vivace.
Concerto in D Major for violin and orchestra, Op. 61 ..... Beethoven
1. Allegro ma non troppo
2. Larghetto
3. Rondo

AGAIN the Sunday Popular Concerts of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra are to be "Little Symphonies"—programs such as were so popular last season. And the first of them, to be presented at the Odeon at 3:15 p. m. today will be conducted by Emil Oberhoffer. This year each of the four guest-conductors will direct the Sunday concerts during his visit. For the two which fall "between times," other well known conductors from other cities will be provided.

Kalinnikow's First Symphony in G minor, notable for its melody and its remarkable use of Russian folk-tunes as its basis, is the symphony to be played under Oberhoffer's leadership today. The composer died in the early years of this century, exhausted by poverty and privation, undergone during his years as a student. Yet he left two splendid symphonies, the first of which, played today, is new to St. Louis audiences.

Mr. Oberhoffer will also present his own sympathetic transcriptions of six of Edward MacDowell's "Woodland Sketches." They are known to every lover of the piano and two of them "To a Wild Rose" and "To a Water Lily" are popular everywhere.

The program opens with the overture from Verdi's "The Force of Destiny" and will be brought to a close by Johann Strauss' "Emperor Joseph Waltzes." It is in detail:

Verdi. Overture to "La Forza del Destino"
(First Performance at these concerts.)
Kalinnikow. Symphony No. 1 in G Minor
1. Allegro moderato
2. Andante commodamente
3. Scherzo, Allegro non troppo, moderato assai

Yiddish Farce At the Odeon

Tonight the Henrietta Schnitzer players will present a musical farce comedy, "Tzipke." The tale is witty do about a Jewish immigrant lass who lands on the East Side of New York, and from humble surroundings rises to the heights of social leadership in the Ghetto.

Henrietta Schnitzer will portray the leading role. An added feature to the performance will be the introduction to this city of Harry Jones, a New York Negro actor, who chants Hebrew prayers and is known on the Jewish rialto as the Black Cantor.

NOT only are St. Louis' guest conductors to direct the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in its Young People's and Public School concerts this season they are to discuss the music which they play.

The series opens next Thursday at the Odeon at 3 p. m., when Emil Oberhoffer will conduct and explain a program significant of the best work of German composers. Besides excerpts from the deeper classics he will present the lighter side of the picture. M. Oberhoffer is a fascinating talker on music as well as a master of conducting. His program is:

Overture to "The Magic Flute".....Mozart
First Movement from Symphony No. 5—Beethoven
Dance of the Apprentices from "Die Meistersinger".....Warner
Entr'acte and Ballet Music from "Rosamunde".....Schubert
Waltz: "Tales from the Vienna Woods"—J. Strauss

The same program, presented at Beaumont High School the following Wednesday, inaugurates the Board of Education concert series.

Facing the Music

PAULINE BUG, contralto, and Emerson Brown, baritone, will give a musical program at the Town Club this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Thaddeus Smith will be at the piano for Mr. Brown and Mrs. Frank Habig for Miss Bug. Particular interest attaches to the musical which is an annual event with the Town Club because both young people were among 10 selected in the elimination contest for the best voices in St. Louis, entered in the Atwater Kent Radio Contest, and again won when one voice of the 10 from St. Louis was selected to enter the State contest. In the latter and third try out Emerson Brown won for the State and will go to Chicago for the next step, singing against voices from this section of the country, and if he wins again will go to New York for the national contest.

The program will be as follows:

Spirit Flower.....Campbell Tipton
Trees.....Rasbach
Dreamy Boy.....Weatherby
Pauline Bug.
Homing.....Del Riego
The Trout.....Schubert
Good-by.....Tosti
Emerson Brown.
Aria: "Mon coeur s'ouvre a ta voix" from Samson and Delilah...Saint-Saens

Vernon E. Henshie, organist and choirmaster of Pilgrim Congregational Church, and the Pilgrim quartet, will present a program of traditional Jewish music at the vesper services of the church this afternoon at 4:30. The choir will be assisted by Miss Fannie Rovin and by George Sheffield. The musical numbers are from the Atonement service.

The Schubert centennial observance of Musicians' Guild will take place this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the tower room of the Congress Hotel. An address on "Franz Schubert" will be delivered by Richard Spamer. The program following, of Schubert songs, will be rendered by Eugene Ensinger: Der Lindenbaum, Tod und das Madchen, Morgengruss, Aufenhalt, Die Stadt, Who Is Sylvia?

The next regular meeting of the Morning Etude Music Club will be held next Wednesday morning at 10:15 o'clock at the Missouri Hotel Auditorium. A paper on the life of Franz Schubert has been prepared by Miss Minna Braun and will be presented by Mrs. Emma Gutmann. The following program will be presented with Mrs. Armin Pfisterer acting as mistress of ceremonies:

Paper—Life of Schubert..Miss Minna Braun

At the past week's meeting of the Apollo Club, D. C. Zytowski, president of the club last season and re-elected for this year, tendered his resignation, which was accepted. Mr. Zytowski will be succeeded by Dr. George W. Sharp. The demands on his time and strength in devotion to his own business caused Mr. Zytowski to lay down the added responsibility of heading the Apollo Club, the leading male chorus of St. Louis. Mr. Zytowski will continue with the club as an active member. Dr. Sharp was formerly second vice president of the club.

The November musical calendar, under the concert direction of Elizabeth Cueny, shows Sousa and his band at the Coliseum on Nov. 22 for one concert and Fritz Kreisler in violin recital at the Odeon on Friday evening, Nov. 23. These will be followed on Tuesday evening, Nov. 27, by the Boston Woman's Symphony Orchestra, Director Ethel Leginska, under the auspices of the Civic Music League.

Frank L. Sealy, well known organist and composer of New York City, national president of the American Guild of Organists, will give a recital next Sunday afternoon, Nov. 18, at Christ Church Cathedral, under the auspices of the St. Louis branch of the guild. A chorus of several hundred singers of many choirs of the city will sing also.

The semi-weekly free organ recitals of Daniel R. Philippi will be resumed this week at Christ Church Cathedral, and there will be half-hour recitals hereafter every Wednesday and Friday noon from 12:25 to 12:55.

The Elschuco Trio composed of Aurelio Giorni, piano; William Kroll, violin and Willem Willeke, 'cello will provide the program for the Members Day program of the Apollo-Morning Choral Clubs in the Wednesday Club Auditorium on Monday afternoon, November 26 at 2:30. The Trio ranks as one of the leading instrumental groups of America and in line with the policy of the two choral clubs amalgamated for this season, instrumentalists were chosen as the soloists in contrast with the two choral concerts at the Odeon in February and April. Subscriptions for the Apollo-Morning Choral season are now under way and the membership committees under Mrs. A. Reid Chappell for the Morning Choral and under Jos. Kelly and Fred L. Niemeyer for the Apollo Club are active in the enrollment of associate members for the season.

The annual organ recital of Edward Rechlin will be given Sunday afternoon, No. 18, at 3:30, in the Auditorium of Concordia Seminary, 801 De Mun avenue. The program

The Students Chorus of the Seminary will open the program with a group of two or three Bach chorales with Walter Wismar conducting.

The Oratorio Society of St. Louis, some 200 singers from the various Lutheran churches here, is rehearsing George Frederick Handel's Christmas oratorio, "The Messiah." The first concert will take place at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, St. Louis and Garrison avenues, Sunday evening, Dec. 9. All music lovers are invited to attend this concert. The soloists for the church concerts will be chosen from the singers in the society. William B. Heyne, founder and conductor of the society, will direct the concert. Two chorus gems from the oratorio, "The Hallelujah Chorus" and "For Unto Us a Child Is Born" will appear on the church concert program.

Hebrew Scholar Speaks Tonight.

Reubin Brainin, Hebrew scholar, will speak on Jewish colonization in soviet Russia tonight in the Sheldon Memorial, 3646 Washington boulevard. The lecture is sponsored by the local chapter of the ICOR, the American Society for Jewish Colonization in bolshevik Russia. Alexander Goodman is chairman of the St. Louis organization. Prof. Brainin recently returned from a 10-months' tour of soviet Russia, on which he studied colonization conditions.

Thyrsus Club in Three Little Plays

THYRSUS, a dramatic organization of Washington University, presents its fifth annual bill of one-act plays in January Hall on the university campus next Friday and Saturday evenings. The plays were written in the class in dramatic technique conducted by Prof. William G. B. Carson. A prize of $50 for the best play will be awarded by a committee of judges at Friday night's performance.

The first of the three plays, "Marriage a la Mode," by June Miltenberger, is based on a recent magazine story by Katherine Mansfield. The cast will be composed of Louise Malone, Marian Judell, Mary Howard Fentress, Fred Horner, Howard Morgans, Roland Miller and Maurice Kranzberg.

"On Jordan's Bank," by Tom Dunn, is a comedy of the Tennessee mountains showing the activities of a sharper who plays on the credulity of the simple-minded during the visit of Halley's comet. The players will be Mary Wickenhauser, Dorothy Dorr, William Ohle and Willis Wager.

"Guinevere" is a dramatization of Tennyson's poem of that name by Charles Dillon. The chief characters are Guinevere, Lancelot and King Arthur, and in the cast will be Mary Jane Roach, Helene Grolock, Gilbert Moore and Dan Tracy.

acting. She toured the country in vaudeville.

She made a lot of money, but her friends say most of it is gone. She married a motion picture-director, but they are separated. When she left the stage the Nazimova Theater was renamed, and now it has been torn down.

But Nazimova at 49 is tasting new success. "The Cherry Orchard" is a hit.

The actress says she is a voluntary member of the Civic Repertory Company, because it is America's closest approach to the Moscow theater, which was her training ground and her first love.

"I have had everything," she says, "that the theater and motion pictures can give an artist. The greatest joy I treasure from my professional career is a distant memory of my participation in a theatrical organization in which everyone sank his personality for the sake of the ensemble."

AFTER a run at the Fulton Theater in New York and at the Cort Theater, Chicago, the comedy-drama thriller, "The Wooden Kimono," comes to the American Theater for a week beginning next Sunday night. Right now, "The Wooden Kimono" is an emphatic hit in London, and is soon to be produced in Australia and in Germany. "The 19th Hole," one of the most enjoyable comedies ever seen in St. Louis, is to return to the American Theater Thanksgiving week, beginning Monday night, Nov. 26. Frank Craven, who wrote the piece, is the star of the company, which includes nearly all of last year's members. In building "The 19th Hole," Craven has taken full advantage of what he has seen and heard while on the links, for he is a golfer of considerable renown himself. Local critics were unanimous in their praise of "The 19th Hole" when it was offered at the American last season and the piece drew near capacity audiences.

To Talk on Health in Schools.

"Professor Happy" Goldsmith, lecturer who has a faculty for combining witticisms and health facts, will speak this week before the students of St. Louis public high schools on the importance of personal cleanliness. He will visit each school to talk under the auspices of the St. Louis Tuberculosis and Health Society.

Behind the Screens OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 10.

STAGE revues, with all their natural sounds and colors, are being put into tin cans here for shipment to theaters with talking-singing screens.

Two such color-talkies already have been produced on the M-G-M sound stage by Gus Edwards, who made himself and his stage revues famous years ago with such song hits as "School Days" and "Sunbonnet Sue."

The new screen revues are utterly different from anything yet seen around here in the way of a song and dialogue picture. The effect, when they were shown in the studio projection room, was almost like looking at musical comedy through a mirror. Photographic recording of sound by the movietone process was combined with the technicolor process of recording colors to put both the sound and the color on celluloid.

In one of the color revues Edwards appears as himself. He is sitting at a piano and friends around him are asking him to play this or that tune which they remember he wrote. He begins with "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," and as he plays the scene fades into the love-making of the song, with the characters in the song now doing the singing. "Sunbonnet Sue," "Jimmie Valentine," and "If I Were a Millionaire" are similarly presented, and finally "School Days," with Greta Garbo's double playing the part of the teacher in the schoolroom sequence.

Theatergoers may get a thrill out of his color-talkie revues because of what they suggest can be done on the screen in sound and color. Obviously the process which can reproduce faithfully in natural sounds and colors a group of street gamins twanging their ukuleles and singing "If I Were a Millionaire," should also be capable of reproducing with vivid realism any stage entertainment in which music and color are combined with drama.

Already several producers are laying plans for screen musical comedies, and the Warner Brothers have begun actual production of "The Desert Song," a light opera. How extensively color will be used in these musical features has not yet been announced, but meanwhile it is interesting to note that Hal Roach is bringing 30 New York show girls to Hollywood as a nucleus for his screen musical comedy stock company; and that Fox is about ready to begin a musical comedy, and that Universal will exploit the old-fashioned minstrel show in sound.

How to straddle the talkie fence is the problem occupying many movie minds just now.

Stars of the silent screen go on with their silent scenes, wondering at the time whether they will sound all right when they have to talk. Producers, thrown into a real dilemma by the inability of all exhibitors to "wire" their theaters for talkies all at once, try to turn out enough silent pictures for the silent houses and enough talkies for the wired houses. And frequently they try both sides of the fence in the same picture, giving their players voices in one scene and striking them dumb in the next.

Charlie Chaplin, whose dilemma is just as serious as any other producer's, is planning to sidestep embarrassment by making a joke of the whole affair. He plans to put talking sequences into his new picture, "City Lights;" but he, as the hero of the picture, will not talk. And Virginia Cherrill, the Chicago blonde he chose to be his new leading woman, was placed under contract without even having her voice tested. Talk will be used in the picture, in other words, as a sort of comic relief. The "real people" of the picture will scorn dialog. Just to satisfy his own curiosity, however, Chaplin plots to put on a different makeup and sneak over to the talkie side of the fence in at least one scene. If it is terrible, no one will know it was Chaplin.

Another problem keeping studio executives awake nights is the temporary shortage of stage space for talkie production. Many steel and concrete sound stages are being rushed to completion, but very few of them really are ready. Consequently several producers are making one sound-stage do the work of six, with cameras and microphones busy 24 hours a day. In one studio the talking picture sets are built on wheels, so that they can be rolled into the sound stage on a moment's notice, whenever the recording engineers can spare a half hour.

Meanwhile many players are enraged or perplexed, according to their temperaments, by the dilemma of "doubled voices." They play in a silent picture, and weeks later, after the reels have been shippd to New York and shipped back, they hear themselves speaking from the screen in strange voices. One character actress who thought she was English in the picture, while she was making it, went to see the film recently and heard herself talking loudly in an Irish dialect. Some think they should sue the producer; others shrug their shoulders and sigh.

William J. Locke, the novelist brought here to write a story for Norma Talmadge, finds Hollywood a pleasantly exuberant village.

"Everyone I see on the street weard an air of prosperity and enthusiasm," he says, "and even the architecture of the town is ebullient and glad. The Chinese theater, for example, reflects in its bizarre design the spirit of a motion picture center, and homes and hostelries and business establishments have a happy look. Elsewhere the same architectural effects might be terrible, but here they are in character."

Locke's only previous visit to Hollywood was in 1910, when the place was a lemon-growing residential community as yet undiscovered by the picture producers. Since then the movie industry has risen to a place of world prominence and developed a revolutionary offshoot called "the talkies." Even the talkies, however, do not shatter the British novelist's optimistic attitude toward Hollywood. Once the technical handicaps which hamper them now are overcome he believes they may develop into a new art.

Be that as it may, the musicians who are fortunate enough to be playing in talking pictures are receiving in some cases as much, per note, as many outstanding successful writers receive, per word, for their writings. There is a bugler in "The Desert Song" who must be on the set to sound certain bugle calls according to the script. Only rarely is everything ready for actual recording of the dialogue in the midst of which his bugle call sounds. Meanwhile he draws the established wage of $10 an hour for time elapsed in production, an arrangement which no doubt will turn some former army buglers green with envy when they hear of it.

Paying $10 a note for a bugle call is no extravagance, however, when compared with the cost of realism in an explosion scene. Samuel Goldwyn, scorning to use a miniature in the big ship-explosion scene of "The Rescue," spent exactly $52,656.45 blowing up a real ship in front of the cameras and as many skeptical newspaper men as cared to be present. Elapsed time, 10 seconds.

Young folks who used to stay at home and look at the family album go to the movies nowadays when they feel like gazing at pictures. The picture celebrities themselves, however, still enjoy an occasional evening at home with their photograph albums.

These albums do not lack portraits of Uncle John and Aunt Lizzie, providing they were stage folk or players in celluloid, but most of the pictures preserved in them are what studio language describes as "production stills." These photographic souvenirs of scenes they have played in various film dramas are among the most precious possessions of the stars. Particularly prized, of course, are stills from some film that was the turning point in a career.

Lon Chaney, for example, values stills from "The Miracle Man" and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" more than their weight in gold. Norma Talmadge delights in pictures of the early flicker period when film ingenues wore dresses down to the ground. John Gilbert's pet stills show him in various old William Hart Westerns and in "Apostle of Vengeance," the film in which he played his first lead more than 10 yeads ago, or in "The Big Parade," which made him really famous. The stills valued most highly by Greta Garbo are from the Swedish production, "Gosta Berling." Lew Cody's albums date back to 1915, when he played in "Mating," while Llonel Barrymore has pictorial reminders of roles he enacted for the camera as early as 1909.

So it still is no breach of etiquette in Hollywood to say: "Let's not go to the movies tonight. Let's stay home and look through these albums."

Producers of talking pictures so far have overlooked the opportunity to develop singing and talking stars among the birds and beasts. But the owners of these so-called "dumb creatures" are clamoring for action. One man who is especially proud of his trained parrot has persuaded Pathe's casting director to give the bird a test on the strength of its alleged ability to sing "Over There," "It's a Long Way to Berlin," and "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." Raymond McKee, the comedian, has a sad-eyed hound that says "Mamma," and it probably will not be long before someone arrives in Hollywood with a trained seal that can drape itself over a brass rail and sing "Sweet Adeline."

High Cost of French Army.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—Seven billion francs ($280,000,000) is the amount which France will spend in the maintenance and upkeep of its army during 1929. This does not include the $60,000,000 appropriated for aviation, which now boasts of a separate ministry. The pay of officers and men and upkeep of material alone amounts to $180,000,000.

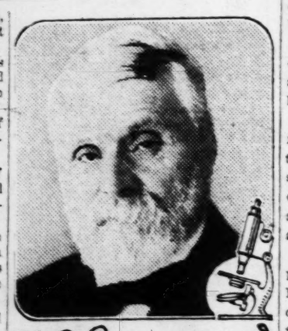
Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often Than Men



W. B. Caldwell M D
AT AGE 83

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice, he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and placed it on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a public success as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us it helped when everything else failed.

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, its mild, gentle action is promptly effective in the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or this coupon brings a bottle for free trial:

Read this before you buy any Cough medicine

{Take 2½ minutes to learn these important facts}

"Will it relieve my cough quickly?" — REM will, or you can have your money back. The fact that not one customer in a thousand ever wanted it back tells the story.

"Is it harmless?" — REM is,—there's positively nothing in it to hurt you.

"Is it an experiment?" — REM is no experiment. 43 years of pharmaceutical experience are back of it.

"Does it soothe the irritation and soreness?" — That's one of the most noticable qualities of REM. It clings to the throat, starting relief quickly. Right away you'll notice a soothing, cooling effect.

"Does it 'cut the phlegm'?" — REM does. It clears the air-passages and thus makes it easier to breathe during the day and sleep soundly at night.

"Does it taste bad?" — Not REM! It's easy to take. Even children seldom have to be coaxed to take it.

"Is it economical?" — REM is. Simple coughs usually yield to a single bottle. Remedies that don't help are expensive at any price.

"Does it claim more than it can do?" — REM is no "cure-all". We frankly tell you it's no good for anything but a cough,—but how remarkably good it is for that!

"Are all cough medicines pretty much alike?" — Indeed they aren't! No other cough medicine on the market has the same formula as REM, and "it's the formula that counts!"

NOW you know why . . .

"it's REM FOR COUGHS"

WORLD WAR PROBLEMS STILL BEFORE EUROPE ON TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF ARMISTICE

ReRparations, Debts, Evacuation of Occupied Territory and Armaments Are Questions Confronting Statesmen.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Europe observes the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, with statesmen still preoccupied with questions arising from the World War.

Reparations, war debts, the evacuation of occupied territory, armaments; these are yet the problems that must be solved.

There is still a demand for rectification of frontiers created by the war and by the peace of Versailles. Minorities of eastern and central Europe are clamoring for a new consideration of their rights and duties.

Physically, except for the crippled men who are still to be seen hobbling about the streets of every city, town and village, most of the traces of war have been erased in the years that have gone by since the Armistice bugle sounded at Rhetondes. In France and Belgium torn battlefields are again peaceful farms, the battered ruins of villages and towns have given way to new villages and towns. Destroyed factories and workshops are again at full blast of pre-war production.

No Disarmament Formula.

Europe, 10 years after, recalls the war in its demand for lasting peace. In the 10 years that have gone by since the Armistice the League of Nations has been established, the treaties of Locarno have been signed and accepted and the Briand-Kellogg treaty has put on solemn record the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy. Insignificant disputes that might once have led to mobilization have been adjusted without resort to battle.

On the other hand, the nations of Europe, with the exception of Germany, have more men under arms than in 1914. The destructive power of instruments of conflict is far greater than it was when the World War ended. A formula for real, disarmament, sought in numerous futile conferences, remains to be found.

The old story of "alliances," softened now to "compromises," cropped out a few weeks ago in the ill-fated Anglo-French naval agreement. The Nations still display their nervousness over "understandings" that, it is felt, may lead to something akin to Europe's discredited theory of the balance of power.

Devastated Region Restored.

France, greatest physical sufferer from the conflict, has undergone many viscissitudes since Nov. 11, 1918. In 10 years 15 Governments have essayed to bring order out of chaos. The franc, maintained at nominal parity throughout the four years of war, is worth today, stabilized, just one-fifth of what it was in 1918. In 1926 it touched a point one-tenth of pre-war parity. The devastated regions are virtually restored. In the minds of the common people, intellectually and even politically, the war is being largely forgotten.

Relations with Germany, clouded still by the problems of reparations and the evacuation of the Rhineland, are, nevertheless, friendly. Herr Stresemann came to Paris to sign the Briand-Kellogg treaty, making the first official appearance of a German foreign minister in the French capital since 1870. Recently M. Edouard Herriot, as French minister of education, went to Germany to study the life of Ludwig von Beethoven. German opera was sung in German in Paris this year for the first time since 1914. French theatrical companies have been received with acclaim in the cities beyond the Rhine.

Shortly the vexed reparations and Rhineland questions are to be again attacked, with prospects, it is thought in many quarters, of success. Representatives of six countries, France, Germany, England, Belgium, Italy and Japan will meet in Paris in December at the behest of the League of Nations to consider the technical aspects of the problems. But disarmament, the question of frontiers and the treatment of minorities are war problems that are likely to raise bugaboos for European statesmen for years to come.

Sage Tea Dandy to Darken Hair

By DOROTHY LANG

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. It costs only 75 cents. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

ONE MAN RENOVATING BRITISH MUSEUM'S BOOKS

If He Lives a Century More He Can Handle Less Than a Tenth of Them.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—One man is working at the job of renovating the 20,000,000 books in the British Museum. For 14 years he has been polishing the dusty volumes and there are only 19,790,000 more to fix.

If his present rate of progress continues, he will complete the task in just 1329 more years—unless somebody publishes another book in the meantime.

This patient, dauntless workman is I. Moss. He handles 1600 volumes each month; 15,000 each year; 150,000 each decade; that means 1,500,000 in a century!

But Moss never stops to worry about the time. He touches the books one by one with a sponge, restoring their youth with a solution.

Moss is polishing the books in the King's library now. He has been there two years and will need two more years to complete that section of the museum.

Internal Health Through Natural Methods

IF you are sick inside you are sick all over. When the stomach fails to digest its food, you are standing at the threshold of a series of ailments that may end in a complete physical wreck.

Internal health means health throughout the body. Keep your stomach and other digestive organs clean and vigorous by giving them the natural stimulation of the roots, barks and herbs contained in Tanlac.

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation — gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight.

You can't expect to feel 100% if your liver is out of order, your stomach upset, nerves jumpy or bowels tied up. You must build up your vital forces and you weak, weary, despondent men and women who have been doctoring for ages trying to get back the vim and endurance of earlier years will be astonished, delighted and amazed to see how quickly strength, energy and vitality come back thru the use of Tanlac.

Brain—Nerves—Heart— Stomach—Liver—Bowels— Are YOU "Hitting on All Six?"

Go to your druggist now and get a bottle of Tanlac. Millions of folks have started back on the road to youth, health and happiness with this world-famous tonic and there is no reason why you, too, can't begin today to rebuild your worn-out tissues and revitalize your entire system.

Your money back if you are not speedily helped by a fair trial of this world-famous medicine.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose.

Just See How These Sufferers Were Helped

Mr. L. C. Coltrain of 259 Maryland Ave., Memphis, Tenn., says: "I had no appetite and couldn't retain food in my stomach. Tanlac soon cured my dizzy spells. I could retain my food and got so I could put in a full day's work."

Mrs. Grace Jackson of 125 East 20th St., Chattanooga, Tenn., says: "My stomach was so bad my weight went down to 72 lbs. and we had spent all my husband made for special treatments. After several bottles of Tanlac I could eat heartily and now enjoy work."

Mrs. Edna F. Sawyers of 1229 Fourth Ave., Huntington, W. Va., says: "I was seriously troubled with gastritis, constipation and terrific headaches. After two bottles of Tanlac I ate everything. Tanlac also did away with constipation completely."

SIMBA

The Lion War of a Lumbwa Tribe

NOT A STAGED MOVIE — AS NATURAL AS GOD MADE IT

A Drama of desperate realities, picturing indisputably wild beasts of Jungle and Veldt, and the wild savages of Africa in the lives they lead and the deaths they die.

NAKED MEN AGAINST TOOTH AND CLAW

The story itself is NOT A STAGED OR MOVIE PRODUCTION; it is Africa as NATURE MADE IT. The Johnson's cameras take you there afoot, alongside and into the thick of it. The high excitement of a river crossing amid hundreds of hungry crocodiles; encounters with giant rhinoceros, and fighting the ever-attacking hippopotamus and the greatest natural scene it was ever privileged a human eye and camera to record—The Scene of THE MAD ELEPHANT STAMPEDE in the burning jungle.

Remember! All Seats are Reserved. Buy them in advance and be assured of seeing the most remarkable spectacle of all time.

ANCIENT BONES IN PAMIR CAVE

Soviet Expedition Studies Relics Uncovered in Grottoes.

TASHKENT, Turkestan, Nov. 10.—A soviet expedition to the Pamir highlands has penetrated the legendary Salik-Tash-Unkur cave, in the Valley of Death, near the Rang-Kul Lake, which wandering Mongol tribes said was full of bones of unusual size, skulls and untold riches. The tribesmen never dared to approach the cave.

After long efforts to remove ruge stones blocking the entrance, the expedition discovered a long underground passage intercepted by several grottoes filled with human bones and skeletons of an origin it could not ascertain. Samples of bones and minerals found in the grottoes will be sent to Moscow for study.

Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Splendid Recipe To Stop A Cough That "HangsOn"

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be made at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and once used, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children like it.

It is surprising how quickly this home-made remedy loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow the "flu", are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest cold, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Missouri Boy Like Mother

"Out of sight, out of mind" is a true saying. The fact that we can't see what's happening inside our children's bodies is the reason so many of us allow them to go on suffering from constipation until they are full of the poisons from decaying waste and they're bilious, headachy, sallow and weak, with no appetite or energy. Watch your baby or child, Mother, and at the first sign of coated tongue, bad breath or feverishness, give him a little California Fig Syrup. This rich, fruity product gently expels all the souring waste; gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels, so they continue to act normally; stimulates the circulation; tones and nourishes the entire system.

Its sales record of over four million bottles a year and the enthusiastic praise of women everywhere, prove mothers depend on it today as they have for more than fifty years. A Missouri mother, Mrs. C. C. Ryan, 6108 Charlotte Ave., St. Louis, says: "I used to take California Fig Syrup as a child, so when my little son began to suffer with constipation I started him on it. It stopped his trouble quickly and made him look ever so much better. I kept using it with him for a few weeks and it made a different boy out of him. He has grown so well and strong and is never sick any more."

See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California," so you won't be imposed on my imitators.

28 UNIVERSITY HEADS TO DISCUSS COLLEGE GROWTH

National Association to Open Three Days' Session at Hotel Chase Next Thursday.

NOTED SCHOLER TO MAKE ADDRESS

President Angell of Yale, Dr. Wilbur of Stanford and Sir R. A. Falconer of Toronto Among Them.

The rapidly increasing army of American doctors of philosophy and many problems incidental to the tremendous growth of American universities in the last decade will be discussed at the three days' annual meeting of the Association of American Universities, an exclusive organization with but 28 member bodies, which convenes here next Thursday at Hotel Chase.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford University; Dr. C. C. Little, president of the University of Michigan; Sir Robert A. Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, and James Rowland Angell, president of Yale, are among the leading educators who will address the conference. The association includes only those American universities which have fully developed graduate schools that maintain high standards of entrance and scholarship.

Growth of Universities.

"Discussion of problems having to do with large scale education is vital at this time" said Dr. Otto Heller, dean of the Graduate School of Washington University, who will be host to the visiting scholars at an informal dinner at Hotel Chase the evening of their arrival. "American educational institutions have extended themselves astonishingly the last 20 years. Our own university, founded in 1855 maintained an average of about 100 students yearly up to 1905. Then it began to grow. In the 23 years since, it has become a major university with a highly equipped graduate school and caters to approximately 8,000 students a year.

"The growth of Washington University may be regarded as typical for large undergraduate schools. For this reason, it is now time to emphasize the qualitative rather than the quantitative side of higher education."

The limitation of enrollment as a means of securing better graduate students—the nature of research fields assigned graduate students—housing accommoadtions for married graduate students—proposals for reorganizing American education will also be discussed.

Sessions Open Thursday.

The official program opens Thursday with an afternoon meeting of deans oft he 28 member institutions. Following the meeting, an informal dinner will be tendered the deans at Hotel Chase, with Dr. Heller as host. Another conference of deans is scheduled for the evening.

Friday morning the delegates will meet in the new women's building, on the Washington University campus. Prof. A. O. Leuschner of the University of California will present a paper on "Research Professorships;" Dean Gordon J. Laing will discuss "The Scope and Sphere of a University." The delegates will lunch in the commons at McMillan Hall, the dormitory for women, the Senate of the university being guests also.

Dr. Heller will read a paper on "Ph. D.—Its Denotation and Its Conation," and Dr. Stephen P. Duggan will discuss "International Fellowship" at the afternoon session, also in the new Women's Building. There will also be business meetings. Friday evening there will be a formal dinner for the visiting scholars at the University Club, the hosts being the corporation of Washington University and Dr. George Throop, acting chancellor.

Following a brief session Saturday morning, the delegates will be taken on a sightseeing tour of the city. After a final luncheon they will attend the Grinnell-Washington University football game.

List of Members.

The association has the following members: University of California; Catholic University of America; University of Chicago; Clark University; Columbia University; Cornell University; Harvard University; University of Illinois; Indiana University; State University of Iowa; Johns Hopkins University; McGill University; University of Kansas; University of Michigan; University of Minnesota; University of Missouri; University of Nebraska; University of North Carolina; Northwestern University; Ohio State University; University of Pennsylvania; University of Toronto; Princeton University; Stanford University; University of Virginia; Washington University; University of Wisconsin, and Yale University.

Nanking to Curtail Shrines.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 10.—To discourage superstitious beliefs entertained among the general public and also to make room for modern buildings, the municipal government of Nanking has decided to abolish all temples and shrines along the main streets of Nanking.

Drink Water to Help Wash Out Kidney Poison

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

"GREATEST MEDICINE KNOWN TO ME"

Said Virginia Avenue Lady Who Praises Miller's Herb Extract, Commonly Known as "Herb Juice," Above Everything Else for Beneficial Results.

"No other medicine would ever do for me what your Herb Extract Remedy has; no medicine I ever used before would thoroughly regulate me and free me from my ailments like this great medicine has; really, it has benefited me beyond all expectations" said Mrs. Jewell Weltig, popular St. Louis resident, who lives at 7206 Virginia avenue, and who is one among thousands to praise Miller's Herb Extract (formerly called Herb Juice), for better health after using it.

MRS. JEWELL WELTIG.

In a recent statement made to the special representative from the Herb Juice Company's laboratory, Mrs. Weltig enthusiastically declared that she has gotten better results and more benefits from the great Herb Extract Remedy than any other medicine she ever used; this within itself proves its effectiveness and power to relieve and restore health, all that is claimed for it in the advertising. "Yes, it's the very medicine I have long needed and it is now my only regret that I didn't get started to using it months ago, for I believe it would have saved me a lot of unnecessary suffering. It seemed like everything was the matter with me when I started on this medicine. My entire system had become contaminated with poison. Due to chronic constipation and indigestion I suffered agonies with gas, bloating spells, nauseated feeling in my stomach, gas pains would press up around my heart and at times would almost choke me. I had pains in my arms, shoulders and my limbs ached and I felt dreadfully bad and rundown. I would have weak, nervous spells, sick headache and was troubled with biliousness and dizziness. While I used many different medicines, it was only through the use of your great Herb Extract Remedy that I found real, genuine relief and got lasting benefits. Now I am feeling fine every day and have no signs of my old troubles. Yes, this great medicine banished my aches and pains has given me back my lost weight (24 pounds); now I am at normal in weight and have lots of energy and feel well and healthy every day. I would just like to know that every sufferer of the above-named troubles get to using this medicine, for it will bring back their old-time good health. It is the greatest medicine known to me."

Hundreds call daily to see the Herb Juice Medicine Company's special representative, who has established headquarters at Wolff-Wilson Drug Store, Seventh and Washington, to learn more of this great medicine that is bringing health and happiness to so many St. Louis citizens.

One Person In 41 Owns Automobile In England

Prospect Is This Ratio Will Be Reduced Shortly to 1 for Every 36—1,205,990 Cars in Kingdom, Majority Being of U. S. Make.

(By Mail.)

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Automobile manufacturers and statisticians here have ventured to estimate that as a result of the Motor Show just concluded here, the ratio of auto owners in the United Kingdom, now standing at one for every 41 persons, will be narrowed down to one auto to ever 36 within a year.

It is said that the Motor Show, which is held annually, has never before aroused such a fever of enthusiasm for auto buying amongst every class of the community. Sales already made at the show have broken all records.

At present there are over 1,205,990 autos in Britain and if the estimated increase materializes, as every important sales manager predicts, this number will be increased by about 150,000 or probably another 175,000 in the next 12 months.

According to John Leslie, sales manager of one of the larest manufacturing companies in this country, quite 50 per cent of this increase would be met by autos of American manufacture.

"England now has the fastest growing auto sales of any country in the world outside the United States," he said.

"This increase is due to the automobile consciousness of the classes with moderate means—the $1500 to $2500 a year man, who hitherto has not even, mentally envisaged the possession of a car. Now even the notoriously underpaid English cler-

One Person In 41 Owns Automobile In England

(By Mail.)

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Automobile manufacturers and statisticians here have ventured to estimate that as a result of the Motor Show just concluded here, the ratio of auto owners in the United Kingdom, now standing at one for every 41 persons, will be narrowed down to one auto to ever 36 within a year.

At present there are over 1,205,990 autos in Britain and if the estimated increase materializes, as every important sales manager predicts, this number will be increased by about 150,000 or probably another 175,000 in the next 12 months.

According to John Leslie, sales manager of one of the larest manufacturing companies in this country, quite 50 per cent of this increase would be met by autos of American manufacture.

"This increase is due to the automobile consciousness of the classes with moderate means—the $1500 to $2500 a year man, who hitherto has not even mentally envisaged the possession of a car. Now even the notoriously underpaid English clergyman has been going to the Motor Show with the idea of buying a car.

Autos worth $300,000,000 were sold in Great Britain in 1927. About 52 per cent of these were of U. S. manufacture.

Since 1919 the auto sales in the United Kingdom have leapt from $75,000,000 a year to the present figure.

Of the grand total of 29,687,499 automobiles in the world at the beginning of 1928, 89 per cent were of U. S. manufacture. This meant, therefore, that 90 out of every hundred cars on the world's roads today represented American work.

Louis Meyer Named Champion of 1928 Race Drivers

Virtually Unknown Until He Won Indianapolis Classic Last May, Speedster Has Accumulated 1596 Points for Year's Efforts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Louis Meyer, virtually unknown race driver until he won the Indianapolis classic in May, has jumped into national prominence by winning the American Automobile Association speedway championship for 1928. Ray Keech of Philadelphia, who captured the world's speed record from Capt. Malcolm Campbell at Daytona Beach, won second place on the championship list and Lou Moore, who placed second at Indianapolis, was third.

Meyer accumulated 1596 championship points for the year, while Keech wan 915 and Moore 406. In winning the 1928 championship, Meyer takes the speedway crown from the head of Peter de Paolo, who won it both in 1925 and 1927. A product of Pacific Coast dirt tracks, he won the acclaim of speedway fans at Indianapolis when he drove the entire distance of 500 miles without relief. He was also successful in winning the Altoona event on Aug. 19 and annexing second place at Salem, N. H., on July 4.

The A. A. A. Contest Board said that Keech, who drove over the sands of the Florida resort at 207.55 miles per hour in capturing the world record for one mile, was a consistent performer all season. He won the championship events conducted over the dirt tracks at Detroit and Syracuse, placed first at Salem on July 4, won fourth place at Indianapolis, and finished sixth at Altoona Aug. 19.

All of the existing 91.5 cubic-inch records established in previous years remain intact with the exception of the new 100-mile record established by Keech in a non-championship event over the Atlantic City Speedway on Sept. 16, when he averaged 131.805 miles per hour for this distance.

Championship races upon which the basis of the American Automobile Association award was made, were held over the famous brick track at Indianapolis on May 30, the Detroit one-mile dirt track on June 10, the Salem board speedway on July 4, the Altoona board speedway on Aug. 19, the Syracuse one-mile dirt track on Sept. 1, and the partly finished event at Salem on Oct. 12.

In addition to the "big three" on the 1928 championship list George Souders placed fourth, winning all of his points when he finished third at Indianapolis. Souders will be remembered as the Purdue University student who won the 1927 racing classic.

Bob McDonogh, from the old school of drivers, lands in fifth place, his best performance being that at Altoona when he was runner-up. The next five drivers in order of placement were Fred Frame, another Pacific coast driver; Norman Batten, and Cliff Woodbury, racing veterans, and Billy Arnold and Bill Spence, both newcomers to the Eastern speedways.

Winners of the A. A. A. speedway crown for the last 10 years are as follows: 1918, Ralph Mulford; 1919, "Howdy" Wilcox; 1920, Tommy Milton; 1921, Tommy Milton; 1922 Jimmy Murphy, 1923 Eddie Hearne; 1924, Jimmy Murphy; 1925, Peter de Paolo; 1926, Harry Hartz; 1927, Peter de Paolo.

Faulty Auto Lights Cause Of Accidents

Bring About 5 Per Cent of Nighttime Crashes, A. A. A. Declares.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Although dazzling automobile headlights are a distinct menace to motoring safety, their increase is piling up on streets and highways of the nation, American Automobile Association officials declared today, at the same time calling upon all motorists to do their utmost to curb this evil which has taken a high toll of human life and property.

Figures compiled by 10 large American cities, according to the A. A. A., show that from 3 to 5 per cent of all night-time accidents are treaceable to faulty headlights, and usually the defect was found to be glare caused by improper focus.

Tha neglect on the part of motorists themselves is responsible for the glaring headlight situation is evidenced by the records of the national motoring body. Although the great majority of A. A. A. clubs provide headlight adjustment service for their membership or for the general public, there is still a large number of motorists who do not avail themselves of this service, it is declared.

It is pointed out by the A. A. A. that motorists have it in their power to ameliorate this definitely dangerous situation if every car owner will give the necessary attention to his own lighting equipment.

"To drive an automobile in town or city or on the open highway with headlights which are improperly focused and, as a result, are dazzling for the drivers of approaching cars, is to court trouble for oneself and jeopardize the safety of all other motorists," declares the A. A. A. statement.

"Traffic authorities are well agreed that headlights are an aid to safe driving only when they are in proper condition. Otherwise they defeat their purpose and are a hindrance rather than an

35 States Favor More Federal Aid For Highways

Believe U. S. Government Should Increase Road Appropriation From $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 Annually—13 Against Increase.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Increased annual appropriations for Federal aid are necessary if highway construction is to keep abreast of automobile registrations, in the opinion of 35 of the 48 States, according to an analysis of questionnaires sent to State highway commissioners by the legislative department of the American Motorists' Association.

An affirmative answer was received to the following question from 35 of the States: "Do you favor an increase in the present amount of Federal aid appropriation, the annual appropriation at the present time being $75,000,000?" Replies from 13 States indicated that the State highway officials of those States do not favor increased Federal aid.

In the opinion of those favoring additional Federal aid, the consensus was that $100,000,000 annually should be appropriated for this purpose. Replies from five States,

Cubans Best Drivers He Has Seen, R. E. Lee Says

By MAJ. ROBERT E. LEE.
Manager, St. Louis Auto Dealers Association.

Recently, when in Havana, Cuba, attending the annual encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans, held there for the first time in the 30 years which have passed since the Spanish-American War, an excellent opportunity was granted me of studying at first hand the automobile situation in a country which yearly purchases many hundreds of cars from our American manufacturers.

It is interesting to contrast the handling of automobiles in Cuba with the way they are handled here, to observe the manner of traffic control and the part the automobile is playing in the progress of the Southern Republic. A description of these things is offered in the following article:

Coming down the gang plank of the steamship "Cuba" on arrival at Havana, my surprise was great to find waiting for us an automobile bearing a black and orange Missouri license. This was like seeing a white blackbird. The explanation was that Senor Alberto G. Abreu, Consul for the Republic of Cuba here, had driven his automobile to Havana for the encampment and he was at the dock to meet his friends from St. Louis.

I soon found in the City of Havana automobile licenses from many states. The explanation of this was that one may now drive from St. Louis or Chicago or New York over excellent roads, via the East coast of Florida, through Miami and out over the great causeway built by H. M. Flagler, almost to Key West. "Almost" means that there is a ferriage gap of 40 miles by boat and at Key West the automobile is loaded on the outgoing steamer for Havana and at an approximate cost of $17 to $20 it is tken across Florida straits and landed at Havana dock within a stone's throw of the spot where the battleship Maine was sunk in 1898.

Cuban automobile conditions are much like those of the United States. Dealers sell them on time payments as they do here. The dealers have elaborate and attractive showrooms and good service stations. And the used car there is as here a serious problem.

Exceptions to this there are, of course, the outstanding one being that the closed car is a rarity. In the United States production of touring cars is almost nil and virtually the only open cars manufactured for use in this country are roadsters. Occasionally one sees closed cars in Cuba, but they are all expensive limousines owned by the very wealthy or used for state occasions or by older ladies afraid of night air.

The climate of Cuba is almost unbelievably salubrious. "Salubrious" used in this case has no connection whatever with the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States. Days are hot, though not unpleasantly so, and nights temper off to a delightful balmy coolness. This then is the reason why the open car has 95 per cent preference in purchases there.

So far as the city of Havana is concerned there are no poor automobiles on the streets. Of the hundreds which throng the streets of Havana—and they are in hundreds—not one disreputable looking car is seen in an entire day. Paint is kept in fine condition, nickel is polished, mechanical condition of cars is at a high stage. There are no noisy, rattly, fender-broken flivvers anywhere and the greatest marvel of all is the fact that the brakes of all automobiles seem to be in perfect condition.

The matter of tight brakes in

MODULATORS FOR MARMON CAR ENGINES

New Device Said to Eliminate Torsional Vibration in Motors.

Development by the Marmon engineering staff of a new engine modulator, designed to completely eliminate torsional vibration from automobile engines, was described as removing one of the greatest obstacles in the way of smooth running motors by William G. Wall, president of the Society of Automotive Engineers, in a statement praising the device to Thomas J. Litle Jr., chief engineer of the Marmon Motor Car Co.

The new Marmon device, which is known as the Marmon High Frequency Oscillating Modulator, was announced only a short time ago and is now being used on the engines of Marmon straight-eight automobiles now in production. Although its construction and action are comparatively simple, it has solved one of the most troublesome problems that has confronted automotive engineers—that of eliminating torsional vibration or twisting of the crankshaft.

Wall, who is one of the best known automotive engineers in the country, witnessed much of the development work on the device and made a series of careful observations of its action after it had been incorporated on production engines.

Cubans Best Drivers, Says Robert E. Lee

Cuba and particularly in Havana is not one of accident nor yet of choice. Is is the law and also a necessity of existing conditions. Brakes must be tested under a provision of the city laws of Havana at frequent intervals. As a matter of safety they must be tested frequently because driving in the city of Havana is even more difficult and hazardous than on Broadway, New York.

Everybody drives rapidly in Havana and to their credit let it be said also very skillfully. I think the average of good driving there is higher than in any city I have ever seen. It is true that drivers seem to think that half an inch is an ample distance to miss the other fellow but they always miss him. During 11 days I probably rode in 50 taxicabs and half-a-dozen privately owned cars, and I did not see even a fender bumped.

Havana is a city of taxicabs and for taxicabs, yet they are not taxicabs. They are all well kept, well equipped and well driven touring cars, usually five-passenger size. Streets are thronged with them, all driving at a rapid speed.

The taxicab rate is exactly the same in amount as it was 30 years ago for horse drawn Victorias, which were used as taxicabs and which the American soldiers then also patronized with striking liberality. The rate is 20 cents—one peseta—within a certain zone—about four miles square—for one or two passengers, 30 cents for three passengers and 40 cents for four passengers and 50 cents for five passengers. Into the next zone this rate is doubled, but even long ditsance riding on this basis is cheap and it is distinctly rapid.

The taxicab drivers in a few instances speak English. If they do not they drive you to the next corner and find a policeman or other interpreter and they never quarrel.

Traffic conditions in Havana are exceedingly complicated. To the man from St. Louis or Chicago there would appear to be no traffic laws, rules, regulations or practices. This is a mistake. The traffic rules are very specific and rigidly and willingly adhered to. The average street in the older part of Havana, which still occupies an immense area, is 20 feet wide and part of that is taken up by a three-foot sidewalk on each side. This absolutely compels one-way traffic and these one-way streets alternate.

Cars are parked on both sides of these narrow streets, but through some miraculous method of driving, which we of the United States have not yet learned, other motor cars weave their way through. As they approach a corner always with the car under full control, the driver sounds his horn loudly and repeatedly. This gives him the right-of-way at that corner over the fellow on the cross street. In other words the man who blows his horn first has the right-of-way. This would seem to be a dangerous proceeding, but I did not see a single accident nor a single mixup because the fellow coming on the other street invariably stopped and waited. This will explain why it is necessary in Cuba to have good brakes.

In the new part of Havana, particularly on the Malecon, one sees fine privately owned motor cars, usually driven by liveried chauffeurs. Some even have a chauffeur and a footman in uniform, but nearly all of them are open cars.

I had the good fortune, as I was there in a semi-official capacity and in the uniform of the United States Army, to have as host to me a Commandante (Major) of the Cuban Army, Maj. Whitmarsh-Garcia and he was one of the most courteous and considerate gentlemen I have ever met. He called for us at our hotel with his car manned by footman and chauffeur each day while we were there and the way his chauffeur drove that car was a marvel to me.

We went over the many wide and well kept boulevards in the new part of the city, including the Malecon, a splendid driveway which skirts Havana Bay, out to Pinar Del Rio Province, through to Matanzas and other places within 60 miles of Havana and our average speed on the open roads was 50 miles per hour. We passed many speed "cops" who seemed very attentive to duty but they saluted us respectfully and we went on our way. I saw one man arrested because he had blocked the highway with his car.

The sale of automobiles in Cuba should constantly improve in volume. At this time the highways in the vicinity of Havana, Santiago de Cuba and other cities are good and the driving condition attractive. Just now the Cuban Government is at work on a fine, wide, smooth highway which is to traverse the island from one end to the other. I was told that this would be nearly 700 miles long and a perfect drive its entire distance and the Government will build to it many feeders of the kind that we call here "farm to market" roads.

The import duty into Cuba on motor cars is nominal and as there is much apparent wealth in the cities of Cuba there is heavy ownership there of motor cars. Cars of all classes sell there. I saw Rolls Royces, Pierce Arrows, Hudsons, Nashes, Hupmobiles, Studebakers, Packards and many of the smaller cars, and again I say that they were kept in better condition than I have ever before seen motor cars.

For a vacation trip in a motor car I can think of no more desirable place in the whole world than Cuba. Weather conditions are always ideal. Tropical vegetation is profuse and beautiful. The architecture, all Spanish in style, is charming to see. The countryside with its great fields of sugar cane, of tobacco, of pineapples, is gloriously attractive. The people are courteous. They like Americans. And it is easy to get there with a motor car.

Pines AUTOMATIC

Winterfronts for Whippets

WHEN you guess about what to do for your motor in cold weather—9 times in 10 your guess is wrong — and your motor suffers.

Get positive, dependable automatic motor protection

You have noticed the shutters now standard equipment on many leading cars. They are automatic. Their makers take no chances with cold. There is no waiting for the smell of heat—no guessing it's cold. Automatic Motor Protection guards your motor with scientific accuracy. The shutters open themselves when your motor needs cool air. They close themselves when your motor needs heat. Cadillac, Lincoln, LaSalle, Hupmobile 8, Chrysler 75 and 80, Dodge Senior Six and Pierce-Arrow now have this protection.

Motor Protection must be Automatic

Offered you at a special price

And now—so that Whippet owners can enjoy the same protection afforded owners of these fine cars—a specially priced Pines Automatic Winterfront is offered you. One that costs but little more than makeshift methods. Pines Automatic Winterfront gives you full protection against excess dilution, scored pistons and cylinder walls, fouled spark plugs, corrosion and extreme carbonization. These are the troubles that bring costly repair bills and lower the efficiency of your motor.

Drive in — have your car equipped in a few minutes—and forget the danger of cold as long as you own it. Thermostats are guaranteed.

ANNUAL TEXAS BUS REVENUE IS $6,000,000

Mileage of Lines Exceeds That of Railroads by Two to One.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 10.—Passenger revenue of motor bus lines in Texas now totals approximately $6,000,000 annually, according to reports made by operating companies to Mark Marshall, state motor traffic director of the Railroad Commission. Marshall said that the bus operators have 33,000 miles of routes in Texas as compared with a total of 16,500 miles of railroads in the State.

One of the most notable instances of proposed motor bus invasion of remote territory not yet penetrated by any railroad was contained in the application just presented to the Railroad Commission by R. C. Bowen of Fort Worth, president of the West Texas Coaches, Inc., for a permit to establish a bus line between San Antonio and Pecos, 442 miles.

The route of the proposed bus line is 50 to 75 miles from any railroad for a good part of the distance. On the route are a number of towns, including Boerne, Kerrville, Junction, Sonora, Ozona, Sheffield, Fort Stockton and Balmorhea. A double daily schedule of buses is proposed. It was stated at the hearing of this application that cost of constructing a railroad between San Antonio and Pecos would be approximately $16,000,000. The busses will also handle an express business. The Railroad Commission took the application for a permit under advisement.

At St. Louis Air Fields

The most interesting event of the week in local aviation circles was the visit of Col. Lindbergh, who came home from a hunting trip in Mexico to vote.

Making the trip in a Travel-Air loaned to him by W. H. Dunning Jr., a fort Worth (Tex.) oil man, "Slim" arrived Monday afternoon. After casting a ballot for Herbert Hoover, Tuesday morning, Col. Lindbergh returned to the flying field for a visit with old friends, and then hopped off as the leader of a three-ship formation to inspect the site of the airport to be established by Trans-Continental Air Transport, Inc., on the East Side, south of East St. Louis. Harry H. Knight rode with Lindbergh, the other pilots and passengers being Phil Love with his partner, T. Preston Sultan, air consultants for T. A. T., and "Boots" Dempsey, whose passenger was Mark C. Steinberg, head of the syndicate which owns the East Side field.

From the proposed flying field, the party flew to Parks' Airport nearby, where they were luncheon guests of H. P. Mammen and Oliver Parks, officials of the Parks Co. The visit also was the occasion for a reunion between Lindbergh and Joe Wecker, one of "Slim's" former buddies from Lambert Field, who now is field manager at Parks Airport.

Lindbergh probably would have started his return flight to Mexico Tuesday afternoon but a new propeller and wheel for his Curtiss-Falcon, damaged in making a landing on a Mexican ranch, failed to arrive from the Curtiss factory on Long Island until that evening. A special messenger boarded the train on which the spare parts were shipped at Indianapolis to sort them out from other express shipments and they were delivered to mechanics of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation when the train reached Union Station. The new "prop" was lashed to the fuselage of the Travel-Air, the wheel was put in the cockpit and at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning "Slim" took off for Mexico.

St. Louis-Kansas City Service.

Another important step in commercial aviation here will be the inauguration next Thursday of aerial passenger service between St. Louis and Kansas City. Under a schedule prepared by the traffic department of the Robertson Aircraft Corp., which also holds a mail contract from St. Louis to Kansas City and Omaha, planes will leave Kansas City at 8:30 a. m., arriving here at 11:15 a. m. On the western trip planes will leave here at 2:30 p. m., arriving at Kansas City about 5 p. m. The St. Louis-Chicago schedule also has been revised, with a noon hour departure for Chicago, instead of at 9 a. m. The southbound plane leaves Chicago at 9 a. m., instead of at 3 p. m. under the old schedule, arriving here about noon. The service is daily.

Pilots on New Air Line.

Charlie Rousch and Walter Hunter, Robertson Aircraft pilots, have been assigned to the new St. Louis-Kansas City passenger route. Ryan broughams and a Stinson six-passenger job will be used. The fare is $30 one way, $55 the round trip, the same as on the St. Louis-Chicago route, with a through Kansas City-Chicago fare of $55.

Beacons and Emergency Fields.

Bids for lighting the St. Louis-Kansas City route will be opened by the Aeronautical Division of the Department of Commerce Nov. 30. The bids will cover 20 revolving beacons and lights for seven emergency landing fields. While the lights are not needed for the passenger service, they will be necessary for the air mail when it gets started.

Fast Flight to Chicago.

Louis E. Audette of New York City, president of the Niagara Lithograph Co., missed the tri-motored plane for Chicago Wednesday morning and as a result had a fast trip to Chicago in a Cessna piloted by "Bud" Gurney. They took off at 10:30 a. m. and were in Chicago two hours later.

Another East Side Airpost.

The St. Louis Air Transport Terminals Co. has been incorporated with a capital of $500,000 as the holding company for the new Trans-Continental Air Transport Field on the East Side. Work on the new airport, which comprises 570 acres just south of East St. Louis, will begin shortly, with completion in the spring, when T. A. T. and the Pennsylvania Railroad will begin train-plane service from New York to the Pacific Coast. Mark C. Steinberg, broker, is president of the new terminals company.

Fire Prevention Conference.

William B. Larkin of the St. Louis Fire Prevention Bureau, represented the Air Board, the Fire Prevention Bureau and the Flying Club of St. Louis, at an informal conference at Washington, Friday, of representatives of the aviation industry for the purpose of discussing the proposed regulations for the protection of airports from fire. The conference was called by W. P. McCracken, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, at the request of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, to give insurance interests benefit of advice of the aviation industry before the proposed new regulations are officially adopted.

Progress on New Factory.

Work on the new factory being erected at Parks Airport is progressing. The plant will have an area 101 feet by 580 feet, with a two-story section at the front for offices and drafting rooms. It will cost $150,000. A dope and paint shop is to be added at an additional cost of $65,000. The first of the two planes to be made by the company will be ready for testing shortly. The ships are cabin monoplanes incorporating a high lift wing and low landing speed and will be powered with 200-horsepower motors. Richard F. Hardin, who designed the Douglas cruisers used on the Army round-the-world flight, is the engineer.

Going to Hot Springs Convention.

Members of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Corps, who are making a cross-country flight to Jefferson City today, will hop off Tuesday morning for Little Rock, Ark., to attend the three-day annual convention of the National Guard Association, which opens at Hot Springs on Tuesday. Those who have signified they will make the trip are Maj. Wassall, Capt. Wimer and Lieuts. Sparks and Dunn. Several other officers are expected to make the trip, including Lieut. Kaeppel. Several non-coms also will be taken along.

Time-Saving Arrangement.

The new Mahoney-Ryan plant has been designed to save steps. Wood from the stockroom is carried less than 10 feet to the cutting machines. The woodworking follows one side of the plant, while steel tubing is welded into fuselages on the other.

Love Says Bixby Can Fly.

Harold M. Bixby, chairman of the Air Board, is at Lambert Field almost every morning from 7:30 to 9 o'clock, soloing his Travel-air. Bixby's latest tutor is Phil Love, who reports that Bixby can fly.

New Ryan Cabin Planes.

During his visit last week, Col. Lindbergh inspected the new Ryan cabin plane which is being built at the Mahoney-Ryan plant at Lambert Field. The new plane, while resembling in general the well-known Ryan type, will have places for four passengers and two pilots and also a luggage compartment. The first of the new ships will be tested this month and will be displayed at the Chicago aeronautical show. Col. Lindbergh is quoted as saying the new ship "looks better."

Inquiry from Bombay.

Among the latest inquiries received by the Robertson Flying School for catalogues are those from Tokio, Japan; Bombay, India, and Basrah, Irak.

Lindbergh Machine Inspected.

Master Sergt. James Tate of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Corps took one look at the Travel-Air flown here by Col. Lindbergh and then went to work tightening up the center section and flying wires, which needed attention.

Awards of "Flying Time."

Three students at Parks Air College have received awards of "flying time" for scholarship. James M. Pepper Jr., Duquoin, Ill., was awarded 40 hours in the air for his high scholarship rating. John W. Larner, Bronze, N. Y., received 20 hours, and Merle Wilqinson, Northeast, Pa. 10 hours.

Richards Field Celebration.

Dale "Red" Jackson, test pilot for the Curtiss-Robertson Co., and O. E. Scott, field manager at Lambert Field, departed for Kansas City yesterday in a Curtiss-Robin, to take part in the Armistice day aerial celebration at the new Richards Field. The "Robin" has been entered in several races for OX-5's.

"Red" Jackson an Instructor.

In addition to his job as test pilot "Red" Jackson is an instructor in the Robertson flying school.

Joine the Robertson Staff.

Bennie Howard, veteran pilot from the Southwest, has been added to hte Robertson staff and is co-pilot on the trimotored passenger ship.

Flyers at Robertson Funeral.

Six planes from Lambert Field, three Ryan broughams and three Travel-Airs, flew over the funeral of John J. Robertson, father of Maj. William B., Frank H. and Dan Robertson, which was held Wednesday afternoon to Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mail Pilot Back on Duty.

Ray Fortner, mail pilot, returned to duty Thursday, after a week at his home in Vincennes, Ind., with the flu.

Challenger-Robins Tested.

The first of the "Challenger Robins" to be built in the Curtiss-Robertson plant is under construction and will be ready for the Chicago show. A "Challenger-Robin" flown here from the Curtiss factory was tried out by the mail pilots Thursday. The ship has had 300 hours in the air and so far no knocks have been heard in the new type air-cooled "Challenger" motor.

Cliff Durant "Ship" on Visit.

A new Stearman, with a speed wing and completely equipped for instrument flying, was refueled at Lambert Field Thursday. The ship was made for Cliff Durant, wealthy sportsman, and was flown by Clarence Gunther, Durant's pilot. Accordnig to Gunthrer, this is the second Stearman bought by Durant. Gunther planned to meet Durant at Indianapolis, where he was testing a racing car, and then fly to Los Angeles.

Air College Football Team.

George Lee Lambert, in addition to being a flying instructor at Parks Air College, is director of athletics Under his direction a football team of flying students defeated a team representing the mechanics school, 18-0. Parks College will be represented by a basketball team, there being a number of former high school and college players among the students.

Felix du Pont at Parks Airport.

Felix du Pont, a member of the du Pont family of Maryland, had to spend several days at Parks Airport last week while repairs were made to his Whirlwind Stearman. The ship was damaged in a forced landing in St. Louis County while du Pont was returning to New York from the Pacific Coast.

CHRYSLER

New Grace, New Style, New Beauty Greater Value

Chrysler's new style is so original that imitation even in the least detail must plainly indicate the source of inspiration. ¶ Its pleasing grace more than ever obsoletes the bulky and cumbersome. ¶ The new Chryslers differ from all other motor cars in their utterly new treatment of slender-profile radiator, air-wing fenders, arched windows —to mention only a few of a host of style features—added to a performance which out-Chryslers even Chrysler. ¶ The simple fact that thousands of people now realize that not even a thousand dollars more will buy style, performance, comfort, safety, dependability and long life equal to the new Chrysler, is arousing a demand that Chrysler's largest production is taxed to the limit to satisfy.

CAR OUTPUT PASSES FOUR MILLION MARK

Ten Months Production Exceeds All Records For Like Period.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Production of cars and trucks during the first 10 months this year reached a figure of 4,068,727, surpassing all previous marks for a corresponding period according to reports submitted at the directors' meeting of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce today. The report further shows that the previous high mark for the first 10 months was in the year 1926 when 4,062,110 cars and trucks were turned out. Vice President Alfred H. Swayne presided.

October output was estimated at 397,000 motor vehicles as compared with a total of 434,915 in September and 227,510 in October last year. October was 75 per cent greater than October, 1927, and 8 per cent under September this year.

Reports at the meeting indicated that more than 800,000 American cars and trucks would be sold outside of the United States this year. During the first nine months more than 627,000 vehicles were shipped to 107 countries and the last three months should bring the figure up to well over 800,000 for 1928. This foreign demand exceeds last year's high mark of 643,634 vehicles.

Busses in Sweden.

Sweden has 6000 licensed motor busses operating daily over 1600 different routes. The combined length of the routes covered amounts to about 50,000 kilometers, or more than three times the length of the entire Swedish railway system.

CONVENIENT LUGGAGE CARRIER IN CHANDLER

CHANDLER body engineers have fully anticipated the vital part convenience features play with the average car owner, so with the advent of the new Royal "75" coupe, they incorporated a new type of carrying compartment as shown in the photograph above. Women who drive their own cars, as well as salesmen who use a car of this type, will appreciate this storage space, which is directly back of the driver's seat. It is not only commodious, but convenient.

DODGE CUTS PRICES OF TWO LINES

Another Maker Will Soon Offer a Low-Priced Eight, It Is Said.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 10.—Drastic slashing of prices on two of the three lines of Dodge cars were announced at the factory here yesterday. It was said that this is Walter Chrysler's method of cleaning the plant of the present Dodge Victory Six and standard six lines stock in order to prepare for production of new models of these lines which are to make their appearance after Jan. 1. There is no price change in the Dodge senior six line.

In the standard six line the price reductions range from $150 to $180. The sedan of this model, for instance, formerly selling at $895, factory list, is now priced at $735, factory list, the coupe model, formerly $875 is now $725, factory list.

The Victory six line has been reduced from $200 to $250. The sedan model of this line, formerly listed at $1095, factory, can now be purchased at $895, factory list.

A new eight-cylinder is to be added by the manufacturer of a well-known six line in the near future, according to unconfirmed reports. The price of this new model is expected to be relatively cheap.

A new line of six-cylinder Elcars—seven models—ranging in price from $995 to $1195 is announced. The new cars will be known as model 75. It has an Elcar built body of new design and a radiator front with entirely new lines.

Reflecting the success of the Graham-Paige line, which has attained production of 70,406 in its first 10 months, the company announce that company's dealer connections have increased 140 per cent this year.

In the first three months of its existence the Chrysler-built new Desoto Six has reached a production and distribution volume unparalleled by any other car during the same period in the entire history of the automobile industry, according to figures released here. In October better than 9500 Desoto Sixes were produced and distributed.

All records for the shipment of cars since the first Packard car was completed Nov. 6, 1899, were broken by the Packard Motor Car Co. in October. A total of 5800 vehicles was produced and shipped by the Packard factory during the month. This exceeded by 700 cars the best previous month in Packard's history.

$258,000,000 for Roads Through Gasoline Taxes

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—An average gasoline tax of 3.19 cents a gallon under a direct taxation system in 44 states in 1927 bought more than $258,000,000 worth of good roads, according to an analysis made by the American Motorists' Association.

Twenty-four states increased their gasoline tax during the year in an effort to build more and better roads, the analysis showed, the 1927 average of 2.19 cents a gallon tax being .63 cent increase over the preceding year.

Of the money raised by gas tax for roads, nearly $200,000,000 was spent on state highways. More than $55,000,000 went into local roads, and $10,000,000 was appropriated to state and county road bond pavements.

Wisconsin Clubs Favor Gas Tax

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Nov. 10.—The proposed bill of State Senator Robert M. Caldwell of Lodi to increase the gasoline tax and reduce license fees and personal property tax on automobiles will be favored by Wisconsin automobile clubs, according to Arthur L. Husted, secretary of the Madison Auto Club.

Husted points out that a shift in tax assessment would be more equitable than the present system, and says that for this reason the non-motorist who is forced to pay high fees will have the burden moved to those who use their automobiles often.

According to the Madison man the matter of snow removal will be alleviated for "sufficient money would be provided for snow clearance and maintenance through roads" from the tax shift.

Senator Caldwell's proposal would increase the tax on gasoline from two to four cents a gallon. He explains that a one cent a gallon tax would bring $3,000,000 a year, the same as the personal property tax, and the latter levy then could be removed.

New Branch for Hudson-Frampton

Another sales and service branch for the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., Hudson-Essex distributer, was opened the past week at 4821 Easton avenue. The new branch is housed in a recently erected one-story building with a 50-foot frontage and a depth of 257 feet.

Both new and used automobiles will be on display. For the present only minor service work will be taken care of, but the mechanical department is supervised by an expert mechanic appointed from the Hudson-Frampton shops on Delmar boulevard.

Warner Motor Co. Erecting Building

Plans have been completed for the Warner Motor Car Co., Chevrolet dealer, to occupy its new sales and service building now being erected at 5148 Natural Bridge road, on Dec. 15, Thomas Connor, contractor in charge, announced yesterday. The firm is now occupying a building at 7200 Natural Bridge.

The new structure will be two stories high, with a frontage of 100 feet and a 114-foot depth.

150 New Dealers For Reo Since Aug. 1

Twenty-one new dealers joined forces with the Reo Motor Car Co. in the past six days, bringing up the total net gain since Aug. 1, of 145 new dealers throughout the country, factory officials report.

This rapid expansion of the dealers' organization, the most rapid in the history of the company, is but a preliminary expression of the aggressive plans that are being formulated for 1929, according to officials.

"At no time in the past has the Reo 'triple franchise' had so urgent an appeal to experienced automobile merchants," said C. E. Eldridge, sales manager of the company, in making public the results of the dealer campaign. "More and more automobile dealers are beginning to see the value of a commercial line, to make of the automobile business a 12-months-a-year enterprise; and of course every one knows the position that the Reo speed wagon occupies in the commercial car field.

"We confidently expect that our dealers' organization will have passed the 1500 mark by the beginning of the peak spring months of 1929."

35 States Favor More Federal Aid

however, placed the minimum at $150,000,000 annually, or twice the present authorization for 1929, 1930 and 1931 of $75,000,000 annually.

But seven States were of the opinion that the Federal Government should contribute funds toward improvement of the secondary highway systems of the States, although practically all of the Western States voiced their favor of the Oddie-Colton bill, which provides special funds for certain States having large tracts of public domain.

A total of $733,200,000 has been appropriated to date by the Federal Government, under the Federal aid program inaugurated in 1916. The following tabulation shows the amounts for each year, expressed in terms of millions:

1917	5	1923	50
1918	10	1924	65
1919	65	1925	75
1920	95	1926	75
1921	100	1927	75
1922	75	1928	75

Support of increased appropriations for Federal aid was voted by the legislative committee of the association at its November meeting.

More Turkeys for State Preserves

HOLLISTER, Mo., Nov. 10.—Five hundred bronze turkey hens have been purchased in this vicinity by Chief Game Keeper Claude Hunt, Missouri Game and Fish Department, and will be concentrated here for distribution to State parks and refuges prepared to propagate fine birds and already provided with native wild gobblers.

Hunt reports an abundance of turkeys in Southern Taney and Stone Counties, especially of the wild variety. Flocks are reported from every section. This is due to a spirit of co-operation among country folks, who are finding it most profitable to save the fowls for outside sportsmen, who pay liberally for guides able to locate the flock. Old-time hunters, who used to fill their larders with young turkeys weeks before the open season, have become guides and are zealously guarding the native birds that are prospering on the heavy mast and abundant grasshopper and devils-darning-needle.

ONLY PONTIAC AMONG ALL SIXES OF ITS PRICE OFFERS

-a Successful Six now winning Even Greater Success

Body by Fisher! To motor car owners everywhere the very phrase suggests the newest style, the greatest luxury, the finest construction known to automotive body building. Yet only Pontiac among all sixes of its price offers Bodies by Fisher. And in their long, low, smart lines, their deep-seated comfort and durable hardwood and steel construction, you will find the cause of a great share of the tremendous popularity which Pontiac continues to enjoy.

But bodies by Fisher represent only one of the many advantages offered by today's Pontiac Six. A 186-cubic inch engine equipped with a new, more highly perfected carburetor—the AC fuel pump—the cross-flow radiator with thermostatic control—the famous G-M-R cylinder head . . . all these vital engineering advancements are provided by Pontiac and by no other six selling for as little as $745.

Such quality as is represented by Fisher bodies and by these other outstanding Pontiac features constitutes the greatest value ever offered in any low-priced six. It satisfies every demand for modish beauty and modern design. And it accounts for Pontiac's rapid rise to leadership in less than three years. Come in to see and drive this great General Motors Six and you will learn why it is dominating the low-priced six-cylinder field!

In Pontiac-Fisher bodies the newest style is combined with the finest construction known to the body building industry. Frames are of selected hardwood. Panels are of high-grade steel. Wood and metal are carefully insulated to eliminate all body noises. And glass in windshields, doors and windows is all of finest plate.

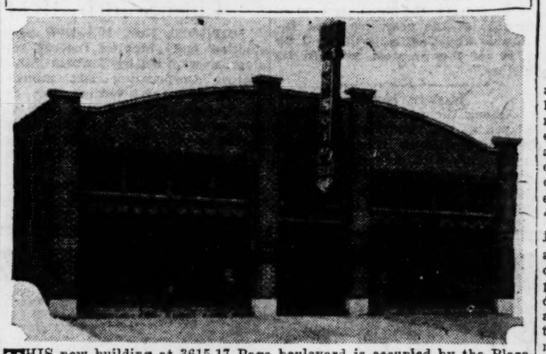
NEW HOME OF DE SOTO DEALER



THIS new building at 3615-17 Page boulevard is occupied by the Plaza Motor Car Co., recently appointed De Soto dealer by the De Luxe Motor Car Co., distributer of the line here. It has a frontage of 47 feet and a 115-foot depth. The firm, besides displaying a full line of cars, handlers parts and renders a 24-hour mechanical service. C. S. Bennett is general manager.

TWO RECORDS IN 1 DAY FOR GARDNER CAR

Race Driver Goes 69 Miles in 59 Minutes—Then 316 Miles in 6½ Hours.

Driving a Gardner car, Victor Havers, race driver of New Jersey, recently broke two speed records in one day. This information comes from the Hackensack (N. J.) Record, one of the papers covering the run.

Driving a Gardner 1929 straight-eight sedan, Havers covered the 65 miles from Middletown, N. Y., to New York City in 59 minutes, the paper says.

"Not content with this he drove from Syracuse, N. Y., to New York City, a distance of 316 miels in six hours and 32 minutes.

"In order to be sure that the car would start in the heart of Syracuse, a copy of an evening paper was mailed to Havers at the Onondago Hotel in that city. He was compelled to call for it and bring it with him to New York in less than 7½ hours, which he did.

"With the exception of airplane time between these two points, this time is faster than that established by any moving mechanical device.

The Gardner car which Havers drove was a 115 H. P. strictly stock sedan. Accompanying Havers was Colonel Halsey Dunwoody, vice-president of the Gardner Motor Co. Inc., of St. Louis. Col. Dunwoody said he had traveled by air, water and land, but had never received a thrill to equal this one.

Haver's next test will be at the Atlantic City speedway on Nov. 10, when he will drive a Gardner straight-eight on a 1,000-mile test. Havers says he will average better than 90 miles per hour.

Pierce-Arrow Car, Truck Output High

A 100 per cent gain in shipments of the Series 81 motor car over the corresponding period last year is reported for October by the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co. This record increase tops all previous high monthly sales gains made during the summer and fall months and is an indication of the remarkable progress made by the strengthened and reorganized factory organization, factory officials say. October's increase in passenger car shipments was accompanied by an equally important one for trucks, the total of shipments being double that of one year ago, it was stated.

Delco-Remy Corp. To Make Headlights

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ANDERSON, Ind., Nov. 10. — That Delco-Remy Corp. has begun the manufacture of automobile headlights has been announced by C. E. Wilson, president and general manager. This extends the activities of the corporation to include the manufacture of the entire lighting system of a car as cowl lights, combination tail and stop lights and wiring harness have been in production at the Anderson plant for the past two years.

The corporation has purchased the Guide Motor Lamp Co. of Cleveland, which will be operated under Wilson's supervision.

New Speed Record.

Traveling at a speed of 100 miles in less than an hour is a new record established recently by John Willis, motorcycle racer, at the Monthlery Autodrome in Paris, France. He used a motorcycle with a cylinder capacity of 350 cubic centimeters.

assistance. To say that headlights are in proper condition means that they must be bright enough to light up the roadway and at the same time be so focused that the beams will be bent downward and kept out of the eyes of approaching drivers.

"Every car owner should subject his headlights to periodic examination. Proper adjustment calls for a certain degree of expert knowledge and if the owner does not know how to make the adjustment himself, he should see to it that it is done at a place maintained or designated by the local traffic authorities or motor clubs.

"There are too few motorists who give this attention to their lights, and this is evidenced by the relatively small number who report regularly to either State A. A. A. headlight adjustment stations for an inspection. Clubs affiliated with the American Automobile Association throughout the country provide facilities for adjustment of headlights. Many which maintain this service offer it to the general motoring public so that every possible assistance is given by the motor club in ridding streets and highways of glaring lights.

"The urgent need for proper adjustment of automobile headlights is apparent in the relatively large number of accidents directly traceable to failure in this respect."

Free Lance Buyers select NEW CENTURY HUPMOBILES as the Century's Finest Values!

THE "free lance" buyer is one with no used car to trade in on his purchase of a new car. Unhampered in his choice, he goes straight to the source of greatest value. It is a striking fact that 21.99% of Hupmobile Century Six sales and 16.14% of Century Eight sales in 1928 have been made on this basis. And Hupmobile sales are mounting, month by month, not alone through this class of buyers but by attracting thousands of motorists from price fields both above and below that of Hupmobile. When you examine the new "tailored-metal" beauty of the new Century Hupmobiles, and personally experience their finished mechanical excellence and smoothness of riding, you too will see the folly of paying more for the Century's finest motor car performance and value.

6 and 8

Forty-two body and equipment combinations, standard and custom, on each line. Six of the Century list prices: $1345 to $1645, plus delivery charges. Century Eight list prices: $1825 to $2125, plus delivery charges.

ADOPTION OF SIX-WHEEL UNITS URGED

Public Roads Bureau Says They Will Aid In Saving Roads.

For better and cheaper transportation use six-wheel vehicles and pneumatic tires, officials of the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture advise.

"Automotive and highway engineers are constantly seeking more economic transportation. Highway engineers have always been faced with the problem of producing the greatest mileage of serviceable roads, and have been forced to design them as light as possible, consistent with traffic demands. On the other hand, truck operating costs are generally reduced by increasing the pay load capacity," they go on to say.

To preserve the existing highways and to give economic transportation, the introduction of the six-wheel truck, with a limitation of wheel concentration and pneumatic tires, and not the limitation of gross load, is the solution of the problem, Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau, recently told members of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

According to investigations of the bureau, all conditions of test being equal, the effect of a six-wheel vehicle on the highways is about one-half that of the four-wheel. This is the first of two important reasons for the six-wheel truck. The other is, that increasing the number of wheels so reduces the load on each wheel as to permit the use of pneumatic tires on the larger-sized trucks, which cannot be so equipped when supplied with only four wheels.

The pneumatic tire reduces the impact of the moving truck and so tends further to protect the highway. The bureau's tests show that the impact of a solid tire exerts a pressure on a pavement two or three times the standing load while the pressure exerted by the pneumatic tire is only a small percentage above that of the load at rest.

Firm Has Laid 7821 Miles Of Highways in 27 Years

Eight Warren Brothers of Boston Operate in Many Foreign Countries—Now Building 750-Mile Cuban National Road.

Distinctly, road building has become a mammoth American industry. It has followed the automobile in America and is now beginning to develop under the urge of automotive traffic in foreign lands. Local, county, state and national expenditures on road building and maintenance now exceed one billion dollars annually, according to the United States Bureau of Roads. Like all big industries it has created big business.

The largest single road building firm built up by eight brothers and known as Warren Brothers Co. of Boston, have between Jan. 1, 1901 and Sept. 6, 1928 laid 7,987,159 square yards of pavement. This is equivalent to 7821 miles of roadway 30 feet wide between the curbs, an amount of road that would have been considered impossible for the whole United States to build in George Washington's time.

It is a type of road unknown before the advent of the automobile which because of its traction, torque, and impact proved the undesirability of all former types of roads. Warren Brothers have laid more than one half a million square yards of paving in each of 117 towns and cities in 46 of the 48 states.

In Canada, Warren Brothers have laid pavement as follows: Alberta 708,912 square yards, British Columbia 1,485,134 square yards, Manitoba 319,431 square yards, New Brunswick 127,109 square yards, Nova Scotia 102,759 square yards, Saskatchewan 364,723 square yards, Ontario 3,662,299 square yards.

In Chile the firm has laid 148,537 square yards of paving and in Argentine 791,039 yards. In the city of Tucuman, Argentine Republic, the company has just taken a contract to lay Warrenite-Bitulithic on city streets covering more than one-half of the whole downtown and well built portions of the city to the extent of 340,000 meters. This is, roughly, the equivalent of 23.2 miles of streets, 30 feet wide. Tucuman is a city of 120,000, lying near the base of the lofty Sierra de Aconquija, located 780 miles by railway from Buenos Aires, on the direct route to La Paz in the Bolivian Andes. It is little known to Americans.

In Mexico the firm has laid 32,205 square yards of road, in Japan 601,240 square yards, and in Honolulu 196,676 square yards. In Cuba, prior to its present great work on the Cuban Central Highway, the company laid 40,022 square yards in Cienfuegos, 113,533 yards in Havana and 43,744 yards in Havana County.

The Cuban Central Highway is to be 750 miles in length, extending from the city of Pinar del Rio in western Cuba to Santiago in the eastern end of the island. This is a magnificent road, of most modern type, and without grade crossings, and reaching the capitals of the six Cuban provinces. Warren Brothers have 500 miles of the road under construction and are expected to complete it in the latter part of 1930, judging by their present rapid progress, according to a recent statement of Manuel A. Coroalles, chief of the Bureau of Roads of Cuba.

Cadillac-La Salle Shipments Increase

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Nov. 10.—"For three successive months since the announcement of the new Cadillacs and the new LaSalles, shipments of Cadillac and LaSalle cars have exceeded 5000 cars per month," Lawrence P. Fisher, president of Cadillac, said today.

"October shipments," Fisher declared, "totaled 5022 cars. This is the largest October in the history of the Cadillac Motor Car Co. August, September and October established a new quarter record for the company, both from the standpoint of manufacturing and retail deliveries.

"From virtually every section of the country, consumer demand has shown a large increase over any similar period. It is our feeling that the general prosperity of the country and the desire for better automobiles is reflected in outstanding volume of business done by us since the announcement of the new cars.

"Prospects for the last two months of the year are most favorable and Cadillac will wind up 1928 as the greatest year in its history."

Modern Motors.

Among the oddities of cars displayed at the twenty-second Paris Automobile Show this season, is a machine with eight gears. The French models, painted in daring color combinations, are low slung, many without any step between the ground and the seats.

70,406 Graham-Paige Cars Sold in 1928

DETROIT, Nov. 10.—New production and shipping records for October were set by Graham-Paige Motors Corporation last month, raising the total output for 10 months of 1928 to 70,406 cars, as compared with 18,800 for the same period of 1927, or a gain of 274 per cent, according to factory officials.

Production last month was 5% per cent more than the best previous record for October, established in 1926, and was 3.6 times the total for October of last year. For 10 months of 1928, under the Graham management, the factory has averaged 7040 cars monthly production, higher by 1200 cars than the total for the best single month of the predecessor company, it was said.

Popular Tourist Bureau.

The Keystone Automobile Club of Philadelphia, Pa., received 132,224 requests for information concerning automobile tours during the past 12 months. Nearly 40 per cent of the requests were for tours of 1000 miles or more.

Steel Forgings Used in New Ford

One of the features of the new model A Ford car is the extensive use of steel forgings in place of the castings and stampings. The forgings are formed while red hot under high-pressure hammers, producing great strength with lightness of construction impossible to obtain in castings or stampings.

Castings are made by pouring molten steel into molds where it is allowed to cool until the castings can be removed.

OLDEST CLOCK IN FRANCE NO LONGER RUNG BY HAND

Electric Apparatus Installed and William the Conqueror's Edict Is Repealed.

By the Associated Press.

ROUEN, Nov. 10.—The oldest clock in France received the shock of its 800 years of existence when electric power was installed and the citizens of this ancient city were no less shocked when they heard a snappy three-minute curfew instead of the customary 15-minute tolling.

Built in 1174 during one of Rouen's most famous sieges, the clock in the old belfry had been repaired under instructions of William the Conqueror, who decreed that every night a man should ascend the 200 or more steps, and personally sound the curfew with a hammer.

Other dynasties came, the revolution brought down many belfries, Napoleon ruled, then the republic and still William the Conqueror's edict prevailed and night after night the man went up those steps.

Recently the City Council decided to repeal the decree of the Conqueror and electricians were called in, wired the belfry and now the bell ringer is out of a job.

RUSSIA URGES PEOPLE TO TAKE WEEKLY BATH

Modern Improvements Enter Soviet by Invitation of Government.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 10.—The Russian government's recent decision to invite foreigners to take over, develop and operate public utilities in the 60 largest cities of the Soviet Union opens the possibility of providing modern conveniences for millions of people who know such comforts largely by hearsay.

Even in Moscow and Leingrad, Even in Moscow and Leningrad, out running water, and in many apartment buildings there is only one faucet to a floor. Comparatively few homes have gas. Most people still cook with firewood. In provincial cities, except for some newer buildings, gas is used only for street lighting.

The construction and operation of public baths, many people say, ought to prove among the most profitable of concessions. Except in the more modern houses in Moscow and Leningrad, bath tubs are almost unknown in Russia. People who have the bathing habit use the public baths. Every Friday and Saturday in Moscow one can hear the sounds of choral singing in the streets. The vigorous voices are those of soldiers marching to the public bathhouses.

The Government is teaching the troops, and hopes to teach others, the value and joy of bathing "once a week." Illustrated posters show what to do with a shower, a bar of soap and a towel.

Nine-tenths of Russia's millions live in villages and small towns where gas stoves and bathing are equally unknown. Electricity is the most widespread of all the modern conveniences. The Government is spending millions putting in electric plants all over the Union, even in spots hundreds of miles from railroads. German, Swedish and English firms have concessions for much of this construction.

SPAIN IS MAKING BID TO RECOVER LOST SEA POWER

Plan for Construction of Three 17,000-Ton Cruisers Step Toward Regaining Prestige.

WORLD WAR AIDED NATION FINANCIALLY

Building Up of Merchant Marine a National Corollary to Growth of Export Trade.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Spain is making a bid for a new place among the maritime powers of the world over which her mighty armada was once supreme.

Maritime commerce and sea power go hand in hand, and Primo de Rivera's plan for the immediate construction of three new 17,000 ton cruisers armed with 10-inch guns marks the beginning of a Spanish naval renaissance which is producing uneasiness in England and France.

Egland is perturbed because Great Britain has quite definitely given way to the United States and France as Spain's best customer, and British merchants realize that where Spain sells it will also buy. The decree compelling Spanish coal consumers to use Spanish coal in proportion of from 40 to 60 per cent has resulted in a great decrease of coal imports from England, and there is an agitation in England now regardless of the country's political views against the consumption of Spanish oranges and other fruits and wine as a retaliatory measure. The agitation is mostly in the mining areas. England last year imported $30,000,000 worth of oranges from Spain.

Bigger Than French Vessels.

France, although a next-door neighbor to Spain, has not captured so much of the Spanish trade as the United States, and the Spanish naval renaissance is worrying the French because under the Washington naval arms convention they cannot build cruisers larger than 10,000 tons, nor arm them with guns of more than 8-inch caliber. The new Spanish cruisers could, therefore, sink any existing French cruiser and run away from any French battleship.

Sir Francis Drake started the decline of Spanish power and maritime commerce when he sank the Armada, and Admiral Dewey gave it the coup de grace at Manila Bay. But for 30 years Spain has been doggedly seeking to regain her sea power, but so gradually that her effort has passed almost unnoticed by the world.

World War Helped Spain.

Spanish national wealth was increased during the World War by the export of ore, mules and foodstuffs, the value of which rose to unprecedented heights because of the great demand and by the sale of manufactured products to sorely pressed belligerents.

In spite of national unrest and sporadic revoluationary outbursts, Spanish finance is now on the soundest basis for years. The floating debt has been consolidated, the ordinary budget balanced, and revenue is constantly expanding.

Spain scored an impressive triumph in this respect recently in taking from Great Britain the contracts for two large destroyers for the Argentine navy.

Add to this the fact that its chief industry is cotton spinning for a marekt in the Eastern Mediterranean won in 1918 from England.

Nation's Economic Status.

A nation of more than 23,000,000 people, Spain is now being forced to seek outlets for the products of Spanish industry which its own country cannot consume, and at the same time stick to the financial and economic policy of the present government, whose ideal is that of a self-sufficient state.

An expansion in maritime commerce and sea power will care for the first objective; that the second is being achieved is proved by the fact that Spain has reduced its adverse trade balance of 473,000,000 pesetas for the first nine months of 1926 to 421,000,000 pesetas for the corresponding period of 1927, the latest available figures.

The largest two steam trawlers ever built for the salt fish trade have been sent to the Grand Banks of Newfoundland by Spanish owners within the last 12 months. These vessels are of 1400 tons dead weight, with crews of 66. The significance of this is that in this form of maritime commerce Spain has definitely taken the lead in proclaiming the long, range trawler as the fishing vessel of the immediate future.

It is no wonder that when the King of Spain goes abroad these days he travels regally in his battle cruiser, the Principe Alfonso, with a speed of 23 knots.

Students of economics are predicting that another 10 or 15 years, at the present rate of progress, will find Spain back in a world position commensurate with her ancient glories and with a navy that will have to be seriously considered when any stock is taken of the balance of sea power.

One-Year French Military Service.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—One-year military service has come to France. Minister of War Painleve announced officially that young Frenchmen called to the colors on their twentieth birthday would be released from compulsory service after 12 months in uniform. Before the war Frenchmen served three years. Since the armistice it had been reduced by various stages to two years.

TUBERCULOSIS SEAL SALE TO OPEN NOV. 25

Revenue for Health Promotion and Disease Prevention in City and County.

The Christmas health campaign and seal sale, conducted annually by the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis, will open Sunday, Nov. 25, with the beginning of National Health week, when similar campaigns will be conducted in 1500 cities of the country.

More than $80,000 was raised by the sale of Christmas seals in St. Louis last year, the contributions being from 160,000 persons, not including the hundreds of school children who contributed pennies. The revenue is used in financing the year-round health promotion and disease prevention campaign of the society in St. Louis and St. Louis County.

In conjunction with the campaign for the sale of Christmas seals, a health education program will be conducted along intensive lines. There will be an Industrial week, with special campaigns in industrial organizations, a theater night and a movie night, when health buttons will be sold in the amusement houses; a school day, and a special 10-day campaign carried on in the Union Station.

The activities of the society are directed mainly toward the prevention and cure of tuberculosis. It finances eight municipal nurses and two county nurses to attend patients in their homes; it maintains a night and day rest camp at 9500 South Broadway for young women and a residential open-air school for undernourished girls, and conducts school health activities, radio talks, movies, a health talk bureau, health publications, health information service, physical and dental examinations in schools, special tuberculosis news service for physicians, and campaigns for the early discovery of tuberculosis. John C. Tobin is president of the society.

BOARDS OF REVIEW TO MEET TO CONSIDER APPLICATIONS

Boy Scouts Urged to Send in Names at Once So Number May Be Determined.

Boards of review for local Boy Scouts who wish to receive awards at the next district courts of honor, to be held next month, will be conducted in the districts beginning a week from tomorrow, according to William Puffer, educational director of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council. Applicants for first class who wish to be examined at these boards should mail in their applications this week, Puffer said, so the number of boys to be reviewed may be determined in time.

The boards will meet at the following times and places: South District, Rose Fanning School, Nov. 19 and Dec. 3; West District, Clark School, Nov. 22 and Dec. 6; North District, Farragut School, Nov. 20 and Dec. 4; Suburban District, Webster Groves High School, Nov. 21 and Dec. 5. These will be the last chances this year for a scout to advance to first-class rank or to obtain certain merit badges for which reviews are necessary.

The courts of honor for which these reviews are preparation will be held in the South District at the Missouri School for the Blind, Dec. 11; West District, Ben Blewett Junior High School, Dec. 13; North District, Yeatman High School, Dec. 12; Suburban District, Webster Groves High School, Dec. 11.

Protest Against Canal Questions.

By the Associated Press.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 10.—The International Shipowners' Association has decided to protest against the practice of the Panama Canal administration in demanding from every ship passing through the canal complete information regarding cargo, origin and destination. The complaint is made that the canal authorities gain nothing by such information and that there is danger of disclosing important trade secrets.

Fewer Drink Shops In Ireland.

By the Associated Press.

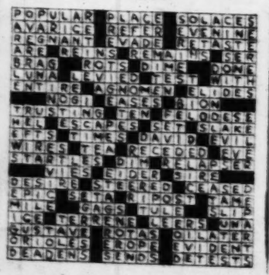
DUBLIN, Nov. 10.—The Free State courts are now engaged in lessening the number of drink shops. By an act of Parliament the question whether there are in any district too many drink shops is left to the decision of the law courts. The police give evidence as to the houses they think should be suppressed, a magistrate judges their representations, and the matter finally goes to a Circuit Judge. The idea is to preserve only houses which can prove they are satisfying a real public need.

Russia to Resume Making Starka.

By the Associated Press.

LENINGRAD, Nov. 10.—Government distilleries soon will resume production of starka, a vodka highly renowned in the middle of the last century. It will be made for export only, mostly to Germany and France, where thousands of thirsty Russian exiles live.

Answer to Today's Cross-Word Puzzle



Leningrad "Coming Back."

By the Associated Press.

LENINGRAD, Nov. 10.—The old capital of the Czars gradually is getting back on its feet. The revival of Leningrad, a dead city after the government was taken to Moscow, is attributed to the increased commercial activity that followed the adoption of the new economic policy seven years ago. At that time Leningrad's population, which numbered almost two and a half million in 1926, had fallen to 722,000. On Oct. 1 this year it was estimated by the municipal statistics department at 1,724,000.

The New FRANKLIN AVENUE Invites You

For Generations a Famous Thoroughfare

Make Franklin Avenue Your Buying District

The New Franklin Avenue is proud of itself and its pride is justified. For months the turmoil of construction denied this famous thoroughfare the popularity it has earned through years of enterprise on the part of its commercial institutions.

Now that it has experienced its transformation into a handsome wide street with modernized buildings St. Louis is invited to again come to Franklin Avenue for the greatest values at the lowest prices.

Pedestrians and Automobilists are invited by Franklin avenue merchants to use this handsome new thoroughfare extensively. It is now a broad TWO WAY avenue from Third street west.

Traffic can move freely and swiftly in both directions. Ample parking space can be easily found.

Wellston street cars are now running both East and West on Franklin avenue.

On this page and those which follow are items which indicate the bargain values Franklin Avenue merchants are offering during their Celebration week.

Senator-Elect Patterson Has Had Unusual Career as Prosecutor In Circuit and Federal Courts

Served One Term in Congress After Missing Chance at Election With Little Opposition —Has Convicted Many Big Bootleggers.

By CARLOS F. HURD.

There are some names that tell the story. The fact that a man is named John Wesley, of Francis Xavier, or Charles Sumner, may not show entirely what the man is, but it does show the ideals and influences behind him—influences from which most men do not get very far away.

Roscoe Conkling Patterson, Senator-elect from Missouri was dedicated to politics and to Republicanism by the father who named him for the brilliant senatorial leader of the mid-seventies, historic antagonist of James G. Blaine.

And like James A. Reed, whom he succeeds at Washington, Patterson is both politician and prosecutor. As a boy, he sat in the courtroom o fthe pillared old Courthouse on Springfield's public square, and heard his father, John A. Patterson, then Prosecuting Attorney of Greene County, cross-examine witnesses and address juries.

One of the elder Patterson's most famous prosecutions was the Graham wife-murder case. Graham, who was from Indiana, murdered his wife and hid her body in a cave west of Springfield. He and the woman in the case, daughter of a woman evangelist, were arraigned for murder, but a mob lynched Graham, and the difficult task of prosecuting the woman as accessory, without a principal, remained. She wa stried twice, and acquitted.

Three Brothers Lawyers.

There weer and are three of the Patterson boys. All are lawyers, and two have held important public offices. Roscoe, the youngest, was born in Springfield, after the family had removed to the larger place from the neighboring county seat town of Marshfield. He lived in Springfield, save for two years in Washington, until official duty as a Federal prosecutor took him to Kansas City three years ago. He is 52 years old.

Like his older brothers, he went to Drury College, in Springfield, and like them, he did not tarry for the full four years of Latin, Greek, mathematics or science. He wanted to get at the law, and to try his political chances in a County which, for all its solid Republicanism, cherished the Democratic rule of rotation in office.

He was in the State University Law School for a year, then at St. Louis Law School, on Locust street near Fourteenth, where he took his LL.B. degree the summer before hes was 21.

Back in Springfield, he did not sit long about the paternal law office. A. B. Lovan, now an assistant Attorney-General at Jefferson City, was prosecuting attorney of Greene County, and he made Patterson his assistant. "Ros" covered the justice-court circuit, and aided his chief in the more important cases, for four years. In 1902 Patterson, then 26, ran for prosecuting attorney, was elected, and in 1094 was re-elected.

Another Lynching Case.

In Patterson's second term on the night before Easter Sunday, 1906, a mob took three Negroes from the County jail, lynched them from the light tower on the public square, and burned their bodies. Patterson directed the inquiry made by a special grand jury. Several men were indicted, and one was placed on trial. Feeling ran high in favor of the accused man, and the jury disagreed. Patterson's term ended before the time for a second trial, and his successor dismissed the case.

Later, when Stanley Ketchel prize fighter, was killed by a farm manager in Webster County, in a quarrel over a woman, Patterson was called by that County to prosecute the case. In the trial at Marshfield, he obtained life sentences against the slayer, Walter Dipley, and Goldie West. The Supreme Court reversed the woman's sentence; Dipley went to prison.

In the famous Baby Keet kidnaping and murder case, in 1917, Patterson aided the prosecution. The infant, son of a Springfield business man, was stolen from its bed and held for ransom, which the father endeavored to pay. The kidnapers failed in the rendezvous, and the baby's body was found in a well, near an abandoned farmhouse. Three men were tried at Marshfield, where the case went on a change of venue, for kidnaping—the evidence did not afford positive proof of intentional murder. Claude Piersol was sent to Jefferson City for a 35-year term, which he is now serving. Two men named Adams were sentenced for 10 years each.

Missed Chance for Congress.

In the years after his terms as prosecutor. Patterson gained a large practice in civil and criminal cases. He served for 10 years on the State Committee, and preserved his party regularity by sticking to the Republican national ticket in 1912, though he was an admirer of Col. Roosevelt. But he was doing so well in the law that he, for once, overlooked an excellent chance in politics.

Springfield is in the Seventh Congressional District, shaped like a T-bone steak, the design having been o offset the heavy Republican vote of Greene County, in the Ozarks, with the Democratic vote of Lafayette, Saline and Howard counties, on the Missouri River. Normally it has been a hard district for the Republicans.

In 1918 the Republican nomination in the Seventh went begging, and Patterson was urged to file in the primary. He decided that the prospects of election were small, and did not file. The nomination went, by default, t one Salts of Ash Grove, one of the odd characters who not infrequently scrape up the filing fee and run in the primary, where they are usually eliminated.

Republican prospects in the Seventh, and through the State, were much better that fall than Patterson and others had thought in the early summer. The first returns showed the election of Salts by a small plurality. Then, in some way never fully explained, it developed that a miscount had occurred in one ward of the city of Sedalia. The altered returns defeated Salts, who to this day has not been able to figure out exactly what happened to him. The Republicans of the district made only a perfunctory complaint of the change in the Se-

...rength among the Republicans of the district was such that he was able to do what very few candidates would venture—to espouse another candidate's cause in the same primary in which he himself was a candidate. He backed Arthur M. Hyde for the nomination for Governor, although Springfield had a candidate, Hyde's chief opponent. Regular though he was, Patetrson stood with the younger Republicans in that contest, against the "old guard."

United Railways Case.

In the fall of the same year, while running for Congress, Patterson acted as local counsel for the McCulloch-Cameron defense in the famous United Railways referendum petition burglary case, taken to Springfield on a change of venue. St. Louis lawyers, Cullen, Harvey and Major, evolved the defense that referendum petitions were not property of legal value, and that their abstraction from a safe was not burglary. This defense, after an extended argument, was upheld by the trial Judge, Orin Patterson. Roscoe's brother, who ordered acquittal.

Few Congressmen establish much of a reputation in their first year in Washington. In Patterson's term, the railroad strike of 1922, and Attorney-General Daugherty's injunction against the strikers, made the Harding administration unpopular in Springfield a railroad shop and office center. This, rather than anything that Patterson himself had done or failed to do, beat him for re-election in 1922.

Missouri's New Senator

THOITS ON ROSCOE C. PATTERSON

He did not run in 1924. Following that election, Republicans of western Missouri began urging the appointment of a new Federal District Attorney at Kansas City. Judge Orin Patterson, who had left the bench, was backed by leading Republicans, and Roscoe went to Washington late in 1925 to see what he could do for his brother. A fight on Judge Patterson developed, and Attorney-General Sargent, when Roscoe Patterson called on him, suggested that he himself take the appointment. The matter was settled on this basis.

Has Convicted Bootleggers.

In his present office, which he did not resign in running for Senator, Patterson has made a reputation as a thorough and vigorous prosecutor. He has prosecuted major violators of the liquor laws relentlessly and successfully.

In these cases, which now take a large share of the time of all Federal prosecutors, Patterson has required substantial and convicting evidence, and, with this furnished, has pushed law violators to the limit. His requirements as to evidence have not tended to build up the percentage records of enforcement agents, but have kept the court docket clear of the weaker sort of cases.

In all cases presented in court, by Patterson or his assistants, the prosecutor stands well back from the clerk's bench, and makes the presentation to the judge in tones which can be heard throughout the courtroom. Patterson announced, when he took office, that there would be "no whispering" on the part of the Government's lawyers.

Patetrson appears to high advantage before a jury, or before a campaign audience. He has a firm jaw, a forehead and eyebrows of Daniel Webster type, and his voice, with both high and heavy tones, is better than a public speaker needs in these days of artificial amplification. His manner of address is dignified, and its incisiveness is tempered by the suggestion of a southern accent, which is partly the accent of Paterson's native Ozarks.

Speaks on Prohibition.

St. Louis audiences have heard Patterson but a few times. Throat trouble caused him to cancel some appearances here late in the recent campaign. At a pre-primary luncheon given by Republican women in July, Patterson talked about prohibition. He said that promises of "light wines and beer," or of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment, were impossibel of fulfilment, and were made to catch wet votes ,and that he would make no such promises.

He explained at some length the procedure that would be required to effect any essential change in the prohibition laws, and he added that he would not vote, as a hSenator, to "nullify any part of the Constitution." Patterson, in his later campaign, made no public change from this position, which placed him on a parity with his opponent, Charles M. Hay, on this question. However, Patterson was never an active worker in behalf of prohibition, as Hay was, and this was taken into consideration by some wet Republican voters, who supported Patterson as against Hay.

His chief talking points in the campaign were prosperity, retention of the present tariff and immigration laws in substance, and the merits and achievements of Herbert Hoover, with the conclusion that Hoover can and will help the farmer if anyone can.

In his home county of Greene, Patterson's majority for Senator was 5299.

SITE OF CHINESE LEPER COLONY ONCE LAIR OF PIRATES

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, Nov. 10.—One of the world's major leper colonies, on Tai-Kam Island, off the southeast coast of China, is preparing to move into new quarters.

The Tai-Kam colony was started in 1901 by Dr. John Lake and his wife of Edgefield, S. C. It was established in the midst of an area famous throughout south China and the south seas as the stronghold of pirates.

This missionary family has made friends with the buccaneers, converted many of them to Christianity and enlisted their aid in building the new leper colony. Mrs. Lake died last July.

The colony at Tai-Kam is the personal property of Dr. Lake. He owns the island and the buildings on it. Wu Ting-fang, former minister to Washington, became interested in Dr. Lake's work and bought the island from a fishing company and gave it to the missionary.

Tai-Kam is a beautiful, well-wooded mountainous spot nearly seven square miles. It is 40 miles southeast of the Portuguese colony of Macao and two miles from the Chinese mainland. The new colony consists of 16 buildings, with accommodations for 200 lepers and farm land enough to make the institution self-supporting.

CHURCH IS 80 YEARS OLD

St. Paul's Evangelical Church, Giles avenue and Potomac street, will open a week's celebration of its eightieth anniversary with a German worship service at 8:30 a. m. today. An English service will be held at 10:30 a. m., and a song service at 8 o'clock tonight.

Speakers at special services throughout the week will include the Rev. Ernst Irion of Kewasum, Wis., the Rev. Paul Schoppe of Millstadt, Ill., Dr. J. Baltzer and other St. Louisans.

Glider Factory for Detroit.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 10.—One of the few plants outside of Germany devoted exclusively to the construction of engineless airplanes, or gliders, is to be erected in the Detroit district. Announcement is made that Gliders, Inc., recently organized in Detroit, will erect a factory near Rochester, about 25 miles north of Detroit. W. J. Scripps of Detroit is president of the company, while the directorate includes some of the best known aviators, such as Alfred V. Verville, Edward V. Rickenbacker and Edward Stinson.

SECOND SESSION OF GOLD KEY COURSE

Dr. Frank Wright and Frank M. Underwood to Speak Tomorrow Night.

The second meeting of the Scout Leaders' Gold Key Training Course, the most comprehensive educational program ever undertaken by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, will be held tomorrow evening at the William Stix School, according to William Puffer, educational director o fthe local council. Last week's gathering was devoted largely to organization work.

The Gold Key course, a leadership program extending over five years, and carrying with it several nationally recofnized training certificates, besides the gold key charm certifying completion, has been so arranged that leaders who have taken the regular training courses in previous years will be considered to have passed one year of the gold key work. They therefore will be eligible to take either of two classes offered at the present course, one in Advanced Scoutmastership and the other in First Aid. The latter class is being conducted with the co-operation of the St. Louis chapter of the American Red Cross, which has loaned the services of Dr. John R. Hall of the Washington University School of Medicine. A course for beginners, similar to those given in previous years, also is being offered.

The principal speaker at the course tomorrow evening will be Dr. Frank Wright dean of the Department of Education at Washington University, who will talk on "Educational Objectives." Dr. Wright will be followed by Frank M. Underwood, Superintendent of St. Louis Public Schools, with an address on "Scout Objectives." The "good turn" wil be emphasized in the latter talk.

In conection with the training course, the council has opened a handicraft training center in the Misouri Theater building. At this center, which is open every week night except Saturday, leaders may complete handicaaft projects in different scout merit badge subjects. Two handicraft projects are required to obtain the gold key.

The handicraft center is in charge of W. F. Thompson, Ranger Camp director at the Irondale Reservation, assisted by a corps of specialists. The elementary course is under Field Scout Executives S. C. Reaves, the advanced under Activities Director H. T. Swanson, and the First Aid Course under Field Scout Executive M. N. Leavitt.

SPECIAL BOY SCOUT SERMON

All Members in City Invited to Oak Hill Church Tonight.

A special Boy Scout sermon, to which all troops and individual scouts in the city are invited, will be given at the Oak Hill Presbyterian Church, Connecticut and Oak Hill avenues, at 8 o'clock tonight. The sermon, which will be given by Dr. Malcolm Matheson, will be entitled, "The Son of Whom the Father Is Proud." In addition to the sermon a special program, including music by an orchestra composed partly of scouts, has been arranged.

Troops 8, 18, 38, 63, 74, 77, 86, 109, 180, 183, 198 and 200 have indicated their intention of attending in a body.

SCOUTS IN 150-MILE RADIUS INVITED TO FOOTBALL GAME

Washington U. to Be Host to Boys Next Saturday at Contest With Grinnell.

All Boy Scouts of St. Louis and of out-of-town councils within a radius of 150 miles have been invited to be the guests of Washington University at a football game between Washington and Grinnell University at Francis Field next Saturday afternoon. The scouts will sit in a special seserved sections of the grand stand during the game.

The university will provide guides from those among the student body who have been or still are scouts to escort the visiting boys around the campus and through the buildings. The scouts will eat their lunches on Liggett Field. Between halves a number of scout teams will compete fn a "flag relay." A bulletin is being mailed all troops giving particulars of the visit.

Troop Notes

Headquarters Notes.

A suggestion that all Boy Scout troops of the city and county that do not have troop reporters appoint these officers at once has been made by Director of Activities H. T. Swanson of local headquarters. The office of the troop reporter is to send in all announcements and reports of troop activities to headquarters for publication.

Final plans for local Boy Scouts within a radius of 150 miles of St. Louis to see the football game between Washington University and Grinnell University next Saturday have been arranged by local headquarters. A special grand stand section will be reserved for the scouts, and lunch will be served on the field. In addition, the scouts will be taken on a tour of the university grounds and buildings and Forest Park, including the Lindbergh collection of trophies at the Jefferson Memorial.

Preceding the game the scouts will parade around the field with colors and drum and bugle corps, while between halves will be held a signal relay race of four scouts from each troop entered. The signal race will take place on the gridiron, from goal post to goal post.

The first meeting of the 1929 Scout Circus Committee will be held next Wednesday afternoon to arrange the program for the annual Scout Circus, the most important event of the local Boy Scout year.

Boy scouts desiring to learn to swim, or who wish to practice for the merit badge in swimming or life saving, will be permited to use the Beaumont High School swimming pool on Tuesday evenings hereafter, by an arrangement made with the school authorities. Admittance to the pool, however, will be limited to these two classes, permits from scout headquarters being necessary to get into the pool.

Dr. O. W. Appel, Red Cross life saving examiner, will be in charge of the instruction. Negotiations also are under way to obtain similar schedules at other pools of the city.

Two troops were suspended and eight troops lapsed for failure to register in time last week, according to Carl Laemmli of the registration department of local headquarters. Those suspended were Troop 150 of the Euclid Baptist Church and Troop 196 of the Tabernacle Baptist Church. Those lapsed, which must get in their registration before the first of next month to keep from being suspended, are Troop 106, Troop 130, Troop 151, Troop 191, Troop 92, Troop 66, Troop 67 and Pattonville 1.

Forty-eight recruits joined the ranks of scotuing in St. Louis City and county troops last week, according to C. H. Laemmli of the registration department. The boys joining, and their troops, were:

West district—Troop 21, David Syberg, Tommy Shields, Reid Draffen and Jack Bennie. Troop 78, R. T. Baker, Billy Stillman and Warren Stegge. Troop 113, Herbert Jones, Edward Berrants and Robert Finley. Troop 195, Carl Eigenbrodt. Troop 82, M. Elliot, A. Schulke and E. Hawkins.

RUSSIA PLANS TO MODEL ON AMERICAN FARM SYSTEM

Land Is Free, Agriculturists Are Wealthy in U. S., Says Soviet Statement.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 10. — Recent echoes of agricultural unrest in the United States have puzzled Russian peasants, who regard the farmers of America as the most fortunate in the world.

So far as it is possible in a State controlled by communistic ideas the Soviet Government is planning to follow in American footsteps in all that concerns rural economy, says an announcement by the central committee of the Communist party.

"There are three types of relations between town and country," Bukharin, a member of the committee, said. "There is the old feudr' Russian system under which the peasantry was mercilessly exploited. There is also the type common now in so many countries, wher the peasantry is less exploited and wealthier, and the rural market has a slightly larger producing and consuming capacity than in old Russia. And lastly, there is the American type, where the land is free, feudal relations scarcely exist, the farmers are wealthy, and the home industrial market is enormous.

"We must take the United States as our model to follow. Within the limitations of capitalism, the United States, is bringing about the quickest development of rural economy and the greatest existing movement of general productive forces. We, on a socialist basis, struggling with all capitalistic elements, must follow America and try to march even faster. We must not—as would Trotsky and his followers—pump wealth out of the peasantry into the cities."

1929 AUTO LICENSE STYLES

Dark Shades Hold Precedence Over Gaudy Hues.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—State highway officers throughout the country have shown a decided preference for dark color combinations rather than flashy hues in selection of shades for the 1929 automobile license plates.

Although there will be some bright combinations represented in next year's fashion parade of license tags, the trend is decidedly toward darker colors. Thirty-nine states will use new color motifs, while nine states and the District of Columbia will retain last year's colors, but reversing them as to background and lettering. Yellow letters on a black background will predominate in 1929, since six states and the District of Columbia will use that combination. Orange on black is the second favorite of highway officials, with five states planning to use this combination next year.

REVISION OF SCOUT MANUALS

Many Changes in Organization Methods to Be Incorporated.

A comprehensive revision of the publications known as the "St. Louis Boy Scout Council Manual of Standards," which are accepted as the ultimate authority in standards for passing the various Boy Scout tests in the St. Louis area, has been undertaken by the local council, with the idea of incorporating in the manuals the many modernizing changes which have taken place in the scout program and organization since the booklets were last issued. The manuals will be completely rewritten.

The revision will be undertaken by Ralph L. Hancock, formerly scoutmaster of a troop connected with a Neighborhood House at Nineteenth and Wash streets, and at one time the youngest scoutmaster in the city. Last summer he acted as camp leader in ne of the Roving Camps which toured the East. Hancock came to St. Louis from Springfield, Mo., five years ago.

Standard Slot for Auto Tags.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—It is no longer necessary to drill holes or slots in license plates to make them fit the license-plate bracket on automobiles. All of the 48 States, District of Columbia, Porto Rico, Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands have conformed with the standard plate bracket slots developed by the Society of Automotive Engineers and recommended by the United States Bureau of Standards.

DISTRICT PLAYGROUND BEING BUILT BY SCOUTS

Wilkinson School Troop Does Community Good Turn in Ellendale.

A community good turn is being undertaken by Troop 36, of the Wilkinson School, through the construction and donation to the Ellendale neighborhood of the only playground in that section of the city.

The scouts have been working on the tract, a former dump, at 7100 Southwest avenue, for several months and now have it nearly completed. All weeds and debris have been cleared off, the field has been leveled, and goal posts for football erected. A baseball diamond is being marked out, and a drainage system is being installed with the help of the Missouri Pacific railroad in order to insure allweather activities.

The tract, the only available playground for children in the neighborhood, was donated to the troop for this purpose by the Glencoe Lime & Cement Co., owners, through the efforts of Scoutmaster Paul A. Thomas, who conceived the idea while passing the plot on his way to work. With the idea of making it into a park as well as a playground, Thomas has appealed to housewives in the neighborhood for shrubbery and slips of hedge for the edges.

At the completion of the work the tract will be turned over to the Ellendale community as a playground park.

West District.

A novel first-aid program was put on at Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A., at the last meeting, the first half being devoted to stunts showing how boys would give first-aid treatments if they had not studied the subject, and the latter part demonstrating the proper methods as practiced by experienced Boy Scouts. In this way the newer boys were shown "how to do it and how not to do it." Troop 30 has organized a junior troop of "cubs," consisting of boys between the ages of 10 and 12 who plan to join the troop when they become old enough. The junior troop has a membership of 15.

An extensive program of advancement in scout rank on a competitive basis has been announced for Troop 49 of the First Presbyterian Church, by Scoutmaster Gillespie. Although the contest just started, a number of tests already have been passed.

South District.

Troop 143 of the Hancock School visited Fire Engine House No. 56 recently, as guests of Capt. Henry Slescher, and studied the fire-fighting apparatus there. Scout William Wollman has been appointed scribe of this troop, and other promotions will be announced at the next meeting, according to Scoutmaster Doerr.

A new South District troop, No. 166, has been organized at the George Dewey School, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Benjamin C. Ehrhardt and Assistant Scoutmaster Carl B. Ehrhardt. The two patrols of the new troop are headed by Patrol Leaders Joseph Ehrhardt and William Ehrhardt. J. Cedric Evans is scribe. The two patrols have been christened the John Paul Jones patrol and the Oliver Hazard Perry patrol. The Troop Committee consists of J. G. Johnston, J. D. Evans, L. S. Lyon, H. Vogler and R. T. Melican. The committee played host to the new troop and to Troop 2 at a Hallowe'en party in Forest Park.

Suburban District.

A "fun, fight and feed" meeting was held by Overland Troop 1 of the Overland School, at the home of Troop Committeeman Oscar Sutter, last week. For two hours the Eagle, Moose and Fox patrols fought for supremacy in a program staged by the junior assistant scoutmaster and senior patrol leader, with no marked success at the end for any of the three. The program included surface diving for apples, a three-way fight with tongues and teeth for a peanut buried in a pan of flour, and peanut races across the floor. Twenty-four scouts took part in the events.

The scouts of Overland 2 will return today from a four-day hike and camping trip, during which the scouts hiked 30 miles each of the first two days, and camped under canvas the remaining two. The camp program was one of intensive scouting instruction and test passing, in addition to the boys learning how to keep themselves comfortable in camp in spite of cold, rain and wet ground. A number of the boys who started on the trip as tenderfoot scouts completed all their second-class requirements, and are now second-class scouts. The hike was conducted by Scoutmaster Evers, assisted by Senior Patrol Leader William McCracken.

Iowa Getting Out of the Mud.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 10. — Iowa has been "geting out of the mud" at the rate of six miles a day during 1928. From April 1 to Sept. 1, during which much of the construction work was concentrated, 600 miles of pavement were finished, while 700 miles of pavement were under contract and unfinished.

SIX OUTSTANDING WAR HEROES FROM MISSOURI

Exploits for Which Congressional Medals of Honor Were Awarded.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The tenth anniversary, today, of the signing of the Armistice recalls that six Missourians were awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for valor in action during the World War. The War Department's citations of these six heroes who received the country's highest wartime honor, follow:

Charles D. Barger, private, first class, Co. L, 354th Infantry, 89th Division, enlisted at Stotts City, Mo.; latest address, 4222 Mill Creek boulevard. Action near Bois-de-Bantheville, France, Oct. 31, 1918.

"Learning that two daylight paroles ha dbeen caught out in No Man's Land and were unable to return, Private Barger and another stretcher bearer upon their own initiative made two trips 500 yards beyond our lines, under constant machine gun fire, and rescued two wounded officers."

John L. Barkley, private, first class, Co. K, 4th Infantry, 3d Division, enlisted at Blairstown, Mo.; latest address, Oak Crest Hotel, Thirteenth and Oak streets, Kansas City, Mo. Action near Cunel, France, Oct. 7, 1918.

Held Tank Under Fire.

"Private Barkley, who was stationed in an observation post half a kilometer from the German lines, on his own initiative repaired a captured enemy machine gun and mounted it in a disabled French tank near his post. Shortly afterward, when the enemy launched a counter attack against our forces, Private Barkley got into the tank, waited under the hostile barrage until the enemy line was abreast of him and then opened fire, completely breaking up the counter atack and wounding a large number of the enemy. Five minutes later an enemy 77-millimeter gun opened fire on the tank point blank. One shell struck the drive wheel of the tank, but this soldier nevertheless remained in the tank and after the barrage ceased broke up a second enemy counter attack, thereby enabling our forces to gain and hold Hill 25."

Arthur J. Forrest, Co. D., 354th Infantry 89th Division Hannibal, Mo. Action near Remonville, France.

"When the advance of his company was stopped by bursts of fire from a nest of six enemy machine guns, without being discovered he worked his way single handed to a point within 50 yards of the machine gun net. Charging single-handed, he drove out the enemy in disorder, thereby protecting the advance platoon from annihilating fire, and permitting the advance of his company."

M. Waldo aHtler, Sergeant, Co. B., 356th Infantry, 89th Division, Neosho, Mo. Action near Pouilly, France, Nov. 8, 1918.

Swam River to Reconnoitre.

"When volunteers were called for to secure information as to the enemy's position on the opposite bank of the Mus Rivr, Srgt. Hatler was the first to offer his services for this dangerous mission. Swimming across the river he succeeded in reaching the German lines, after another soldier, who had started with him, had been seized with cramps and drowned in midstream. Alone, he carefully and courageously reconnoitered the enemy's positions, which were held in force, and again successfully swam the river, bringing back information of great value."

Capt. Alexander R. Skinker, deceased, 138th Infantry, 35th Division, enlisted at St. Louis. Widow Mrs. Caroline F. Skinker, 2016 Locust Street, Philadelphia. Action at Cheppy, France, Sept. 26, 1918.

"Unwilling to sacrifice his men when his company was held up by terrific machine gun fire from iron pill boxes in the Hindenburg Line, Capt. Skinker personally led an automatic rifleman and a carrier in an attack on the machine guns. The carrier was killed instantly, but Capt. Skinker seized the ammunition and continued through an opening in the barbed wire, feeding the automatic rifle until he, too, was killed."

Captured 27 of Enemy.

Michael B. Ellis, Sergeant, Company C, Twenty-eighth Infantry, First Division, enlisted from 412 Winstanley avenue, East St. Louis; latest address, 7713 Sheridan road, Chicago. Action near Exermont, France, Oct. 5, 1918.

"During the entire ady's engagement he operated far in advance of the first wave of his company, voluntarily undertaking most dangerous missions and single-handed attacking and reducing machine-gun nests. Flanking one emplacement, he killed two of the enemy with rifle fire and captured 17 others. Later he single-handed advanced under heavy fire and captured 27 prisoners, including two officers and six machine guns, which had been holding up the advance of the company. The captured officers indicated hte location of four other machine guns, and he in turn captured these, together with their crews, at all times showing marked heroism and fearlessness."

Party For Pair Wed 50 Years.

A surprise party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schuster of 2707 McNair avenue by their family, a week ago yesterday, to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. Residents of St. Louis since birth, they were married here Nov. 2, 1878. The wedding ceremony was performed for them again at their home, at the party, by the Rev. H. F. Carl Haas of Ebenezer Evangelical Church.

CELEBRATING and How! We're Celebrating The Opening of Widened Franklin Avenue! and OUR 2nd Birthday SALE

It starts tomorrow morning at 8:30 a. m.—the most glorious value-giving event in years. This is a double celebration—we are celebrating our second anniversary and opening of the newly reconstructed and widened Franklin Avenue. RENT OF $1000 A FRONT FOOT 6TH ST. RECORD

Scholl Manufacturing Co., Agrees to Pay $12,000 a Year for Store With 11 Foot Frontage.

WALGREEN TAKES DE BALIVIERE LEASE

Will Have Corner in Building to Be Erected by Firm Headed by Sam Hamburg Jr.

By Berry Moore

An impressive number of leases was reported through the week for quarters in outlying centers as well as in the downtown district.

A record rental was established yesterday with the leasing of a storeroom 11 feet 4 inches by 58 feet at 503 North Sixth street by the Scholl Manufacturing Co. The lease, which is for a term of eleven and a half years, calls for an annual rental of $12,000. This is at the rate of more than $1000 a front foot, which is the highest rental ever paid for property on Sixth street, according to Martin & Breitt, who negotiated the deal. Charles Aronberg is the lessor. The Scholl company manufactures orthopedic devices. It has 100 stores in Europe.

Walgreen on De Baliviere Corner

The Walgreen Drug Co., has taken a 10-year lease on the corner store room in the business and apartment building to be erected on the southeast corner of Delmar boulevard and De Baliviere avenue, plans for which recently were announced. Only the blue prints were awardable in this instance.

The rental, on a percentage, is said to have set a record for this section. The store will have a frontage of 30 feet on Delmar and 70 feet on De Baliviere. There was keen competition for this corner.

The building is to be erected by the Corner Investment Co., headed by Sam Hamburg Jr., which controls the site under a 99-year lease. There will be eight stores on the Delmar front and one on De Baliviere avenue. The upper floors will contain offices and apartments. The contract has been let for tearing down the buildings on the site.

The location is regarded as possessing decided strategic advantages with De Baliviere avenue constituting the main entrance to Forest Park. It was obtained by the Walgreen company virtually as the highest bidder for it. The fee to the site is owned by a client of Cornet & Zeibig who negotiated the 99-year lease.

The Walgreen Drug Co. recently leased the northeast corner of Delmar boulevard and Hamilton avenue, owned by the Balsom estate, through the Apex Realty & Mortgage Co. Other locations on Delmar are contemplated.

Other Leases on Delmar.

Leases on Delmar have featured recent real estate activities, demand for corners on this thoroughfare having received impetus with the completion of the Wabash viaduct.

The United Cigar Stores Co. several weeks ago obtained a 15-year lease on the southwest corner of Delmar and Kingshighway. This lease was negotiated by Henry R. Weisels, Inc.

Negotiations for long leases have been concluded for a number of South Grand boulevard locations. These include the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and the Walgreen Drug Co., which as was told in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, recently closed 99-year and 15-year leases respectively for corners at Grand boulevard and Arsenal street.

The Wolff-Wilson lease of the southeast corner of Grand and Arsenal gives this property, according to Theodore Hemmelman, who negotiated it, a valuation of approximately $300,000. This is on a basis of $2500 a foot for the Grand boulevard frontage, instead of $2140, as was stated in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

Southern Security Offices.

The Southern Security Co. of New York has leased the entire twelfth floor of the Paul Brown Building, at the southeast corner of Ninth and Olive streets. Negotiations were handled by Isaac T. Cook Co. The company, which employs 400 persons, will occupy the space for its general offices, now in Des Moines, Ia.

The Isaac T. Cook Co. also announces a long lease of the largest part of the four-story building at 1008 Locust street to the Alex. Kessler Fur Co., now located at 509 Locust street.

WALGREEN STORE FOR MAPLEWOOD

The Walgreen Drug Co. has taken a lease of the southeast corner of Manchester and Sutton avenues, in Maplewood, purchasing the unexpired lease of Louis A. Herman, proprietor of a dry goods store now occupying the

RENT OF $1000 A FRONT FOOT 6TH ST. RECORD

Scholl Manufacturing Co., Agrees to Pay $12,000 a Year for Store With 11 Foot Frontage.

WALGREEN TAKES DE BALIVIERE LEASE

Will Have Corner in Building to Be Erected by Firm Headed by Sam Hamburg Jr.

By Berry Moore

An impressive number of leases was reported through the week for quarters in outlying centers as well as in the downtown district.

A record rental was established yesterday with the leasing of a storeroom 11 feet 4 inches by 53 feet at 502 North Sixth street by the Scholl Manufacturing Co. The lease, which is for a term of eleven and a half years, calls for an annual rental of $12,000. This is at the rate of more than $1000 a front foot, which is the highest rental ever paid for property on Sixth street, according to Martin & Breitt, who negotiated the deal. Charles Aronberg is the lessor. The Scholl company manufactures orthopedic devices. It has 100 stores in Europe.

Walgreen on De Baliviere Corner

The Walgreen Drug Co., has taken a 10-year lease on the corner store room in the business and apartment building to be erected on the southeast corner of Delmar boulevard and De Baliviere avenue, plans for which recently were announced. Only the blue prints were awardable in this instance.

The rental, on a percentage, is said to have set a record for this section. The store will have a frontatge of 30 feet on Delmar and 70 feet on De Baliviere. There was keen competition for this corner.

The building is to be erected by the Corner Investment Co., headed by Sam Hamburg Jr., which controls the site under a 99-year lease. There will be eight stores on the Delmar front and one on De Baliviere avenue. The upper floors will contain offices and apartments. The contract has been let for tearing down the buildings on the site.

The location is regarded as possessing decided strategic advantages with De Baliviere avenue constituting the main entrance to Forest Park. It was obtained by the Walgreen company virtually as the highest bidder for it. The fee to the site is owned by a client of Cornet & Zeibig who negotiated the 99-year lease.

The Walgreen Drug Co. recently leased the northeast corner of Delmar boulevard and Hamilton avenue, owned by the Balsom estate, through the Apex Realty & Mortgage Co. Other locations on Delmar are contemplated.

Other Leases on Delmar.

Leases on Delmar have featured recent real estate activities, demand for corners on this thoroughfare having received impetus with the completion of the Wabash viaduct.

The United Cigar Stores Co. several weeks ago obtained a 15-year lease on the southwest corner of Delmar and Kingshighway. This lease was negotiated by Henry R. Weisels, Inc.

Negotiations for long leases have been concluded for a number of South Grand boulevard locations. These include the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and the Walgreen Drug Co., which as was told in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, recently closed 99-year and 15-year leases respectively for corners at Grand boulevard and Arsenal street.

The Wolff-Wilson lease of the southeast corner of Grand and Arsenal gives this property, according to Theodore Hemmelman, who negotiated it, a valuation of approximately $200,000. This is on a basis of $2500 a foot for the Grand boulevard frontage, instead of $2140, as was stated in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

Southern Security Offices.

The Southern Security Co. of New York has leased the entire twelfth floor of the Paul Brown Building, at the southeast corner of Ninth and Olive streets. Negotiations were handled by Isaac T. Cook Co. The company, which employs 400 persons, will occupy the space for its general offices, now in Des Moines, Ia.

The Isaac T. Cook Co. also announces a long lease of the larger part of the four-story building at 1008 Locust street to the Alex. Meisler Fur Co., now located at 509 Locust street.

WALGREEN STORE FOR MAPLEWOOD

The Walgreen Drug Co. has taken a lease of the southeast corner of Manchester and Sutton avenues, in Maplewood, purchasing the unexpired lease of Louis A. Norman, proprietor of a dry goods store now occupying the

OCTOBER BUILDING CONTRACT RECORD EAST OF ROCKIES

Total of $597,103,500 Was Three Per Cent Ahead of the Previous Month Figure.

New building and engineering work contracted for in the 37 States east of the Rock Mountains during the past month was the highest October contract total on record, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. Last month's total, $597,103,500 in amount, was 3 per cent ahead of the September, 1928, total, and it was 6 per cent over the October, 1927, total. When comparisons were made with the October, 1927, records, it was found that the only district where there was a decrease was the Central West.

The October building record brought the total amount of new construction started in these states since the first of this year up to $5,724,047,600, as compared with $5,359,297,900 for the corresponding period of last year, the increase being 7 per cent.

Analysis of the October contract total showed the following outstanding classes of work: $239,691,900, or 40 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $148,696,500, or 25 per cent, for public works and utilities; $67,330,400, or 11 per cent, for commercial buildings, and $62,258,700, or 10 per cent, for industrial projects.

New contemplated projects as reported last month in the 37 Eastern States reached a total of $616,933,100. This was an increase of 18 per cent over the amount reported in the preceding month and a gain of 1 per cent over the October, 1927, total.

Central West Record.

October construction contracts in the Central West (Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Southern Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska) amounted to $154,412,500. This figure shows a gain of 11 per cent over the September, 1928, total, but there was a drop of 21 per cent from the October, 1927, record.

The following were the most important classes of work in last month's construction record: $76,606,300, or 50 per cent of all building and engineering, for residential buildings; $23,942,300, or 16 per cent, for public works and utilities; $17,113,700, or 11 per cent, for commercial buildings, and $13,850,400, or 9 per cent, for industrial projects.

During the past 10 months there was $1,678,214,600 worth of new construction work started in this district, being a 10 per cent gain over the amount started during the first 10 months of last year.

New contemplated work reported last month in the Central West

In addition to this building, the Licklider company also is erecting their own business office on adjoining property.

A number of residences are being constructed in Bel-Nor and an extensive street paving program has been started.

The Knickmeyer-Fleer Realty & Investment Co. is developing Bel-Nor which is between Bellevue and Normandie Golf Clubs at 8200 Natural Bridge road.

WENZLICK SALESMEN HEAR GEORGE BRAND ON WILLS

George Brand, for 21 years Clerk of the Probate Court, addressed the weekly dinner of the Albert Wenzlick Real Estate Co. sales force at Fairground Park Hotel last Monday evening. Much of his talk was devoted to wills, in which connection he presented a number of little known and informative angles. He closed with a quarter of an hour given over to questions and answers. The dinners of the Wenzlick sales force are get-together affairs, with a speaker on some subject pertaining to real estate.

CROMWELL APARTMENTS SOLD FOR $250,000 BY WILSON

Building at 5364-72 Cabanne, Containing 30 Apartments, Changes Hands; Owner Was W. B. Burgess.

Sale of the Cromwell apartments at 5864-72 Cabanne avenue is announced by Harold E. Willson, Inc. in connection with J. H. Farish & Co. The purchaser was not disclosed, but it is said to be a speculation syndicate. The purchase price was given as approximately $250,000.

The building comprises 30 5-room apartments, with bath, electric refrigeration and every other convenience. It occupies a lot 150x214 feet.

The building, which was erected about seven years ago, is one of the most attractive of its type on Cabanne avenue. W. B. Burgess was the former owner.

The Willson firm reports having concluded negotiations for several other large apartment structures in different parts of the city. The concern reports a 90-day record of $1,750,000 in sales of investment properties. These include the President, at 4615 Lindell boulevard, which was purchased by Mrs. Edith Ambruster for $500,000, an apartment at 327 North Taylor, a residence in Hampton Park, and vacant ground in outlying territory.

The Willson company reports a good demand for apartments, especially those of recent construction, or under way, which it is stated are sought by both speculators and investors, attracted by high rental yields at the prices at which they are available.

Negotiations were concluded during the week through Stanley Epstein, Inc., for several apartment buildings in the West End, several in course of construction, ranging in price from $150,000 to $250,000. Details will be withheld pending final papers.

NEW WAREHOUSE FOR BRASS AND COPPER FIRM BEING BUILT

A new branch office, salesroom and warehouse for the Rome Brass & Copper Co. of New York, manufacturers of sheets, rods, tubes and similar products, is being built at 2813-17 Laclede avenue. The building will cover the greater part of a lot 50 by 130 feet, the building proper being 102 feet long the rear part one story for storage and the headhouse having a sales room in the first floor and offices above.

Steel columns and beams are used to afford wide spans. A large parking space is provided in the rear for loading trucks. The building will be heated by steam supplied from a gas furnace. The office will be floored with rubber tile.

The building is being designed and supervised by Klipstein & Rathmann, architects, and is being erected by the A. H. Haeseler Building & Contracting Co.

WASHINGTON BL. ASSOCIATION TO DISCUSS PROPOSED STREET

A proposition for a new street, from Market street to Page boulevard about 450 feet west of Grand boulevard, now before the Board of Public Service, will be considered at a special meeting of the Washington Boulevard Association at 8 p. m. Tuesday at 3713 Washington boulevard.

A notice to members sets forth that the association's officers hold that the street will be costly, will complicate rather than relieve traffic conditions "and will be a positive nuisance instead of an improvement."

reached a total of $184,820,800, being an increase of 41 per cent over the amount reported in the preceding month and an increase of 6 per cent over the amount reported in October, 1927.

Month in State of Texas.

The State of Texas had $14,410,300 in contracts for new building and engineering work during the past month. The above figure shows an increase of 5 per cent over the amount contracted for in October of last year, but there was a drop of 5 per cent from the amount contracted for during the preceding month of this year. Analysis of last month's building total showed the following items of note: $5,037,700, or 35 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $4,067,900, or 28 per cent, for commercial buildings; $2,655,700, or 18 per cent, for public works and utilities; and $1,089,000, or 8 per cent, for industrial projects.

The October contract record brought the total amount of new construction work started in Texas since the first of this year up to $195,206,800, being a gain of 7 per cent over the amount started during the corresponding period of 1927.

Contemplated projects reported last month in this state amounted to $21,028,600. This figure shows an increase of 45 per cent over the amount reported in September of this year, but there s a drop of 6 per cent from the amount reported in October of last year.

premises. The Apex Realty and Mortgage Co. handled the negotiations. The Walgreen firm is to have possession early in January, 1929.

The entry of the Walgreen company emphasizes the popularity of this location as a center for chain stores. The Woolworth company occupies a large store in this building under a long-term lease, while the Piggly-Wiggly, In. and the Smith Furniture Company have stores in this locality.

SHELP & CO. SELLS COUNTY ACREAGE AT RECORD PRICE

W. B. Shelp & Co. announce the sale of a tract of land on the west side of the Ballas road and approximately 1500 feet south of the Clayton road in St. Louis County. It comprises 40 acres, fronting 1450 feet on the Ballas road and is improved with an eight-room residence, stables, garages and outbuildings and was sold to Willard B. Shelp Jr. for a reported consideration of $50,000, which is a record price per acre for land in this locality.

The sale was made for the account of Gustav H. Beutel, who acquired the property in 1896 for less than $100 per acre and who has realized a profit of over 1100 per cent. All parties were represented by W. B. Shelp & Co.

Apartment on Cabanne Sold.

The William S. Drozda Realty Co. reports the sale of the Boston and Hartford Apartment Building at 5820-26 Cabanne avenue, for John B. McGinty to Charles A. Oebels. This building has just been completed and is three stories high and arranged for 24 families. It has tiled baths, refrigeration and incinerators. The Drozda company also sold two 6-family apartment buildings at 4733-29 St. Louis avenue, for Oebels to C. Caulwell.

The PRESIDENT

4615 Lindell Boulevard

4 These unusual 4-room apartments give 5 full room efficiency and represent the last word in Rooms

what a smart apartment should be. The President is one of the very few apartment buildings in St. Louis to provide everything from oil painted walls to linoleum in the kitchen. Only by inspecting these apartments can one fully appreciate the beauty that is possible in an apartment of this size.

You, too, can easily afford to live on Lindell Boulevard. The rentals are very reasonable, and include light, gas and electric refrigeration.

Unfilled U. S. Steel Orders Up 52,662 Tons.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation increased 52,662 tons in October, bringing the total at the end of that month to 3,751,030 tons.

The increase over Oct. 31, 1927, when unfilled orders were 3,341,040 tons, amounted to 409,990 tons. The unfilled tonnage has steadily mounted in recent months. The total at the end of September was 3,698,368, compared with 3,624,043 at the end of August and 3,570,927 at the end of July.

New Securities

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. — Comptroller Charles W. Berry announced that at noon of Tuesday he will sell at his office, in the Municipal Building, $55,000,000 of corporate stock and serial bonds bearing interest at the rate of 4¼ per cent. It was the original intention to offer a total of $107,000,000 of corporate stock and serial bonds, and a preliminary announcement was made to this effect, but the comptroller decided to limit the amount of the forthcoming sale to $55,000,000 of city securities. Of the $55,000,000 to be disposed of, $29,000,000 of the bonds are 50-year gold corporate stock, of which $15,500,000 is for dock improvement and $13,500,000 for rapid transit construction. The remainder of the proposed bond issue, $26,000,000, consists of serial bonds. Of this amount $21,000,000 is for school construction and $5,000,000 for "various municipal purposes." These special bonds mature and the principal is payable in 40 annual installments, beginning Nov. 15, 1929, and concluding Nov. 15, 1968.

California represented in the new bond issue list with the announcement that Halsey, Stuart & Co. have purchased and will shortly offer an issue of $2,000,000 Mortgage Guarantee Associates first mortgage collateral bonds, series A. The bonds mature in alternate years from 1930 to 1938 in amounts of $400,000 each year, the bonds coming due in 1930 and 1932 having 5 per cent coupons, while the remainder have 5½ per cent coupons.

FINANCIAL NOTES

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.

Barnet Leather Co., Inc., of New York, reports a net loss of $90,884 for the third quarter, against a net profit of $39,456 in the third quarter of 1927. Net loss for the first nine months of the year was $338,521 against net profit of $112,994 or $1.51 a common share in the first nine months of 1927.

Sales of Reis & Co. of New York, distributors of underwear, in October were 23 per cent ahead of the same month in 1927.

C. G. Spring and Bumper Co. of Detroit ended the year on Aug. 31 with a net loss of $225,589 compared to a net profit of $318,656 in the previous year.

President D. F. Kelly of the Fair of Chicago said earnings so far this year are considerably in excess of those for the same period last year. Nine month sales show a 5 per cent increase over the first nine months of 1927.

Steel scrap market continues inactive, with heavy melting No. 1 quoted at $17.75 top level. Quotations are now $17.25 to $17.75 against $18 a short time ago.

President James Simpson of Marshall Field & Co. of Chicago, who returned today from Europe, said the outlook for 1929 is exceedingly bright, with prosperity in Europe and America very much in evidence. Business of Marshall Field, he said is running considerably ahead of 1927.

New building and engineering work contracted in 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains during the past month was the highest October contract total onrecord, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports. Last month's total of $307,103,500 was 3 per cent ahead of September and 6 per cent above October, 1927. The Central West was the only district showing a decrease.

About $1,000,000 in new units will be added to the Adamaun Flat Glass Co. plant at Clarksburg, W. Va., Libby-Owens Sheet Glass Co. of Toledo, O., recently acquired a substantial interest in the company.

The New Jersey Zinc Co. of Newark, N. J., in the first nine months earned $5,444,928, equal to $11.09 a share, compared to $5,355,190 or $10.91 a share in the same period in the previous year.

Sales of the American Department Stores Corporation of New York in the past 10 months were $10,215,306 against $7,-025,853 a year ago. October sales were $1,252,801 compared to $1,070,072 in the same month in 1927.

Advance in price of sheet bars from $33 to $34 announced by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. and followed by other independents, presages a general mark-up in finished steel. Wall street believes. Steel sheets are expected to move up an average of $2 to $3 a ton for the first quarter of 1929. The new price for sheet bars compares with a market of $32 for the third.

DIVIDENDS AND EXTRAS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Directors of the Essex Co. of Boston have declared an extra dividend of $3 a share in addition to the regular semiannual payment of $3 a share. A similar dividend was paid a year ago.

Cumberland Pipe Line Co., Inc., of Winchester, Ky., has declared a dividend of $1 a share. The directors resolved that hereafter, whenever any dividend is declared, the treasury shall withhold payments to all stockholders who have not exchanged their $100 par value certificates for the new $50 par certificates until such change is made.

The National Water Works Corporation, which operates properties in Pennsylvania and Tennessee, has declared a quarterly dividend of 87½ cents a share on the outstanding preferred stock series A and a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on class A common.

The New Market Manuafacturing Co. of Boston, cotton and silk goods manufacturer, has declared a dividend of $1.50 a share, compared to $2 quarterly previously paid.

The Atlantic Refining Co. today declared an initial quarterly dividends of 25 cents on the new stock, created by the recent four-for-one split up, placing it on a $1 annual basis, which is the equivalent of the $4 basis of the old stock. The dividend is payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Nov. 21.

WEEK'S METAL MARKET REVIEW

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Steel production during October was reported the greatest on record, with an average of 3.7 per cent compared with the previous month and 35 per cent larger than in October last year. Prices, with the exception of steel scrap, were very firm. Steel mills were said to be booked with larger orders from car builders and the oil industry with the tonnage for summer estimated at 200,000 to 220,000 tons and the latter around 215,000. Structural steel demand was less active, covering November to March requirements. Buying of copper is now on a moderate scale for both domestic and foreign account. Most business with fabricators is for filling-in purposes, with comparatively little metal is available for shipment before January. Consumers generally feel assured of an adequate supply of copper for present and future needs. Electrolytic remains unchanged at 16 cents delivered in the Connecticut Valley.

The tin market was firm and active with December-January deliveries in good demand. London displayed a firmer price trend toward the end of the week.

Lead was easier and producers reported a small trade in the way of contracts. A feature, however, was the call from consumers for contract deliveries ahead of specified time.

There was a continued moderate demand for zinc, while prices were steady with reports that producers were not pressing the selling side. Ore remained firm. Antimony was not active and somewhat irregular with nearby positions slightly easier.

IN MEMORIAM

ALEIVEL—In loving memory of Corp. Edward H. Aleivel, Company H, 346th Infantry, 86th Division, who made the supreme sacrifice on Nov. 11, 1918, Meuse-Argonne:

Oft from my heart comes a bitter cry,
Why, oh why, did our dear one die?
Then comes the thought so fond and deep,
He is not dead but only asleep.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER, STEPFATHER, SISTER, BROTHERS, SISTERS-IN-LAW AND BROTHER-IN-LAW.

BIRCHER—In memory of our dear wife and mother, Cornelia Bircher, who passed away one year ago, Nov. 13, 1927.

And finds the time long since you went,
There is someone who thinks of you always.

And tries to be brave and content.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear.
The sad but true, I wonder why,
The best are always the first to die.

Sadly missed by
HER HUSBAND, SON AND DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

BUERGER—In loving memory of our darling daughter and sister, Mildred Annie Buerger, who departed this life five years ago today, Nov. 14, 1923.

Your memory is sweet, Mildred dear,
Nor ever shall you be.
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER, BROTHERS AND all who loved her.

DUGAL—In loving memory of my wife, Alvina Dugal, who died on the 10th of November, one year ago, made her transition into eternal life, to dwell in the house of our Lord and our Father, where love and peace prevail.

Sweet to remember her who once was here.
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

HENRY DUGAL.
FRANK A. DUGAL,
Sister-in-law and Friends.

GAHN, CLARENCE M.—Died three years ago today:

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true;
There's not a day, dear Clarence,
We do not think of you.

Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER AND SISTER.

MEYER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Catherine Meyer (nee Gruenewald), who departed this life two years ago, Nov. 2, 1926:

Gone is the face we love so dear,
Silent the voice we love to hear;
'Tis sad but true, I wonder why,
The best are always the first to die.

Sadly missed by her children:
LOUIS, LOUISE, LEROY, MONA, LAVINA AND GRANDCHILDREN.

CONNOLLY—In loving memory of my beloved daughter and dear sister, Agnes Connolly, who departed this life 19 years ago, Nov. 12, 1909:

Although you are gone and far away,
We miss you day by day.
Our hearts are sad and aching,
Since death has come and went away.

Sadly missed by Mother, Brother and all who loved her.

EICHERT, WM.—In loving memory of our dear father, father-in-law and grandfather, who departed this life Nov. 8, 1927:

We do not forget you, nor do we intend;
We think of you often and will to the end.
Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to the memory you ever will be.

Sadly missed by
SONS AND DAUGHTERS. (c)

GUETHERMANN, MELVA JULIA—In loving remembrance of Melva Julia Guethermann, died Nov. 1, 1924:

My baby is gone from here,
But still I feel her presence near.

Sadly missed by MOTHER.

HAITZ—In loving memory of our dear mother, Josie Haitz, who departed this life 7 years ago, Nov. 10.

Sadly missed by DAUGHTER AND FAMILY AND SCHMIDT FAMILY.

HIPPISLEY—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Chas. B. Hippisley, who departed suddenly this life, Nov. 13, 1927:

You are gone, but not forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade;
Loving hearts will always linger
Around the grave where you are laid.

Sadly missed by his DAUGHTER-IN-LAW, Relatives and Friends.

KRUCKEMEYER, EMMA W. (nee Kornbrink)—In memory of our dear mother, who passed out of this life one year ago, Nov. 14, 1927:

Dear mother, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.

Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

KUNZ—In loving memory of August P. Kunz, my dear husband and our father, who departed this life 1 year ago, Nov. 11, 1927.

I have lost my soul companion,
A friend linked with my own.
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
Past his suffering, past his pains,
Ceased to weep, tears are in vain
He who suffered is at rest,
Gone to heaven with the blest.

Sadly missed by his WIFE AND CHILDREN.

LANORA GALLINA—Who died Friday, Nov. 9, 1923:

Gone, but not forgotten, by
AUNT TENNIE AND UNCLE BILL.

MARY LOUISE PLACKE—Died Nov. 12, 1927:

Dear mother, you are not forgotten.
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND DAUGHTERS.

MOELLER—In memory of Christian P. Moeller, who passed away Nov. 9, 1878.

Fifty long years have passed away
Since that sad and mournful day;
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

LOVING WIFE CHRISTINIA AND DAUGHTER, MRS. O. CEDERSTROM.

PAUL—In loving memory of our dear husband and father Adam Paul, who departed this life one year ago, Nov. 12, 1927:

A light is from our household gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Some may think your are forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
But in memory you are with us
As you always were before.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN. (c)

RUHL, JOHN A.—In loving memory of my dear son and our beloved brother who died suddenly, Nov. 8, 1919.

His memory is as dear today,
As in the hour he passed away.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER, SISTERS and BROTHERS.

VOGEL—In loving memory of our dear brother, Pvt. Charles A. Vogel, Co. H, 354th Inf., who died Nov. 11, 1918, of wounds received in action.

His smiling way and pleasant face,
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.

Sadly missed by
BROTHERS, SISTERS, RELATIVES AND FRIENDS.

WIEMER—In sweet memory of my dear daughter, Vera Wiemer (nee Siegert). Dear Vera, we remember that sad day, Nov. 9, 1918, when we had to part with you.

Those who loved you will always miss you,
But the memory will come and go.
But mother's love and sister Violet's love will last forever.

For dear Vera, we loved and miss you so.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER and SISTER VIOLET.

And all who loved her.

IN MEMORIAM

WEBER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Marie Weber, who died Nov. 12, 1927:

Peaceful be thy rest, dear mother.
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by her

A SALESMAN

Who recognizes the advantage of selling on a commission basis. We are not looking for the safety type of salesman who wants a standard salary, but a salesman himself because we would be afraid to hire him for the reason that he knows himself better than we know him.

We are not looking for the quick, slick, cleanup salesman. We only want to interview men who are sincere in their desire to make a permanent money-making connection; a lasting opportunity which you will immediately recognize after talking it over with us. Second Floor, 3820 Washington, JEfferson 4264. (c)

BOASTS of KILLING 26 MEN

Paul Jaworski—a Terror to the Police of Half a Dozen Cities—Faces the Electric Chair, Indifferent to His Fate.

Paul Jaworski.

Anthony Wieczorek, Cleveland policeman, slain by Jaworski.

PITTSBURG.

IT IS Paul Jaworski's boast that he killed 26 men during the 28 years of his life. He himself now waits for death with little concern. The quibblings of the law that may postpone his execution for a few months hold little interest for him.

They brought him back here the other day to die for the murder of a payroll guard and they are taking every possible precaution to see that he doesn't escape as he did once before. A heavy guard surrounds the death cell night and day, a wing of the jail has been altered to contain him, no visitors are permitted. It was little more than a year ago that he shot his way out of the prison to freedom.

Jaworski is neither a subtle nor a clever crook. He has relied on mere force, as exemplified by an armory of machine guns and revolvers, to make his name a gangland catchword to the police of a half dozen cities.

Without hesitation and apparently without fear he has blazed away. Often he has brought down his man at a range of three or four feet. In all his career there is nothing that resembles normal fear. Psychiatrists believe that he shows distinct paranoiac tendencies—that he wanted to rebel against an imaginary persecution.

Jaworski had his "good period." In his early teens he sang in the choir of the little Ukrainian church in Butler, Pa. And it is a curious fact that this bit of virtue was to be the ultimate cause of his downfall.

That downfall came about in this way.

Five or six murders were charged against him. He was under a 30 to 60 year sentence for wounding a woman in a holdup. He and his gang—"The Flatheads"—were wanted for several other big holdups. The hunt for him was nationwide. Both Pittsburg and Detroit offered rewards for his arrest or for information leading to his arrest.

It happened that he was in Cleveland. With him was Jack Vasbinder. They had been inseparable since they had shot their way out of the Allegheny County Jail together. Jaworski had taken Vasbinder into his gang in Detroit when the latter was able to prove that he no longer used drugs. Vasbinder, too, was an escaped murderer. He shot and killed a man who refused to give him a quarter.

In Cleveland these two stayed rather close to certain hiding places that they knew in the Polish-Ukrainian quarter of the city. One day last September they were having coffee together in a restaurant on Fleet street.

The only other patron in the restaurant was the man who had been director of the choir in which Jaworski had sung back in Butler, Pa. This man, John Zavworski, had heard a great deal of Jaworski's subsequent career and he recognized him instantly. What was more important, the gangster did not recognize him. As soon as he possibly could, the choir director slunk out of the restaurant and telephoned the police. He gave them the address of the restaurant and warned them to be extremely cautious. Five patrolmen in uniform were sent to the scene in a patrol wagon.

"THERE'S the police wagon drawing up," the proprietor of the restaurant remarked to Jaworski and Vasbinder who lingered over their coffee. "I wonder what they want here."

Jaworski and his companion didn't wonder at all, they knew. The latter fled immediately out a rear door. But this was not Jaworski's way. He drew his revolver as two of the policemen entered. This is what happened, according to a waitress.

"Jaworski fired five shots and one of the policemen fired two at him. The shots flew round the room and I ducked behind the counter. The next thing I saw was when Jaworski leaped over the body of one of the policemen and got away."

The dead policeman was Anthony Wieczorek. Near him lay a brother officer, George E. Effinger, seriously wounded by the same fusillade that had felled Wieczorek.

Then came a chase for several blocks. Two or three onlookers were struck by flying bullets. At last, however, Jaworski took refuge in a house. He would have been safely hidden there had not a woman screamed, "He's in my attic."

In a few minutes the house was surrounded by a hundred or more policemen and detectives. Jaworski was defiant. "Come in and get me," he called. Glimpsing him through one of the front windows, Detective Chief Cody hurled a tear-bomb into the attic.

"Throw another one, you dirty ——— and I'll shoot you," was Jaworski's answer as he reappeared at the window for a moment.

Cody hurled another tear bomb through the window and Jaworski disappeared, only to reappear in a few moments at the opposite side of the house. He was growing desperate and jumped down onto a porch roof, thence off the roof and back into the residence through a side door.

More tear bombs were hurled and at last Jaworski staggered out a side door to confront Patrolman Yaro Koudela. Blindly Jaworski emptied his gun. Koudela replied with deadly fire from a high-powered pump gun and Jaworski fell, seriously wounded.

For some time Ohio and Pennsylvania wrangled over who should execute the bandit. Ohio finally conceded the honor to Pennsylvania when it began to appear as though Jaworski might escape the death penalty through legal technicalities.

They brought Jaworski back a changed man. He was diffidant and apathetic. But he had something of his old contempt for the police and the law. He could still boast of his exploits and above all of the biggest job he ever pulled.

That was the coup that netted "The Flatheads" $104,000. That amount in nine payrolls reposed in the steel-jacketed Brinks Express "bandit-proof" car. The car careened along a lonely road near Coverdale, outside of Pittsburg, followed by a touring car containing a half dozen guards.

Suddenly, without the slightest warning, there was an explosion and the steel-lined express and the touring car were thrown into the air. From the wreckage Jaworski and his gang picked out the satchels containing the $104,000 and fled as the injured guards began to rouse themselves. Remarkably enough no one was killed in this biggest job of his career.

"Suddenly, without the slightest warning, there was an explosion and the steel-lined express and the touring car were thrown into the air."

Arrow indicates where Jaworski collapsed as he attempted to escape after being shot.

IT WAS pretty hot for Jaworski at this time. The members of his gang could take refuge in Detroit but he couldn't for he had shot a policeman there in a holdup. Detroit was too hot, so was Pittsburg. He took refuge on a farm belonging to one of his gang.

Jaworski maintains that it was only an accident that the police ever captured him. He had been at the farm three or four weeks. Police surrounded him in the kitchen of the farmouse one day when he had left both his revolvers in his room upstairs. "They'd never a 'gotten me if I'd had my guns," he says.

In jail he was arrogant and boasted that he would soon be free. But a faked telegram from Detroit, giving the confession of one of his gang, weakened his pose. He confessed to the $104,000 robbery and took police to the spot where he had cached $36,000, his share of the loot. While he was confessing, he added two or three murders to the record.

But before he could be sentenced the guns got into play again. They were ferreted into the jail by Jaworski's brother, Sam. At a signal Jaworski and Vasbinder made the break. It was easy, Jaworski says now.

He laughs about the whole affair, about the elaborate guard that was thrown over the entire city, the cordons of police that were strung around every possible avenue of escape. He says he enjoyed reading all about this while he was making good his break from jail. Twice he says he asked the direction from State troopers posted within the city limits to capture him. He and Vasbinder hid out in the exclusive Squirrel Hill section for a month after their escape. They then drove to Erie. Outside that city they were stopped by a wreck and a State patrolman asked Jaworski for his driver's license. He fumbled in his inner coat pocket, and the trooper, after scrutinizing him and Vasbinder, impatiently ordered them on.

These are the things that Jaworski talks about now. He tells you he has killed 26 men—he thinks that's the right number, but there may be one or two more or one or two less. But he speaks of these things as though they were the exploits of a man already dead, a stranger.

It may be because one entire side has been paralyzed since he was shot in Cleveland. Four men carried him into court on a chair to hear the death sentence the other day. Detectives lined the courtroom walls and the corridors. Jaworski was dressed in a soiled white shirt and sagging gray striped trousers, he needed a shave badly, his face was blank and dull looking. There was no nervousness, not a tremor. He heard the judge read his sentence without emotion.

Judge Graf intoned:

"The sentence of this court is that you be taken to jail and from there to the penitentiary in Center County and that you there suffer death on a date to be fixed by the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania by electricity being passed through your body until you are dead."

Jaworski was listening intently, straining forward, but he seemed not to have heard, not to have understood the import of what was being said.

His attorney asked if he wanted to make an appeal, intimating that the sentence could at least be deferred. "No, I don't want an appeal," Jaworski said. "The sooner this thing is over the better. There's no use wasting any more time."

Jaworski's chair-bearers came up to take him back to jail. They lifted him up and bore him rapidly from the room. Outside the courtroom, he asked for a cigarette. It is against jail rules to smoke cigarettes, but the deputies permitted him to have one on his way back. It will be his last for a long time.

While lighting up, his left arm slid to his side. Jaworski cursed and reached across with his right hand, pulling the left across his lap. "What's the matter with your hand?" one of the deputies asked. "Oh, the thing's no damn good any more," was Jaworski's reply.

THAT phrase "no damn good" characterizes his whole attitude. He may be shamming, of course, preparatory to a new attempt to escape. But his attorney and the police think it is improbable. They give him up as he apparently gives himself up.

There is no sorrow over that in the mining districts here. The miners remember the payrolls that were stolen and the guards that were killed.

There was Ross Dennis, payroll guard, slain near Mount Lebanon, Pa., in 1922, when Jaworski, then known as Paul Palmer, and his gang made away with $23,000, the Christmas payroll of the Pittsburg Coal Company.

There was Isaiah Gump, payroll guard, riddled by a volley as Jaworski and his highwaymen snatched up $48,000 being taken to the mining settlement of Mollenauer. There was the guard who lost his life in the Christmas payroll robbery at Reading, Pa. And there have been others. Miners and guards rejoice that the terror is no longer a terror but a weary old man of 28, waiting to be put to death.

Gangland, according to reports which come to the police, is deeply concerned over the defection of a leader of the prominence of Jaworski. His former henchmen shake their heads solemnly over accounts of his behavior, of his apathy and indifference.

As for Jaworski, he cares about nothing. He sits for hours at a time, his guards say, and stares at the wall.

Charles Dickens as a young man.

THE business of dissecting literary loves of the past—a thriving business for the up-to-date publisher—has got around to Charles Dickens. Two recent books gleefully pry the lid from his private life, lay bare his emotional abscesses and dig into his family lesions. One of them, Ralph Straus' "Charles Dickens, a Biography From New Sources," has a preface recognizing that, after all, there are limits even for current biography, but seems nevertheless to omit nothing essential from the story of Dickens' domestic troubles. The other is that modern invention, a biography disguised as a novel. It is "This Side Idolatry," by Ephesian (C. E. Bechhofer Roberts) and it's so far this side that Dickens' family and admirers have rushed into print in London with emphatic objections.

Both authors, apparently, see the great sentimentalist much as he saw himself in the dubious light of his first unhappy love, as set forth in a mock epitaph which Mr. Straus quotes:

"Last, here's Charles Dickens, who's now gone forever;
It's clear that he thought himself very clever;
To all his friends' faults—it almost makes me weep,
He was wide awake—to his own fast asleep.

"His faults—and they were not in number few,
As all his acquaintances extremely well knew,
Emanated—to speak of him in good part—
I think rather more from the head than the heart."

DICKENS' coming under the scalpel—not to call it an ax—is not without a hint of fateful irony. He himself had dealt with current foibles—although this writer does not recall him unwrapping any literary or historical mummies to practice on—so sharply as to be called, journalistically, the first muck-raker. Somewhat the same talents which he turned on prisons, schools, pretentious women, harsh parents, cruel guardians and old men who did not believe in Santa Claus now illuminate his own vanities, his not altogether unique liking for the society of comely and vivacious young women, his remarkable essays on his estrangement from Catherine Hogarth Dickens, and the affairs of Ellen Ternan, Mary Hogarth and Maria Beadnell.

Briefly, the setting for the climax of "This Side Idolatry" is that Mrs. Dickens bore 10 children in the first 15 years after their marriage; her sister, Mary Hogarth, lived with them and helped take care of the little Dickenses but died at 17, leaving in Dickens' memory a sorrow and an ideal from neither of which he ever recovered; her place at the fireside was taken by a still younger sister, Georgina Hogarth, and Dickens had been immensely attracted by Ellen Ternan, an actress. With these facts sketched in, Ephesian paints Dickens quailing under a wifely tirade.

"I, Charles, am weary of hearing you prate of cant and humbug and hypocrisy," said the Missus, according to Ephesian. "Is there a meaner cant than your empty catchwords? You're the hypocrite, you who boast your contempt for money and break faith with every publisher. You who preach charity and pillory your parents and your friends in your books. You who rant of duty and faithfulness and desert me for a painted actress."

Mrs. Dickens was going strong, on the inside rail, nearing the home stretch, almost in sight of the oats box.

"Haven't I watched you year after year?" she asked, and took breath for another spurt.

"Selfish, grasping, vulgar, vain"—bunching her adjectives—"you nag me perpetually for extravagance, and lavish gifts on every toady. You play your friends one against the other, and cast them aside when they've served your purpose. . . . You live in a fool's paradise of sycophants, with Georgina—poor simpleton—at its head."

"Kate, you're out of your mind," protested Charles, falling back on an ancient but generally secret husbandly consolation. "You've always neglected the children," he ventured. "You've been moody, hysterical, impossible."

"I've been too busy bearing you children to have time to neglect them," she retorted, and then, with a corroborative effect which she probably did not observe, steamed on.

"Can you guess what it's meant to me, year after year, to be waiting another child, and then another and another? I neglect the children? I? Charles, I can endure this life no longer. This must be the end."

This was the end. Dickens and his wife separated, some 22 years after their matrimonial beginning. Ephesian does not accuse Dickens of infidelity in the ordinary sense. Even his affection for the "painted actress," Ellen Ternan, was conventionally stainless, according to Ephesian, although she was the first person whom Dickens mentioned in his will.

What Dickens did after the separation is shown in Mr. Straus' biography. For one thing, Dickens printed in his own periodical, "Household Words," an essay to justify himself. The biographer explains that Dickens could not bear to be misunderstood, and adds that the pronouncement was, "to be candid, a mass of conceit."

This statement, Mr. Straus remarks, was "far less detailed, but far more pompous," than another which Dickens asked his friend and manager, Arthur Smith, to circulate among those intimates who were troubled by rumor. A copy reached this country, and was printed in the New York Tribune. Previously Dickens had said:

"Poor Catherine and I are not made for each other, and there is no help for it. It is not only that she makes me uneasy and unhappy, but that I make her so, too—and much more so. . . . God knows she would have been a thousand times happier if she had married another kind of man." In the "violated letter," after the separation, he said:

"I SUPPOSE that no two people, not vicious in themselves, ever were joined together who had a greater difficulty in understanding one another, or had less in common. . . . Nothing has, on many occasions, stood between us and a separation but Mrs. Dickens' sister, Georgina Hogarth. She has remonstrated, reasoned, suffered and toiled, again and again, to prevent a separation between Mrs. Dickens and me.

"For some years past, Mrs. Dickens has been in the habit of representing to me that it would be better for her to go away and live apart; that her always increasing estrangement made a mental disorder under which she sometimes labors—more, that she feels herself unfit for the life she had to lead as my wife, and that she would be better far away. I have uniformly replied that we must bear our misfortune, and fight the fight out to the end; that the children were the first consideration, and that I feared they must bind us together in appearance.

"Two wicked persons, who should have spoken very differently of me in consideration of earned respect and gratitude, have coupled with this separation the name of a young lady for whom I have great attachment and regard. I will not repeat her name—I honor her too much. I know her to be as innocent and pure and as good as my own dear daughters. Further, I am quite sure that Mrs. Dickens, having received this assurance from me, must now believe it, in the respect I know her to have for me, and in the perfect confidence I know her in her better moments to repose in my truthfulness."

The "young lady for whom I have great attachment and regard" was Miss Ternan; Mr. Strauss asserts. He adds that Dickens' statement was "the stupidest thing he ever did in his life" and that these efforts to avoid being "misunderstood" left the public "bewildered and inclined to be angry."

"What is this sad story of Dickens and his wife?" asked the impeccable Elizabeth Barrett Browning. "Incompatibility of temper, after 23 years of married life! What a plea! Worse than irregularity of the passions, it seems to me!"

Mr. Straus' portrait of Dickens is far removed from the plane of a vulgar domestic scene, and his analysis is not the sort to be put into the mouth of a vituperative, too long tortured wife. It is an adroit and convincing pencil with which he shades in the three powerful factors in Dickens' character: the separation from his wife, his unearthly adoration of Mary Hogarth and his early and unhappy love for Maria Beadnell, pretty and coquettish daughter of a London banker.

The love of a good woman, whatever it did to his personality and his life, perpetrated unmeasured damage on his work.

Dickens' youth was one that left few illusions, and he clung desperately to those which remained. Perhaps only one remained, and for this illusion Mary Hogarth, her serene and sunny nature and her death at 17, before the world had touched her, were responsible. For the remainder of his life Dickens believed in The Perfect Woman. Worse, he tried to put perfect women in his books, and that is the reason why so many of his heroines have seemed such insufferable prigs.

On the other hand, the love of a bad woman—or rather, of a girl who was just a little bit naughty, just a little bit flirtatious, and, to be plain about it, more than a little heartless and rattle-brained—was of inestimable benefit to his art. His adolescent affection for Maria Beadnell stimulated him to the dull business of learning shorthand wherewith to enter the writing game by the back gate. Out of it grew heroines who were tolerably human—that priceless flirt, Dolly Varden, then Dora Spenlow, the Arielesque child wife of David Copperfield, and then the ruthless Estella of "Great Expectations."

AMEETING 22 years afterwards gave him Flora Finching, and, perhaps more important, that taste of disillusionment which then—he might not have done it earlier—he could transmute to that fine, rich and human quality in art which is called wisdom, mellowness, perspective, balance and a variety of other things equally inadequate.

Mr. Straus pictures Maria as 19 to Dickens' 18, dark and diminutive, artfully artless and very covetous of inexpensive thrills—"the small change of love," as Le Gallienne has it. This covetousness, just as it may be observed in the young things of 1928, made her one of those prehensile women who keep their tentacles clamped on an affair long after it should have been put out of its misery. After too many months of this dismal uncertainty, Dickens came "to the unqualified determination that I will allow no feeling of pride, no haughty dislike," to prevent him attempting a reconciliation. Maria, as usual, turned cold as he grew warm, and Dickens, to use his own words, "went his way."

Thence came Dolly Varden, "with a thousand little coquettish ways," "the wickedest and most provoking head-dress, such a cruel little muff and such a heart-rending pair of shoes"—"surrounded and hemmed in, as it were, by aggravations of all kinds."

Later, in "David Copperfield," Dickens dared to write down his dream. "She was more than human to me . . . I don't remember who was there, except Dora. I have not the least idea what we had for dinner, besides Dora. My impression is that I dined off Dora entirely, and sent away half a dozen plates untouched. She had the most delightful little voice, the gayest little laugh, the pleasantest and most fascinating little ways that ever led a lost youth into hopeless slavery."

In the end the elfin figure vanishes. "It is night; and I am with her still. . . . We are alone.

"DO I KNOW now that my child wife will soon leave me? I lay my face upon the pillow by her, and she looks into my eyes and speaks very softly. Gradually, as she goes on, I feel with a stricken heart that she is speaking of herself as past.

"'I am afraid, dear, I was too young. I don't mean in years only, but in experience and thoughts and everything. I was such a silly little creature! I am afraid it would have been better if we had only loved one another as a boy and girl, and forgotten it.'"

In the midst of his domestic quandary, Mr. Straus relates, Maria wrote to Dickens in a quite different tone from her last note, 22 years before. "In a sense," declares Mr. Straus, "he was once again in love, almost wildly in love, and for the moment there was no question of disillusionment." But he met Maria, who then was Mrs. Henry Winter, and thus he set it down in "Little Dorrit":

"Flora, always tall, had grown to be very broad, too, and very short of breath; but that was not much. Flora, whom he had left a lily, had become a peony; but that was not much. Flora, who had seemed enchanting in all she said and thought, was diffuse and silly. That was much. Flora, who had been spoiled and artless long ago, was determined to be spoiled and artless now. That was a fatal blow."

"From the moment of his great disillusionment Dickens was a changed man," wrote an earlier biographer. He was disposed to resurvey the glowing perfections which had peopled his imagination from youth; from there on he salted his sugar. Again he was to recall the gay, desolating vision of his first love, but this last time, as Estella in "Great Expectations," with a clarity unobscured by emotional moonlight.

"I loved her against reason, against promise, against peace, against hope, against happiness. . . . There were all sorts of pleasures through which I pursued her—and they were all miseries to me. I never had one hour's happiness in her society, and yet my mind all around the four-and-twenty hours was harping on the happiness of having her with me unto death."

The New Factor in motor car buying—

. . . more and more car buyers are taking advantage of the Style Leadership of Body by Fisher

Everywhere, people now realize how pronounced is the style leadership of Body by Fisher.

So plain and unmistakable is this style leadership that it has become a new and important factor in the buying of motor cars. Thousands who appreciate what this style superiority means in terms of car satisfaction and resale value, carefully confine their motor car selection to cars with Body by Fisher.

This public attitude goes back, of course, to the fact that Fisher designers are style orginators. They are so signally successful in creating new body styles, that those styles are followed almost as a matter of course. But style changes require from six to twelve months before they can begin to appear in other quarters.

And, by the time these style changes are made, Fisher has again created still finer beauty, which again places the cars for which it builds bodies still farther ahead in style. The result is, quite naturally, that thousands of motor car buyers who demand the latest in authentic motor car style—who prefer to lead instead of to follow—buy only those motor cars with Body by Fisher.

By this, in reality, they reserve motor car selection to the leading cars in the various price fields. For, in whatever field you buy, it is a very plain fact that the greatest value and the most successful car is equipped with Body by Fisher.

There is no more striking example of the style leadership of Fisher than the new Silver Anniversary Buick, whose unparalleled reception is recorded on the adjoining page.

THE

The New Buick is the New Style—

. . . because it's new . . because it's individual . . . because it's the most beautiful automobile of the day

Drawing the greatest crowds—winning the most enthusiastic praise—rolling up the biggest demand in all fine car history—the Silver Anniversary Buick with New Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher is scoring the most sensational success ever won by any new quality car!

And all because it is not only the leading engineering achievement of the past twenty-five years—embodying performance abilities unmatched anywhere in the world—but also because it ushers in an entirely new style—a fascinating new mode—of automotive beauty and luxury!

Graceful contours instead of plain straight lines—gently rounded panels at sides and hood, the most costly steel paneling work employed on any automobile in the world—distinctive new roof, radiator and fender design—alluring new color combinations—smartly contrasting headlamps and cowl-lamps in chrome-plated nickel——and in addition, new adjustable front seats—full-width rear seats providing plenty of room for three adult passengers—new mohair velvet upholstery—new hardware and fitments—new appointments of comfort and convenience never before known to motor car practice!

The motorists of America "looked to the leader for leadership" in automotive design. Buick answered with this epic car, setting entirely new standards of style, beauty, and comfort, as well as of dashing performance. And the public is responding with overwhelming demand—a demand that has forced the great Buick factory to production levels unprecedented in its entire history!

CATERPILLAR vs. PRICKLY PEAR

Which Will Be the Victor?

I WAS rather amused to read in the daily press one day recently that the Texas Department of Agriculture had shipped 20,000,000 caterpillar eggs to New South Wales in order to combat the prickly pear menace in the latter country. It reminded me of an experience I once had with a caterpillar on one hand and a prickly pear on—

(Something wrong with this typewriter. That is to say, something wronger than usual. Told the boy to tell the man to fix it, too. It keeps leaping up at me. Most untypewriterish. Probably a cam loose somewhere. Damn cams. How do they get so many cams in a typewriter? For years cams have been popping out of this typewriter and rolling off in a great huff underneath desks. Thinking somebody was going to roll under the desk after them to ask them back. Catch me chasing a cam under a desk. Well, they get back in the typewriter, all right. They must lay eggs, the mother cams must, and leave them in the tyepwriter. Either that or somebody with more cams than sense must come in at night and fill the typewriters full of new cams. There goes one now. Well, go, you old cam. Think I care?)

SO THEY think the caterpillars will have at the prickly pears in New South Wales, do they? That's pretty good. I could have told the Government of New South Wales, but they did not ask me. Did they come to me and ask me if I thought the caterpillar would eliminate the prickly pear menace? This makes the third time the Government of New South Wales has utterly ignored me in matters of this sort. Two years ago when they imported 13,000,000 doodlebugs from Silesia in order to do away with the crumpweed menace they did so without once consulting me. Last year it was vetch. Too much vetch, and somebody told them to send 14,000,000 hummingbirdettes. A hummingbirdette is a small but very fierce humming bird, and supposed to be very fond of vetch. Well, if they had asked——

(Ah-p! Ribbon out this time. Gosh, will I be the first man to drop to his knees and thank the great Nokomis if ever somebody invents a ribbonless typewriter? Boy! Where is that boy I told to put the ribbon in? Give him 12 strokes of the bastinado 12 times a day for 12 days. More cams rolling out, too. If I shake it good and hard maybe all the cams will come out at once and we'll have that settled. There won't be any more cams to worry about, no matter what happens. G-r-r-r-r-r. There, you—— Why, it's fixed!)

Now, what happened (and with my knowledge of the situation I could have predicted it) was that the doodlebugs imported to attack the crumpweed somehow incurred the enmity of the New South Walesian grommets, an insect very dear to the farmers of that country because it protects the twince crop from twince bugs, lascars, synocytes, quit-quit flies and the other destructive parasites which on emerging from the careless Pandora's box settled in New South Wales. So there was an internecine war between the doodlebugs and the grommets, and in the meantime the crumpweeds flourished triumphantly.

Was the situation improved by the advent of the hummingbirdettes a year ago? My dear! You'll die when you hear.

THE fact was, the hummingbirdettes didn't like the kind of vetch they got in New South Wales and, refusing to feed on it, the fierce little creatures went about inciting all the tame canaries in New South Wales to rebellion.

One night at a prearranged whistle from a hummingbirdette leader all the canaries broke open their cages and flew away, leaving the cages a mass of twisted wire and cackling derisively at their whilom owners.

So now the people of New South Wales have no tame canaries, only a lot of wild, rowdy things making the night hideous with their love calls to their allies, the hummingbirdettes. But they have vetch, and they have crumpweed, plenty of it, and if they manage to free themselves from the vetch and the crumpweed nine times out of ten they find themselves in a clump of prickly pear. And now the poor things expect that caterpillars will do away with the prickly pear. Imagine it. A lazy, good-for-nothing caterpillar, a cowardly insect at best, is expected to exterminate a plucky weed like the prickly pear. Why, the travesty of the thing mounts and mounts until it is almost Grecian. If some son would kindly step up and murder his mother, it would be Grecian.

(O-op, typewriter broke again. Well, you'll stay broke this time, you—there—that cement floor didn't do it any good. My God, did you ever see so many escaped cams? Well, maybe I'll get a new typewriter now.)

WHEN THE CELEBRITY GOES TO PRISON

He Takes It Very Hard at First, But Soon He Drops the Martyr Pose, Forgets the High Hat, Wins His Parole and Leaves Never to Return.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

SUPPOSE you were Governor of a State, a member of Congress, a noted banking or theatrical executive, or a clergyman with a great metropolitan pulpit, and one day, through a twist of fate, you came to be sentenced to prison, put on a train, handcuffed between two deputies and started on the ghastly ride that would end in a cell. Reputation blasted, your dear ones left behind and a coarse convict suit and slumgullion three times daily to take the place of your former luxurious living habits. A creepy picture—with a difficult query attached: How do you think you would react to the experience?

Many magnates of business, finance and the social upper crust in America are now solving this problem, for justice has been netting big fish recently. Through an assortment of prison terms, brushing elbows daily with them, the writer has had the opportunity to study the demeanor of these famous malefactors.

In almost every instance, these men reach prison in severe states of shock, exhibited mainly in gastric attacks. I saw a former famous District Attorney carried in from the institution car on a stretcher. He had crumpled at sight of the big house. (Maybe he was bowled over by the fear of meeting the dozen or more inmates he had prosecuted and sent across.) In such cases, transfer to the infirmary is immediate, where deft inmate nurses, palatable food and spring cots await. Fortunately, by the time the doctor scratches "discharged" across the foot of the chart, the notable's shock-peak is past.

Malingering is a favorite ruse of such hypersensitive patients, for they have yet to face the delayed fingerprinting and mugging and be assigned to work—ye gods! it may be on the coal pile. Invariably, friends on the outside have been active trying to negotiate a soft berth for them. Now and again a famous inmate does get a soft job—becomes what is known as a white-suit prisoner, with special sleeping quarters. Nine times out of ten, so far as the writer ever observed, it is simply because his superior capabilities merit it. Of course, the rough-going boys down in the laundry or brush shop always fume bitterly over this coincidence of reputations and spring mattresses.

Perhaps the outstanding characteristic of prominent inmates, once they have moulded into prison patterns, is the dread which secretly haunts them of never emerging alive. Often I have heard them moaning on their iron beds at night, "My God, I'll die in here!" This fear is vastly aggravated by a condition of ill-health which confinement seems to breed in them. Veteran convicts, of course, listen and bark at them: "You'll soon git cured of that!" Sometimes they do; sometimes not. Often they settle into a silent but gnawing grief.

Parole week is a tough time for the Brahmins. Even after an apparently successful adjustment to new conditions, many of them at parole board time collapse and are packed off to hospital with acute seizures of what prison parlance calls "parolitis." If turned down by the board, they must fight it all over again until the next meeting. They voice hysterically the outrage of their denial, but soon begin a new epistolary barrage for freedom. However, as such men are almost always first offenders, with perfect records, parole with them is virtually a certainty.

IN A CERTAIN Western "stir" there were among the guests a former State executive, a noted divine, a Mayor, editor and a millionaire bootlegger. They were prime studies in reaction. Although he had lain in the hospital under shock for a month after arrival, the former high official became the cheeriest and most friendly man in the institution, fraternizing freely with sodden wretches, types of humans he had once regarded contemptuously from the security of his expensive motor car. In this respect he contrasted sharply with the nationally known bootician; who high-hatted the convicts—as a result of which his existence was made miserable.

Inmates are always on edge for the swankers. "Who the hell do you think you are?"—from some leering dip or hophead. A vigorous vendetta was quickly enforced against our bootlegger friend; it was a favorite trick of the boys to slip a contraband steak or chop on his plate at mess hour which, duly noted by the guard, resulted often in a ten-day stay in the "bing." This wealthy inmate served out his entire term under a steady fire of hate and persecution, to the last a high-hatter and of course a consummate idiot.

When a domine, such as mentioned, arrives in "stir" he is, on account of his cloth, a favorite butt of ridicule. For some reason or other the men resent what they call skypilots in their midst; one reason is that they always suspect them to be snitches—and a snitch is the prison Pariah. Incarceration is therefore a peculiarly bitter experience for a clergyman. Catcalls followed this hapless cleric everywhere in his first weeks. His persecutors put tacks on his chair—off which he hopped with a forbearing air of martyrdom; one night they kindled a bonfire under his cot. Some would mimic his persisting pulpit mannerisms. But his spiritual fortitude was amazing.

Anyway, confinement seems to put new stuff in the right sort of man—it's a grin-and-bear-it fight. A gigantic moonshiner once compressed this philosophy into a sentence when criticised for snoring by a capitalist across the dormitory walk. "You big stiff, that's part of the penalty of jail, isn't it?"

AS for the little preacher, it wasn't long after admission until he had won over his tormentors. After that they swore by him.

Intense absorptions are what keep finely strung men from dying or going mad. The notables the writer has watched seemed more adept than others in capitalizing this inhibitive influence. The executive mentioned began early in his term to teach a Sunday school class. The domine taught in the night school—he joked that he "was teaching the young idea how not to shoot!" In the latter's spare hours he studied criminology—just the other day there was a brilliant article from his pen. Among the group listed he made quite the best job of solving the prison riddle. "I'll show them it won't kill me!" he often muttered as he sat before "lights out" on the edge of his cot, grimly chewing a cracker.

It seems a curious characteristic of celebrities that, more than other inmates, they are given to protesting their innocence. There was one famous financier, who had pulled a half dozen banks up by the roots—hinges and all—who grew furious when his veracity was doubted. With such it is obviously a pride-complex. But it always subjects the notables to unmerciful kidding.

Then there was a prominent stock broker who'd come in on a 12-year stretch with hordes of widows and orphans howling at his heels for their missing thousands, who would sit down with intimates and gravely and punctiliously make out a case proving his unblemished record. "But, listen, George," some blue-denimed wag would interrupt, "now didn't you walk off with that $50,000 worth of bonds your partner had in safe-deposit?" George's look of outraged innocence was marvelous to behold. He was ready to fight when prodded by the further speech: "George, you were a big guy once, but listen! Now you're just an ordinary con like us—so quit your bolony!" Sad to relate, the writer recently read of poor George's death in prison.

But facts are facts—the amiability of dignitaries in "stir" is usually a pose. These first-timers are always grouching about the outrage, for one thing, of their being jammed into prisons along with hardened repeaters. To judge by their bedtime tales they'd all like to have had a nice quiet jail of their own, mixing only with novitiate equals. That was one of the movements the little preacher began to sponsor on release. No doubt the penal system, in future years, will be so amended as to at least prohibit the intermingling of youthful first-timers and inveterate criminals.

ONE of the sorest plights of the notables, as can be imagined, lies in the cuisine. When finally versed in "stir" ways they become as skillful as their experienced associates in trading tobacco and candy to kitchen help for food connections. The bootleg king of this story became extremely resourceful in such intrigue, but finally came a cropper, for there came to him a day when he fixed the prison doctor with a glassy orb, bemoaning the delicate state of his stomach; after much parleying the medic O. K.'d an outside order for Zoolak. However, just after noon mess, word trickled through the vast whispering gallery that the booze potentate had been nailed by a guard with two boiled eggs and a steak hidden in his blouse!

These Brahmins busy on the pettiest pilferings make an incongruous sight. Very often a guard with strong anti-celebrity prejudices will make it his hobby to catch them in infractions of discipline. On such occasions there is no more instructive spectacle than to view some hill-billy keeper bawling out a crestfallen magnate of finance. But most of these violations are trivial—stepping out of line, running the corridor without a pass, asking for a second helping of hash—offenses that seldom reach the dreaded conduct sheet.

What differentiates the high caste prisoner from his fellows may be summarized in a few words: His intense shock on first facing a cell, his shame and griefstricken probationary period, his later amazing adaptability to his environment, his almost invariable perfect penitence and rehabilitation. Seeing that their crucifixions of body, soul and mind are so much more terrifying, little wonder that they leave prison walls seldom to go back. The writer, at least, has no recollection of a single repeater from their ranks.

down with a family. We watched these lanterns bobbing along in the dusk, coming nearer and nearer. At eight o'clock there were wagons everywhere, and our theater was full. We gave a good show that night in Long Bow, not quite as good as you'll see tonight, but still pretty good, and those starved people liked it. That's why I say it reminds me of this affair tonight—it's so different."

LUKE paused, grinned cheerily at his bon ton audience, and they applauded him in friendly fashion. He interrupted the handclapping to recite a poem well known in Utah, shook hands with the Mayor of New York City, two Senators and some impressive ladies wearing diamonds. Presently he put on his hat and went back in triumph to the Royal, where he learned that his talented director was spending the evening at a night club with a particularly villainous reputation.

For the next two days Luke gave himself over to the business of looking into shoe-shop windows on Fifth Avenue, where he observed a depressing lack of boots. Inquiring about this, he learned that the demand for boots in New York City was extremely quiet.

Concluding the finest vacation an actor man ever had, with no expenses whatever and suffering slightly from indigestion superinduced by rich viands, Mr. Vorhees returned to Hollywood with the Butler company and went to his room next to the fire trucks. There remained a week's work upon the motion picture and when it was finished Jimmy spoke to his friend.

"You've done well on this job," said he. "They like your work, and you'll have no trouble landing another job; that is, if you want to stay in Hollywood."

"Want to," said Luke, his eyes shining. "Say, Jimmy. You mean I can get something else to do in the movies?"

"Certainly you can. In fact, I'll see to it. You are a first-class acting man, and when you learn the tricks of this trade you're going to be better than a lot of them."

"Thank you, Jimmy. You're a fine boy. And you sure treated your old friend fine. I never had such a splendid time in my life."

"Say no more," returned the boss, who lacked sentiment.

He finished up the job known temporarily as Breaking In, and the producers surveyed it and admitted that they had another winner ready for the trade, another Jimmy Butler success that would hoist that lucky individual still higher upon the parapets of Fame.

Luke Vorhees continued to haunt the studio, though there was nothing for him to do.

Being "between pictures," Mr. Butler took life easy, drifted into the office toward noon of each day and supervised the cutting of the job. There was vague talk about his next, and conferences with the powers in the front office. As he went about his leisurely tasks Jimmy began to notice the strange conduct of Luke. He said nothing to his recent boss, but he followed Jimmy and seemed at times on the point of speaking. There was something obviously wrong. He began passing from stage to stage uneasily, like a water bug in a bowl of soup. He infested the directorial office and followed Jimmy to the gate occasionally. The latter eventually spoke.

"What ails you?" he demanded.

"Me?" said Luke. "Nothing at all, Jimmy."

"Something's the matter with you. Aren't you happy? Don't you like it down here in Hollywood?"

"Sure I do," said Luke hastily. "I'm having a grand time."

"You're not homesick?"

"Not a mite."

"Well, then, what is the matter with you?"

Luke hesitated, cleared his venerable throat and looked uncomfortably about the room, looked everywhere but at the countenance of his comrade. He pawed at his whiskers and blinked.

"I sort of hate to mention it, Jimmy," he said slowly, "and I would never speak of it to you, only—only—"

"Only what?" Jimmy asked sharply.

"Well, sir, Jimmy," Luke confessed, blushing and looking miserable. "I'm the least mite short."

"Short?" Jimmy ejaculated, in astonishment. "Short of what?"

"MONEY," said Luke, sticking to his guns, but looking guilty. "I've dropped behind in my room rent, and Mrs. Geary is a nice woman, but she says I've got to pay up or get out. I'm a couple of weeks overdue, James."

Mr. Butler stared.

"For Heaven's sake," he said. "How much room rent do you pay?"

"Three dollars a week," replied Luke. "That isn't too much, is it?"

Again the director frowned at the veteran of a hundred smashing melodramas. Was this elderly gentleman from the wilds turning into a waster in his sere and yellow leaf? Was he a gambler? Had Hollywood turned him into a spendthrift and a carouser, now that he had money for the first time in his career?

"What in the Sam Hill do you do with your money?"

"Well, now Jimmy," Luke answered abjectly, "you see, I had to send some to my daughter Nellie back home, and there's my sister-in-law in Portland, and a few little things like that. Besides, I have my expenses. You know, a man can't live here in Hollywood and not spend money."

"I must say," remarked the director cynically, "that your relations ought to be doing nicely. As for you, Luke, I am certainly surprised. Yes, I am surprise, and a little disappointed. Seeing that you got along for years on what you used to make with the road show, I will be eternally dodkasted if I can see how you've managed to squander three hundred dollars a week."

Luke opened his blue eyes wide. He stared wonderingly at his boss. Bewilderment swept over his wrinkled countenance and his beard wagged feebly.

"There are plenty of people that can get along in Hollywood on far less than you make," Jimmy said. "Of course, if you're dead broke, I will lend—"

"Jimmy," interrupted Luke. "I'm as careful as a man could be, and I always was, and what—what do you mean by three hundred dollars a week?"

"I mean," stormed Mr. Butler, himself a notorious spendthrift, always borrowing five thousand from the corporation, and happy to be able to roar maxims at a friend, "that you must be an extravagant old fool. Three hundred dollars a week to a man of your simple habits is a fortune, and here you are howling about your room rent!"

Luke's lower lip trembled.

"Not three hundred a week, Jimmy," he faltered. "Just three hundred. You—you don't think they've been paying me three hundred dollars every week?"

It was the turn of Mr. Butler to look perplexed. Slowly the state of affairs dawned upon him. He arose and walked to and fro, glaring at Luke.

"You mean," he asked, "that you've been living on the three hundred I got you the day you came here?"

"Sure," said Luke cheerfully.

"You didn't know they've been paying you three hundred a week?"

"FOR what?" Luke asked wonderingly. "You don't believe they'd be paying me a salary for riding around on those plush trains, and sending me to New York, where I always wanted to go?"

"Never collected a check?" Jimmy asked.

"Not me," said Luke.

"Come on."

The director of Breaking In and many another took his compatriot by the arm and led him out of the directorial office, down through Dressing-Room Lane, past stages where carpenters hammered at rising sets, around through the business offices and into the cashier's den, with its iron grilled work and locked gates. He summoned the cashier.

"Mr. Coates," he said, "this is Luke Vorhees."

Luke saluted with the faint hesitancy of a man who expects to be thrown out.

"Well, well, well," exclaimed the cashier, with unusual animation for a man of his calling. "So this is Mister Vorhees. Glad to meet you. We have certainly been wondering—certainly have wondered where you kept yourself? Why didn't you get your checks?

"ME?" asked Luke dumbly. "He's forgetful," said Jimmy Butler. "This bird would forget his left leg."

Luke stared uneasily at Mr. Butler, who took the checks, skimmed them over and handed them to the owner.

"There," he said, "that ought to pay your room rent."

"I ought to say—" Luke began.

"You ought to say nothing," snapped Jimmy. "Come on before you give them back."

The veteran spent the remainder of the morning stalking about the studio in a dreamy effort to realize that he was now a rich man, suddenly and overwhelmingly rich. He showed his checks to office boys and asked them what they thought of that. At noon he prepared to depart.

"Where are you going?" they asked him.

"I got to buy a pair of boots," said Luke.

Thus began the film career of one Vorhees, who has had steady work from that day to this. Began, too, his long and extensive boot debauch, which goes on uninterrupted; and that is why Mr. Vorhees may be seen any afternoon strolling down the boulevard in his illuminated golf trousers and his amazing boots, to the astonishment of the passing stranger.

IT IS the experience of artists that almost every sketch recalls something not in the picture. For instance, the drawing of Lincoln's great church, shown at the upper left, was achieved, according to Mr. Bassford, only after a difficult climb within a dark Roman tower to a sunlit parapet, where the view of the cathedral was blended with the roofs of ancient Norman houses in what is known as "up hill" in Lincoln.

The picture on the upper right, sketched in Edinburgh from a sidewalk in Princess Street, recalls, the artist relates, a lady who leaned over his shoulder and said she was from Boston and that she "simply loved" the Walter Scott Monument, although she thought it a pity that it couldn't be cleaned up a bit.

The drawing on the lower left recalls to the artist's mind a soiled Apache sitting in a chair on the lower bank of the Seine while an equally soiled woman was shaving him, wholly oblivious of a beautiful day and the charming scene before them.

The drawing of St. Paul's, at the lower right, was done while the dense traffic of Ludgate Hill roared by making sketching very difficult. The kindness of a London bobby, who looked on, gave Mr. Bassford elbow room. This view of St. Paul's is unusual largely for the reason that much time and patience are required to see the subject through the lines of busses.

Frances Newman's End Like a Page From Her Book

Southern Authoress Whose Life Was So Much Like the "Hard-Boiled Virgin" of Whom She Wrote, Makes a Final Gesture of Disdain.

Frances Newman.

Miss Newman and H. L. Mencken, editor of the American Mercury.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

FRANCES NEWMAN ended her life here the other day with the same fragile detachment with which she wrote her novels. Her suicide had the same careful finish, the same impersonal complexity, the same delicate disdain that the sentences in her books have. She might herself have written the whole anecdote just so.

The reasons for her act were unimportant. Like the types she wrote about—those deliberate sensualists, for example—she was above the vulgarity of a reason. She merely wanted to die. This is what her closest friends said when the fact was finally disclosed that she had taken 40 to 50 grains of veronal, more than sufficient to cause her death.

However, it is possible to find logical reasons for her act. It is known that she believed she had done her best work in her first published novel, "The Hard-Boiled Virgin." She had succumbed to a sense of futility, heightened by spinsterish complications. Although she professed to have only contempt for a majority of American critics, yet it is felt that the critical onslaught on her last book, "Dead Lovers Are Faithful Lovers," touched her more than she would ever admit. All this, her friends agree, was a background that made eye trouble unbearable for Miss Newman.

IF you had accused Miss Newman of being a snob, she probably would have said, "Why, yes. Why not?" She admitted once that "The Hard-Boiled Virgin" was autobiographical to a large extent. And if it is nothing else, that book is a portrait of a certain type of Southern woman. The Katharine Faraday of the novel is a person of exquisite sensibilities, having a sensory apparatus singularly attuned to perfumes and caresses. She is of an old Southern family, she goes to an exclusive girls' school, she is brought up to believe that marriage—the capture of a man—is the most important thing in the world, but she persists in remaining a spinster.

This parallels Frances Newman's life fairly closely up to that point at which she began to write. She was born 44 years ago, in Atlanta, Georgia. She came of a distinguished Southern family. Her father, William Truslow Newman, was a Federal Judge. She was educated at the Washington Seminary, Atlanta; at Mrs. Semple's school, New York, and at Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Georgia. She was graduated from the Library School of the Carnegie Library of Atlanta, and in 1912 became, like so many genteel spinsters, a librarian.

It was several years before she began to write, 12 years before her first published story, "Rachel and Her Children," appeared in The American Mercury. Before this she had been doing book reviews for the Atlanta Journal, reviews that, for the most part, disposed of the books considered with a fine gesture of disdain. Almost from the first she had success and attracted attention. The story, "Rachel and Her Children," won an O. Henry prize.

She published in the same year (1924) "The Short Story's Mutations." In 1926 appeared "The Hard-Boiled Virgin," and Miss Newman's name was made. The Southern aristocracy—or that portion of it which knew Miss Newman and therefore read the book—was outraged. The New York critics were aroused to storms of abuse—and some praise. All this the author accepted calmly.

"The folks back home are simply scandalized," she explained. "Atlanta, you see, is very aspiring. Women there never write books. At least none of them ever did, and they don't think my book is a shining example of what a lady from Atlanta should turn out."

Her opinions of American authors would have coincided rather neatly with those of the principal character of her novel. She recognized only two figures in American letters, James Branch Cabell and Ernest Hemingway. "To be born a lady or a gentleman," she once said, "is to have a great advantage in writing novels. It is easier to look down than to look up. If anyone else wrote the novels of James Branch Cabell they'd be vulgar. But the Cabells are the last word in Virginia."

IN her own work Miss Newman paid particular attention to style, writing and rewriting—so much, in fact, that she would consume a thousand or more sheets of foolscap in the production of a 300-page novel. Writing, she said, was to her an extremely painful labor. And her style bore the marks of travail. In "The Hard-Boiled Virgin" there is not a word of dialect. The story is told almost entirely in the thoughts of Katharine Farrady. We have her reactions, usually in indirect, oblique fashion:

"During the first hour of five nights, Katharine Faraday tried not to touch the tender blue spot which she was sure was one the round brass buttons on James Fuller's dress uniform had left on her freesia chest, and she tried to think of everything except that she was only less unhappy than she would have been if she had been justly accused of murder and if a jury had deliberated her fate for 120 hours. During the next eight hours of five nights she dreamed that she was just taking James Fuller's letter from a postman. And during the 15 hours of five days she longed to draw the shelter of a sheet between her unforgotten suspense and a world which might enjoy knowing that she wanted something fate might not intend to give her."

Here is a later phase of Katharine Faraday:

"Even after Katharine Faraday began to consider the possibility of becoming important herself instead of waiting to find honorable favor in the sight of a man so celebrated that he could make her important merely by allowing her to use his name with a suitably apologetic prefix, she still thought a presentable man between 5 o'clock and 12 was as necessary as a violet velvet evening coat and nicely waved hair. She was still unable to enjoy an opera called 'The Love of the Three Kings' unless she was sitting beside a presentable man who was more interested in her profile than he was in the beautiful death of Lucrezia Bori, and she was still unable to enjoy the third Leonora overture unless she was sitting beside a man who would have been likely to name his overtures for her if he had been able to write overtures."

Despite the financial and, to a certain degree, critical success which "The Virgin" had, Miss Newman did not give up the seclusion of her life in Atlanta. She had a house there and a devoted Negro servant. She dressed always in some shade of purple, lavender or violet, and she insisted upon violet bindings for her books.

It may have been the appearance of her second novel, "Dead Lovers Are Faithful Lovers," that precipitated the recent tragedy. It was ridiculed, jeered at, scorned. One critic suggested that henceforth women who gave indications of writing propensities be drowned at birth, in his comments on her work.

SHE returned from a stay in Europe some months ago and went to Atlanta. Then she came to New York to correct proofs of her translation from the French of the short stories of Jules Laforge, stopping at Hotel Schuyler.

She had been in ill health, but did not appear depressed. Casually she talked of suicide, but her friends believed they had dissuaded her from ending her life. Just a week after this discussion she took the veronol, lapsing almost at once into a coma which lasted until her death three days later.

It was at first given out that she had died of pneumonia, following a cerebral hemorrhage. Some days later, however, a medical examiner made known the presence of the veronal in Miss Newman's body, and then for the first time her friends disclosed that this spinster with the brilliant mind had made a final gesture of disdain for life.

Touches that Add Style to Dresses

By MAE MARTIN

You get so you just despise a dress when everywhere you go it seems to shout, "I am a last year's relic." A few touches have brought many dresses like that back into style. It's amazing to see how easily they can be transformed by a few buttons, a little braid and the quick magic of home tinting or dyeing.

You don't need any experience to do home tinting or dyeing successfully if you are sure to use only true, fadeless, Diamond Dyes. Each package represents the perfection of over 50 years of dye-making. Tinting with them is easy as bluing, and dyeing just takes a little more time. New colors appear like magic, right over the old colors.

Diamond Dyes give the daintiest of the latest tints and the richest of the new shades, with never a trace of that undesirable redyed look which comes from inferior dyes. Insist on Diamond Dyes and save disappointment.

My new 64 page book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of dollar-saving suggestions for renewing clothes, draperies and rugs. It's fully illustrated in colors. Write for your FREE copy, NOW. Address Mae Martin, Dept. G 139 Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

Last minute disappointments because of failures with bakings are never experienced by the millions of women who now use Calumet. Its double action assures results wherever and whenever used.

Calumet contains two leavening units: one begins to work when the dough is mixed . . . the other waits for the heat of the oven; then both units work together.

Contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the U. S. Food Authorities.

Follow the recipe on this page and learn by experience of the time-tested dependability of Calumet Baking Powder.

The whites of more than 6,500,000 eggs are used in the manufacture of Calumet, the World's Greatest Baking Powder, each year, and over 1½ billion pounds of flour are leavened with it.

Cocoanut Cake

½ cup shortening
1½ cups sugar
3 egg yolks
1 cup milk or cocoanut milk
3 cups sifted flour
3 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
¼ level teaspoon salt
3 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour three times with baking powder and salt. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, vanilla and egg yolks. Beat thoroughly. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in two layers in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 to 30 minutes. Cover with cocoanut frosting.

Children's Health-Expert
Advises Mothers

"I am very sure," she says, "that children suffer more from chapped skin than any other winter ailment"

"I FIND that many mothers neglect that common, age-old and really painful malady—chapped skin. Let's not forget that children are too impatient to dry their hands thoroughly; that mittens won't stay on; that bare knees are bound to get rough and red and cracked from wind and cold; that snow will sift through to little wrists and down past collars to tender necks and chins. Let's aim to keep our children healthy and out-of-doors in winter, but let's make them comfortable too!"

In protecting your children against sore, chapped skin, you will find a new and better aid this winter—Campana's Italian Balm, the original skin softener. Invented by Dr. Campana, internationally-famous Italian skin specialist, Italian Balm restores the natural moisture to skin, keeping it smooth and soft and comfortable. It banishes chapped skin over night. Children like it because it does not sting even when applied to skin that is cracked open.

Italian Balm is better because it combines, for the first time, safe and soothing skin-healing ingredients with certain imported, most valued essential oils. Its discovery was made by a noted man who spent years in studying the skin and its requirements.

Approved by Good Housekeeping. First sold in Canada, where it has been the favorite winter skin-protector for years. At drug and department stores in two sizes of bottles—35c and 60c. Free travel-size sample sent on request to anyone writing the Campana Corporation, 26 Lincoln Way, Batavia, Illinois.

Blame Film for Cloudy Teeth

—for serious tooth and gum disorders. Remove it twice each day with the special film-removing dentifrice dentists urge.

IN ten cases of dull, discolored teeth, nine may be traced to a dingy film that ordinary brushing fails to remove successfully. That is the opinion of modern dental specialists. Serious tooth and gum disorders, including pyorrhea, are also traced to film as their chief cause.

Film must be removed twice daily. To do this, dentists urge the special, film-removing dentifrice — Pepsodent — different in formula and in action from all others. One whose main purpose is to remove this dangerous coating from teeth.

Film is the great enemy of pretty teeth and healthy gums. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and forms a breeding place for germs. It invites the dreaded acids of decay.

Film, too, is the basis of tartar. And germs, with tartar, are the cause of pyorrhea. It absorbs discolorations from food and smoking. And makes pretty teeth look "off color."

Pepsodent first curdles that film. Then removes it in gentle safety to enamel. It acts to firm the gums and give them healthy, coral color. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva and keeps the mouth clean. Largely on dental advice, thousands are discarding old ways for it. Get it wherever dentifrices are sold or write The Pepsodent Co., 1104 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, for free 10-day tube. Smiles will be brighter, teeth whiter and more healthy within a few days' time. Begin today.

We could make Pepsodent to sell at a lower price. But it would not contain the properties millions know will whiten teeth as no other safe method does. Nor would it embody the costly agents science recommends to combat serious tooth and gum disorders. Beware when lovely teeth are placed at stake.

Excess fat is a blight to men as well as women. It means more than loss of youth and beauty. It means less health and vigor. So men who like slender women should keep normal figures themselves.

The way is easy. Starvation and over-exertion are not advised today. Science has found a great cause of excess fat in a deficient gland. The modern method, used by physicians the world over, is to combat that cause.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets, perfected by a famous medical laboratory. People have used them for over 20 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen in every circle. Slender figures now prevail. Mothers look like daughters.

Users of Marmola told others the results—the loss in weight, the gain in health and vigor. Thus the use has spread, until these tablets have become the greatest factor used in fighting fat.

Don't stay over-fat, when so many people all about you know a way to end it. The way is easy and pleasant. The results are delightful. Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reason for each good effect. You will know exactly why the weight comes down and the health improves.

Don't delay. Excess fat is a blight you must correct to live life to the full. Start now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

PHILLIPS Milk of Magnesia anyway"

MILLIONS of men and women have learned to depend on Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Many medical men have pronounced it the perfect antidote for acidosis. Druggists will tell you it is an almost instant corrective of acid stomach, and attendant ailments.

There is no more certain and no more prompt relief for sourness, indigestion, biliousness or heartburn. Most digestive disturbances succumb to the first spoonful of this perfect anti-acid. How pleasant to take! And how harmless! Phillips Milk of Magnesia is given children, and put in infants' milk.

Only one warning is necessary; get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia in perfect colloidal suspension. Magnesia in any other form cannot be expected to achieve the same results. Doctors have said this for fifty years. Every drugstore has the genuine; many druggists will not even stock the imitations.

In conjunction with Phillips Milk of Magnesia, use Phillips Dental Magnesia. A single tube of this perfect toothpaste will convince anybody of its remarkable whitening action, and your dentist can tell you how it aids the gums.

Grand Canyon of Arizona
on your way to California

JUST stay in your comfortable Pullman until you reach the South rim. There, near the head of Bright Angel Trail, is El Tovar, one of Fred Harvey's best hotels.

Travelers always want more time at Grand Canyon than they've planned for.

Stay two or three days. See the chasm from rim boulevards in motor cars. See it from the deep-down trails on muleback.

No one can realize the fascination of this titan of chasms before seeing it. One can hardly picture its size! Think of going straight down into the earth for a mile! The Grand Canyon cuts deeper than that. And it is 13 miles across from El Tovar to the north side.

The mystery and the beauty of the Grand Canyon are impossible to imagine. You must see for yourself! Come any time of the year.

A Santa Fe trip to California via the Grand Canyon is one of life's most satisfying experiences. You'll enjoy famous Santa Fe-Fred Harvey service all the way. And you will enjoy the Indian-detour, too. Three delightful days by Harvey-car, off the beaten path.

St. Moritz, society's winter playground in the Swiss Alps, crowns the world like a glittering jewel of many facets

Deep tanned by Alpine winter sports

AN AMERICAN-BORN MARQUISE maintains the Fine Texture of her Skin

AT ST. MORITZ, one of the most piquant and striking personalities is the Marquise de Polignac. Her sparkling charm and verve make her an acclaimed favorite in this colony of cosmopolitans who, in the shadow of the snow-clad Alps, seek their pleasure under azure skies and ardent sun.

Madame de Polignac is an indefatigable sportswoman. Like all the rest of the smart world, she spends her day in chic sports attire, skating, "bobbing," skiing in the sun-drenched snow. And at night she turns into an elegante of the sophisticated world, and dances till morning in grande toilette.

Fascinating though this life is—the contradictory delights of blazing sun, sweeping winds and exhilarating cold, brown all skins rapidly—burn them black.

Yet the Marquise de Polignac is as lovely in evening dress as in her smartest sports attire. Although deeply tanned, she manages to keep her complexion clear, fine, smooth.

When asked how she managed it, with such apparent ease, she replied:—"I like to take part in all the winter sports. But the cold, dry air would draw and chap my skin unless I carefully protected it and kept it soft and supple. For myself, I prefer Pond's Two Creams. They give swift, dependable results."

But it is not only at St. Moritz that the Marquise finds Pond's indispensable. "When I motor in the Midi, or the Basses Pyrenees, Pond's serves me equally well," she continued. "In these warmer countries I also use Pond's Skin Freshener to tone and liven up my skin.

"And when I am in Paris, these three guardians keep my skin smooth and firm and white. In fact, she concluded, with a flashing smile, "I have got the Pond's habit completely."

And this is how Madame de Polignac uses her invaluable Pond's to cleanse, refresh, finish and protect her skin—keep her tanned complexion clear and fine textured:—

First—For thorough cleansing she spreads Pond's Cold Cream over her face and neck at least twice a day, and of course when retiring.

Second—with Pond's new fairy weight Cleansing Tissues she removes the cream, carrying the dust with it.

Third—she dashes on the Freshener—Pond's tonic which leaves the face with that gorgeously fresh feeling.

Fourth—with her fingertips she lightly applies Pond's Vanishing Cream before she powders—a film of perfection like the frosted bloom of untouched grapes.

Follow yourself, Pond's four steps to beauty. They will keep your skin exquisite, clear, fine.

THE MARQUISE DE POLIGNAC, formerly Miss Nina Crosby, of the exclusive Newport set, married into an aristocratic French family of the same prominence today as it held in the time of Marie Antoinette. Here she is ready for a day's skiing—hatless, the latest vogue at St. Moritz. Although her skin is thoroughly tanned, she keeps its texture fine and smooth, using Pond's Two Creams for their "swift, dependable results"

ON HER DRESSING TABLE, in her travelling bag, wherever the Marquise goes, go Pond's Two Creams and Skin Freshener in choice jars of translucent sea-green glass (shown at the right). Above—Pond's four preparations in the familiar containers which can be bought at all drug and department stores

MADAME DE POLIGNAC spends two months of the winter season at St. Moritz where she is outstanding because of her unique piquancy and verve. She dances as gracefully as she skis and her lithe, slim figure moves through the ballroom with distinctive charm. Her sincere grey eyes, well-poised head and sun-tanned skin with its glow of health make her a striking example of a fine type Mail coupon with 10¢—For a generous trial package of Pond's 4 delightful preparations. Cold Cream, Cleansing Tissues, Skin Freshener, Vanishing Cream.

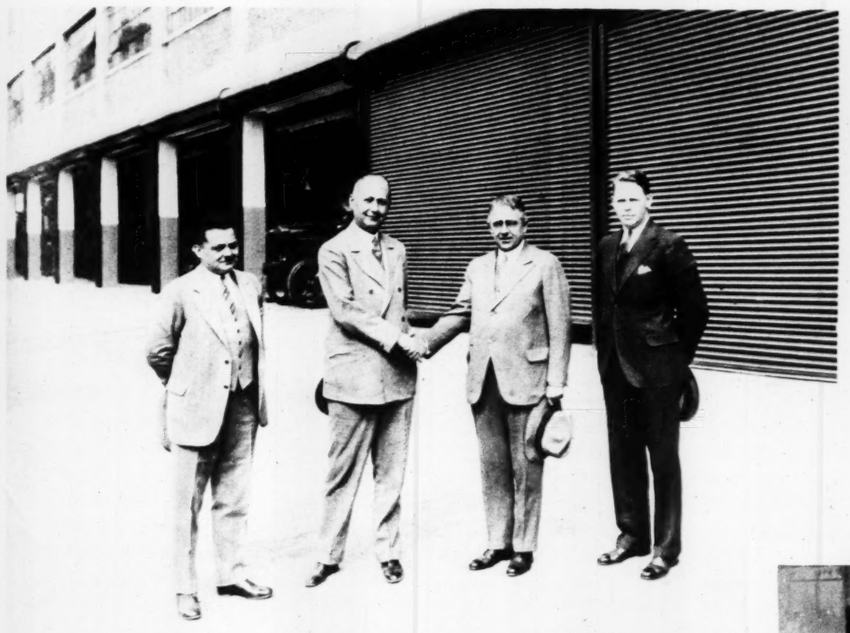
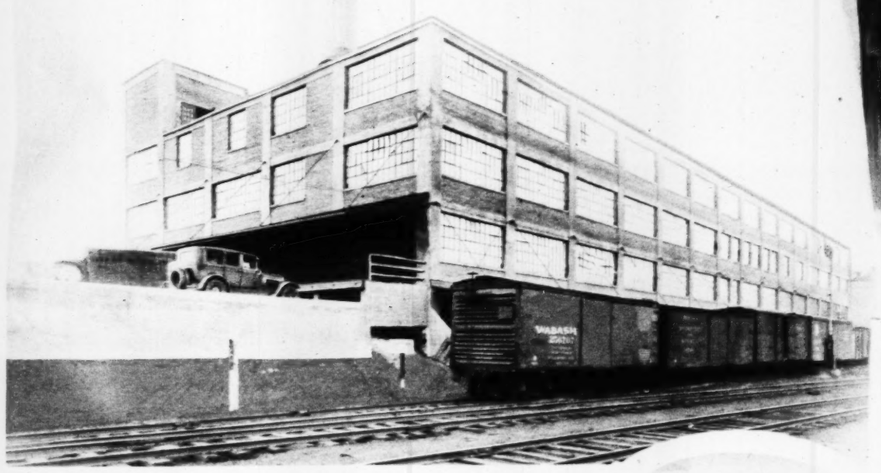
MAYOR MILLER LEADS IN WELCOME TO A&P NEW HOME!



Mayor Miller pauses on a busy day to welcome Mr. A. G. Hoadley, President of the Middle Western Division of the A&P. At the left, Mr. S. G. Sands, General Superintendent and Director in charge of St. Louis territory, and at the right, Mr. J. P. Smith, Director of Sales. The A&P have just completed a fine new warehouse and office to take care of their St. Louis stores and surrounding territory.

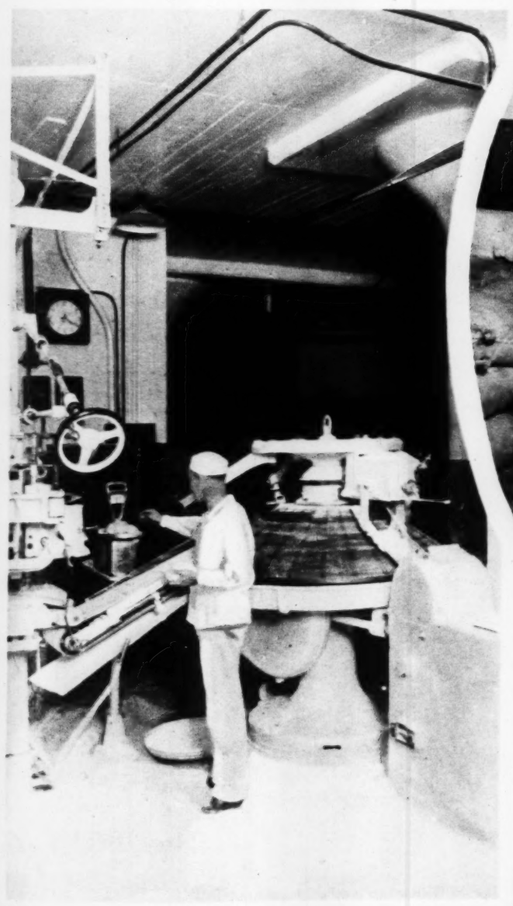
"Wonderful Equipment", said Chief of Police Gerk after inspecting this fleet of new trucks used by A&P in their service to their stores.



View of the new warehouse and office building, taken from the railroad siding, showing how merchandise is received in carload lots for A&P stores.

Mayor Miller completed the ceremony by cutting the ribbon and opening the doors of the new A&P warehouse.

Mrs. Louis J. Brooks, Executive Chairman, Women's National Exposition, which will be held on March 4th in St. Louis, and her niece Mary Sue Ries listen as the A&P Manager extols the merits of Grandmother's Bread.

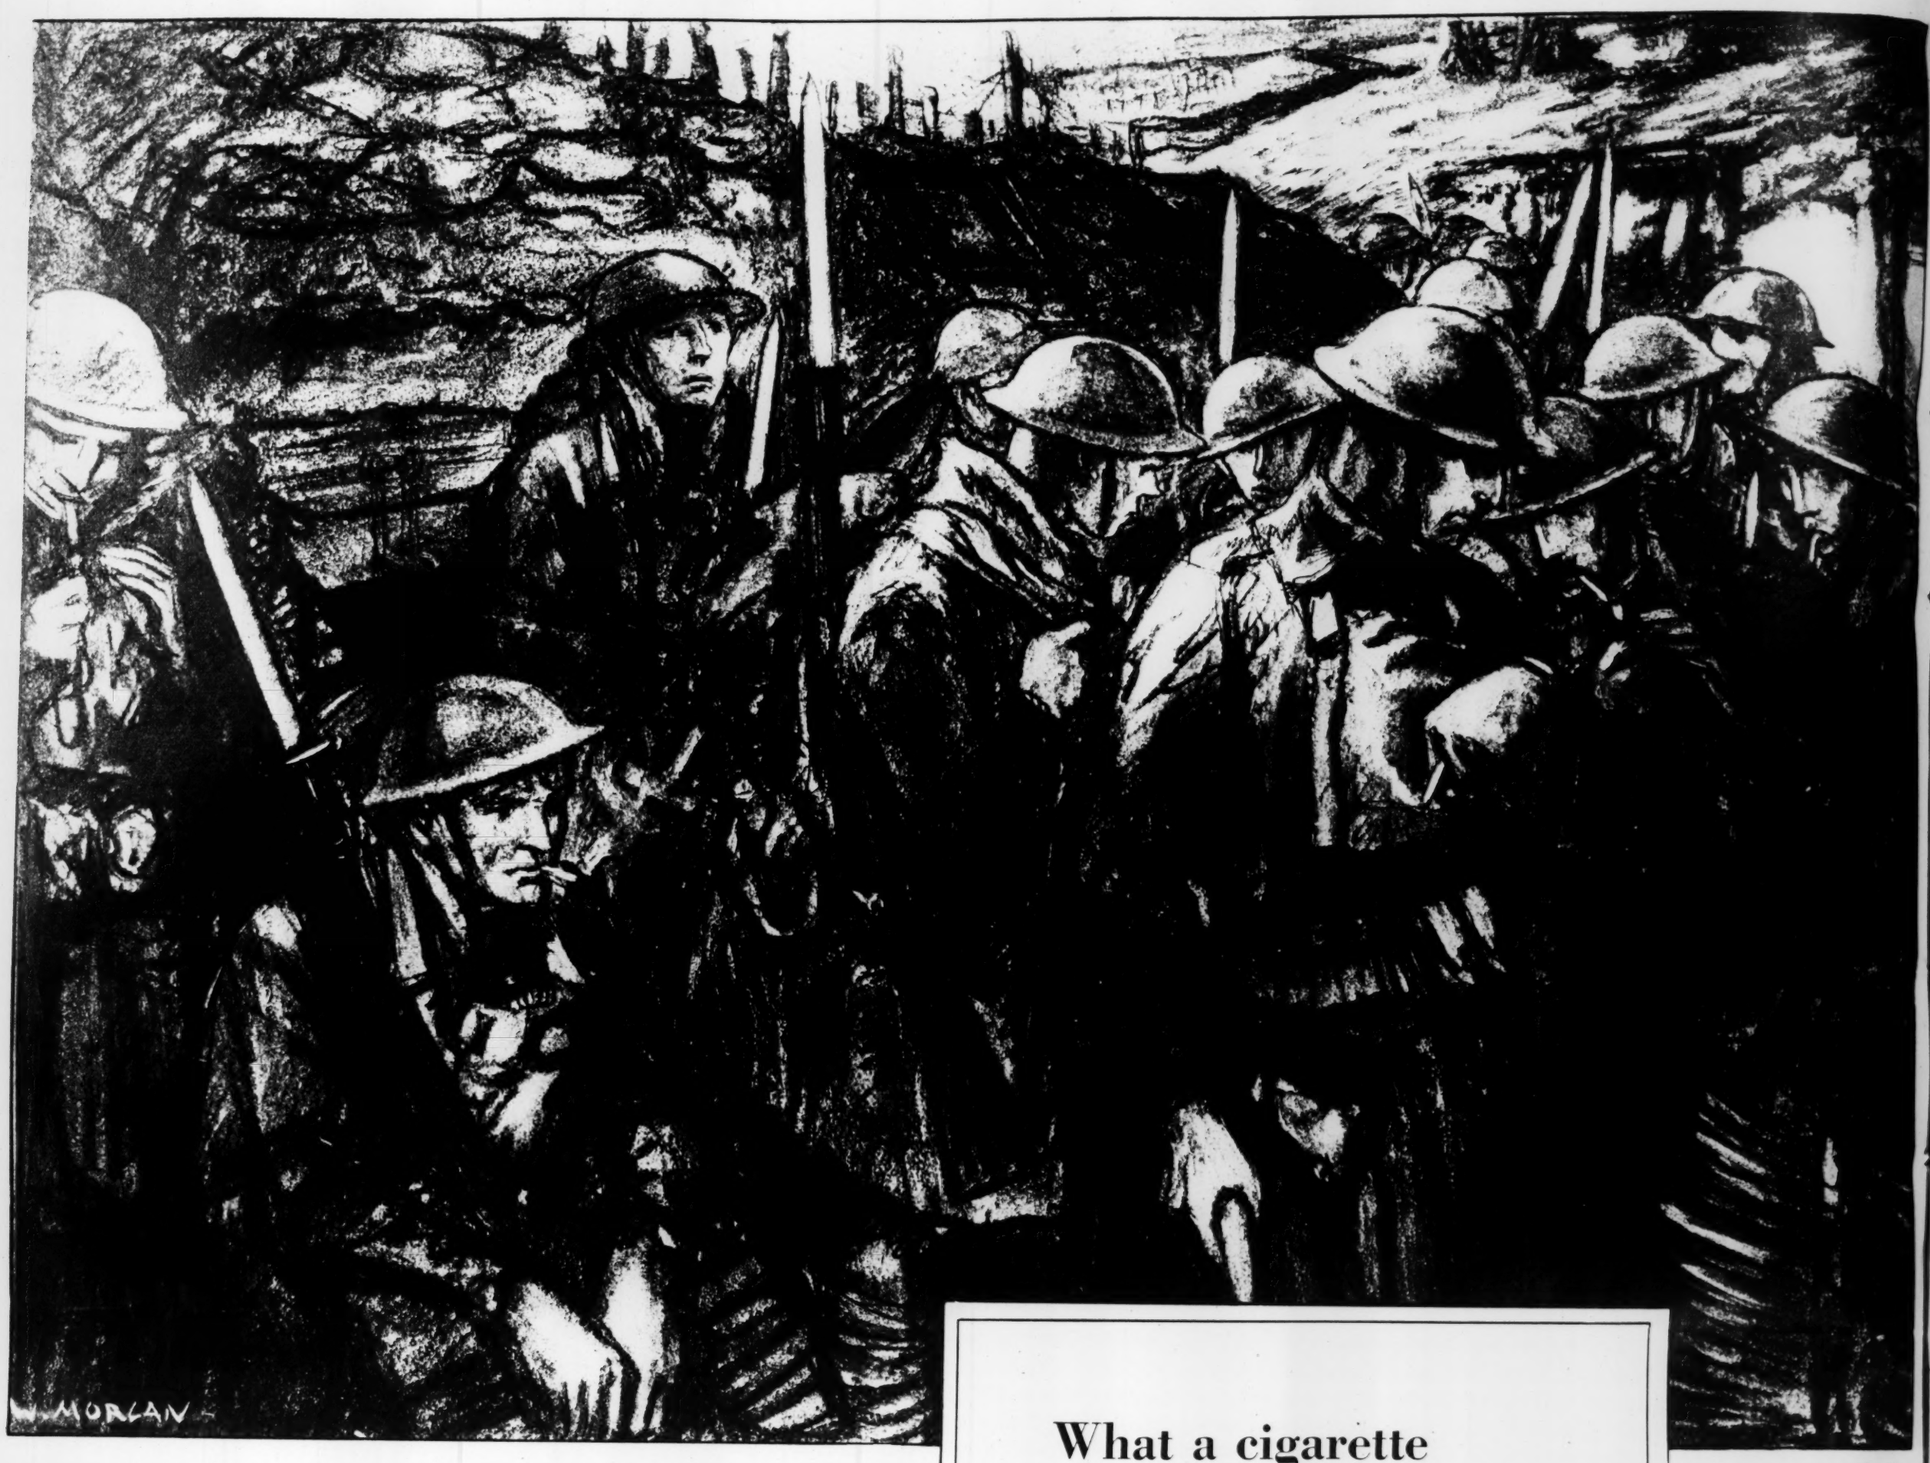


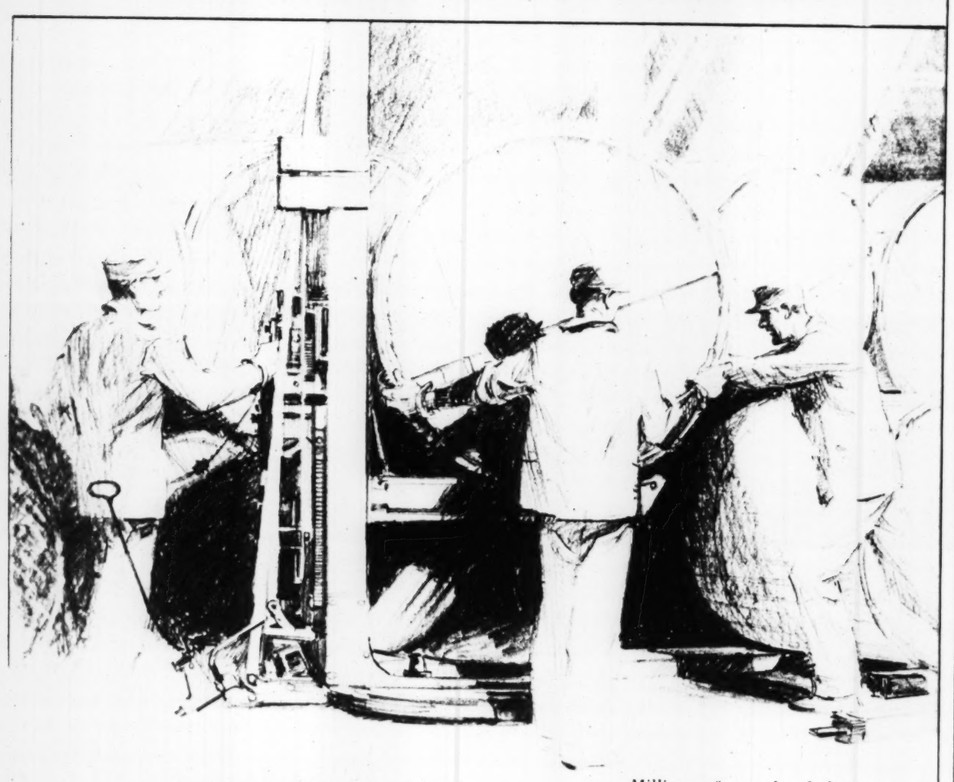
No guess work in this bakery! Even the automatic weighing machine in the new A&P bakery is checked to see that every loaf of Grandmother's bread is full weight.

Mr. R. S. Hawes, First Vice-President of First National Bank, started the new A&P Bakery by emptying the first sack of flour into the mixing and sifting machines. A few hours later this same flour was in crisp brown loaves of Grandmother's bread.

No bakers shovel needed for this oven! The doughs are put in one end and come out the other end as golden brown loaves of Grandmother's bread.

Harry Horlich with his popular A&P Gypsy ensemble who entertain you weekly over station KSD, Monday evenings 7:30 to 8:30 P. M.





Millions of pounds of choice tobacco from each crop are stored away in great warehouses to "age."

What a cigarette meant there

Ten seconds to go—and raw nerves fighting wearied muscles, driving them on into that fearful unknown beyond the wire. What man will ever forget the steadying solace of that last sweet stolen smoke?

What a cigarette means here

Two years to go—the slow "ageing" by which tobaccos for Chesterfield lose all bite and harshness . . .

Mysterious, this chemistry of Nature! Endless rows of great hogsheads, stored away in darkness; choice tobacco, tightly packed . . . just waiting. And as if on signal, twice each year the leaf goes through a natural "sweat" —steeps in its own essences, grows mild and sweet and mellow.

Selected leaf, costly patience, endless care—that's what a cigarette means here. But right there is exactly the reason why Chesterfield means what it does to you!
